LACK OF CASH HALTS COUNTY ROAD BUILDING

20 Contractors Quit Unfinished Jobs.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Twenty contractors engaged in building highways in Cook county have suspended operations because they cannot collect the money due them from the county. Unless some relief for county finances is provided immediately it is likely that all highway construction for the current season will be paralyzed within a fortnight.

The contractors who have shut down have about $2,000,000 coming to them on engineers' estimates for monthly completions. But they cannot get a dime from the county, because the county is without money. Their work has been accepted as satisfactory, but they cannot collect their bills.

Millions on Paper; No Cash.

On paper the county has several millions of dollars in the highway construction fund, realized from the sale of portions of the $15,000,000 highway bond issue. In actual fact, the treasurer has none of the money. It has been used, according to long established custom, to meet pay rolls and current expenses of the county government. The borrowing has been done on the ground that tax money would come in to replace it early in May. No tax money coming in, the coffers are empty.

Cahill O'Connor, chief clerk in the office of the county controller, said yesterday that the outlook for getting money with which to replace the cash taken from the trust funds is more or less gloomy.

The lack of cash is destined to have a serious effect upon the highway construction program this summer. The road building work, under most favorable conditions, is restricted to five months of the year. In the last five years the building season has not been sufficient in length to allow for keeping up with the most pressing demands of traffic, to say nothing of the expansion and improvement of the existing road system.

Some Possibility of Relief.

Although there is a possibility that some relief may come of the effort of the county officials at Springfield next week, when the legislature is to be asked for authorization of some kind for anticipating tax collection, contractors generally are getting their equipment together preparatory to moving off the construction projects and in practically all cases working forces are being cut to a minimum.

Of the more important projects left "in the air" by the complete absence of highway contract money, that upon Western avenue below 147th street (the Dixie highway) is outstanding. Leroy B. Fugitt, contractor, has taken all his force from the work after making a number of demands for cash payments for work completed and accepted.

The action by Mr. Fugitt was taken after a conference with his bonding company, which agreed to the abandonment of work, presumably upon the ground that the county has violated its contract in not paying bills for work delivered.

At the office of the county superintendent of highways it was said that not all the contractors have pulled their men and equipment off the jobs. In a number of cases the contractors have been able to handle the situation on their own resources, but the retirement from activities is spreading. Within another month, it is predicted, if funds are not forthcoming, highway efforts are likely to be at a complete standstill.

Important Projects Periled.

Among the projects now under construction, which may be set back nearly a whole year, are the following:

Dundee road, near Storer road.
Elgin-Evanston road, west of Barrington.
Milwaukee avenue, north of Ballard road.
River road from Rand road north.
Higgins road from River road.
Devon avenue from Cumberland.
Lawrence avenue, east of Ruby street.
Lake street, at Mannheim road.
Harrison street from Mannheim.
Mannheim road, Roosevelt to St. Charles road.
138th street, Halsted to Michigan.
Cicero avenue, 167th to 183d streets.

The condition on the Dixie highway is particularly irritating, as the southern portion of that important artery has been closed to traffic since last

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—Clyde Van Dusen, son of the mighty Man o' War, won the fifty-fifth Kentucky Derby this afternoon before 60,000 persons under the worst weather conditions within memory.

In a drizzling rain on a sloppy track, this small, not particularly impressive looking bay gelding, equally at home in fast or muddy going, took the lead 100 yards after the barrier rose and held that position for the entire route of one and one-quarter miles. The time was 2:10 4-5. The track record is 2:03 1-5.

Two lengths behind was Naishapur, the widely touted performer from the Pacific coast, which came from far back just as he was expected to do and was running over all the field except Clyde Van Dusen at the finish. Three lengths farther back was Panchio, from the Three D Stock farm, which fancied the going, and gave holders of field tickets a thrill for a large part of the journey.

Next in order, heads apart, came Blue Larkspur, favorite; Windy City, Voltear, and The Nut. After them the field of 21 starters straggled out, many hopelessly staggering, spreading, and sprawling in the sloppy going.

Clyde Van Dusen paid $8.00, $3.70, and $3.06 respectively to holders of $2 straight, place, and show tickets. Naishapur was $4.72 and $3.26 for place and show, and Panchio paid $3.50 to holders of field tickets.

The race was worth $53,950 net and a $5,000 gold cup to the winner.

Despite the large field, the race was singularly free from interference and mishaps. It was truly run under track conditions prevailing. The four horses figuring on form as the best were within the first six places.

McAtee Uses Whip.

Clyde Van Dusen did just what his admirers said he would do—that he would have foot enough to get to the front and if the track was heavy or sloppy he would stay there. He did it handily and convincingly, leaving an impression with those viewing the spectacle from binoculars that he is a thoroughly game thoroughbred destined for more triumphs.

This impression was created by his behavior about a furlong from the finish line, where Pony McAtee, who showed masterly horsemanship throughout, became alarmed at the onrushing Naishapur and drew his whip. The scion of Man o' War-Uncle's Lassie responded to that urging with true courage and there never was any doubt of the result thereafter.

Blue Larkspur Begins to Lag.

Blue Larkspur, despite stable opinion that he could traverse such footing, plainly did not like the track. He was off on even terms with the winner, but was in fourth position as they passed the stand the first time, several lengths behind the leader. The Idle Hour Farm representative was in good position, free of interference, but not at his favorite position on the rail, where he runs most kindly. This margin was maintained until the middle of the back stretch, where the Black Servant colt began to lag.

Panchio Saves Third Place.

Jockey Mack Garner, becoming alarmed as his mount was losing ground with more than a half mile still to go, plied the lash vigorously. The Bradley colt answered and did not thereafter lose ground. In fact he made up a few lengths. Beaten visibly to all close watching followers, he hung on with a dogged courage which stamps him for better things despite his defeat. Still he could not get closer to the flying leader.

As they rounded the home turn, Jockey Garner swung into the colt's favorite position on the rail. Water was standing there three or four inches deep, draining to the inside. In this footing, the favorite continued his hopeless challenge and was stronger than any of the others except the

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Taxes on cigarets brought into the treasury in April $28,832,122, or more than one-quarter of the total of internal tax receipts for the month, which were $96,481,365.

The bureau of internal revenue in its monthly report today noted that for the ten months of the fiscal year including April the taxes on cigarets had mounted to $275,993,052, against $246,067,705 in the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

The consumption of cigarets was indicated to have been during April, 9,608,900,000 individual cigarets. In the same month last year the cigaret consumption indicated by the taxes was approximately 7,600,000,000 cigarets.

The total receipts of internal revenue for ten months including April of the present year amounted to $2,233,660,012, against $2,169,926,994 in the same ten months of last year. Though the cigaret tax has increased steadily during the period, the main reason for the larger tax collections was disclosed by the comparative statement of income tax receipts, which for the ten months ending April 30 this year have run to $1,735,582,741 while last year they were $1,662,128,147.

LINDY PILOTS MORROW FAMILY TO MAINE HOME

North Haven, Me., May 18.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and several members of the Morrow family reached the Morrow summer home on this island, 12 miles off the coast of Maine, late today after an airplane flight from New York.

Their amphibian plane, piloted by Col. Lindbergh, landed 100 yards off shore and they immediately went to the home.

Those of the party were the Colonel, Miss Anne Morrow, his fiancée; Misses Elisabeth and Constance Morrow, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Mrs. Morrow's secretary, Josephine Graham.

Soon after the dinner hour the party bundled into a beach car and drove away, presumably on a trip about the roads on the western end of the island. Anne Morrow was driving. Lindbergh was seated beside her.

This island, only 13 miles long and with a year-round population of 375, was all agog over the arrival of the family of the American ambassador to Mexico, and the flyer.

Industrial Magnate, 71, to Wed Social Worker

Cleveland, O., May 18.—(AP)—William Gwinn Mather, 71, one of Cleveland's leading industrialists, took out a marriage license today to wed Mrs. Elizabeth Ring Ireland, 38, prominent clubwoman and social service worker.

Taft Decries College Boys' Time Killing

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States and former President, today told delegates to the convention of his college fraternity, Psi Upsilon, that in his opinion extra-curriculum duties are "carried to a great extreme" and that "we must get our public and private schools down to a simpler curriculum."

The jurist, who makes speeches only on rare occasions, joked with his audience. He struck a serious note on the "slump" in scholarship, however, explaining that "the war played havoc with a great many conceptions and we haven't gotten over it yet.

Zero Point Is Passed.

"There has been a good deal said about the low standard of scholarship shown in the comparative tables of college fraternities," he said, "and it really, to those who are deeply interested, is a source of the greatest anxiety. I was delighted to hear that the zero point has been reached and that we were going up on the other side. Certainly we ought to."

The chief justice observed that many students go to school "for social reasons" and sometimes "to establish themselves by reason of the fact that they are called college men."

Folly Realized Too Late.

Terming this situation a "dreadful waste," he added: "When a man grows as old as I have, he then feels like resorting to profanity, as he ought not to do, at the misconception of life and the use of education and the use of universities by these feather headed young men that don't look ahead to know the opportunities they have and to appreciate those opportunities."

Speaking of "strange words" used in educational vocabulary most freely by "recent graduates of normal schools," he said, "I am very certain that were they called upon to define in any way by which anybody else could understand what they mean, there would be a stir in educational circles.

Superficiality Rapped.

"The trouble now is the superficial nature of what we are trying to teach and we must get our public schools and our private schools down to a simpler curriculum so that when we know a thing we know it.

"I don't want to criticize athletics or a great many extra curriculum duties," he added, "but I think there is a great deal of time and money wasted in those things which many of you most enjoy."

Secretary of State Stimson, who was secretary of war in the cabinet of the ex-President, and later occupied the post of governor general of the Philippines, which the chief justice once held, paid tribute to his former chief at the meeting, saying "He has educated 12,000,000 little brown brothers to love the name of the first Beta man they ever came in contact with.

"If that noble experiment in self-government and democracy which our country is carrying on on the other side of the Pacific carries out the hopes we have for it," he said, "it will be due, more than to any other cause, to the example and the labors of our guest of honor today."

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—President Hoover took advantage of bright sunshine today and departed early this morning on a fishing expedition to the headwaters of the Rapidan river in Virginia. Mrs. Hoover did not accompany him.

Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, White House physician, Lawrence Richey, one of the White House secretaries, and secret service men were in the party.

The President and his aids planned to transfer first to smaller automobiles and then to horses for the last few miles of the trip.

United States marines have been laboring for several weeks improving the fishing area, which is about 90 miles from Washington. A new road has been built and tents have been erected along the Rapidan river.

Radio Balks Suicide; Helps Catch Burglar

Radio broadcasts from W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, figured in three police episodes last night, frustrating one man's attempted suicide and perhaps saving the life of a second one who tried to kill himself. The first man was shot by police when he resisted their efforts to keep him from taking his life. In addition, the radio worked the downfall of a Negro bandit who was in the midst of a burglary on the near south side.

The first call was sent in by Norman Salters, 4406 South Union avenue. Salters said that his friend, John Skinner, a draftsman employed by the Lieberman & Hein Engineering company, 190 North State street, was going to kill himself. The alarm was broadcast and a squad touring the Wabash avenue district rushed to Skinner's home, at 6509 South Robey street, where they found him suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound over the heart.

Condition Reported Critical.

Skinner was alone in his home and was losing blood rapidly when the police arrived and rushed him to the German Deaconess hospital. He had told Salters, the latter said, that he was not getting along well in his work. At the hospital last night his condition was said to be critical.

Howard Eaves, 25 years, old, a private chauffeur, living at the Kenmore hotel, was prevented from shooting himself by detectives of a bureau squad who were summoned to his room by a radio message sent out by W-G-N after the operator at the hotel had called the police.

Shot as He Defies Police.

Eaves threatened to shoot the detectives if they tried to interfere with him, they said. Sergt. Jerry Daugherty cornered him in a closet as he had a pistol to his head. Daugherty seized the gun and after talking to him left the apartment. Lieut. Patrick Knox, who had heard the radio call, arrived later at Eaves' room to investigate. When he attempted to enter Eaves shot at him twice, and was dropped by a shot fired by Sergt. Patrick Mullahy, who was with Knox.

The bullet struck Eaves in the right thigh and the policemen rushed him as he again attempted to fire a shot into his head. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where his wound was described as not serious. Police were unable to learn the motive for Eaves' actions. He is chauffeur for P. G. Kemp, prominent in aviation affairs and formerly chairman of the city aviation commission.

Catch Burglar in Four Minutes.

Upon receiving a radio message that a burglar was at work in the home of Thomas Cameron, colored, 2976 Vernon avenue, Sergt. Ray Crane sped with his detective bureau squad to the place in time to catch Herbert Grant, colored, of Indiana Harbor, Ind., as he was departing with the loot. From the time station W-G-N sent out the call until Grant was behind the bars four minutes elapsed.

Mike Hogan, 30 years old, 4165 South Halsted street, was arrested at his home by a detective bureau squad led by Sergt. John Shortall after he had sent in a false alarm to W-G-N that a shooting had occurred at 52d and Morgan streets.

AL, WITH HEAVY GUARD, SHIFTED TO NEW PRISON

Finds It 'Not Much Like Home.'

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—[Special.]—They took "Scarface Al" Capone for a "ride" this afternoon but it was in a prison van. The Miami "gentleman" and Chicago gang overlord has a new body guard tonight—the cold, gray stone walls of Holmesburg prison, known throughout crookdom as the toughest place between the two oceans in which to take a rap.

Capone and his henchman, "Slippery Frankie" Rio, were transferred from Moyamensing prison, where they were lodged on Friday after being arrested, tried and convicted of carrying concealed weapons, all in the space of sixteen hours. They will be "guests" of the hard boiled Holmesburg prison for the next year—presumably a net ten months.

Rides Under Heavy Guard.

The police here know that Capone is "on the spot" and took no chances with his life on the short ride. "Scarface," the prison attendants say, appeared to relax for the first time since his arrival in Philadelphia, when the great steel doors of the prison swung shut.

The ride between the two prisons took just 35 minutes and Al and his former body guard were the only two prisoners in the big van which usually hauls twenty.

Three heavily armed guards sat on the driver's seat, two others sat inside with the gangsters, and in front and behind the prison automobile were two other cars loaded with detectives serving as a convoy.

Police See Him Through.

This city has been filled with vague, intangible rumors all day that Capone's enemies were going to get him before he won sanctuary behind prison walls. But the police saw "Scarface" through this time.

If Chicago's slipping gang chieftain came back here to seek safety behind bars—and many believe that he did—then he picked a bad place to light. Even on the theory he was fleeing from Atlantic City to save his life and the Philadelphia selection was a matter of any old port in a storm, he is in for some bad weather before spring.

Decision to put Capone in Holmesburg came as a kind of added punishment for the millionaire gangster who always has been able to beat his case. Holmesburg only recently was made nationally notorious by revelations of abuses there. When a prisoner does a "stretch" in Holmesburg, he knows he has been in jail.

Could Have Found Softer Spot.

Here, in Philadelphia's underworld, they will tell you there is not another prison in the United States where life is harder. It is not the kind of jail one would seek to enter.

Those who should know insist Capone was seeking a haven when he was arrested here. Nevertheless, the police say they don't believe the stories. Why, they ask, should a man with Capone's money, take a chance on prisons such as they have in this city? Now, down in Miami, they say, there is a nice jail away up on the twenty-first floor of the newest building in town. "Scarface" could have gone there and slept in the cool breezes blowing off Biscayne bay. Or there are said to be nice jails in counties near Chicago where the jailer furnishes good food, excellently cooked.

Capone was mugged a few hours after his arrest. At Holmesburg he at once began to suffer additional indignities. He was put under a shower bath and then the prison barber went over his scalp with a pair of clippers.

"Not Much Like Home."

"Scarface" next lost his "glad rags," shoulder holster and all. He came out of the room clad in blue denim overalls and a white shirt for which there was no necktie. Capone scowled in distaste. Then he turned to John Bennett, assistant prison superintendent, and remarked: "Not much like home here."

It will not become any more homelike as the days roll by, according to Mr. Bennett, and his chief, William H. Heston, who laughed at reports that Capone was going to use the prison as his eastern headquarters and win his way back to leadership while safe behind the bars.

"O, yes, we are all going into the beer business in a big way," scoffed the superintendent. "Well, if Capone has any such ideas he will get rid of them in a hurry down here. He will get nothing in the way of privileges. He will get the same break the other prisoners get—no better, or no worse. He is just another prisoner. Why should he be treated any differently?"

Where Work Is a Pleasure.

Capone will be lucky if he is given a chance to work at Holmesburg. Out there work is something to look forward to eagerly. Only the favored prisoners get jobs, which are doled out under the seniority rule. There are more than 1,700 other convicts ahead of the two Chicago racketeers. They prabably will just sit in their cells for the present. There will be little recreation. They do not go in for such pampering at Holmesburg ,and besides, the prison is too crowded to take any chances with the class of men there. Just before the guards tucked "Scarface" away for the evening in his new quarters, he told the attendants he "hoped to have a good night's rest."

Last night, it was said, he passed most of the hours fretting over his plight and ate very little at meal times.

The gangster leader got one break at least. He will not have to wear a prison number. He is classed as a "misdemeanor prisoner" and inmates of this character go numberless.

While the Philadelphia police force was patting itself on the back today on having "jugged" the biggest gangster in the country, the underworld here are in other big cities was teeming with rumors of an impending gang war on a scale never before attempted.

Authorities here, however, ascribed such lurid rumors to "gang nerves." They were of the opinion matters would simmer along for a while and then the entire occurrenice would be forgotten by all except Capone and his friends.

Not a Frameup, Malone Says,

"It's tough to make a pinch and then get blamed for everything that might happen," said Detective James "Shooey" Malone, who along with Lieutenant of Detectives John Creedon picked up the Chicago gangsters as they were leaving a motion picture theater.

"Here we step out and take a chance on getting smoked up," lamented Malone, "then everybody hollers frameup. It is enough to make a man want to quit being a copper."

Creedon was asked if he had any conversation with Capone.

"Well, little was said right after the arrest," replied Creedon. "Capone seemed to feel the whole thing was just a walkout. That is, he would go down to city hall, call up some of his Philadelphia friends and walk right out. It did not work out that way, however, and the last word I had from 'Scarface' was after his conviction. He turned to me just before they took him to county prison and said, 'Well, you're the blank, blank, blank I can thank for this extended vacation.'"

CHICAGOAN SHOT IN ST. PAUL; MAY BE FRED BURKE

St. Paul, Minn., May 18.—[Special.]—Shot seven times yesterday in an apartment here, a man who identified himself as Raymond Burke of Chicago, was in the Ancker hospital tonight while police awaited a change in his condition to permit them to take his finger prints.

The police scented a possibility that Raymond Burke may be the fugitive, Fred R. Burke, bank robber and reputed killer of Frank Uale, the Brooklyn gangster, who has been hunted by Chicago police as a suspect in the Moran gang massacre in Chicago. Like Fred Burke, the wounded man is 5 feet 11 inches tall, has brown hair, hazel eyes and a fair complexion. Fred Burke, when last in custody, weighed nearly 200 pounds, while the wounded man here scales only 155 pounds.

CAPONE STARTS FIGHT TO REGAIN LOST FREEDOM

Agents Push Forlorn Hope for Appeal.

Although he pleaded guilty, thus shutting off the usual method of appeal, Al Capone has decided to make a fight for freedom. The news that his agents have already approached an attorney make it appear that they at least were not cognizant of any voluntary surrender to a jail sentence in Philadelphia. Among friends of the gangster leader it was recognized that his chance of release now is slight but out of loyalty to him they have decided to make the attempt.

Capone's local lieutenants have been in touch with Thomas D. Nash, noted for his success in defending persons charged with criminal violations, with a view to pushing their seemingly forlorn hope that Capone can be got out of the Holmesburg prison in Philadelphia to which he was transferred yesterday. The prison is noted for its strict discipline.

Did Not Expect Year Term.

Among Capone's friends in Chicago it was declared that Capone did not expect the year's sentence when he stepped up to the bench to plead guilty and that he may have been double crossed.

With this in mind, Attorney Nash last evening could see, off hand, only two possible grounds to obtain a rehearing for Capone. If the indictment or the grand jury action were found to be faulty or illegal, the case could be taken to the Pennsylvania Supreme court in an appeal on those grounds, he said. Or if it could be proved Capone had been trapped into a plea of guilty on false promises made by some responsible representative of the state or court, then it would be possible to make an appeal to the upper court on that ground, he added.

Doubt He Gave Self Up.

Close friends of Capone discounted the story that their chieftain had deliberately schemed to have himself arrested and placed in jail.

In this connection it was declared that Detective James [Shoey] Malone and John Creedon of the Philadelphia force, who arrested Capone and his bodyguard, Frank Pio, were friends of Capone of long standing.

"He knew them well and he had treated them like princes," one of Capone's "boys" said. "Why, both of them were down in Florida at the time of the Sharkey-Stribling fight, and Al took them into his home. They had dinner with him, and he gave them each tickets for the fight."

Detectives Explain Arrest.

Also the two eastern detectives for some reason felt called upon to give public explanation of the manner in which they captured Chicago's gang overlord.

"We were passing the theater in an automobile," said "Shoey" Malone, as Capone had greeted him when the arrest was made. "We saw four big, burly fellows going into the theater. We knew Capone and decided to grab him.

"I stopped the car and ran with Creedon to the theater. The men had passed inside. We searched the aisles with flashlights but couldn't see them. I then had two uniformed men called. I didn't want to flash a badge on Al.

"Capone and Cline (Rio) finally came out. The two uniformed men moved forward. I extended my right hand, showing the badge, Capone put his hand in his coat pocket and pulled out a gun, which he handed to me. We could not find the other two men."

Call Him a "Sacrifice."

Capone's Chicago henchmen said it would have been foolish for Capone to go to Philadelphia to carry out a scheme to incarcerate himself when he could have become a federal prisoner in Chicago. In that case he could have chosen the outlying county jail where living conditions are considered good and there is no work to do.

A Capone spokesman declared that Al was sacrificed by Philadelphia officialdom in an effort to redeem the good name of Philadelphia, which has had its share of graft and gang scandals, Capone's friends pointed out.

Reports that Capone's Atlantic City "peace conference" at which a pact was said to have been agreed upon by all the Chicago gang leaders was an unqualified success, were also current. Under the terms of the pact, it was believed also that John Torrio, one time mentor of Capone, formerly Al's close friend and boss in the rackets, but more lately something of an enemy of Capone, was to come back to Chicago to join Capone's outfit again.

Promised Aid to Loesch.

One of the most amazing disclosures came yesterday from Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, the city's most bitter foe of racketeering, when Mr. Loesch said that he and Capone had met last August in a room of Capone's suite in the Lexington hotel and that there he asked the gang chieftain to help him in cleaning up the alliance of crime and politics in Chicago.

"I have wanted to see you for some time," Mr. Loesch said he told Capone. "I have wanted to appeal to you as man to man, as an American citizen and for the sake of your wife and child, to abandon the course you are popularly supposed to be pursuing in the underworld.

"I know some of your followers have been connected with violence in the 20th ward. I thought it my duty to come here to you in secret and tell you what the continuance of the course of your followers means.

"We talked back and forth for a long time. He said he wished to give up his Chicago connections and go to Florida to live. I told him I wasn't there to talk about the past but I wished to obtain his promise to help me in the future. In the end he arose and held out his hand and smiled and said, "I'll help you, Mr. Loesch.'"

Hollywood, Cal., May 18.—[Special.]—Edwin Carewe, American Indian motion picture producer, soon will remarry his divorced wife, Mary Akin, according to friends here. Mary Akin Carewe is a Chicago girl, who went to Hollywood and became a film actress. Two years ago she obtained a divorce from Carewe, a property settlement and custody of the two children. Carewe had been reported engaged to Dolores Del Rio, film star, whose contract he holds, but she denied the story.

ALLIED EXPERTS NEAR WAR DEBT ACCORD AT PARIS

PARIS, May 18.—The experts commission is putting on full steam ahead in the hope of getting down to brass tacks by Tuesday at the latest. The allied delegates together with the Americans spent seven hours today arguing the German reservations and the drafting committee is sitting tonight and tomorrow in an effort to speed the drafting of Sir Josiah Stamp's report which it is hoped will come before the plenary session not later than Monday or Tuesday.

The knotty issue of the reparations total mentioned in the Young plan may be spared the experts and handled by the governments directly. If such is the case, it is thought that the conference is likely to reach an accord early next week.

The Young plan provides for 37 annuities of 2,050,000,000 marks [$487,900,000], 20 annunities of 1,700,000,000 [$404,606,000] and one of 900,000,000 marks [$214,200,000].

Rome Paper Assails Conference.

ROME, May 18.—(AP)—Tevere, Rome daily, in an editorial today, assailed the work of the conference on reparations at Paris, citing alleged disapproval by President Hoover of Chairman Owen D. Young's work. The editorial declared "There is a cruel logic in what America is doing, but it is iron logic. If there is not a solidarity between European nations why should there be between one continent and another. If Mr. Winston Churchill won't negotiate, Mr. Hoover certainly won't."

POLICE TO MAKE TRAFFIC SURVEY IN LOOP DISTRICT

Street traffic conditions in the central business district will be surveyed on Tuesday, when all vehicles entering and leaving that district between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. will be checked by the police department. The information obtained will be the basis for future traffic studies, according to Commissioner of Police Russell, who announced the project yesterday.

The plan for the survey was worked out by Commissioner Russell and City Traffic Engineer Leslie J. Sorenson and is expected to provide the most thorough and accurate check ever made of vehicular traffic in any large city. It will be conducted in such a way as to avoid delay to vehicles or questioning of drivers, but will furnish information as to the type of vehicle, the time of entering and leaving the loop, and the point of entry and exit.

Use Card Index System.

The district to be covered is the area south and east of the Chicago river and north of Harrison street. The outer drive will be checked at Roosevelt road.

"The checking system will be simple for the drivers of vehicles and will not delay them," explained Commissioner Russell. "The driver, when entering the district, will be given a card, the color of which will indicate the type of vehicle he is operating—private automobile, taxicab, or truck. The punchings on the card will tell the time the vehicle crosses the boundary line and the place at which it enters.

"The cards, when collected, will be kept segregated by five minute periods for each location and afterwards will be punched with the time and place of leaving, the routes of travel and time spent within the district. The check will require 280,000 of these cards in three colors and emergency cards arranged for special circumstances."

A force of 140 policemen and 45 clerks will be assigned to the 24 entrances and exits around the central district. They will hand cards to the drivers without comment and without requiring them to stop and the cards will be collected in the same way, the commissioner said. If a driver does not have a card when leaving, he will be given a special card to fill out and mail to the department. The license number of his car will be taken to insure that the information is obtained.

Chicago Rum Smugglers Put Fear on Detroit Frontier

Detroit, Mich., May 18.—[Special.]—Down along that hotly contested section of the prohibition frontier, the Detroit river, a triple threat hangs low over the men who run the rum blockade. A combination of reverses finds the down river smuggler at his wits' end.

Three factors threaten the supremacy of the Detroit river rummers, if not the entire rum traffic in the border liquor situation. They are:

1. The attempt of Chicago liquor interests to usurp the running of liquor at a time when most of the large Detroit operators are in seclusion in Canada to escape arrest on federal indictments issued in connection with the recent customs graft investigation.

2. Reorganization of the border enforcement agencies, hastened by the graft scandals and strengthened by the addition of a large coast guard force to the river patrol.

3. The ever present threat of the stringent penalties of the new Jones law.

Council of War Held.

A meeting which was regarded as a council of war was held last night, when several down river rum runners, driven out of this country by federal indictments met with twenty-five of their henchmen in Windsor to discuss the attempted inroads of Chicago racketeers.

When the big operators fled to Canada they continued to get a cut on the profits on Chicago bound liquor, as their agents still supervised its transportation across the river and the unloading at the down river docks. A few weeks ago the exiles, it is said, made a demand for a bigger cut.

"The law," they said, "outnumbers our luggers and pullers four to one, and with a stretch in the big house ahead if the Jones law nicks you, the job is worth more money."

Scoff at Fear.

However, the Chicago clients passed along the word that if the other crowd permitted itself to be awed by the coast guards, the customs patrols, and special prohibition agents, the Capone element would take charge of the liquor running without local assistance.

In the past the down river runners have collected the money of Chicago dealers at the docks, have purchased liquor with it in Canada, and have run it across on a pro rata basis, with the owner of the liquor taking the risk of its seizure. The runners' participation in the deal ends when the liquor is started on its way inland to the Chicago market.

A week ago, however, it became known that henchmen of Capone, now serving a year's imprisonment in Philadelphia for gun toting, planned to take over the Detroit smuggling activities, and Friday's meeting was accepted as confirmation.

Capone's gang is known to have attempted two years ago to take over rum smuggling here, but gunmen were engaged by the down river runners and the Chicago interests backed out.

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Mary Shaw, 69, actress, feminist, and leader in a movement against censorship, known to theatergoers for three generations, died today. She had been on the stage for 51 years.

Her most noted night was in [illegible] when George Bernard Shaw's play, "Mrs. Warren's Profession," was presented with Miss Shaw in the title rôle. The performance was stopped and she appeared in police court after being almost trampled by the crowd that attended the theater.

Born in Boston in 1860, Miss Shaw made her stage debut when [illegible] years old. She took part in 70 plays. She was one of the first American actresses to appear in Isben's plays, and frequently she was in the same cast with Julia Marlowe and others of like fame. Her last appearance was in "The Cradle Song," in 1927.

A son, Arthur Shaw, an actor now in California, and a sister, Mrs. Helen Shaw of Boston, survive her.

ECKENER BLAMES MOTOR VIBRATION FOR ZEP MISHAP

Says New Type of Engine Proves Unsuitable.

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TOULON, France, May 18.—The new type of motor installed after the Graf Zeppelin's first two flights was responsible for the mishap to the giant airship on its attempted flight to America, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, who left the airdrome of Cuers-Pierrefeu tonight for Friedrichshafen, Germany.

"During the first voyages," Dr. Eckener said, "the rigidity of the cylinder connections proved an undesirable feature. This rigidity caused a dangerous vibration and even cracked one of the cylinder blocks during the Mediterranean flight. Accordingly the old motors were replaced with new ones, which rectified the former rigidity. During the sixteen hour trip to Vienna and return the new motors functioned perfectly, giving us entire confidence in their adaptibility for the long trans-Atlantic voyage.

Four Engines Crippled.

"However, we discovered our mistake when a crankshaft broke at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and another at 6:30 o'clock the same afternoon, making it necessary to return. Two other crankshafts snapped within a quarter of an hour of each other yesterday afternoon, leaving only a single engine functioning against the heavy wind. It is now apparent that the new motors caused even more serious vibration than the old onces, and we are going to reinstall motors of the original type."

Dr. Eckener branded as "absurd" reports that sabotage was responsible for the breakdown of the motors.

Two relief motors were sent from Friedrichshafen this afternoon by truck and are expected to arrive at Cuers-Pierrefeu tomorrow. With the two fresh motors reinforcing the single one that held out, the Zeppelin will be able to return to Friedrichshafen before the end of next week for the remainder of the mechanical repairs necessary before starting for the United States again in June.

Zeppelin Draws Big Crowd.

Meantime the majestic silver bag remains lashed within the Cuers-Pierrefeu hanger, which was built by the Germans eight years ago and which formerly sheltered the ill-fated dirigible Dixmude. Thousands of natives are trekking the sun baked roads for miles around to get a glimpse of Germany's proudest aircraft.

Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York, the only woman aboard the dirigible, said she was "not a bit frightened" while the big ship was fighting the storm.

"I was frightfully disappointed when I learned we had to turn back," Mrs. Pierce said. "The trip started out as the most thrilling experience of my life. When we left Friedrichshafen and floated upwards headed toward the Atlantic I was so excited I could hardly control myself. After we heard the bad news everybody was perfectly calm and had entire confidence in Dr. Eckener."

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 18.—A story of how the tense anxiety aboard the Graf Zeppelin during her fight for safety was happily relieved by the frantic and often amusing efforts of the newspaper correspondents to share their thrilling adventure with the world was related today by Alfred F. Masury New York automotive engineer, who was one of the passengers.

"The salon was strewn with those inevitable signs of traveling correspondents—portable typewriters. In the very midst of our struggle ten or more newspaper men, apparently oblivious of the fact that they might be dashed to their death at any moment, were writing madly and then climbing or crawling, according to the angle at which the zeppelin happened to be at that time, to the wireless room.

"As the ship dropped, then soared, then leaned violently to the side, typewriters and chairs fell over and the German dispatches became mixed up with the English.

"Some power other than this amusing but nevertheless admirable devotion to duty calmed our nerves and the humor of the thing dawned upon us. Henceforth the passengers reacted with fine courage and subsequent attempts to bring the ship to a safe landing failed to frighten us as they had before. If we all live to be a hundred we won't forget that lounge, with the newspaper men fighting to get their stuff off."

PASSENGER'S OWN STORY

The following story of the dramatic struggle of the Graf Zeppelin was written by Alexander R. von Kryha, a passenger, for the Associated Press. It was prepared from notes made while the Graf Zeppelin was beating her way over southeastern France in an effort to find a landing place.

BY ALEXANDER R. VON KRYHA.

CUERS, France, May 18.—(AP)—Dr. Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, en route to the United States, walked into the salon of the ship Thursday afternoon as the passengers were dancing merrily to the tunes of a phonograph and, striking a serious attitude, said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have bad news to impart to you. We must return to Friedrichshafen. There is some trouble with the motors but there is no danger. Remain calm, we shall reach home safely Friday evening or Saturday morning."

The announcement came as a thunder stroke out of the clearest sky to the passengers, who were not aware of any difficulty to the motors. The dancing stopped immediately as the ship swung about to return to Barcelona.

Then, after a long, hard pull over the Gulf of Lion and over the southern part of France, the Zeppelin fought for headway past Nimes, Montelimar and Valence. Just as the sun was setting in the troubled western hazy horizon Friday afternoon, Capt. Biser, official German passenger, entered the salon as the ship was tacking about above Valence.

"Ladies and gentlemen. There is danger. Remove your bags and remain calm. We are forced to land."

The Graf Zeppelin by this time had completely lost all control of steering and was turned into a mere balloon, buffeted by the wind continually.

Pushed Back to Sea.

The dreaded mistral, blowing from the northwest, was pushing the helpless Zeppelin towards the sea at a speed of 40 miles an hour. The passengers, then thoroughly alarmed, delegated one of their number to go to the navigation cabin, where Dr. Eckener, with his officers, were sitting quietly in their seats. The doctor's son, Khud Eckener, was at the steering wheel. Dr. Eckener in response to a question said that it was imperative to find a landing field.

The ship hopped up and down several hundred feet at times. Then suddenly straight ahead there loomed out of the deepening gloom of the evening the abrupt flank of a small mountain on which it appeared the ship must crash.

While the passengers waited tensely the ship suddenly leaped several hundred feet in the air like a trained steeplechaser. Every one gasped until it was explained that Dr. Eckener, aware of the danger, had dumped a large amount of water ballast, thus lightening the ship.

The last thrill for the passengers came as the airship, flying before the wind and with all her motors silent, averaged 50 miles an hour en route to the landing field at Cuers. The passengers thought the ship was certain to be blown over the Mediterranean, but by skillful maneuvering she came down and was quickly tethered by the strong hands of hundreds of men on the field.

PARIS, May 18.—The German ambassador, Leopold von Hoesch, today called on Minister of Foreign Affairs Aristide Briand, and Under-Secretary of Aviation Laurent Eynac, thanking them profusely on behalf of the Berlin government for the measures taken to save the Graf Zeppelin and the expert manner in which the officers and sailors of the French naval base at Toulon handled the affair.

BERLIN LOUD IN PRAISE OF FRANCE FOR AID TO CRIPPLED ZEPPELIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN May 18.—Toulon has breathed the spirit of life into the dry bones of Locarno. The Locarno policy was accepted by a majority of the Germans but without real enthusiasm. The promptness, comprehensiveness, and efficiency of the French measures to help the distressed Graf Zeppelin, and also the sympathetic and tactful attitude of the French press and opinion, has struck a loud chord in the German people's sentimental heart.

It is no exaggeration to say that if a man were to wave a tricolor on Unter den Linden today he would be cheered by the Berliners.

What has most struck public opinion is the French action in cutting off the high tension electric current throughout the entire south eastern France, so inevitably causing great public inconvenience.

Dr. Eckner's failure has increased his hold on the affection and respect of the people. His stock has never stood higher The splendid courage he showed in fighting the elements with defective machinery has made him a bigger national hero than his previous successful flights.

On Honeymoon

Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston and Miss Gwendolyn Williams, former clerk in his office, were married at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Williams, 1446 Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods. last evening. Charles T. Bartlett, the father of the groom, acted as best man, and Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, the bride's mother, was matron of honor. The Rev. David Hugh Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Evanston, officiated. Following a wedding supper at the bride's home in Evanston, the couple left on their honeymoon trip. They will make their home in Evanston upon their return.

Thus was the Marriage Adjustment bureau introduced to a trusting public yesterday. Cards were sent to many lawyers in Chicago. An avalanche of letters were addressed to supposedly unhappy wives and husbands. And a TRIBUNE reporter, hearing the news, went to the bureau to find what it was all about.

At an address on West Madison street the office of the bureau was found. Trying to act like an unhappy husband, the reporter opened the door and peered timidly in.

Greeted by Young Woman.

A beaming smile from the comely face of a young woman clad in a close fitting blue velvet gown welcomed him. The young woman was introduced as Miss Conrad. She was the only one in the office and she sat at a desk in a corner. There was a telephone at her elbow. With the exception of two chairs, there was no other furniture in the room.

"I heard about this place," said the reporter, blushing. "I thought maybe you might help me if it didn't cost too much. My wife and I aren't getting along very well."

"How long have you been married? Have you any children? The price is ten dollars," said Miss Conrad briskly.

"One year," said the reporter. "None. And the second answer goes for how much money I have."

Money? Not a Dime.

"Haven't you got five dollars?" queried Miss Conrad, wistfully.

"Not a dime," was the answer. "But don't you think I should know something about what you're going to give me before I pay?"

Miss Conrad thought that was fair enough. She warmed to her subject and before she was through she had given the ten dollar course in full and thrown in a $3.50 book, all gratis.

"Do you know," said Miss Conrad, fixing her large blue eyes on the reporter's face, "why couples do not always 'live happily ever afterward?' Do you know how to make marriage a perpetual honeymoon? Do you know how dying love can be revived?"

The reporter blushed some more as he admitted he didn't know.

"Ah," breathed Miss Conrad. "That ignorance is responsible for our great mass of unhappy marriages. I," she announced impressively, "will teach you the art of love."

The reporter looked around frantically. It was lonely in the office and dusk had begun to fall. He wished some one else had been given this assignment.

Miss Conrad spoke at length and graphically. She illustrated her remarks with charts and diagrams. The reporter blushed and blushed.

"That," said Miss Conrad, finally, "is that. Go home and tell your wife all that I've told you. And then if you want to send me some money, do so. And don't forget, your money back if you're not happy in two weeks."

Outside the door the reporter mopped his brow. But one lurking thought remained with him. He almost wished he had a wife whose dying love needed reviving.

A detective bureau squad, trailing the extortionists who murdered Detective Raymond Martin, early this morning raided a dwelling at 1501 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, the suspected lair of the kidnapers who are believed to have held Philip Blumenthal, former bootlegger, prisoner there for 48 hours before a $15,000 ransom was paid. Detective Martin was killed while impersonating the bearer of an additional $35,000 ransom.

Charles Palbo, 24 years old, who said he was a Checker cab starter, and Mrs. Marie Mangano, wife of "Dago" Lawrence Mangano, were arrested in the house by the raiders and taken to the detective bureau for questioning by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne.

Ernie Ross, who has served a prison term for killing a policeman and is alleged by police to have participated in the Blumenthal kidnaping, was believed to have been in the house, but was not found. Reid's mother and married sister were kept under surveillance by a police guard, stationed at the Berwyn dwelling.

PAPAS OF BIGGEST FAMILIES TO GET BEST JOBS—DUCE

Offers It as Scheme to Fill Italian Cradles.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 18.—How to fill empty Italian cradles is taxing the ingenuity of Fascist law givers. Alarmed with the tendency of a decline in the birth rate this year, Premier Benito Mussolini introduced a bill in the senate which provides legal preference in employment and advancement to those who have the largest families.

The law will apply to both state and private employés. The father or supporters of large families must be given special advantages over the fathers of smaller families. These in turn must precede bachelors or married men without children.

To Offset Propaganda.

A new law will shortly be added to the list on Fascist legislation to stimulate marriages and birth rate, such as taxes on bachelors, low prices to large families, and reduced street car rates. Il Duce accompanied the introduction of the bill with a report explaining that it should function in all cases on the basis of quality of merit in other respects; that is, a man with a large family should not get a job ahead of a specially meritorious bachelor.

"The law is inspired with the idea of anti-Malthusian propaganda. The Fascist wants to unify the jurisdiction of the state over moral life," said Il Duce. "The law will have the effect of classifying Italian citizenship judicially into prolific and nonprolific classes."

Turin Rate Declines.

Il Duce's demographic legislation is provoked by a general diminution of births, but specially in the city of Turin, where last week the deaths exceeded the births by 125, which would mean that the population there is diminishing by more than 6,000 annually.

"The government has decided to combat at whatever cost this lowered birth rate, which represents actually a state of demographic agony," says the newspaper Regima Fascista, commenting on Il Duce's law. "At the same time doctors who indulge in illicit practices will be jailed or sent into exile. All birth rates means are prohibited and suppressed and the position of a bachelor will be one of inferiority."

Mashers Are Warned.

BRESCIA, Italy, May 18.—Sig. Lombardo, manager of the big Roe Volciano cotton mills here, today notified all male employés that any one caught flirting or trying to date up women factory workers with excessive enterprise would be immediately fired. The punishment will be more severe in the case of philandering foremen or factory superiors. Girl workers are requested to denounce to the manager any disrespect offered them.

At the same time the women are notified that they must dress modestly and decently so as not to invite overardent attentions. Any women or girls who come to work after June 15 with skirts above their knees will be discharged. The object of the new rule is to promote morality and matrimony on the basis of serious friendship, declared Sig. Lombardo.

PASSAVANT HOSPITAL WILL BE OPENED FOR INSPECTION TUESDAY

The new Passavant Memorial hospital on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university will be opened for a public reception from 3 to 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and for patients on June 3, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern university medical school and superintendent of the hospital.

The hospital building, recently completed at a cost of $2,000,000, will open with 200 beds with the west wing in use for housing 100 nurses. When a nurses' home is completed, the west wing will be converted to patients' use, increasing the capacity to 325 beds. Faculty members of the university school will comprise the hospital staff.

Passavant hospital, founded in 1865 by Dr. A. W. Passavant, was destroyed in the great fire of 1871 but was rebuilt in 1885. Four years ago the rebuilt structure was found inadequate and was closed. The cornerstone of the newest building was laid on June 5 and the building will be formally dedicated next October.

Air Liner Plunges Into Danube; All Believed Lost

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 18.—(AP)—An air liner on the Vienna-Budapest route dove into the Danube river near the railway bridge just outside the city this evening. No one was saved but divers immediately were sent to attempt to recover the plane and bodies. Eye witnesses said a wing dropped off, following an explosion. The number of occupants was not known here.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 18.—Mme. Ganna Walska, wife of Harold McCormick of Chicago, will make her debut as an actress on June 1 in "The Countess of Castiglione," a costume play of the second empire, in which the singer will have the title role.

Mme. Walska is only temporarily forsaking the operatic and concert stage.

"My debut as an actress will be the realization of a secret ambition," she said today. "A singer's talents are not restricted to opera or concerts. As a matter of fact a thorough artist in the operatic realm should be perfectly at home in the theater. Good singers always should be good actors."

Los Angeles, Cal., May 18.—(AP)—The head of a girl was found buried in the sands near the Florence avenue bridge over the Los Angeles river late today. The discovery was made not far from the spot where the torso of a woman was recovered from the river last April. After a cursory examination, authorities declared the manner in which the head had been severad corresponds to the surgery practiced on the unidentified woman's body.

LAWMAKERS TALK OF IMPEACHMENT AT AURORA QUIZ

Dry Raiders Under Fire for De King Killing.

The six deputy sheriffs who made the prohibition raid in which one of them shot and killed Mrs. Lillian De King came under fire of the legislative committee investigating the slaying at the second day's hearing in Aurora yesterday. The members of the committee, which was appointed to determine if there had been a miscarriage of justice, mentioned that it is within their power to institute impeachment proceedings against State's Attorney George D. Carbary and Circuit Judge John K. Newhall.

Expressions by the state legislators indicated that their report will contain considerable criticism if not recommendations for drastic action. They talked of the possibility that Attorney General Carlstrom will again be asked to go into Kane county and review before a special grand jury the proceedings termed "a political farce," in which Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith was cleared of a charge of murder or manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. De King.

Urges Crowe Law Repeal.

"If we should repeal the so-called Crowe law, any citizen might petition for a special state's attorney and a special grand jury," said Representative Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, Democratic leader of the assembly. "It should be done."

The lawmakers spent some time questioning Dr. J. J. McCullough, who was called to attend Mrs. De King after she was shot by Smith and who made a post-mortem examination. His testimony had to do with whether Mrs. De King was shot by Smith while she was standing, sitting at the telephone, or stooping to pick up a gun dropped by her prostrate husband, Joseph De King, who had been clubbed by Smith.

Dr. McCullough said that from his examination he was certain Mrs. De King must have been standing erect when shot. Representative Leroy Green of Rockford asked if there was any possibility that the wound might have been inflicted while she was stooping. Dr. McCullough said there was none.

Juul Gives an Example.

Representative Roy Juul of Chicago put himself in a position on a chair with left leg drawn far back and asked if the wound could have been inflicted while Mrs. De King was in that position. Dr. McCullough said it could. Members of the De King family said that Mrs. De King was seated. Deputy Smith claimed that she was reaching for a gun.

Deputy Sheriff C. H. Anderson was called as the next witness. He told of going to the De King home on the night of March 25 to make the raid. He said he and Deputy Sheriff William Hale Treadwell were notified to report to Prosecutor Carbary's office that night and were there given a paper said to be a warrant and were told to accompany Ole Nelson, a special deputy sheriff assigned to the prosecutor's office. Nelson, Anderson said, took them to the De King home.

Says De King Made Threat.

The deputy said he was in the kitchen when De King came downstairs in his underwear and put a gun to him and told him not to dare to touch a thing. About that time Treadwell came upstairs with a basket containing several bottles of liquor, Anderson said. He testified De King then said:

He and Treadwell and Nelson left the house under De King's order, Anderson said, and he declared Treadwell mentioned having a warrant but did not dare read it.

"Why didn't you take De King into custody?" asked Representative Igoe.

"We didn't want to do any killing." Anderson said.

"When did you change your mind?" Igoe shot back.

The examination of Anderson was mild compared with that of Treadwell, principally because Treadwell carried the warrant which was isued on the false affidavit of Boyd Fairchild, hired dry snooper.

Representative Frederick Rennick, chairman of the committee, asked Treadwell to tell what had happened. The deputy sheriff told about the same story as had Anderson, but added that he had first spoken to George Stafford, who operates a gasoline station next door to the De King home, and had started to serve the warrant on Stafford. Stafford said he wouldn't accept service, as he was merely at the De King home taking care of a child, Treadwell said. He said De King followed them out in the yard and displayed one gun and said, "It shoots, too," and fired it to show that it did. Then De King went back into the house, and when he returned he had a gun in each hand, and on a third trip out of the house he had three guns, one in his hand and two in his back trousers pockets, according to Treadwell.

Says Guns Were Displayed.

"How do you know that?" Green asked.

"He turned around to show them to us," the deputy answered.

"Was that not your opportunity to seize him, or cover him with your guns or read your warrant to him, or to do anything that was legal?" Green asked. Then the legislators started firing questions at Treadwell.

Q.—Did you ring the doorbell when you went to the house? A.—No. I believe we followed Stafford in.

Q.—Did you ask the little boy, Gerald, if his mother or father were home so the warrant could be served on them? A.—No, I started looking around.

Q.—Did the state's attorney or circuit judge ever instruct you in the proper manner of serving search warrants? A.—No.

Asked About Search Warrant.

Q.—This boy was old enough to be questioned that night by Carbary after his mother was killed but you didn't think he was old enough to ask if his mother and father was home? A.—I didn't ask him.

Q.—How do you know you had a search warrant? A.—Ole Nelson told me it was one.

Q.—Have you enough confidence in his integrity to take his word?

Chairman Rennick did not think this was a proper question but Green exclaimed:

"Certainly if there is any class of people police officers should be suspicious of it is that class of prohibition spotters."

The question was allowed and Treadwell said in reply: "I took it as proper."

Quizzed on Machine Gun Threat.

Q.—You were sore when one man ran three heavily armed men off the premises, were you not, and you suggested getting machine guns, shotguns and tear gas bombs and coming back and "getting that ——," did you not? A.—Well, we were determined to go through with what we had started.

At this point one of the legislators recalled to the others that testimony at the inquest and before the grand jury showed that the deputy sheriffs who made the first raid had gone for reinforcements after being driven out by De King. They returned with Deputy Sheriffs Smith, Clarence Sayre, and Pearlie Peck, and the shooting followed. The questioning of Treadwell went on.

Q.—On your return did not Peter De King (brother of Joseph) come out to you and say, "Don't come in, I'll have him come out in a few minutes?" A.—He said something like that.

Q.—You threw in that tear bomb after you had seen the woman stumble out and be carried away because you were still moved by that spirit of "getting that ——," were you not? A.—I threw it in to get Joe De King out without more trouble.

"More!" interjected Igoe in a startled voice, and there was laughter.

Representative Juul then turned to Treadwell.

No Effort to Protect Comrade.

Q.—You saw your brother officer covered by a gun when you came upstairs, and the man with the gun had his back to you, and you made no effort to draw your gun to protect your brother officer? A.—No, De King turned around and said if he had seen me go downstairs I would never have come up alive.

Q.—Do you blame him? A.—No.

Q.—You say he appeared to have been drinking? A.—Well, he was excited.

Q.—Was that your reason for not shooting him? A.—I have no desire to take human life, even on this job.

That brought on a discussion of what he meant by "this job" and then Representative Henry Sonnenschein, a wet legislator from Chicago, asked why he had not arrested Pete De King and Stafford. Treadwell replied that they had committed no crime.

A Citizen's Rights in Home.

Q.—Is that a crime to defend his own home? If it was why didn't you go and get a warrant for him? A.—It wasn't necessary.

Q.—Don't you know that citizens have the right to kill you if you attempt to arrest them illegally? Here was a man with his head broken open and I want you to tell why you put handcuffs on him when you went back to get him.

The witness did not answer.

Q.—Did some one of your crew get in touch with Assistant State's Attorney Carleton Shults after the first visit to the De King home, and did he tell you to stay away till next day? A.—Not that I know about.

Didn't Know About Nelson.

Q.—Nelson, who was in charge of the expedition, left you without saying anything to either you or to Anderson, you say, but didn't you know he went to get Pete De King? A.—No.

Q.—If you had called some one of your superiors might you not have been told Nelson got Pete De King to come over and there was no need of the heavy artillery? A.—I don't know.

Q.—How big a man is Smith? A.—He's about5 feet 10 inches and weighs over 200 pounds.

Q.—How big was Mrs. De King? A.—I don't remember.

Some one informed Representative Igoe that Mrs. De King was about 5 feet 1 inch tall.

Took Warrant for Granted.

Q.—You say you didn't read the warrant? How do you know it was a warrant? A.—I took it for granted.

Q.—How did you know that Stafford was not John Doe? A.—He said he didn't live there.

Q.—How did you know Joseph De King was John Doe? A.—Nelson said he was.

Q.—Are you related to Judge John K. Newhall, Carbary, or any of the others here who are related and hold high offices? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know what differences there were between Judge Newhall and the De Kings? A.—No.

Q.—Did you hear Judge Newhall's speech about the De Kings? A.—No, I didn't attend any of the political meetings.

Q.—You knew Pete De King as a reputable citizen? A.—As far as I knew, yes.

The reference to Judge Newhall's "differences" with the De Kings resulted from testimony given by Pete De King, who said he has lived in Aurora for 33 years, is the father of eight children and is now employed as a special deputy sheriff at the race track.

"Judge Newhall was making a political speech for Carbary last spring," De King testified, "and he called me Dago Alcohol Pete De King and said he would put me and my kind out of business if Carbary was elected. He referred to me also as a gangster and I never was in a gang in my life."

Not Many Votes for Carbary.

"You live in a liberal neighborhood, do you?" De King was asked and when he said he did, Igoe asked: "Did Carbary get many votes there?"

"Did you ask him after your sister-in-law was killed if he was fulfilling one of his campagn pledges?"

"No, I haven't talked to him," said De King.

The hearing is to be resumed next Friday at Aurora.

FINNS, LATVIANS SEEK UNION OF BALTIC STATES

Sweden May Be Invited to Join.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, May 18.—Foreign Minister Balodis has just returned from Helsingfors, where, according to an announcement today, he had an interview with Foreign Minister Procope of Finland in which they discussed plans for the formation of a Baltic union composed of the states bordering on the northern shores of the Baltic sea.

As a result of this exchange of views the Latvian foreign minister expressed hopes for an early realization of the idea of a friendship pact between Finland, Latvia, and Esthonia, with Sweden possibly included.

Finns Welcome Coöperation.

The Finns warmly welcomed speeches made in Helsingfors emphasizing the importance of close coöperation between Finland, Latvia, and Esthonia, according to M. Balodis, who followed up his visit to Finland with a similar conference with Esthonian Foreign Minister Lattik in Reval.

League matters were discussed at both conferences, since the three countries have already pooled their interests at Geneva. The conference between the Latvian and Esthonian ministers also dealt with the coming visit of the Swedish king, who is expected at Riga the end of May, then proceeding to Reval.

Will Cement Relations.

King Gustav's visit is expected to cement the cordial relations among the northern Baltic countries since he visited Finland last year, returning the visit of the Finnish president. The Esthonian president also visited Stockholm and the president of Latvia, Gustav Zemgals, will leave for Sweden to repay that visit May 27.

Soviet diplomats are energetically opposing the movement to unite the northern Baltic governments and are said to be supported by Germany, whose Baltic policies are closely linked with those of Moscow.

LAKE, WHIPPED BY GALE, AGAIN BATTERS SHORE

New Rampage Brings City More Damage Bills.

A stiff north wind, piling up waters in the lower basin of the lake, kicked up another damage bill yesterday as waves lashed the already battered shore from Evanston to South Chicago.

About 1 p. m., a 31 mile wind sprang up. Soon thereafter, Capt. Fred Stebbins of the Jackson park coast guard noted a six inch rise in the lake level, while Capt. A. F. Brown at the South Chicago station reported a rise of one foot. The wind maintained its strength through the afternoon and night, churning up ten foot waves of destructive force.

Fight to Save Sea Wall.

At the Evanston coast guard station Capt. Otto Fricke had scant time for observing water levels. The captain and a crew of five were out with sand bags, rock ballast and crowbars soon after the wind rose, and toiled all afternoon strengthening the sea wall to stem waves which threatened to undermine the concrete roadway skirting the shore from Evanston to Wilmette.

Last night Capt. Fricke and his crew remained on watch, ready to face a repetition of the emergency which arose two months ago, when the boisterous lake threatened to wash away their quarters during a storm.

Whitecaps swept up and over the breakwaters protecting the Chicago harbor and the river mouth. Albert Pyak, a fisherman of 1809 West Erie street, caught on the breakwater off Oak street beach when the gale arose, was rescued by Capt. John A. Anderson and a crew from the central coast guard station.

South Shore Drive Flooded.

South Shore drive from 67th to 69th street was flooded to a depth of two feet. The thoroughfare was finally closed to traffic last night after several cars became stranded while splashing through. The basements of residences on the west side of the drive between 67th and 68th streets were flooded. In one home the water was reported nearly four feet deep.

Waves surged against the walls of apartment buildings along the drive between 72d and 74th streets, tossing spray to third story windows.

Complaints against the swollen lake came yesterday from Menominee, a port in the state of Michigan, which is one of the states fighting the diversion of lake water by the sanitary district on the contention that the lake level is being dangerously lowered by the diversion.

The Menominee Lumber company believes these contentions are twaddle. A. L. Washburn, general manager of the lumber company, said yesterday that a rise of another few inches would cause the abandonment of the plant, which is located on Green bay, which has the same water level as Lake Michigan.

Last week the water came up so that it covered the newly made roads and submerged all the space between the lumber piles. A few more inches will flood the basement of the mill, according to its officials.

Rise in Levels Continues.

Chicago is officially 579.94 feet above sea level and that point is called Chicago datum. The federal government said that the average water level during April was 581.39 feet, or 1.45 feet above city datum. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the lake level at Chicago was 2.9 feet above city datum.

April this year is 1.87 feet higher than April of last year, according to the same government inspectors, and is 1.95 feet above the average stage of the last 10 years.

And the lake is still rising. The daily observations of the sanitary district for this month [to May 16] show that Lake Michigan is now approximately two feet above city datum. It is 4.55 feet above the average for January, 1926. The average for the first 16 days of the month is the highest May level than has been reached since May, 1918, when the level was about the same as it is now. To find a previous May level that exceeds the present stage of the lake, it is necessary to go back to 1888.

Litigation a "Joke."

"The conditions which prevail at our plant," said Mr. Washburn of the Menominee Lumber company," are existing all around the shores of Lake Michigan and are causing heavy loss to all property on the water front.

"The hullabaloo about the water being used by the Chicago drainage canal is a joke to us.

"The low water level in Lake Michigan some time ago was caused by holding the water back at the Soo, where it would otherwise have flowed in; and by deepening the channel of the St. Clair river, where it flows out."

PLOTTERS FAIL IN 2 ATTEMPTS TO KILL SLAV KING

VIENNA, May 18.—Two mysterious explosions which occurred in Jugo-Slavia two weeks ago were actually attempts upon the life of King Alexander, according to a special article appearing in the Freiheit. Vienna newspapers say the facts were suppressed to conceal the tense internal political situation since the establishment of the dictatorship Jan. 6.

The first explosion, which was of 50 pounds of dynamite, occurred near the king's castle at Belje. The government reported that the explosion was due to the carelessness of a worker, but the king himself fled to Belgrade in an automobile. The next explosion occurred on May 10. A bridge which the king supposedly would cross en route from Agram to Brzezovica was blown up. The sovereign then canceled his projected trip to Croatia and went to his summer palace at Veldes instead.

The Freiheit correspondent says Alexander is daily receiving letters threatening his life. Recently when the king attended the funeral of a friend at Cacak he returned by a roundabout route but sent the royal train on the same route it would have followed had he been on board.

The jury of seven was headed by Alvin Polasek, a sculptor. Twenty girls from downstate cities will compete next Saturday night for the title of Miss Illinois at the Galveston pageant.

INSPECTOR LAYS SCHOOL DEFECTS TO ARCHITECT

Coath's Son Supervisor of Twelve Buildings.

Virgil W. Coath, son of J. Lewis Coath, former president of the board of education, yesterday admitted that he was district superintendent in charge of construction and inspection for the school board on the north side during 1925 and 1926 when, it is alleged, careless design, construction, and inspection resulted in the erection of thirty-two schools which have deteriorated rapidly and are now the subject of an investigation.

Two of the schools, which were not in Coath's district, were ordered closed on Thursday by H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, after consulting engineers had warned him that they are unsafe.

Young Coath, now a partner in the contracting concern of Coath & Goss, joined his father and John C. Christiansen, who was school architect at the time, in naming Edgar S. Martin, who was supervising architect, as being responsible for the faulty construction. Mr. Martin had declared that he was removed from authority after he had designed the buildings, and that the blame lay with those who had carried out his plans. During his superintendency, Coath said, twelve of the schools were built or started in his territory.

Order All Schools Examined.

An examination of every school in the city for possible structural defects was ordered yesterday by President Caldwell as an aftermath of his order closing the Peck and Hale elementary schools on the south side.

It was pointed out yesterday by structural engineers who watched the building of the 32 schools that the defects which brought about the closing of two of them are present in all the others. Steel reinforcements and tie rods, intended to bear the tensile strain of supporting walls, floors, and roofs are found to be imbedded in the concrete shell of the buildings in such a way that they are of no value.

While cement used in the construction of the buildings was, in many cases, so poorly mixed that it has fallen from the walls, the real danger in the buildings lies in the improper placement of the steel, one engineer said.

"All the buildings built during those two years had the same faults, in spite of the fact that they were called to the attention of the school board on numerous occasions," he declared. "The Peck and Hale schools are the only two where disintegration has been most rapid, and it is merely a question of time before others will have to be abandoned. It is doubtful whether repairs will suffice to make the buildings habitable. There is no way the steel rods can be removed and properly replaced without tearing down the whole building."

May Tear Down Buildings.

Board of education trucks were engaged yesterday in hauling sand to the two closed schools, where workmen sacked it in preparation for load tests to be conducted next week by engineers employed by L. E. Ritter & Co., the Robert W. Hunt company, and I. F. Stern & Co., the concerns engaged in investigating the buildings. The outcome of these tests will determine the fate of the buildings, Mr. Caldwell said.

A conference yesterday between Mr. Caldwell and State's Attorney John A. Swanson resulted in the assignment of Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller to work with the legal department of the school board to determine whether there are grounds for criminal action in connection with the construction of the schools. Since no work has been done on the buildings during the last eighteen months, it is believed that the statute of limitations may bar prosecutions on conspiracy charges.

FARMER'S BILL FOR ROADS PAID BY CITY COUSIN

Startling Inequalities in Illinois Bared.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—While the rural sections of Illinois are trying to put over a state income tax that will add new burdens to the city man's load of taxation without adding anything to the state bill of the farmer and the small town home owner, an analysis of the distribution of the costs of state government shows that with few exceptions the larger, more populous counties already are paying a great portion the costs required for the wide open spaces.

This is true apparently for all of the costs of the Springfield government whether the item considered be the general corporate tax, the university of Illinois assessment, or the tax for the distributive school fund; but nowhere does it stand out so clearly as in connection with concrete road building, the costs of which, aggregated in the $60,000,000 and $100,000,000 road bond issues, are being paid for by the payments for automobile licenses.

Figures Are Startling.

Exact figures on this subject were almost completely suppressed under the two successive Small administrations for eight years; but a new policy is in force under the Emmerson administration and THE TRIBUNE now is able for the first time to tell not only what each county is contributing toward road building, but what it is receiving in return for its cash.

The result is a disclosure of the inequalities that, even among disproportionate quotas for various forms of direct taxation, is more startling than any one had conceived. Naturally the most outstanding difference between what it contributes and what it receives brings Cook county to the foreground; but there are dozens of other counties, that, according to the figures now made public for the first time, are paying in much more than they receive in return in the form of hard roads.

Political Drag Counts.

Engineers are likely to contend that each county's share of roads is dependent upon the necessities of a state-wide system; but examination of what has happened up to date discloses that a more powerful and frequently deciding factor is political influence. The Springfield representative with a drag with the administration and power among his associates has been able to grab off for his county or counties a larger part of the concrete roads built by the state than his constituents are entitled to on a plain arithmetical ratio based on their contributions to the pot.

As already noted, Cook county gets the skinniest deal of all the 102 counties. Last year it paid in $6,107,675 out of a total of $15,521,531 in motor licenses. On this basis alone that county would have been entitled to something like 3,900 miles of the total mileage of roads to be built, 9,880. But as a matter of fact it is to have under the combined bond issues of $160,000,000 only 420.30 miles. In other words, it will receive about one-tenth of the roads that it pays for. And Henderson county, for example, lying along the Mississippi below Rock Island, gets about six times what it pays for. Thus it may be said that the Henderson autoist receives about 60 times what the Chicago car owner is given for his contribution toward road building in the form of his license tax.

Gas Tax Works Same Way.

But another remarkable discovery is made by this survey. That is that the state's share of the new 3 cent gasoline tax will run neck and neck with each county's payment of automobile licenses. In other words, each county will contribute toward the state cost of roads through the gas tax in the same ratio that it contributes by the automobile license route. The state gets 2 cents out of the 3 cents per gallon tax and that apparently will duplicate the receipts from the auto licenses.

That is the conclusion drawn from the experience of five months under the 1927 gasoline tax which was killed by the courts. Heretofore, nobody apparently has extended that five months' trial to a twelve months' basis; but such an extension shows that the average motorist will pay in gasoline tax just about one and a half times his state license tag cost and of that 2 cents, or two-thirds, will go to the state.

Kane County's Case.

With that as a starting point, a bit of arithmetic shows that while Kane county's share of the total of 9,880 miles of road should be about 200 miles it will see the construction of only 133.64 miles of concrete within its borders. On the same basis, Peoria county is entitled to 200 miles, but it will have, when the $160,000,000 program is finished, only 154.16 miles.

Carrying out this sort of analysis discloses that Ford county, with a total area of 500 square miles and a population of 16,466, according to the last census, will have 116.27 miles of hard road built within its borders, but that its proportion of payment into the motor vehicle fund would entitle it to about 30 miles.

There are easily explainable inequalities of this sort. Nobody needs to look for the answer to the fact that Kankakee county, the home county of one Len Small, has its allotment of roads just about complete—155.98 miles—while it contributes to the retirement of the $160,000,000 combined bond issues on a basis that would entitle it to only 75 miles of concrete.

Examples Are Numerous.

Iroquois county, in the same congressional district, is to get 182.68 miles, and its share of the auto fee fund will pay for only 65 miles; but Senator Richard R. Meents of that county was the chairman of the senatorial committee on appropriations and Small's mouthpiece in the last session. 'Nuff sed.

But probably one of the best illustrations of all is Will county, county seat, Joliet; county representative, Senator Richard J. Barr. It chipped in during 1928 only $268,452 in auto license fees, but there had been expended in that county up to Jan. 1, 1929, a total of $5,413,140. It is suspected that a number of fancy bridges must have contributed to the total.

Other contrasts between the amounts contributed by the various counties and the return in the form of hard roads are provided by a tabulation published in adjoining columns.

Figures Show How Counties Fare in Illinois Road Building Program

Springfield, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—The following table gives the first bird's-eye view ever given the public of how the 102 counties in Illinois fare in the building of roads under the $60,000,000 and $100,000,000 bond issues.

Those bond issues are to be retired by the receipts from automobile license fees, and the first main column lists the counties in the order in which they pay license fees. The second main column shows the amount of money spent in each county by the state up to Jan. 1, 1929. The third main column gives the total mileage each county is to receive from the expenditure of the two bond issues, 6,202 miles having been built up to the first of this year out of the total of 9,880 scheduled under the two bond issues:

LACK OF FUNDS HALTS COUNTY'S ROAD BUILDING

Contractors Abandoning Important Projects.

September. The work in progress consists of building a concrete covering for a longitudinal drainage ditch for several miles, over which the 40 foot concrete slab is to be laid, making a double width thoroughfare all the way to Chicago Heights. With a full working season it was expected that the improvement would be completed late in the summer or in early fall. Now it looks likely that the highway will be out of commission for another year.

"We cannot pay the contractors," Mr. O'Connor said, "because we have no money and apparently no way to get any. It appears that the reassessment proceedings will go on until fall, and until they are completed there will be no tax bills and consequently no tax money. The county is in a tight fix.

Canal Projects Abandoned.

Besides Cook county's roadbuilding paralysis, the satnitary district's financial fiasco, which has resulted in work being stopped on practically all bridge work over the sanitary canals, is another factor which will disappoint motorists. In the sanitary district's program automobile operators may resign themselves to the fact that no bridges will be available this summer at the following locations:

Harlem avenue, over the canal.
Church street at McCormick boulevard.
Touhy avenue at McCormick boulevard.
Dempster street at McCormick boulevard.

In the county's system, bridge work is being delayed on Lawrence avenue and on Irving Park boulevard.

"The bridge contractors have been hit harder than the others," Maj. George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways, said. "Contractors working on county bridges have not received any payments since last December and are hard pressed for pay roll and material funds."

KILLS HUSBAND IN HAND TO HAND FIGHT IN HOME

Grand Haven, Mich., May 18.—[Special.]—Wilma Vanslooten, 39, shot and killed her husband, Louis Vanslooten, 45, in a quarrel at their farm home in Blend township, Ottawa county, last night. She is in a padded cell here because she has threatened to kill herself.

Mrs. Vanslooten angered her husband because she and her daughter, 10, his stepchild, had taken the auto and driven to Holland to visit relatives. Vanslooten had sought to prevent her using the car by hiding a part of the machine, but she found it and drove away.

When Mrs. Vanslooten returned, he at first refused to admit her to the house, but later opened the door, and the fight followed. She is 6 feet tall and weighs 185 pounds

In the hand to hand fight an old model revolver dropped from Vanslooten's pocket. The daughter picked it up and threw it to her mother, who confessed to Sheriff Stekette that she shot her husband as he was charging upon her. The bullet pierced his heart and he died in a few minutes. An inquest will be held Monday.

NATCO VITRITILE

The last word in permanent attractiveness
.... the ultimate in economy for walls in Hospitals .. Auto
Show Rooms . Schools
Laboratories .. Restaurants and Basements ....

When the wall is up—it is finished, and beautifully finished, if it's built of Natco Vitritile. Each unit laid forms a section of a load-bearing, vermin-proof, insulated, finished-face wall. The smooth glazed surface needs no paint, needs no plaster, needs no adornment of any kind. And it is permanently free from such maintenance, for the beautiful glass-like glaze will last as long as the building.

Furnished in pleasing blends of harmonious and subdued colors which range from a light to an orange buff, with rich brown contrasting trim, Natco Vitritile adds immensely to the attractiveness of any structure in which it is used. It is easily cleaned and kept clean, is permanently sanitary and pleasing.

An innovation only a little over a year ago, Natco Vitritile is an established favorite today. Its numerous outstanding advantages have led to its general adoption for walls in corridors, basements, hospitals, gymnasiums, auto show rooms and garages, laundries, laboratories, natatoriums, restaurants, dairies, and a wide variety of other applications. Units for forming corners, copings, wainscot, and so on are available, affording great latitude in use and treatment.

Natco Vitritile is a structural unit, suitable for either interior or exterior load-bearing walls and partitions, and is also furnished "kerfed" or split, for furring. It is shipped protected by corrugated wrappers; its arrival in first-class condition is thus assured.

If you are thinking of building, think of Natco Vitritile. Somewhere, in every structure, it has a place. It will bring new beauty, assure welcome and continuous economy, be a permanent mark of the taste and judgment of the owner.

GUARDING THE HOME.

This is an era when more and more women are sharing the responsibility of public and semi-public interests. This is but natural, for it is now recognized that the interests of the American home and of American government are closely allied.

Yet the far-seeing women allow no portion of their homes to recede in appearance because of these new demands on their time. New articles of furniture replace those which grow shabby; new linens and decorations help to keep the atmosphere of cheery, attractive home life intact.

For these women realize that when the home deteriorates the family interest in its likewise deteriorates. And such a loss to the cherished goal of pre-wedded life should not be tolerated.

BELGIUM'S ROYAL BAND TO PARADE IN CHICAGO TODAY

Swing Down Boul Mich to Precede Concerts.

Eighty of King Albert of Belgium's Royal Guards, who might be mistaken for American doughboys were it not for the crimson of their collars against their khaki uniforms, and their high peaked caps, will swing down Michigan avenue this afternoon in a parade preliminary to their concert at the Auditorium theater. They will give a second concert tonight, both to be for the benefit of Henrotin Policlinic hospital.

When the four score Belgians comprising the Royal Symphonic band arrived in the La Salle street station last night, they were greeted by Dr. Cyrille Vermeren, Belgian consul; E. Rosier, vice consul; Capt. A. J. Van Thielen, chancellor of the Belgian consulate and delegate of the commander of the Sixth Corps area; Attorney Felix Stryckman, Col. William Nelson Pelouze, Bernard Labergue, their manager, and others.

On a Good Will Tour.

The band, which is on a good will tour of this country, was quartered last night at the Atlantic hotel. This morning the men will be taken to St. John Berchman's church, 2517 Logan boulevard, for high mass at 10:30 o'clock.

This afternoon a military escort, headed by Gov. Emmerson, is expected to join them at the Atlantic hotel shortly after 1:30 o'clock, together with groups of Chicago Belgians, organized by Dr. Vermeren. The parade will start north on Clark street to Randolph, turn east to Michigan avenue, and continue down the boulevard to Congress street, turning there, west to the Auditorium, where the afternoon concert is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

Count to Represent Belgium.

Count Emile de Streel, first secretary of the Belgian embassy at Washington, will represent his country at the concerts in the absence from the United States of the Belgian ambassador. Count de Streel is the house guest of Chauncey McCormick, who will entertain with a dinner for him before the evening concert. Mrs. Joseph B. Long, chairman of arrangements, will also give a buffet luncheon at the Casino club at noon for the count.

N. U. GRID COACH IS ARRESTED BY FORMER PLAYER

H. F. Steger, 966 Oakton street, Evanston, back field coach of the Northwestern university football team, was arrested yesterday on a speeding charge by a former aspirant for gridiron honors, now Motorcycle Policeman Frank Kreml of Evanston. Coach Steger was stopped on Ridge avenue while doing 34 miles an hour in a car with Miss Mildred Lambros, 7720 Sheridan road, according to the policeman.

As Kreml placed his foot on the running board of Steger's car to deliver the usual lecture, he recognized the coach.

"Well, well," he said in amazement. "I didn't know it was you, coach. I'm sorry."

"O, that's all right. You did your duty," Steger told him.

Both Steger and Miss Lambros were taken before Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison. Steger pleaded for a week's continuance and Miss Lambros was given a light fine when Policeman Kreml asked leniency.

ARREST 4 MEN IN DRY RAIDS ON 3 ROADHOUSES

Prohibition agents under Assistant Administrator George H. Hurlburt raided three roadhouses in the northern part of Cook county yesterday, seized four men and destroyed a quantity of liquor.

In the village of Niles, the raiders visited two places, the House of Niles on Milwaukee avenue, and the Niles White House, Milwaukee and Touhy avenues. In the first place they arrested Martin Feht and Leon Klimek and found eleven barrels of beer and a quantity of bottled moonshine. Government trucks were backed up and the bar and fixtures, including two electric pianos were taken to the government warehouse in Chicago.

At the Niles White House, the agents found fourteen barrels of beer and some whisky. George Oswald was taken into custody and the bar there was moved out. At the Leyden Tavern, River road and Higgins street, Leyden township, Eddie Grabowski was seized when several bottles of moonshine was found.

PAUL WHITEMAN CONCERT TO RAISE FUNDS FOR VETS

Disabled or incapacitated world war veterans and their families will be the beneficiaries of a concert featuring Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, which will be given in the Auditorium on May 28, it was announced last night by Advertising Men's Post No. 38 of the American Legion.

Proceeds of the concert will be used to supplement the regular veterans' aid fund taken from the dues paid by the members of the post. It is planned to make a benefit of this kind an annual event.

"Our chief object is to rehabilitate the veteran and his family," said Howard Dygert, general chairman of the committee in charge of the benefit.

"If he is ill we see that he is placed in a government hospital and that provision is made for his family while he is recovering. We have a warehouse for clothing and furniture and the services of a truck to collect articles, all without any overhead expense, as the work is contributed by members of the post."

Chicago Boy Tries to Board Train; Is Killed

Thomas Yurglas, 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yurglas, 1703 Newberry avenue, died on the operating table at the Moline City hospital yesterday morning when surgeons were amputating his legs after they had been crushed by a Peoria bound freight train which he had tried to board a few hours earlier. He was found lying along the tracks by a switchman a short time after the accident.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—A demonstration staged by adults and actively participated in by junior members of the Communistic Workers' Party in Union Square during the parade of 5,000 police this afternoon resulted in the arrest of Benjamin Lifshitz, district organizer of the Workers Party, and sixteen boys and girls on charges of disorderly conduct.

Because of the lack of police reserves on account of the parade the situation on the east side of Union Square was precarious for a time, with scores of shouting communists threatening the few policemen. Reserves finally dispersed the crowd.

BARE REDS' SWAY OVER WAUKEGAN SCHOOL CHILDREN

Girl Communist, 18, Tells Class War Creed.

Some young bolshevik noses were bruised a few nights ago by the fists of members of the Waukegan High school R. O. T. C. To the police it was nothing more than a street fight among boys. But investigation yesterday disclosed that the incident was an outgrowth of a social condition in the north shore city.

The investigation showed that communist propaganda from Russia is making a bit of headway among the school children of this typical American city. Girls of 16 and 18 and boys of 14 and 20 were found to be proselytes. They are tutored by older heads from the Chicago and the Milwaukee district headquarters of the Young Communist League of America.

On the other side it was found that Waukegan school authorities and the Reserve Officers Training corps are making a vigorous fight against the Reds.

Noses Bruised by Cadets.

The curbstone fisticuffs were symbolic of the deeper struggle, it was disclosed. Four boys and a girl were distributing handbills denouncing capitalism, militarism, and imperialism. Some high school cadets, advocates of preparedness, resented the literature. It was the pacifists who received the bruised noses and cut lips.

The girl, who escaped punishment for her propaganda work, was visited yesterday in her Waukegan home. She is Miss Gertrude Granholm, 18 years old, a senior at the high school. Her sister, Paula, 16 years old, and her father, Otto Granholm, also were at home.

The father is a native of Finland, bordering the soviet land that he admires so much. He came to America several years ago to enjoy the higher living standards this country affords. His comfortable home reflected a moderate prosperity.

Girl Reluctant to Talk.

"We can't talk to you about our cause," said Gertrude, "because you represent the capitalism we are fighting."

"Maybe I'll join your fight if you explain it to me," the reporter suggested to encourage conversation. "I'm for higher wages, particularly for myself."

"But we're for higher wages for everybody," she retorted.

"Can we get higher wages by overthrowing the government?" he was asked.

"We can't accomplish anything without violence," answered the high school girl. "That's why we're opposed to the army and navy. They are the weapons of the rich."

"How long have you thought this way?"

"As long as I have been able to think for myself I have been class conscious."

Father Nods Agreement.

The father nodded. He is a mechanic in one of the Waukegan shops. He was at home enjoying his half holiday on Saturday afternoon. He was neatly dressed in a business suit that would mark him in his native land as a member of the upper class that he despises.

"Do you also belong to the communists?" the smaller girl was asked.

"Sure," she answered and smiled. She is a junior in the high school.

"Aren't you pretty young to belong to the group?"

"Oh, no. There are many others my age."

"How old do you have to be to join?"

"You can become a member regardless of age, as long as you are old enough to understand the class war."

"How many members are there in Waukegan?" This question was directed at Gertrude.

"About 35 are paying dues regularly but there are many more sympathizers," she answered. "Sometimes 200 attend our discussions."

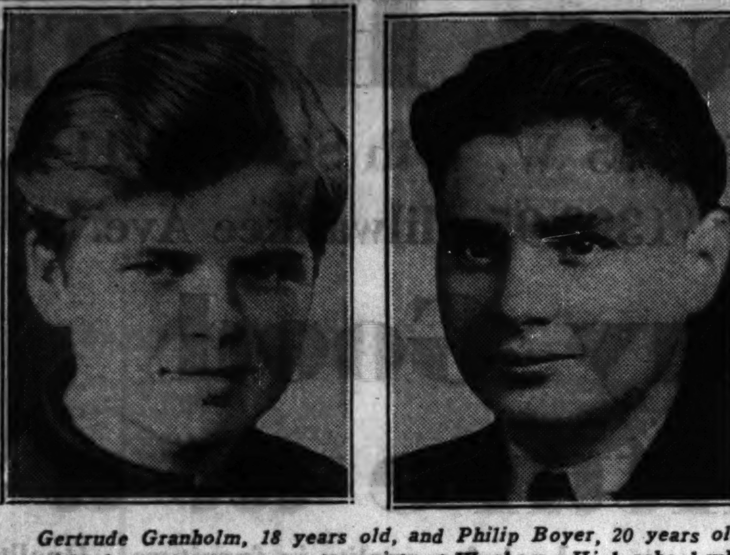
"Where's the national headquarters?"

"It's an international organization. You know where the headquarters is."

14 Year Old Boy Sought.

Edward Dombrowski, 14 year old grammar school student, was next sought out. He walked seven miles to his home after being carried into the country, threatened and lectured by high school cadets on Wednesday night.

LEAD YOUNG WAUKEGAN REDS



Gertrude Granholm, 18 years old, and Philip Boyer, 20 years old, two of leaders among young communists at Waukegan High school who are meeting with opposition from R. O. T. C.

A husky lad lifting a sack of potatoes into a delivery truck in front of a grocery was pointed out as the Dombrowski boy.

"Are you working for this capitalistic grocer?" he was asked.

"I thought all good communists would be at leisure on Saturday afternoon."

"Hell, I'm no Red," he replied. "You must be thinking of my brother, Eddie. I'm Walter Dombrowski. I belong to the R. O. T. C. and believe in everything it stands for. I'm saving my money to be a capitalist myself when I grow up. Eddie's a communist. I don't know where he gets those funny ideas."

At the Dombrowski home no one was found but the father, Charles Dombrowski. He is a skilled laborer.

"My boys have got opposite ideas," he said. "I let each of them think what he wants to. It doesn't make any difference to me.

A Caddy at Old Elm.

"How did Eddie become a Red? Maybe it's because lots of his nice boy and girl friends belong to the communists. You'll find him caddying at the Old Elm Country club."

At the country club caddy house it was said that Eddie had left for home.

Philip Boyer, 20 years old, was described as another leader in the youthful communistic movement. At his home, a comfortable cottage, there was no response to the door bell.

Boyer was graduated from the Waukegan high school a year ago. His credits were forwarded to Lake Forest college. He moved to Waukegan from Chicago where he attended the John Marshall High school. He was one of those chastised by the R. O. T. C.

Clarence E. Prichard, assistant principal, was found in the group of modern buildings that form the Waukegan township high school. This is the only high school in the state, he said, where military training is a requirement for graduation. The community, he added, is also recognized by the United States intelligence service as a hotbed of radicalism.

"We are teaching social science, history, political economy, psychology, and military training in our war against the communist propaganda," Mr. Prichard said. "We are making patriots of the great majority of the students. But there are a few who are being guided entirely by outside influences.

"Some of your Chicago pacifists, like Clarence Darrow and Jane Addams, are partly responsible for sending pink speakers to our women's clubs. But the biggest danger is from the professional propagandists, the bolshevik agents in Chicago and Waukegan."

Trace Headquarters to Reds.

The pamphlets distributed by the Red students the other night bore the address, Young Communist League of America, subdistrict of Wisconsin, 551 National avenue, Milwaukee. Hanging from Gertrude Granholm's mail box was a letter with the return address, Young Communist League of America, 2021 West Division street, Chicago.

"Other propaganda," Mr. Prichard continued, "is coming here from Kenosha, Wis., where there is a knitters' strike. The military corps is our most effective agency in teaching patriotism."

Capt. P. J. Lloyd, a regular army officer who has been assigned to the Waukegan R. O. T. C. for the last five years, was interviewed.

"I remember Boyer," he said. "I have warned him several times to stay away from the high school.

"Military training is a strong weapon against radicalism. Some of the boys start with indifference, but before many months they feel the spirit of the thing."

REVEAL STATE'S HANDS TIED IN WAR ON QUACKS

Injunctions Used to Evade Medical Board Orders.

Revelation that the medical board of the state department of registration and education lacks power to enforce its orders under the existing laws came yesterday when a bill for an injunction challenging the board's authority was filed in the Superior court. The restraining order is sought by Attorney Ray E. Lane on behalf of three chiropractors who were denied licenses by the board.

If granted the injunction would have the effect of allowing the three to practice without licenses and make the authorities powerless to stop them, it was said. Other similar injunctions have been granted by the courts.

Bill Proposes a Remedy.

As the dilemma of the medical board and the authorities supervising the medical profession in Illinois became known Dr. M. L. Harris, a member of the board and president of the American Medical association, disclosed that there is a bill before the legislature to remedy the situation. Dr. Harris said he has conferred with Gov. Emmerson concerning the bill.

"Under present conditions," Dr. Harris said, "the injunction is a powerful and effective weapon in the hands of the quacks. Our prosecution of several notorious charlatans has been paralyzed by such injunctions. In one case an injunction was upheld in the Illinois Supreme court.

Says Law Defeats Itself.

"The present law states that no member of the medical board may belong to or be affiliated in any way with any medical institution. This means the members must not even have any connections with a hospital and what reputable physician does not find it imperative to be connected with some hospital? The language of the law has defeated the law's purpose. It is to right the law that the governor has promised to urge passage of the pending bill by this session of the legislature."

Michael F. Walsh, director of the department of registration; John W. Follmer, chief inspector; and the medical board, consisting of Dr. Harris, Dr. Gilbert Fitzpatrick, and Dr. Arthur Geiger of Chicago; Dr. W. H. Gilmore of Benton and Dr. John R. Neal of Springfield, are defendants in the present suit. The plaintiffs, who claim the department will interfere with their practice—having refused them a license—are Marie Tuma, T. J. Jacobs, and A. M. Gelbraith, all graduates of schools of chiropractics.

Lawyer's Basis for Suit.

Attorney Lane bases his action on claims that Dr. Harris is associated with the Chicago Policlinic hospital, and that Dr. Fitzpatrick and Dr. Geiger are connected with the Policlinic and the Henrotin hospitals.

With Old Doc Franklin O. Carter convicted of practicing medicine without a license on Friday night, and facing a sentence of a year in jail or a $500 fine or both, the quack investigator this morning reports concerning his visit to the Chicago Health institute run by Old Doc S. D. Francis and Old Doc R. C. McCarthy.

A PAIR OF OLD DOCS

Old Docs Francis and McCarthy got out of that notorious quackery, the House of Health, at 164 West Washington street just ahead of the police two years ago, but they soon established a new "sucker" mill. They are now doing business under the name "The Chicago Health Institute," on the third floor at 36 West Randolph street.

There are two reception rooms, a sort of reception room within a reception room. It gives them a chance to look you over carefully before taking you on as a patient.

Old Doc Francis was not in evidence when I walked into the outer reception room, but Old Doc McCarthy stepped out of the inner sanctum immediately.

Introducing Old Doc McCarthy.

"How do you do?" said Old Doc McCarthy. He spoke pleasantly, but he was regarding me sharply. McCarthy is a stocky man, prematurely gray, muscular. He wears glasses.

"I want to see a doctor," I said. "Are you the doctor?"

The suspicion seemed to fade from his keen eyes.

"What's the matter, young man?" he asked. "Have you met with a little bad luck or something?"

He said it gravely. Yet I got the impression he was amused.

I said, "Well, I'll tell you, Doc, I don't know if there's anything wrong or not. It's just that I don't——"

He interrupted me. "Wait a minute!" he said. "Have you got any money?"

"I've $3 in my pocket, doctor."

"Three dollars! Why, boy, you can't get to first base in this place for $3! I can tell you right now before I give you an examination that it will probably cost you a hundred. From the looks of you the symptoms are grave. Before we go any farther, just tell me how much money you think you can raise."

There were half a dozen young men and two girls sitting there. Old Doc McCarthy led me into what appeared to be his private office.

"How much will it all cost, doctor?"

"O, the examination I'll charge you only $5 for. Then there's medicine and there probably will be some electric treatments. I'll make the whole business $50. That's fair, isn't it?"

I said I thought it was. "But I've only got $3 today," I added.

"Just leave the $3," he said. "Bring in $5 or $10 or whatever you can when you come back tomorrow. Let us have the whole amount as soon as possible and we'll guarantee to cure you."

Old Doc McCarthy never told what it was he was going to cure me of.

HOUSE TO MAKE CONCESSIONS TO KILL DEBENTURES

Sees Need to Compromise to Get Farm Aid.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Controversies over several sections of the farm relief bill besides the debenture provision threaten to delay an agreement between senate and house conferees. President Hoover is likely to have to sacrifice his preference on a number of points in order to insure elimination of the export debenture provision of the senate bill.

When the first conference is held on Monday the house members will be prepared to insist upon approval of the entire house bill, which is regarded as in complete accord with President Hoover's recommendations. It is believed, however, that they will be forced to make a number of concessions.

Prefer Senate Measure.

The farm organizations, although not entirely satisfied with either measure, regard the senate bill, even without the debenture provision, as preferable to the house bill.

Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, said today that while his organization is not responsible for either measure, it believes that only in its declaration of policy is the house bill superior. The declaration, he said, is somewhat broader than in the senate bill, giving more leeway to the farm board in solving the problem of controlling crop surpluses.

Senate provisions which Mr. Gray indicated are better include those for twelve appointive members of the farm board instead of six and fixing a $12,000 salary for all members instead of permitting the President to decide the salary of the chairman of the board.

Ready to Compromise.

It is likely the house conferees will accept the senate provisions regarding the number of members of the board and salaries of members, although President Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde prefer a smaller board. The agricultural organizations believe that a larger board, giving representation to each of the twelve federal land bank districts, is preferable.

They object to giving any one member of the board special prominence and fear that if the President were allowed to offer a large salary to the chairman it would be with a view to obtaining the services of some one more closely identified with the world of business and finance than with agriculture.

How Fund Is Allotted.

In the senate bill not more than 375 million dollars of the 500 million dollar fund may be used for loans for handling crop surpluses. Of the remainder, 50 million dollars may be used for loans for the purchase or construction of marketing facilities, $25,000,000 for loans to coöperatives to enable them to make advances to members of a greater share of the market price of a commodity than is practicable under other credit facilities, $25,000,000 for insurance, and $25,000,000 for subscriptions to capital stock of stabilization corporations.

Mr. Gray said that it is the view of the farm bureau federation that restrictions of this character were desirable in order that the board might not use all its funds for a single purpose.

The language of the section dealing with stabilization corporations in the senate bill also is better than in the house measure, according to Mr. Gray. The latter provides that if a loss is incurred one season in the marketing of a commodity it shall be repaid from profits of a subsequent season. While the senate measure also seeks to guard against losses, the government would be more certain to bear the losses, in Mr. Gray's opinion, without assurance of subsequent reimbursement.

Conflicts with Hoover Policy.

The National Farmers' union is credited with having obtained the incorporation in the senate measure of a provision authorizing stabilization corporations to act as "A federal instrumentality." This provision will be vigorously opposed by the house conferees who contend that it is in conflict with a Hoover policy against putting the government into business.

The third of the principal farm organizations, the National grange, is responsible for the debenture provision of the senate measure. The combination of the three groups in favor of various features of the senate measure promises trouble for the administration leaders who are anxious to retain the house bill without material change.

One other feature of the senate bill which may be approved relates to interest rates on loans. It is provided that the interest rate shall correspond to the lowest rate on outstanding government obligations and shall not exceed 4 per cent, while the house bill authorizes the farm board to fix the rate.

The Republican members of the house ways and means committee concluded hearings in executive session on changes in the tariff bill favored by members of the house. The committee members will meet on Monday to take action on the numerous requests.

Representative L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], who has been leading the fight for further increases in duties on agricultural commodities, expressed the opinion that chances are favorable for a number of boosts by the ways and means committee.

Representative John Garner [Dem., Tex.], minority leader, announced that if amendments to the sugar schedule of the tariff bill are permitted to be offered on the floor of the house he will present a proposal for a sliding scale of duties. Duties would be increased as prices of sugar at New York decreased.

The purpose, Mr. Garner said, would be to hold prices to the American people to a point not exceeding 5 to 5½ cents per pound.

EIGHT STRIKING TEXTILE WORKERS HELD FOR TRIAL

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 18.—(AP)—Eight striking union textile workers tonight were free on bond pending grand jury action, while others who faced preliminary hearing before two magistrates on charges of conspiracy to commit murder were released.

Announcement that the eight, members of a group arrested Thursday after a clash with nonunion workers returning to the American Bemberg and American Glanzstoff mills, would be held to the grand jury, was made today. Taking of testimony in cases involving 100 or more workers, was completed yesterday.

The state charged the eight held were ring leaders in a disturbance on a road at Valley Forge.

Many of the warrants were made out against "John Doe" or "Mary Doe." One warrant named a "redheaded boy," another just "a boy," while many were served on "one hundred per centers" and "whoopee."

Adjutant General W. C. Boyd, directing the National Guard, today waived a preliminary hearing on charges to "aiding and abetting an attempt to commit murder," preferred by Evelyn Heaton yesterday. He was held to the grand jury under bond. The girl charged he ordered a bus driver to charge a group of pickets who were blocking the road and that she was injured.

Dr. Arthur Mothwurf, president of the two big plants that were closed early in April when the more than 5,000 operatives employed walked out on strike, announced he "might" appear before the senate manufacturer's committee in Washington Monday.

2 NATIONS PLAN VAST CANADIAN BOUNDARY PARK

Save Ten Million Acres of North Wilderness.

BY BOB BECKER.

An area of lakes and forests, four times as large as Yellowstone National park, in the heart of the continent along the border of Minnesota and the province of Ontario, will be dedicated as an international park if the conservationists and outdoor lovers of Canada and the United States have their way. It is proposed to set aside by treaty for conservation and recreation some ten million acres of forest lands containing more than 3,000 lakes, the last great wilderness area near the central states.

Part of the proposed park area will consist of the Quetico Provincial park on the Canadian side and the Superior national forest on the American side of the Minnesota boundary.

Council Pushes Project.

An organization known as the Quetico-Superior council, associated with the Izaak Walton league and backed by many conservation and sportsmen's organizations in Canada and the United States, has been working to reserve the Quetico-Superior district with its untouched forests, lakelands, rapids, waterfalls, and canoe routes.

The council seeks to preserve the thousands of rockbound lakes with their original flora and fauna, their Indian tribes and historic canoe highways as a wilderness sanctuary for man and beast.

140 Advisors Chosen.

The council has obtained the services of a board of 140 members representing every aspect of this great international project. Among the advisors are Robert Sterling Yard, former Gov. Chase S. Osborn of Michigan, Hamlin Garland, Edmund Heller, Col. W. B. Greely, Irvin S. Cobb, Prof. Henry C. Cowles, and William Beebe.

The attention of congress in Washington has been drawn to this Superior-Quetico region for some time. Last summer two committees representing the house and senate visited portions of the boundary area which the council wishes to include in the international park.

FOUND DEAD OF GAS IN ROOM.

FATHER CAUSES ARREST OF SON FOR OLD KILLING

Informs Police When Refused Money by Youth.

Police yesterday were holding for investigation James O'Callaghan Jr., 23 years old, 4542 West End avenue, upon information given them by his father that he had shot and killed David Phillips, 27 years old, in Phillips' apartment at 457 North Harding avenue on March 23, 1925.

O'Callaghan Sr. told police that after the shooting his son went to California and that he had sent him money from time to time. When young O'Callaghan came back and started to work as a taxicab driver he refused to repay the money, the father said, so he decided to tell the police about him.

O'Callaghan was arrested in his apartment early yesterday. His wife was with him. Sergt. Ernest Sloey of a detective bureau squad said the son told him his father had tried to "shake him down" for money to buy liquor and that, when he refused, his father turned "stool pigeon."

The shooting occurred when O'Callaghan and some friends "crashed" a party in Phillips' flat and the slain man resisted the intrusion.

Meanwhile a search was being made last night for Emmett O'Keefe, 2929 Leamington avenue; Joseph Duffy, 1728 North Mansfield avenue; and Thomas McElliott, 734 South Kenneth avenue, who were arrested and indicted for the murder four years ago. They accused O'Callaghan at the time and were discharged when the state nolle prossed their cases. O'Callaghan was also indicted.

DUTCH PROTEST BILL TO IMPROVE THE ZUYDERZEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, May 18.—The Zuyderzee, popular with American tourists because of such picturesque fishing villages at Marken and Volendam, is not so popular with the Dutch right now because of the heavy financial burden of drainage operations now under way, which are seriously exceeding the estimates.

Parliament sharply criticized the minister of dykes and waterways, who has declared the work is costing $7,200,000 annually above the estimate.

The land area of Holland will be increased by 552,504 acres by complete reclamation of the Zuyderzee. The whole scheme will take a quarter of a century. The cost, originally estimated at $181,600,000, is now put at about $360,000,000.

ARREST PEDDLER WHO SOLD BOOZE TO AUTO KILLERS

Charged as Accessory in Boys' Deaths.

A street bootlegger, who had peddled gin to two men who later killed two school boys while riding in a stolen automobile on Friday night, was held to the grand jury on a charge of being accessory to manslaughter yesterday by a coroner's jury under Coroner Herman N. Bundesen. The drunken driver was held for manslaughter and his companion as an accessory.

The bootlegger was arrested by Policemen Thomas O'Donnell, Edward Mulhern, Edward Barry, and John Sullivan, of the Hyde Park station, who found him plying his trade on Lake Park avenue, between 54th and 55th streets. The arrest was made two hours after his patrons had driven the car into a group of four schoolboys at play in front of St. Thomas the Apostle church at 55th street and Kimbark avenue, killing two and seriously injuring two others.

Find Gin in Pockets.

He gave his name as "Slim" Nelson and refused to give an address. Police found two pints of gin in the pockets of his topcoat. He was brought to the inquest at the Billings hospital, where he was identified by William Sweeney, driver of the stolen car, a shoemaker of New Hampshire, who is visiting Chicago and living at 444 South State street, and his cousin, Frank O'Dee, 26 years old, 8522 Rhodes avenue.

"We had just come from a walk in the park when this fellow [pointing out Nelson], stopped us and asked whether we would like something to drink," Sweeney told Coroner Bundesen. "We gave him a couple of dollars for a pint and drank it. Then I don't remember anything. I don't remember stealing the car or hitting the boys. I remember that we were riding, but that is all."

O'Dee told a similar story and was equally positive in his identification of Nelson. Both appeared to be suffering from the effects of the liquor.

Nelson was subjected to a severe cross-examination on the part of Coroner Bundesen, who branded him as a peddler of poison. Nelson denied selling the gin.

"You and your poison are to blame for this tragedy," the coroner said. "You sold these men the poison that stole away their senses and left them loose on the community, to bring death in their wake. You were the evil genius behind the scenes, and are a contemptible menace to society. I have no words to express my scorn of you and your traffic."

The dead boys are Jerome Boyd, 13 years old, 5519 Kenwood avenue, pupil of the St. Thomas school, and Robert Hemmel, 12 years old, pupil at the Ray school, 56th street and Kimbark avenue. The injured are Leroy Rosseau, 14 years old, 1413 East 55th street, who was dragged fifty feet by the speeding automobile and is not expected to live, and Harold O'Grady, 13 years old, 5503 Kenwood avenue. Both are students at the St. Thomas school.

Sweeney and O'Dee were captured when they crashed into two other autos at 68th street and Dorchester avenue as they fled after the accident. Police learned that the car had been stolen from George Hunt, 8011 Vernon avenue.

Arthur Hampel, 35 years old, 16320 Vernon avenue. Died of injuries received when his automobile collided with another driven by Charles H. Graves, 3925 Lowell avenue, on the Northwest highway Friday night.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Roy Williams, 23 year old desperado, escaped convict and fugitive from justice in half a dozen states, was arrested in a raid on a west side apartment early today. He confessed shooting Patrolman Peter J. Burns during a hold up May 9, and boasted that in the last few months he had robbed fourteen gambling houses and speakeasies.

DR KEGEL HOME FROM INQUIRY IN CLINIC DISASTER

Dr. A. H. Kegel, health commissioner, with Dr. William D. McNally, former coroner's chemist and authority on gas poisoning, returned yesterday from a visit to the scene of the Cleveland Clinic catastrophe bearing a sample of the blood of one victim for analysis. Dr. Kegel will begin experimenting by burning films.

"We have come to the conclusion that the greatest number of deaths were caused by nitric oxide and carbon monoxide," he announced yesterday. "The deaths occurring after apparent recovery are caused by nitric oxide gas, which produced waterlogging of lung cells."

Dr. Kekel reported that of the great amount of films in the storage room only one-half of them had exploded and burned.

"The storeroom itself had been converted from an old coal bin," he stated. "There was an oil furnace near by, and steam pipes directly over the storage. The room is connected to a passageway from which sixteen shafts go the full length of the building."

STUDEBAKER
world's largest builder of Eights offers championship performance at One-Profit prices in The Commander Eight
$1495 at the factory

Commander Eight Convertible Cabriolet, $1645. Commander Six Convertible Cabriolet, $1495. Six wire wheels and trunk rack standard equipment. Commander Eight Coupe, $1495. Commander Six Coupe, $1350. Prices at factory. Bumpers and spare tires extra.

TODAY'S Commander Straight Eight has swept to a popularity which eclipses even that of its illustrious predecessor, the gallant Commander which electrified all motordom by speeding 25,000 miles in 22,968 minutes.

Studebaker, Builder of Champions, holder of every official speed and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars, now sells more 8-cylinder cars than any other manufacturer on earth.

The first Studebaker straight eight was introduced at last year's motor shows. Its champion performance started the nation's swing to Studebaker. Smart, youthful style added still greater impetus. But it is value—Studebaker's famous One-Profit value—which is the real reason for Studebaker supremacy.

The Commander Eight blends flashing style and supple, eager power with comfort unknown until Studebaker introduced ball bearing spring suspension. Hydraulic shock absorbers further enhance its matchless travel ease. Double-drop frame, lower, costlier, but steadier and safer, permit low-swung and swifter appearance. Easier, more powerful brakes; safe, steel-core steering wheel; non-shattering windshield—these evidences of Commander quality make its One-Profit price quite as remarkable as its performance.

And Commander performance is something you can never forget, once you enjoy it for an hour. May we place a Commander at your disposal?

LETTERS REVEAL LOVE TRAGEDY IN LIFE OF WAGNER

Lost Manuscripts Found by American Playwright.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, May 18.—Did Minna Wagner, first wife of the great German composer, Richard Wagner, actually die of a broken heart over her husband's affair with another woman?

Evidence to this effect has just been uncovered here in the form of manuscripts and letters written by the composer which it is believed not only will paint his faithful wife, Minna, in an entirely new light but will force Germany to completely revise the picture it has drawn of its beloved "Master Singer" who became the world's greatest composer of music drama. The documents were brought to light by Philip Hurn, an American playwright and a graduate of the Chicago Art institute.

One of the documents, whose total value is estimated at thousands of dollars, is the famous "lost letter," whose disappearance has long been bewailed by every biographer of Wagner. It is this letter, written by Wagner to Mathilde Wesendonck, and sent with the music for the second act of the opera, "Tristan and Isolde," which had been dedicated to Mathilde, which resulted in Wagner's leaving Minna to die of heart disease, probably brought on by the tragedy.

Wife Intercepts Letter.

Minna Wagner had intercepted the letter to Mathilde Wesendonck. Mathilde, supposedly stung to a fury by this interference, is reported to have created a scene which not only resulted in the composer leaving his wife but caused him to spend the rest of his life under the shadow of the tragic death of Minna.

In the collection are 600 letters written in Wagner's own hand, one of them indicating that he was at one time on the point of taking up residence in the United States. In December, 1851, the composer wrote that he was thinking of emigrating to America, "not because I expect to find what is right there but because it would be easier to plant there. I am thinking of beginning my Nibelung trilogy and I shall probably perform it on the banks of the Mississippi."

Also in the priceless collection is a Wagnerian opera which has never been published. It is an entire rewriting of Gluck's opera, "Iphigenia in Aulis," and is 300 pages long, of which about 50 pages are entirely new material supplied by Wagner.

Find Many Other Manuscripts.

There also are notes for Tannhäuser and a musical manuscript of a short score, the libretto of Lohengrin with Wagner's own stage direction, the libretto and score of Fienzi, the aria from The Fairies, which was Wagner's first opera composed at the age of 21, to say nothing of several unpublished works.

The manner in which the materials were collected is as dramatic as are the contents. About the time of Wagner's death a wealthy English woman, whose identity is kept dark but whose husband succeeded to a peerage after her death in 1898, began collecting material in order to issue an authoritative biography of Wagner's life. But her death interrupted her work and her heirs did not realize the value of the manuscripts, part of which were found in dust covered Victorian jewel cases in a safety deposit vault and some moldering at the bottom of a clothes hamper.

TWO MEN SHOT IN NEW CLASH IN KENOSHA STRIKE

Kenosha, Wis., May 18.—(AP)—The labor dispute centering about the Allen-A mills, dormant for some weeks, flared out anew today with a shooting affray on a downtown street and the issuance of a bench warrant for Roger N. Kimball, vice president and general manager of the firm.

Circulation of petitions to change the form of the city's government because of the "vacillating stand" taken by the present city council in the dispute, and the denial of a new trial to Elmer Hackbarth, striker now serving a reformatory sentence for unlawful confinement of Harold Hendrickson, mill employê, were other developments of the day.

Louis Williams, striker, and C. J. Meyer, mill employê, are both in a hospital as a result of the shooting, which occurred when a group of strikers surrounded Meyer's car and refused to disperse.

Meanwhile Circuit Court Commissioner Joseph Higgens issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Roger Kimball, mill official, when the latter failed to appear at a hearing of the $100,000 libel suit filed against him by Louis F. Budenz, prime mover in the general strike committee.

More than 300 workers of the Allen-A company have been on strike since a year ago last February.

'ALADDIN'S CAVE' OF DIAMONDS IS FOUND IN AFRICA

Magnate Tells Fabulous Wealth of New Field.

BY FRANK BURTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, May 18.—Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, Kimberley diamond magnate, presiding at a meeting of the Anglo-American corporation today described the Alexandra Bay diamond discovery as an Aladdin's cave.

Dr. Merensky's find he said was a fabulously rich accumulation of large diamonds in a very small space. It was not an example of successful state mining but simply a matter of raiding Aladdin's cave.

The field has a diamond content of over 400,000 carats, valued at nearly $12,500,000, or several times the issued capital of the company. Sir Ernest said that he foresaw an expansion of the demand for diamonds.

Will Abandon Claim Soon.

The very nature of the deposit and the facility of gaining access necessitated the quickest possible removal of the diamonds to a strong room he said, and this accounts for the enormous production of diamonds in a short space of time.

The exploitation of Dr. Merensky's claim is to be completed in June or July, when it will be abandoned. Government production then will continue for some time, but on a greatly reduced scale.

The large output from Namaqualand being short lived, Sir Ernest said, it has offered no permanent danger to the diamond trade. Dr. Merensky's diamonds have been sold to a diamond syndicate, to be delivered in such quantities as the government directed so as to spread their sale over a long period, thus avoiding injury to the trade.

Hope for New Discoveries.

Two cardinal principles, namely, sale through one channel and limitation of output, have not been violated by the Namaqualand producers, Sir Ernest said.

The corporation's only new diamond interest is in Cape Coast Exploration, which in the view of the geologists, controls the bulk of the potential diamondiferous areas south of Port Nolloth. The geological report promises distinct chances of making further discoveries.

Roumanian Supporter of Carol Called Traitor

BUCHAREST, Roumania, May 18.—(AP)—Senator Cornescu, who at a meeting at Talgoviste, Monday, declared all Roumania yearned for Prince Carol's return, has been expelled from the senate and the peasants' party and his parliamentary privileges abrogated. He will be arraigned and charged with treason.

CHICKERING
ANNOUNCES NEW MODELS

Chickering is America's oldest piano. The first Chickering was built only a few years after the time of George Washington. During the succeeding decade Jonas Chickering accomplished many revolutionary improvements in pianoforte design. These improvements were seen to be so important that the Chickering immediately gained world-wide prominence and subsequently France awarded her highest honor—the Imperial Cross of the Legion of Honour to Frank Chickering for his achievement. Each and every year since, Chickering has added to that prestige, has won increased admiration for its magnificent tone and outward grace. In three new models, Chickering now carries piano beauty still further. Come and see the new Colonial Model $1095, the new Sheraton Model $1275, the new Florentine Model $1275. The Chickering can be had with the Ampico, the instrument that exactly reproduces the playing of the great concert artists upon the piano itself, from $1995 up.

NEW AIR CONCERN BUYS 4TH LINK IN MIDWEST SYSTEM

Interstate Lines Go to Aviation Corporation.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

An important link in the network of air lines centering in Chicago has been purchased by the Aviation corporation, according to an announcement yesterday by Graham B. Grosvenor, president of the newly organized $200,000,000 holding and operating corporation. The announcement stated that the corporation had acquired the Interstate Air lines from the United Aviation corporation through an exchange of stock.

Interstate operates mail and passenger service from Chicago southward to Terre Haute, Evansville, Nashville, Chattanooga, and Atlanta. A spur line of the Interstate carries mail and passengers between St. Louis and Louisville, connecting with the southern route at Evansville, Ind.

Fourth Link in Air Chain.

The purchase of the Chicago air line will increase the mileage of airlines operated by the Aviation corporation to 5,800. The Interstate route connects here with the Universal and Embry-Riddle lines and at Buffalo with Colonial Airways. All three companies are subsidiaries of the corporation.

Through these lines Chicago is linked with St. Louis, Akron, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Louisville, Kansas City, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Albany, New York City, Hartford, Boston, Montreal, and other cities.

Scudder Tells of Plans.

President Lawrence W. Scudder of the United Aviation corporation said last night that it was planned to merge the services of the Universal and Interstate in a unified air transport system extending from St. Paul to Chicago and to the south and southwest. The Interstate planes now fly an average of 1,536 miles daily.

The purchase of Interstate by the Aviation corporation was said yesterday to be part of a plan of the latter group to purchase and operate air lines in this section so that they will control the flow of air traffic from the northwest and middle west through the south to Central and South America.

ITALIAN SENATE ACTS ON VATICAN TREATY FRIDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 18.—Fur is expected to fly in the senate this week between the "Vaticanists" and the "states" when the lateran treaty comes up for ratification on Wednesday.

The treaty is slated for ratification Friday by the senate, since Premier Benito Mussolini has a sure majority, but not without some anticipated fireworks because the senate, unlike the chamber of deputies, still has non-Fascist members. The two adverse votes cast against the treaty in the chamber is likely to see a big increase in the senate.

Among those scheduled to speak is the celebrated Prof. Ruffino of Turin, non-Fascist. It is announced that Premier Mussolini himself also will make a second speech not less lengthy nor less important that the one he made before the chamber. His remarks are awaited with considerable interest in Vatican circles.

ARMY FLYER DIES LEADING HIS MEN INTO SHAM FIGHT

Planes Collide and Fall During Maneuvers.

Headquarters Ohio War Maneuvers, Fairfield Air Depot, Fairfield, O., May 18.—[Special.]—The first casualty of the Army air corps maneuvers here was the toll of a Blue raid this morning upon the Red army supply base at Columbus. Second Lieutenant Edward L. Meadow of the Ninety-fifth pursuit squadron, Rockwell Field, Cal., was killed instantly 15,000 feet above Linden, a Columbus suburb, when his plane was struck by another in his squadron.

Second Lieutenant A. F. Soller jumped clear of the second plane and landed safely with his parachute. He suffered burns on the face.

Leading His Formation.

Acording to the report of the accident at air corps headquarters here, Lieut. Meadow was leading his formation, with Lieut. Soller flying at his left. Lieut. Meadow, according to the report, signalled for a left bank. Instead, he sent his plane into a left climb.

Lieut. Soller failed to see the change in the maneuver and his plane crashed into the tail of Lieut. Meadow's plane, the propeller clipping closely and cutting into the cockpit where Lieut. Meadow sat, killing him instantly. One of the planes crashed to the grground about a mile away, but the other fell in the yard of a home near several children, none of them was hurt.

Inquiry Planned.

Gen. Foulois after being told of the fatality announced there would be no change in the plans for the maneuvers.

He said a board would be appinted to investigate the accident.

Lieut. Meadow was 25 years old, a native of Tennessee and a graduate of Vanderbilt university. He completed the advanced flying course at Kelly field, Tex., in 1923.

Hungarian, Termed a Jew, Sues for Damages; Wins

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, May 18.—A Hungarian court today awarded damages for libel against the editor of a Who's Who of Prominent Jews in Hungary. The plaintiff was a university professor, Dr. Edmund Wessely, whose name appeared in the book followed by a description of himself as a baptized Jew. The professor proved he was of an old Hungarian Christian family, and the judge, ruling that to accuse the professor of being a Jew constituted a libel and so ordered the confiscation of 6,700 copies of the book.

DENY RUSSIAN FILM CONTAINS RED PROPAGANDA

'Krassin' Sponsors Point to Censors' O. K.

If the Russian film, "Krassin," to be shown at Orchestra hall tomorrow night, incorporates soviet propaganda, it is the fault of the official board of censors, which passed it, and not of the American Society for Cultural Relations with Russia, which is sponsoring it, the latter organization asserted yesterday in answer to criticism directed at the film.

Mrs. Charles Wendell Holmes, president of the National Patriotic society, signed the protests mailed by that organization to its members and friends.

Reply to Mrs. Holmes.

"This film," the reply from the A. S. C. R. R. said, "has been passed and approved by the official board of censors, and for Mrs. Holmes to attack its legality is to question the ability and loyalty of our properly constituted governmental authorities. We will offer a modest prize to any one who, after seeing the film, detects any form of propaganda in this straightforward record of the rescue of the Nobile party.

"Mrs. Holmes and the National Patriotic society are mistaken in their charge that the Society for Cultural Relations with Russia fosters soviet propaganda subversive to American interests. We are entirely a nonpolitical body. Our sole aim is to enable Americans who are interested to keep abreast of developments in Russian science, education, and in such arts as music, dancing and painting."

Borden Finds no Propaganda.

John Borden, who will make the introductory remarks before the film is shown, yesterday said he did not wish to enter into any controversy over the film, but that he had viewed it at the board of censors' exhibit and could not detect any soviet propaganda in it.

"I think Mrs. Holmes is mistaken in saying the Krassin could have rescued the Nobile party earlier," he said. "The Russians did all they could."

Jobless Sailor Is Rescued from Death Leap in Lake

Joseph Bouchie, 27 years old, a sailor who had failed to find a berth this spring, clambered aboard the freighter Henry Coldy in the Calumet harbor at 90th street yesterday and from the upper deck leaped into thirty feet of water. Ernest Olson, a coast guardsman at the South Chicago station, saw him plunge and rescued him. Bouchie was reported in serious condition from exposure last night at the county hospital.

The supreme officers of the Knights of Columbus in annual conference at the Stevens hotel yesterday decided to contribute $15,000 toward the proposed American Legion building in Paris. The building, which will be erected as a memorial to the Legion in the French capital, will have a room dedicated to the Knights of Columbus for their part in the world war.

Another contribution of $20,000 for the erection of a statue of Christopher Columbus at Palos, Spain, was announced at the meeting. The gift will be made by the Knights of North America, and the statue, designed by Mrs. Payne Whitney of New York, will be dedicated in October.

A NEW PROHIBITION DEFINITION OF VOLSTEAD.

Dr. S. E. Nicholson, associate superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of New York, recently said that the opponents of prohibition make their initial error in assuming that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act have the primary purpose of prohibiting the personal use of liquor. Hence they can say that the habits of the users are mala prohibita and not mala in se.

One is an evil or an offense which becomes such only because a lawmaking authority has so declared it. The other is an evil known by experience, by its own nature, and generally recognized by people. The drinking of coffee, the wearing of veils, the use of cosmetics, etc., could be prohibited as evils by a lawmaking authority, democratic as well as autocratic. In each case some justification faintly traced in reason might be offered, but nevertheless an inherent evil would not be generally recognized. The prohibition would be a mere dictum. On the other hand, no one questions the evil of murder, rape, theft, etc.

Dr. Nicholson said that the thing which was evil in itself was the traffic in alcoholic beverages. "No statute has ever yet attempted to make personal drinking a crime," he said. "To what extent this is an evil in itself is a debatable problem in the opinion of the masses. Whether or not the time will come when it will be deemed necessary to ban the purchase of liquor as a necessary incident to its use is as yet problematic."

If Dr. Nicholson were stating the case of prohibition as accepted by prohibitionists, the eighteenth amendment, if, indeed, it had been put in the constitution at all, would prohibit the manufacture, transportation, and sale of alcoholic beverages "for profit." That is, the traffic in them. The Volstead act would not be what it is. The administration of prohibitory laws would not be what it is and the country would not be in a sad state of coercion and resistance, fanaticism, disorder, and exasperation.

If Dr. Nicholson could carry his point with his own associates, with prohibitionists generally, with legislatures, clericals, abstainers, and opponents of alcoholic beverages, he would be joined by ninety per cent of the opponents of the Volstead act and of the amendment. He is stating as a fact a condition which would be a solution of the question if it were a fact.

In a meaningless technical sense it is true that the use of alcoholic beverages is not prohibited in the United States. The user is not breaking law. The amendment does not prohibit the purchase of liquor, but these are quibbles if not hypocrisies. A person cannot buy liquor unless he is a party to a transaction in which the other person is guilty not of a misdemeanor under federal law but of a felony. And if the buyer removes his purchase from one place to another he is guilty of a felony. If he makes his own beverages in his home he is guilty of a felony. Not one person in ten thousand or in one hundred thousand in this day in the United States can exercise his legal or unprohibited right to drink liquor without having what the government calls a crime in its wake somewhere. It is sophistry to say that the possession and use of such beverages are not mala prohibita today. The case is exactly the contrary. What American prohibition aims at is the individual use and not the old legalized traffic.

It is unfortunate that this is the fact. Dr. Nicholson is interpreting opinions and describing methods which prevail in Canada, in Sweden, and in virtually every other white country in the world which has undertaken the regulation of the malum in se, the traffic for profit. The United States has asserted that its citizens shall not use these beverages. The omissions in the law amount to nothing. American prohibition doctrine is that drinking is malum in se, an evil in itself and now a crime in law, by the intent and operation of the law if not by its words. There's our whole trouble and Dr. Nicholson may be invited to persuade his side of the argument to accept the rational compromise which he assumes prevails now.

THE ILLINOIS RIVER FOR MOTORISTS.

A number of Peoria citizens have prepared a petition asking for the widening of the highway along the Illinois river with an appropriation from gas tax revenue. This historic and picturesque drive is now but a sixteen foot road, so narrow as to be dangerous.

The Illinois river route is an important avenue of commercial communication, but perhaps its first value is historic. The expenditure is justified for the sentimental purpose of attracting travelers to the route along the Illinois river, the route of Joliet, La Salle, Gov. Cass and all of the adventurers and settlers who discovered that the Chicago portage and the Illinois river was the key to the continent. The state can well afford to charge this improvement to romance and sentiment.

THE OLD STOCK SPINS COTTON AND STRIKES.

The southern highlanders in coming out of their mountains, coves, and perpendicular corn fields, and in exchanging the eighteenth century for the twentieth have entered quickly into the stages of industrial conflict. When the twentieth century arrives it arrives rapidly. The highlanders have been both coaxed and forced out. They have had large families and limited acres. Even the simplest wants with competent arts and crafts have their irreducible minimum. Good roads offered contact with the world. The diminishing ration of side meat and meal compelled its acceptance.

The growth of the southern cotton mill towns was based on proximity to raw material, power, and labor. As soon as the highlander entered one of the new mill towns, whether it was one of the best or one of the worst, he had made a step from primitive conditions and needs into a complexity which at first satisfied and then unsettled him.

A pay roll, expectable or dependable wages, in the best instances a small modern house, some opportunities for amusement, easy gregariousness, etc., offered new experiences. Even in the worst mill towns there was a certain improvement in living recognized by the worker and desired by him and by the members of his family who also were workers if they could get jobs.

Currency had not been plentiful in the mountains. Wages, when any were earned, were low. Only a few years ago men would cut wood for two dollars a day or less. Low wages in the mills were not unattractive. They represented competence, but experience soon led to other expectations when the contrast became one not with the cabin in a mountain clearing but with conditions in the world outside. The period of exploitation of cheap labor under unfair conditions without contest was ended almost as soon as it was begun.

The workers who have come out of the highlands for the most part are not docile. One of the strike centers is Elizabethton, Tenn., just north of the western North Carolina border. These people are the hardiest of individualistic children of freedom. Elizabethton is Watauga Old Fields. The Watauga men were the rebels of North Carolina who fought colonial misrule and fled from it into the mountains. They were the people of the two aborted states of Franklin and Transylvania. At Watauga they had a compact government, such as the Pilgrims formed on Cape Cod. They fought at King's Mountain. Their rivers and passes mean Sevier, Campbell, Cleavland, Boone, Andrew Jackson, national unionism, fortitude, personal freedom. Now they are a virtually unmixed breed, bringing the old stock of the colonies out of the eighteenth century into contact with modern industrialism in an unsettled industry, into contact with alien technicians and a selfish abstraction called capitalism, conscious that they have industrial wrongs and prepared in the old style to right them if they can.

THE BILL FOR THE WACHT AM RHINE.

Mr. Stimson, secretary of state, says there will not be a reduction in the claims of the United States against Germany. The allies suggest that they should be pared down. These claims consist of 291 millions for the army of occupation and 250 millions for the satisfaction of injuries to American citizens. The latter settlement is a normal incident of peace after war. The army item is a pain in the neck. It is a reminder of the time when the United States took a ride with strangers.

Quartering an army on an alien people is mainly vicious. At times it is or seems necessary. The mistake of the United States was in sending so considerable a force or any force to the Rhine in the first place, keeping it there far too long even with the gradual reductions, making its upkeep a charge upon the German pocketbook and then not collecting when the money had been paid over to France, Great Britain and Belgium.

The United States was done out of the occupation payments by the allies, who collected them and found a reason for not including the United States in the distribution. That fraud seemed then, and it seems now, an act of bad faith coolly calculated and deliberately executed. The Germans were innocent of it. They had to pay and they did, but the senior partners of the United States in the enterprise put the money in their pockets. If the American government has available a cold fish eye expression it is needed when the former partners renew the moral suggestion of giving them the benefit of a cancellation of the long overdue, already paid, but still uncollected army bill.

Editorial of the Day

MR. HOOVER AND THE TARIFF.

[New York Evening Post.]

The opinion, if not the "position," of the White House on the Hawley tariff bill is now becoming known. This was inevitable, despite Mr. Hoover's declared intention of keeping a hands-off policy.

Very cautiously Washington dispatches are beginning to say that the President thinks the new rates in some schedules too high, that certain commodities belong on the free list, and that the scope of the whole bill goes beyond the presidential idea of a "limited revision." He sees the Hawley bill, some correspondents declare, as an increase to the cost of living with dangerous political possibilities.

The degree of protection which the Hawley bill offers is as unnecessary as its theory is novel. It no longer pretends to give us merely enough tariff to meet foreign competition, but is hinting at least at a wall high enough to dam all outside trade! This is by no means an orthodox Republicanism. It is filled with the greatest economic and international perils in view of the war debt situation. At the time when the foreign aspect of the tariff is its most important aspect, when retaliatory tariffs are waiting to spring at us everywhere, the house sublimely ignores or even invites such dangers.

The country needs some one to stand between it and congress. That is the President's duty. He must fulfill it in one way or another. Mr. Hoover will have to do it before he is through. We are glad to see him getting ready for it in his own thorough way, by having his experts figure out the disasters that probably lurk in many of the Hawley increases.

WILL MEN OUTGROW RELIGION?

BY THE REV. CHARLES L. GOODELL, D. D.

Before we can intelligently ask ourselves whether religion has been and will be a necessity in human life, we must have some clear and intelligent conception of what religion really is. Religion of course has to do with the relation of man to God and is, specifically, man's recognition of the existence of God, a confession of His power and a desire to do Him honor. As a matter of fact, in the sense of worshiping gods or spirits, all nations and all ages have been and are religious. You will recall Plutarch's famous sentence: "Traversing the world, you may find towns without wall, without letters, without kings, without coin, without theaters; but a town without a temple of prayer no one ever saw." Cicero adds, "There is no people so wild and savage as not to have belief in a God though they may have been unacquainted with His nature."

It is true that now and then somebody has arisen to deny the existence of God, but in most cases it is true now as it was in Plato's time that "atheism is a disease of the soul before it becomes an error of the understanding." Our highest courts insist that the existence of God is a primal truth and adjure every witness to give his testimony in the presence of a God who punishes the perjurer. Every lover of nature is fain to adopt the words of the Bible and say "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork."

But our concern is not with matters of theory but of life. The test which we are asked to consider is the test of actual experiment. Can a man get along without religion? Can any man or nation or age come to its best without its power? When we are asked the question, "Will the coming man worship?" we might as well ask, "Will the coming man breathe and eat and sleep and love and suffer and die?" Let us look upon tomorrow in the afterglow of yesterday. In the light of the past, does a man need religion. Men have sought for health and they have sought for gold. They have plowed stormy seas and cut their way through gloomy forests and they have risked and are risking everything that they may find a new land and add a new name to the world's geography, but with all the searching of the ages no search can for a moment compare with the search after God. Heathen altars smoke with the sacrifices of uncounted ages.

You tell me that all sorts of crimes have been committed in the name of religion and I shall not deny it. It has been mighty to make and to mar the history of men and it will not down. Little by little men are coming to understand the nature of God. The thoughtful no longer worship an "absentee God," appearing now and then by strange portents, but rather as one in whom we live and move and have our being, who is imminent in the affairs of men—a power that makes for righteousness everywhere. The fact of God is writ large on the pages of human history. When men forgot God, gloom gathered and they called those centuries the dark ages.

When Savonarola and John Huss and, later, Martin Luther came to stir the religious conscience of the world, a new hope dawned in the hearts of men and light broke in the darkness. When England was far gone, there echoed the brave Puritan tread which shook the world and John Bunyan went to Bedford jail crying, "I will stay here until the moss grows over my eyebrows rather than deny my Lord." Our own country was founded in the fear of God. Our ancestors came to this country not for motives of money or of conquest. They ventured their lives and their fortunes in a religious commonwealth and we ought to be thankful to God for what flowed out of their venture. If men are as bad as they are with restraint of religion, what would they be without it?

Every man who thinks at all will realize that, if you were to take out of any city the church of God and that for which it stands, the ruin of the city would be accomplished. We have a civilization which has grown up with our religion. The church is the mother of education and it is the mother of philanthropy. In spite of all the critics say, religion and learning have gone hand in hand. The legend on the oldest college seal in America is the legend on the oldest college seal in England—"Christ and the Church." Popular free government in the world today lies side by side with the development of the religious life.

But after all the question is not so much one of man as of men. The primal thing in religion is the development of the life of the individual. As goes the individual, so goes the state. Individualism and collectivism are not in antagonism—the one must come out of the other. The individual must first be moved and then the mass will be moved by the individual. Every great movement is the lengthened shadow of a man. The chief trophy of religion in the life of the individual is the development of a quickened and sensitive conscience. Men will never outgrow the need of religion in their own souls. To be at peace with God, to have a conscience void of offense and quick to every call of duty, to have that is to live, to practice the presence of God, to be assured that we never journey so fast or so far as to be without the need of His aid. To know the duty of the hour is wisdom, to do it is virtue. But the power which sends us along the path of duty—ah, that is the imminent God! And that is the power which men need. The greatest loss that can come into any life is when the inner light fails.

I am not afraid of intellectual atheism. It has been well said that is not a fixed habit of the mind, but rather a frantic gesture of a man who has lost his footing, possibly in walking in the slimy path of dalliance. The thing which I fear is that practical atheism which tramps profanely over the sacred paths of human life and forgets both God and man. The real atheists are not those who talk in public parks from soap boxes. They are the men who are more anxious for personal plunder than civic righteousness and who call the Golden Rule an iridescent dream. The growth of the ages has not been away from but toward religion. Men realize more and more with every passing generation that man cannot get along without it.

Will men ever outgrow religion? So long as men are tempted by lust and greed and passion, so long they will need to be buttressed by Almighty God that they may overcome their temptations by a strength greater than their own. I have seen unaided resolutions broken and lives that started fair rush to a fearful ruin. I have seen men undertake alone a battle with fearful odds which beat down upon them from within and from without. So long as human nature is as selfish as it is and men like to have an easy rather than a useful life, so long will men need to have a vision of the things which outlast the stars and to be compassed about with the chariots and horsemen of God. So long as men have trials and disappointments to bear, so long as they see their hopes crumbled and their ambitions go up in smoke, so long as the sexton plies his spade and the mourners go about the streets, so long will men need the sustaining power of a religious faith.

FAVORITE HYMNS

BY GEORGE MATHESON.

O Love that wilt not let me go,
I rest my weary soul in thee;
I give thee back the life I owe,
That in thine ocean depths its flow
May richer, fuller be.

O Joy that seekest me through pain,
I cannot close my heart to thee;
I trace the rainbow through the rain,
And feel the promise is not vain
That morn shall tearless be.

O Cross that liftest up my head,
I dare not ask to fly from thee;
I lay in dust life's glory dead,
And from the ground there blossoms red
Life that shall endless be.

BREAKFASTS FOR CHILDREN.

ONE of the cardinal principles of orthodox child care is the need of good breakfasts. Whenever a survey of school children has been made the surveyors have inquired about the breakfast. They have asked such questions as: Do you have breakfast before you come to school? Do you drink milk and eat cereal? Do you drink coffee? Is your breakfast warm? Did you have enough? Did you eat slowly? The answers to these questions, properly tabulated, have constituted an important part of the reports of these surveys.

Following in the wake of the surveys school principals and others have made efforts to get better breakfasts at home for their backward and undernourished pupils. Where this was impossible they have tried to supply a school lunch. They have gone to great trouble to make this a hot lunch, on the theory that somehow warm food was more nourishing than cold. All of this is correct and proper, I think, unless it be the superiority of warm food.

But Dr. J. A. Samuels finds there are some children who do better if they go to school without having had breakfast. These children are those who have orthostatic albuminuria, or the albuminuria of rapid growth. Many children who have not had scarlet fever or other disesaes which cause Bright's disease are found to have albumin in the urine. This condition hangs on a long time, causing the parents a great deal of worry. One term for this variety of albuminuria is orthostatic, signifying that it results from too much standing or too much exercise. Another theory is that rapid growth is responsible for this trouble.

Dr. Samuels does not accept either of these theories as being entirely correct. His theory is that the basic trouble is a lime disturbance. Some of the albumins are not in proper lime combinations and are therefore excreted by the kidneys. That is his theory.

Out of this he develops two methods of overcoming this symptom. One of them consists in giving a teaspoonful or so of lime water after each meal. The other consists of giving the child no breakfast. Either method works. There is no reason why they should not be combined. Perhaps here is a simple method of ending the worries of some overconscientious parents.

TREATMENT OF BAD BREATH.

M. B. writes: Please help me with a condition that I have not been able to cure, and that is bad breath. Yet my tonsils, throat, eyes, ears, and nose are in good condition. Also my teeth. I drink a large cup of senna tea every day for constipation. At night I cut up a grapefruit, skin and all, and put it in a pitcher with two glasses of water. Next morning I drink this half an hour before breakfast.

REPLY.

Halitosis due to trouble in the nose, tonsils or teeth should receive local treatment. That due to digestive causes is successfully treated by changing the diet. The new diet should be built around sour milk and preparations thereof.

SEE A PHYSICIAN.

Mrs. P. C. writes: I am 22 years old and am four months pregnant and I am having a lot of trouble with my vision. Some days I don't have any trouble at all. I have some heart trouble, but no kidney trouble. Will this get worse as pregnancy goes on?

REPLY.

Have a physician examine the back of your eye with an instrument. If you have impaired vision and heart trouble you should be under a physician's care for the remainder of the period.

TWO IN BED HAZARDOUS.

J. F. M. writes: Don't you think it is very dangerous for a woman suffering with bronchial asthma to sleep in the same bed with a new born infant and a two year old child? She has a bad cough and spits a lot.

REPLY.

It is somewhat hazardous for two or more people to sleep together. However, the hazard is not very great. If one is an infant and another a two year old, and another an old asthmatic the hazard is increased.

However, bronchial asthma is not contagious in the sense that scarlet fever is.

ALLEY CLEANED.

Chicago, May 10.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to report that the alley in the rear of my premises is obstructed by piles of refuse from a near-by store. The refuse is in such a position that getting in or out of our garage is an impossibility.

Report is made that alley complained of has been thoroughly cleaned and proprietor of store notified to stop further dumping. Alley will be kept under observation to see that there is no further cause for complaint.

CHANGED MIND.

Hammond, Ind., May 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I decided to take a correspondence course from an eastern institution. I sent in the initial payment together with my name on the enrollment blank. Afterwards, however, I changed my mind, and wrote and told them so. Now I have a letter from them saying that I have to take the entire course and pay for it. Can they compel me to do this?
E. S.

If the original transaction was merely an order which was not to become binding on the seller until accepted or confirmed by him, you were entitled to cancel at any time before the dispatching of such acceptance or confirmation. Otherwise it is binding on you unless you have some defense such as minority or fraud.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

NEW YORK.—The Tribune's special from headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, dated May 17, says the rebels still hold their line northwest of Spotsylvania. The paper's correspondent with Gen. Sigel says that his loss in the recent engagement was 600 and that of the rebels 1,000. A special to the Post says that information received by the war department leaves no doubt that Gen. Lee is receiving heavy reinforcements from the south.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Although there is no official promulgation of the fact it is confidently asserted by leading congressional friends of the administration that it has been decided to call for 300,000 more troops.

NATCHEZ, Miss.—There have been rebel reports of the capture of Port Hudson and the nonarrival of boats from New Orleans since Monday tends to strengthen the probability. It is known that Polk has sent 10,000 of the 15,000 who were in Mobile recently to operate against Gen. Banks' federal forces.

NEW YORK.—At an early hour a fraudulent proclamation signed by the President and purporting to come from the Associated Press was delivered to each of the morning papers and was printed by some of them. As a result, by order of President Lincoln, the World and Journal of Commerce were suppressed and the editors and proprietors arrested. The Herald printed about 20,000 before learning of the fraud and destroyed the papers. The Times and Tribune detected the forgery promptly.

CHICAGO.—John L. Norton and Miss Ada Gooding, daughter of William Gooding of Lockport, were married at the bride's home on May 18 by the Rev. J. G. Porter.

PARIS.—Three thousand letter carriers went on strike and Paris was without mail yesterday. For twenty-four hours commerce was paralyzed and the bourse was in disorder. The cause of the strike was the failure of the senate to vote the carriers the increased salaries already voted by the chamber of deputies.

HONGKONG.—Admiral Dewey will leave Manila on May 20 on his homeward voyage. He is expected to reach here on May 22, when his flagship, the Olympia, will go into dry dock for cleaning, preparatory to the long trip.

MANILA. — Seven commissioners, appointees of the Filipino congress, are reported on their way to sue for peace. It is said they will agree to unconditional surrender, accepting in good faith the American commission's proclamation. Aguinaldo and his cabinet seem at last to understand that their armies are thoroughly whipped.

WASHINGTON.—Vinson Walsh McLean, 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beal McLean, was killed by an automobile at Friendship, the country mansion of the McLeans here. The boy, famous several years ago as the two hundred million dollar baby, has been closely guarded all his life, and had left his bodyguard only a few minutes before the accident.

LONDON.—American naval authorities here have received an unofficial report that the crew of the NC-3 has been rescued by the American warship Columbia. The crew is composed of Commander John H. Towers and four men. No word had been received from the seaplane since 5:15 a. m. May 17, when Commander Towers reported his plane, which was on an attempted trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland, was off its course some 300 miles from the island of Fayal, Azores. The flight of the seaplanes NC-1, NC-3, and NC-4 and the arrival of the NC-4 at the Azores is the week-end sensation in London.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F.—Harry G. Hawker, Australian aviator, and Commander Mackenzie Grieve, his navigator, are winging their way across the Atlantic tonight on the most perilous airplane flight in history. They took off at 5:55 p. m., and expected to make the Irish coast in twenty hours. Up to 2 o'clock this morning no word had been heard from them. The weather conditions were bad at the start.

BERLIN.—President Ebert, addressing a demonstration here today, said that Germany would "never sign the peace terms."

WASHINGTON. — Following his warning that the administration of soldiers' and sailors' insurance, compensation, allowance and allotments is "on the verge of breakdown and failure." Col. Henry D. Lindsley has resigned as the director of war risk insurance, at the request of Secretary of the Treasury Glass.

GERMAN VETERANS AND THE MEMORIAL PARADE.

Chicago, May 10.—I am a member of Advertising post No. 38 and the Cook county chapter 40 and 8, so I speak as one on the inside.

The question is: Shall the German veterans be permitted to march in the Memorial parade? The question should be: Should any one but Americans march?

The Memorial day parade is an expression of respect for the memory of all Americans who had died for the glory of this country and no one but a true American really pays that respect.

If you permit Poles, British, etc., to march, you should certainly permit the German veterans to be a part of this procession, especially so because of the following incident: The 40 and 8 recently held a get-together meeting of all the combatants of the world war—the Italians, the Irish, the French, the British, and the Germans. Representatives of these groups spoke of their individual national activities in the late war, the British representative especially commenting on the fact that he is here because he wishes to be here of choice and that the Americans are Americans because of necessity—the usual English blah.

The German arose and these were his words: "I fought on the German side because I was a German and because I was ordered to do so by the government in authority. I am here representing the German veterans who are residing in Chicago and for them I pledge to you the loyalty of good citizens—every one of us has applied for naturalization as Americans."

It is such expressions that prove that the members of the German veterans are anxious to be good, loyal American citizens and if the others are permitted to march the German veterans certainly should.

Broaden out, buddies—not all Americans believed in the last war.

SPECIAL DELIVERY.

Chicago, May 7.—Saturday, May 4, I bought two tickets for the Sunday night performance of a loop play and mailed them to a friend in Proviso. I mailed the tickets at the Canal street station, knowing that the letter must be sent out over the North Western railroad. The clerk assured me that if the letter was sent special delivery it would be delivered to him Sunday morning.

The letter was finally delivered at about noon Tuesday, May 7. Aside from the annoyance my friend was caused by having to buy two more seats, I am out $5.

REFINED LANGUAGE.

Chicago, May 11.—Now that the talkies have rid us of that terrible atrocity, the movie subtitle, we are now confronted with a more awful evil, to wit: the pseudo English accent of the Bostonian afflicted with adenoids and a severe case of stomach cramps.

PANTS IN PERSIA.

Ahroaz, Persia, March 20.—An article in your paper regarding the wearing of pants and derby hats in Persia has come to my notice. Allow me to give you some first hand information as I am in a position to observe the customs and living conditions, having lived with them for nearly a year, from the Persian gulf as far north as Hamadan.

"Pants have come to the new near east," says your correspondent and the "red fezzes are stored away somewhere forever." Pants have not "spread like wildfire" in Persia. The government did decree that after the new year pants shall take the place of ancient costumes, but no such change has taken place. The majority still continue to wear the flowing robe and head dress. All the derby hats that may have been imported into Persia for Persian wear must have had the rims cut away, for I have not seen such a sight yet. The Persian and Arab are reluctant to become modernized, though the more intelligent class have taken to modern ways.

"The new near east is leaving Allah out of breath." I cannot imagine a more misleading statement. I gathered no such impression after working and living with the Arab and most Persians for so long a time. The Arab is just as religious as ever, and the fasting periods and their religious ceremonies are still held to, and I doubt if they change very much in the next hundred years, if ever.

The following statement, "while derby hats and trousers sweep the near east in a tide of modernism," is not without its humor. The American manufacturers of derby hats and trousers have little cause to become excited yet.

TENNIS FOR ADULTS.

Oak Park, Ill., May 8.—Last night my wife and I spent an hour making a tour of the city in search of a tennis court where we could enjoy a few sets. Not one of the courts which we visited was available, all of them being filled with grade school and high school children.

Is there no regulation of public tennis courts whereby children are not permitted to play after a certain hour, say 5 or 5:30 p. m.? It seems to me that school is out early enough in the afternoon that boys and girls from 10 years to 18 years of age have plenty of time to play until the working people get out.
A WORKING MAN.

HOW DO YOU CLASSIFY THIS ONE?

Chicago, May 8.—At last I've solved the problem of what kind of letters THE TRIBUNE prints in the Voice of the People. These may be divided into three classes; letters supporting views held by THE TRIBUNE, letters favoring prohibition [this to create the illusion that THE TRIBUNE believes in free press], and letters in which the writers make fools of themselves.

Of course, letters combining the latter two classes fill THE TRIBUNE with glee and are certain to be printed.

JONES' MERCHANT MARINE STATUTE IS UNENFORCED

Accuses Hoover of Failure to Observe It.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, who is author of the 5 and 10 liquor act to put teeth into prohibition, is the author of another law—the merchant marine act of 1920. Senator Jones accuses President Hoover of failure to observe this earlier Jones law. He has been the grieved witness of the failure of various Presidents to enforce this law, the last of whom is Mr. Hoover.

The Jones merchant marine act provided various means of building up an American merchant marine. Congress deemed the surest way of achieving the end in view would be to give certain advantages to American ships and to goods carried in American ships, which would not be accorded to foreign competitors.

Lower Duties Promised.

Such advantages would be lower tonnage dues exacted of American than of foreign ships and lower customs duties on imports in American bottoms. With such discriminations in favor of American ships it would not be long, congress thought, before the American overseas trade would be exclusively under the American flag.

But such discriminations could not be accorded American ships without violating treaties between the United States and other nations in which each signatory was obligated to treat foreign shipping on the same terms as its own. In order to remove this obstacle congress, in Section 34 of the Jones merchant marine act, "authorized and directed" the President to give notice within 90 days of the abrogation of such provisions of treaties as forbade these discriminations.

President Wilson, by his signature, made the bill a law but he declined to carry out section 34. He justified his refusal with the argument that it was impossible to abrogate certain provisions of treaties without abrogating the treaties entirely and that to do so would constitute a breach of "international engagements." Presidents Harding and Coolidge took the same stand.

Would Terminate Treaties.

"In the treaties with Germany and other nations, negotiated since 1921," said Senator Jones, "the United States has reserved the right to impose discriminations in favor of American shipping. But we are still barred by treaties with more than a score of nations from extending to our merchant marine the aid contemplated by congress. Congress expressly directed the executive to abrogate the conflicting treaty obligations. This direction, contained in section 34, has never been repealed. It is the law today and should be complied with by the executive."

At the White House it was stated that it is impossible to comply with section 34. It directs the President to abrogate certain provisions of treaties. This the President cannot do without terminating entire treaties, which congress clearly did not wish done, else it would not have limited the abrogation to certain provisions only. Congress, according to this explanation, was ignorant of the terms of abrogation contained in each treaty. Hence the failure to carry section 34 into effect is not the fault of the executive, but of congress. So far as compliance with this law is concerned, Mr. Hoover feels his conscience clear.

Senator Jones also complains of the failure to carry out section 28 of the merchant marine act which makes permissible the imposition of lower rail rates between the seaboard and interior points on goods exported or imported in American bottoms. That was another discrimination devised by congress to foster an American merchant marine. Who would export or import in foreign ships, it was argued, if cheaper rail freight rates to and from American ports could be had by shipping under the American flag?

But like the prohibition law, section 28 worked better in theory than in practice. Not long after the enactment of the law the shipping board made preparations to carry section 28 into effect. Immediately the land rang with a vast outcry, emanating chiefly from those southern ports touched by few American ships. These ports contended that compliance with section 28 would divert overseas trade, chiefly to New York, Philadelphia and Boston, the termini of most American ship lines. The southerners set up such a loud wail against law observance in this instance that the attempt to carry out section 28 was abandoned.

"But it is still the law and should be complied with," says Senator Jones.

"COUNTESS" AND GIGOLO GIVEN SIX MONTHS IN JAIL

PARIS, May 18.—A servant girl who played the rôle of a countess for three years and a Montmartre gigolo who believed her were both given six month sentences today. But the fake countess drew a suspended term while her disillusioned lover will have to serve his time behind the bars.

The servant girl, whose name is Gabrielle Bernard, wearying of washing dishes and making beds, began systematically to plunder her mistress, a wealthy Mexican, of more than $12,000, which she scattered with a prodigal hand in gay Montmartre night clubs. She soon became a well known patroness of the smartest cabarets and, as such, met Carlos Alini, an Algerian gigolo, who liked her title and her money.

When the girl's employer haled the pair into court Gabrielle protested that she had stolen the money to support her boy friend, but the latter ungallantly refused to defend his sweetie, asserting that he had believed the story of her noble birth and so accepted her lavish gifts because he believed her rich.

BELFAST, Ireland, May 18.—J. Milne Barbour, minister of commerce and head of a famous spinning company, who visits America yearly, put a damper on the prohibition movement here when he observed that America paid heavily for its attempt to dry up the country.

Prohibition is an important issue in the Ulster general election, for which the campaign is now raging. Temperance candidates have pledged to put through a local option bill as a prelude to complete prohibition.

When he first visited America before prohibition, Mr. Barbour reports, he was struck by the temperate habits of the diners in hotel restaurants. He hardly ever saw any beverage except water served with meals, whereas now in New York and Boston cocktails and wine are handed around almost as matter of course.

Employes of Placer Gold Mine Company on Strike

Dawson, Yukon, May 18.—(AP)—Employés of Burrall & Baird, Ltd., and associated companies, operating what is asserted to be the largest placer gold mining leases in the world, walked out here yesterday. The men protested against "irregular pay days." Company officials said they expected the board of directors to settle the difficulties without delay.

CROSSES OCEAN IN SAILBOAT TO FIND ADVENTURE

Reaches Havana with Seven Dollars.

BY DEAN SANBORN.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 18.—Paul Muller, 47 year old German sailor, who left Hamburg in a 25 foot sailboat July 6, 1928, to cross the Atlantic arrived in Havana harbor shortly after midnight Sunday morning, the tatered and patched sails of his tiny bark Aga showing the ravages of the long and arduous journey across the ocean. Muller used oars to propel the boat when it became becalmed.

The intrepid seaman, burned to a mahogany brown by the sun, wind, and weather, his clothing clean but evincing more service than clothes on the average have any right to show, was received with an ovation by the harbor authorities. The port authorities waived all formalities in the way of credentials and the mariner after being assigned a buoy for mooring his 25 foot craft, was escorted to a hotel.

"There is not much to tell—I started from Germany July 6, 1928—and I am here," he said.

The Aga itself, however, silently fills in the rest of the narrative. With sails tattered and laboriously patched with squares of gunny sack, its paint eaten away by the elements, its weather scarred deck, the Aga is an eloquent reconteur. The remains of the original sail bear rudely printed inscriptions in German, English, and French, announcing, "I am crossing the Atlantic from Hamburg. Kindly help if you are interested." A small pup tent formed a shield for Muller from the sun while he was at the helm.

Sought Adventure.

Asked why he made the trip, he gave the laconic answer:

"Adventure."

Muller's rations consisted mostly of crackers and fish. The fish he caught himself and cooked on a tiny oil stove. However, one morning Muller discovered the petrol tank had sprung a leak and cooking then was a thing of the past.

He experienced no little amount of rough weather, although for the most part of the journey, he said, it was calm. Early on the trip he was forced to put in at Vreeland because of heavy weather. From there he sailed to Amsterdam, Dunkirk, Dover, then to Brest, Biarritz, Santander, Coruna and the Spanish ports.

Has Seven Dollars Left.

At Faro he said good-by to the continent, setting out for Rabat, Africa. Between Cape Judy and Tenerife he experienced some heavy squalls, but made port in safety. Then came the actual farewell to land, as he set out for Fortuna Islands and Cuba. He sighted the islands of the western hemisphere, April 28. He had $7 in his pockets when he landed here.

Three Held After Police Seize Obscene Pictures

The Radio Studios, 4615 Vincennes avenue, was raided yesterday afternoon by Wabash avenue police and 5,000 obscene postcards seized. The police took into custody R. O'Grady, 32 years old, colored, owner of the place, and Robert Brenson, 36 years old, colored. At the place of Jessie Gleedon, 30 years old, at 428 East 45th place, the police seized several thousand more post cards and arrested Gleedon. The pictures, the mailing list found at the places indicated, were being shipped to all sections of the United States, Canada, and Cuba.

The snake had been concealed in a garage. Young chickens were killed as soon as they picked the shell and eggs likewise were destroyed.

Wholesale distribution of Chicagoland's surplus lilac blossoms will be started early tomorrow morning by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild. Many gardeners along the north shore and in the northwest suburbs will start clipping their blooms late this afternoon. Garden clubs in Barrington, Lake Forest, Lombard, Kenilworth, Elmhurst, and Edison Park, have been assigned the work of supplying lilacs to the guild tomorrow. These flowers will be taken direct to hospitals.

Mrs. Walter S. Underwood of Wheaton, an official of the guild, said yesterday that workers would be at the booth in the Chicago and North Western station from 8 a. m. to 11 a. m. to receive lilacs from individuals as well as from the regular collectors in the suburbs. She suggested that growers who are unable to deliver their lilacs to the downtown station notify the guild committee chairmen in the suburbs. The committee chairmen's addresses and telephone numbers were published in THE TRIBUNE on Friday.

ANONYMOUS NOTE THREATENS CIVIL WAR IN INDIA

ALLAHABAD, India, May 18. — A declaration of war in India to begin June 1 "to take revenge for 1857"—the year of the mutiny—was contained in a letter signed by "a major of the Hindustan republican army," and published here today.

A number of letters signed by various officers and soldiers of this "army" were posted and received in various parts of India. A large number of threatening letters were received by newspapers, officials and merchants, but one in particular which was received by a firm of cloth merchants in Lucknow goes further than most. The writer states that unless the merchants cease selling foreign cloth it will be burned and the owners shot. Threats of death were made against the deputy commissioner and others.

Two arrests were made at Saharanpur following discovery of bombs there Tuesday. A Pundit was arrested at Cawnpore on the charge of making seditious speeches. At Jamshedpur rumors have once more been spread that children were sacrificed according to native superstition in connection with the building of a new bridge.

PRAISE KELLOGG FOR TREATY OF TACNA-ARICA

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Much of the credit for the solution of the forty-five year old Tacna-Arica controversy between Peru and Chile should be given to former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, state department officials said today.

"Mr. Kellogg's administration is entitled to very great credit for settling this controversy, the only serious source of discontent in South America," Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson asserted today in commenting on the terms of settlement under which Chile takes the Province of Arica and Peru that of Tacna.

"He brought the matter to a point where both countries directly have settled the problem. It was through Mr. Kellogg's good work that these countries, which for many years have had no diplomatic relations, were induced to appoint, respectively, ambassadors to the other country, and since that was done they have been able to get together in normal and easy communication, and this settlement has followed.

"President Hoover himself also shared in the responsibility and the great credit for bringing about the settlement by having taken steps on his visit to Peru and Chile last December to smooth out and settle certain difficulties which had arisen at that time."

PAPER FIRM SUED FOR $780,708 BY NEW YORK NEWS

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—A suit has been filed by the News Syndicate, Inc., publishers of the Daily News, against the International Paper company for $780,708, alleging overcharge for print paper purchased in 1928.

The damages asked, according to the suit, represent the amount it paid the International in excess of the rate charged to other customers.

The suit brings out a tentative proposal made by the International Paper company to advance $5,000,000 as a building loan on the Daily News skyscraper now being erected in East 42d street. This loan was not made, the newspaper doing its building financing elsewhere. Likewise there was a proposal that the International lease several floors in the new building and this lease was not executed.

When Lodge and Society
Members Are to Attend
a Funeral

When members of a lodge or society are to attend a funeral en masse, or when a lodge or society ritual is to be conducted, it is often very inconvenient to have the funeral at the home. Many homes have not the space nor the facilities for such an occasion.

It is under these circumstances especially that the elegant and spacious "Hursen's" funeral-homes are used. At each of "Hursen's" funeral-homes there is massive space, there are secluded meeting and ritual rooms, there are massive chapels, there are unusual conveniences found nowhere else in any funeral establishment in America. There is, moreover, no overcrowding and no confusion.

Besides this, the elegance that is lavished on all funerals conducted by "Hursen," no matter how small or how large the funeral may be, makes "Hursen" funerals the sweetest final tribute.

The new fleet of Hursen limousines and limousine hearses has been another surprise for Chicago. Each car of this fleet is a Lincoln, built especially for Hursen from Hursen designs. Each is a masterpiece in beauty, riding comfort and workmanship—America's greatest contribution to the automobile world!

All Chicago knows that with all this elegance the charges for "Hursen" funerals are but a fraction of the charges made elsewhere. Call Hursen, of course!

- Twin-Ignition motor
- 12 Aircraft-type spark plugs
- High compression
- Houdaille and Lovejoy shock absorbers (exclusive Nash mounting)
- Salon Bodies
- Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons (Invar Struts)
- Double-drop frame
- Torsional vibration damper
- World's easiest steering

These cars combine the advantages of closed and open car travel. With the top up and windows raised, they are luxurious closed cars—with the top down and windows either down or up, they are today's smartest open cars. All have a big, comfortable rumble seat for when there is a foursome.

The Standard Six Cabriolet is one of the most popular cars in its price field, because it combines the smart open-enclosed motoring vogue with Standard Six performance superiority.

It has a big, high compression, 7-bearing motor for power and speed—"400" steering for the world's easiest driving—Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, outboard mounted, for cushioned smoothness over all kinds of roads.

The Special and Advanced Six Cabriolets are distinguished by such "400" features as the new "400" Twin-Ignition motor, Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication, lubricating all vital chassis points with a single depression of a pedal, Lovejoy and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers.

And price is one of the most interesting features of all these Cabriolets. You will find it simply impossible to match their style, beauty, performance and size within hundreds of dollars of their cost, delivered and fully equipped.

One reason, of course, is Nash value, always outstanding. But another important reason is the fact that every "400" model comes from the factory equipped with chromium-nickeled bumpers, hydraulic shock absorbers, spare tire lock and tire cover. These are not added later as "extras" at retail prices, as is true with most other cars. Some dealers, you'll no doubt be surprised to discover, charge as much as $50 or $60 extra for bumpers alone.

Compare cabriolets for style, quality and ability. THEN compare delivered, fully equipped prices. You'll see the advantage in buying a Nash!

- 7-bearing crankshaft (hollow crank pins)
- Bijur centralized chassis lubrication
- Electric clocks
- Exterior metalware chrome plated over nickel
- Short turning radius
- Longer wheelbases
- One-piece Salon fenders
- Clear vision front pillar posts
- Nash Special Design front and rear bumpers

Finds Temperance Aids Good Conduct.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18.—In seven of the nine Canadian provinces liquor is legally purchasable; and yet Canada considers her rate of convictions for indictable offenses to be less than one-half of the rate prevailing in the United States where prohibition prevails. Canada's rate of convictions per 100,000 population for major crimes is 183. The United States does not compile such statistics but the best information available is that the rate in the United States is around 400. The ratio in Britain is 160.

Four out of every five persons who face Canadian courts charged with indictable crimes are convicted and sentenced. The precise percentage of convictions of persons so charged all over the dominion of Canada is 78.91, with the province of Saskatchewan, a prairie province, topping the list in the matter of conviction percentage, with the high rate of 91.49 per cent. Canada prides herself upon impartial administration of the law and while a few traffic law breakers may pull wires to evade court fines there is no such side stepping of major offenses.

No Covering Up.

There is no covering up on crime statistics in Canadian municipalities in which the clerks of every tribunal administering criminal justice are obligated under statute and penalty of fine to forward complete and accurate returns of prosecutions and convictions and penalties. Nor is there any open toleration of vice.

All this doesn't mean that there are no places of vice in Canadian centers. There are plenty and they are not so difficult to find. But the police knock them off just as quickly as they find them—that is, in 99 cases out of 100. The hundredth case exists in every municipality, but the discipline and close supervision which exists throughout Canadian police circles is too severe to permit of that odd exception remaining an exception for long.

Canadian statistical crime tables show that crime has been most rampant in provinces where there are large communities of foreign born. For instance, pastoral and peaceful and dry Prince Edward Island, the population of which is practically entirely Canadian born, returned the astonishingly low rate of 16 convictions per 100,000 population over the years 1923 to 1927 inclusive, while British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Ontario, in which there are large blocks of foreign born, all touched or went over the 200 per 100,000 mark.

British Columbia was highest with 241 convictions for indictable offenses per 100,000; Ontario had 238 over the same period; Alberta, 233, and Saskatchewan, 204.

Few Offenses in Quebec.

Manitoba, where the settlements are older and more Canadianized, registered 199, while Quebec province, with its preponderance of French speaking Canadians, had only 120 convictions for major offenses per 100,000 for the same five years. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, both maritime provinces, showed wide disparity in their crime records, the former registering but 55 and the latter 117 convictions for major offenses per 100,000.

The year to year record of Canadian crime from 1918 to 1927 shows the major offense total for 1927 to be only about 1,500 greater than the total for 1918. The total convictions for indictable offenses in 1927 was 18,836, as against 17,370 for 1918. That represents a percentage of increase hardly as great as the percentage of population increase. And in 1918 all Canada, with the exception of Quebec, was bone dry, or supposedly so, while in 1927 every province, with the exceptions of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, was wet.

Subdividing the Canadian crime lists to determine the trend of the most serious crime, one finds that the murder record is as follows: 1923, 15; 1924, 21; 1925, 18; 1926, 12, and 1927, the last year for which all Canadian figures are available, only 11. Manslaughter, which would include some deaths from automobile accidents, is figured out at an average of 37.2 per year over the same years.

Liquor Crimes Decline.

Throughout the whole of the Canadian statistics the average percentage of female offenders as against male is 10 per cent. And in 1927 slightly over two-thirds of those convicted of indictable offenses were Canadian born while the other third were born out of Canada.

Nonindictable offenses show a steady increase from 137,492 in 1923 to 193,240 in 1927, the increase being largely accounted for by the increase in breaches of traffic regulations, which increased 24 per cent. Drunkenness increased from 28,317 to 31,171, but breaches of the liquor laws decreased from 13,412 to 12,447 from 1926 to 1927.

Canadian crime figures do not of themselves tell any story as regards the effect of liquor sale on crime. It is notable, though, that as the Canadian provinces during 1923 to 1927 emerged from the prohibition to the wet era offenses against the opium and narcotic drug act declined from 1,297 in 1923 to 996 in 1924, to 823 in 1925, to 743 in 1926, and to 491 in 1927.

Drunkenness, as has been shown, increased 3,000 all over Canada in 1927, which was the year Ontario went wet and Saskatchewan's first full year of renewed wetness. But crimes against the liquor laws declined, and the mounted police, in their reports, referred to rapid decline in the number of illicit stills and near booze manufacturing establishments operating in secluded spots in the west.

THE TRIBUNE canvassed every attorney general of every wet province in Canada in search of an authoritatively pronounced opinion on whether regulated liquor sale decreased crime. But the wet and dry issue is just as politically hot here as in the United States and none would publicly state an opinion. One, however, who said that he could find no reflection in ordinary crime statistics of the effect of liquor sale was positive—and he is a dry personally—that liquor sale had removed the great wave of unrest and dissatisfaction with law in general which followed prohibition and prohibition snoopers.

Submits Insane Statistics.

While Attorney General William E. Price of Ontario would not say that liquor sale affected major crime one way or another, he submitted hospital for the insane statistics for dry and wet years which he thought told a story. This is his statistical table, showing alcoholic insanity cases to have dwindled from .37 per cent of total admissions in 1925 to .12 per cent of total admissions in 1928—a wet year:

1925—Dry Law Year.

Total admissions to insane hospitals	2,299
Total number of admissions of alcoholics	84

Total number of admissions to insane hospitals	2,016
Total number of admissions of alcoholics	44
Percentage	.22

1928—Wet Law Year.

Total number of admissions	2,251
Total number of admissions of alcoholics	27
Percentage	.12

Temperance Lowers Canadian Crime

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18.—The following is a table of total convictions for indictable offenses by provinces from 1918 to 1927, inclusive. In attempting to trace the affect of liquor sales upon crime, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick may be eliminated from consideration because the first two are dry [Nova Scotia is voting on the issue this summer] and New Brunswick only went wet in 1928, for which there are no figures.

Quebec has always been wet, so there can be no wet and dry year comparisons there. But Ontario went wet in mid-1927 and in 1927 convictions jumped over 700—which may or may not prove something. Manitoba went wet during 1923, and 1924, the first full year of wet law, shows a very ordinary increase of 66 criminal cases, the total of 1,160, however, being lower than that of the dry year of 1922.

Saskatchewan went wet in 1925 and 1926 shows a sudden jump in crime total of about 400. But the very next year the crime total went down again to less than it was in the dry year of 1924. Alberta went wet in mid-1924 and in 1925 there was a sudden drop of about 200 in the number of crime cases. But the next year it rose again to normal. British Columbia went wet in 1921 and in 1922 that province showed a striking decrease of about 280 cases in the crime total, the crime total remaining below the previous normal for the year 1923 following. The table follows:

BRITISH BARPLAY; MISS GISH TO ACT IN PRIVATE SHOW

LONDON, May 18.—Dorothy Gish will appear here in "Young Love," a New York success, if the censor will let her. Miss Gish was already en route when Earl Cromer, the lord chamberlain, refused to license the play even after amendments had been suggested to alter the offending features. She received news of the difficulty by radio while in midocean.

Terence de Marney, actor manager, who is producing the play, is getting around the obstacle temporarily by taking the Arts theater, a small auditorium where private societies may stage their production independent of the censor. Six performances of "Young Love" will be given between July 3 and 7.

At the end of that time the producer hopes that he will have convinced the censor as well as the British public that they would not risk contamination if the play were produced on a commercial scale.

Rich Roumanian Merchant Is Unmasked as Bandit

BRAILA, Roumania, May 18.—(AP)—Police have succeeded in unmasking Zacharje Safru, one of the most wealthy and honored merchants of Braila, as a long wanted bandit leader, terror of Bessarabia and the whole of Transylvania. Police searching his villa here found jewelry valued at many millions of lei [a lei is worth nearly six-tenths of a cent].

FORMER MUSIC TEACHER DIES.

Laporte, Ind., May 18.—[Special.]—Nellie Poole, former Laporte singer and for six years head of the public school music department in Milwaukee, is dead in Glendale, Cal., according to word received here. She died in Windsor hospital after a heart attack. The funeral will be held Sunday.

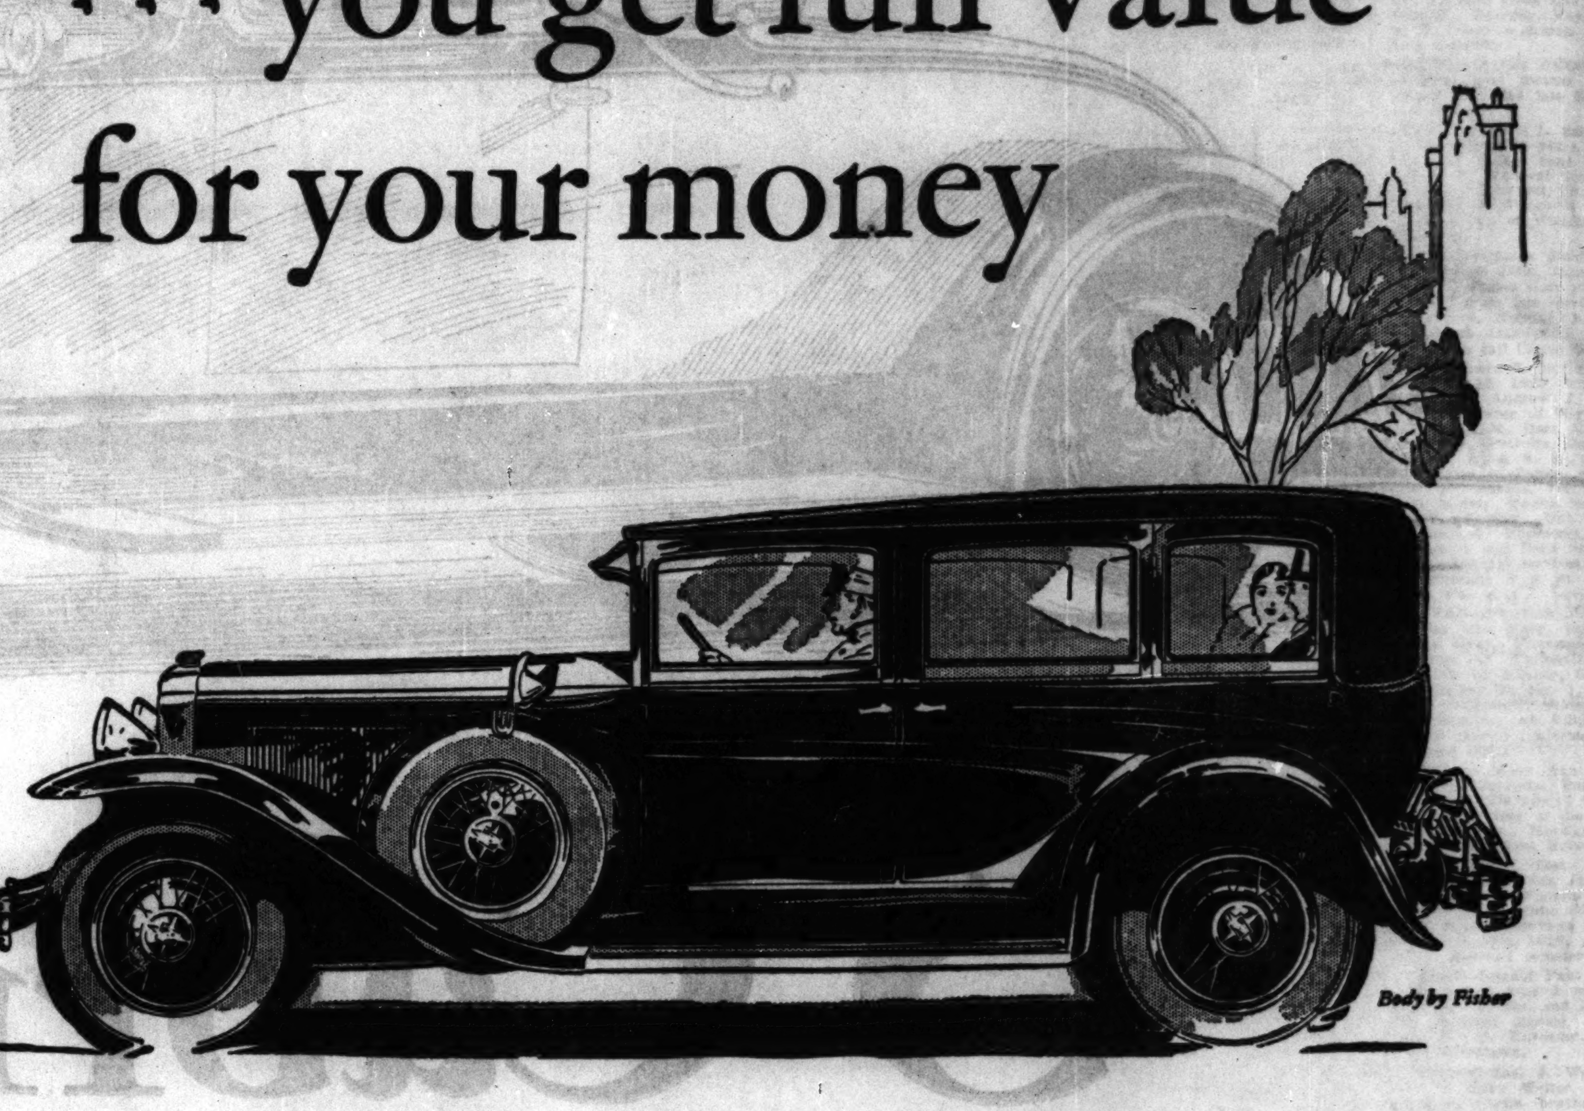
You pay no premium when you buy a Buick
. . . you get full value for your money



There is no "extra magic," no special or mystic ingredient, in any motor car—Buick included . . . nothing but the basic qualities of performance, appearance, stamina and riding comfort put into the car by the manufacturer.

The reason you get finer performance, finer appearance, finer comfort and longer life in Buick is the very practical fact that the world buys more than twice as many Buicks as any other automobile listing above $1200; and thus makes it possible for Buick to give greater value than other, less favored manufacturers.

You pay no premium when you buy a Buick . . . you get full value for your money—

—the greater value reflected in Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher—in the sturdy Buick double-drop frame with Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear—and particularly in the matchless new elements of getaway, swiftness, smoothness and stamina provided by the Buick sealed chassis and triple-sealed Valve-in-Head engine—the most powerful automobile engine of its size in the world.

Test Buick in direct comparison with other cars. Prove its superior abilities to your own satisfaction. Then take advantage of this greater value made possible by the overwhelming demand of the motoring public itself . . . Drive a Buick.

BOYS CENTER OF CITY'S INTEREST FOR SIX DAYS

225,000 Attend Church Services Today.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

In Chicago this week boy is king. Religious services attended by 225,000 of them will inaugurate this morning the six days during which the city annually, under the auspices of the Boys' Week federation, is asked to look upon its boys, to gauge their assets, ambitions, accomplishments, hobbies, and recreations. One million persons, it has been estimated, will participate in some phase of the week's activities with boys.

Dean Shailer Mathews, representing the Chicago Church federation, is chairman of the religious services for boys today. He is assisted by Msgr. C. J. Quille, representing the Roman Catholic churches, and Rabbi Gerson B. Levi, for the Jewish congregations. Sermons and prayers for boys will be included in the day's programs.

Program for Each Day.

George W. Dixon, president of the Boys' Week federation, has arranged with various organizations and industries to take part in the programs of each ensuing day, emphasizing some interests of the city's boys. Thus tomorrow will feature the boy in his spare time, Tuesday the boy and his hobby, Wednesday boys' day in industry, Thursday boys' evening at home, Friday boys' day in citizenship, and Saturday boys' day in athletics.

A great mass meeting at Soldiers' field on Friday will climax the week. The event will be open to the public, will attract 75,000 boys in competition in various games and sports, and will include performances by star fire companies and crack squads of the police department in drill. Companies of R. O. T. C. boys from the high schools will give intricate drills, and a concert will be given by a band made up of all the high school bands of the city. It is thought the music will be audible in the loop.

Award Medals Friday.

Friday evening there will be a civic assembly at the Auditorium, when there will be an award of medals to civic spirited boys from various educational institutions, and scholarships given by Julius Rosenwald will be announced. Speakers will include Mr. Rosenwald, Miss Jane Addams, George W. Dixon, and Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan.

Special radio programs are ready for tomorrow's program, with numbers of special interest to boys scheduled at various stations, and suggestions for the day by Judge Francis B. Allegretti and parent-teacher associations. G. E. Soll is chairman of the day, which is sponsored by the Optimists' club.

Rotary clubs and the Association of Commerce will sponsor Wednesday's gatherings, which includes special programs and luncheons in industrial plants and exhibits of the hobbies of boys employed. On Thursday, boys' day in health, physical examinations will be conducted under the auspices of the Kiwanis club. Dr. Thomas A. Carter is chairman of the day.

"Boys" of '65 to Attend.

Twenty-two "boys" of 1861-1865 will attend services this morning at the Park Manor Methodist Episcopal church, 70th and South Park avenue, with the boys of 1929. Ald. William D. Meyering, world war veteran, will be in charge of the young group, and Thomas L. Beem, 503 East 60th street, will be host to the older veterans. The services are sponsored by tent 20, Daughters of Union Veterans.

Twenty-five civic and religious leaders yesterday announced a vote of confidence in Chicago's boyhood.

"As we stand together at the threshold of Boys' week," the message said in part, "for the ninth season in Chicago, we who are active in service today, greet you as the leaders of the future and express to you our confidence, affection and admiration. We have unbounded faith in your talents, in your zeal, in your integrity, in your conscientiousness, and in your ambitions. We see in you a greater and better Chicago than any one has ever dreamed."

DANCE LEADER

Miss Mae Ryan of the city electrical department is co-chairman of tickets for the Municipal Employés society dance with Robert Gifford of the city paymaster's office. The dance is to be held on Navy pier next Saturday night and will mark the official opening of the pier to the public for the summer season. Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, is general chairman of arrangements. Emmons J. Alden is president of the society.

POOR CHILDREN PLAN OUTING AT CAMP ALGONQUIN

Pick North Side Group for Vacations.

A group of children born into Chicago's gold coast district with nary a sign of a gold spoon in their mouths seemed not to mind in the least that oversight of Dame Fortune yesterday.

With an enthusiasm which the most rigorous poverty had failed to dull, they planned this summer's vacation at Camp Algonquin as they gathered at the lower north district of the United Charities, 111 West Oak street, for their monthly check-up by a Elizabeth McCormick Memorial doctor and nutrition worker. As they were weighed and measured, those who will be among the 170 from the district to go to camp chattered of this thing and that "when we were at Camp Algonquin."

Objects to Frogs.

Jimmie, 9 years old, likes to swim at Algonquin so much, he confided, but he doesn't care a great deal for the interference of frogs in the "pond." Frogs are nice in the Fox river, but they ought not to be in a swimming pool. That was the boy's single criticism, which, unknown to him, is also the criticism of the summer outing committee. The latter hopes that friends will come to the rescue, as the pool will not be used this year, and around $3,000 will be needed to build a new one.

Otherwise, to Jimmie and his sisters, Mary, 10, and Dorothy, 12, there is no place on earth like the Fox River Valley camp. They went last year and they know.

Mexican Boy to Camp.

Among the group was Robert, 8 years old, a Mexican boy who, with his mother and two small brothers, will visit Algonquin for the first time this summer. Having no conception of what life would be like in the country, he tactfully thought he would have a fine time if he could play ball and things like that.

"These vacations bring whole families in contact with things they have never experienced before," said Miss Florence Nesbitt, for many years superintendent of the district. "In this district are the gold coast, rooming houses, Bohemians, little Italy, Persians, Mexicans, Negroes. Many of these we serve are handicapped physically, mentally, or are immigrants to the communit. The most worthy and neediest we send to Algonquin."

While all other districts of the United Charities are selecting their quotas, specific needs at the camp itself continue to be urgent.

A $10 check from V. C. B. and $5 each from the Inquiring Reporter and A. W. bring the Algonquin fund to $1,150. All gifts will be gratefully received and should be directed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

Stay Out as Long as You Want.... Sleep as Late as You Wish

Say "Goodbye" to Heating Cares

What though the hour be late! The Morrissey is a dependable "janitor." Your rooms will be cozily warm when you get home.

SUPPOSE, Mr. House-Owner, these were still the days of magic and you were in possession of Aladdin's lamp. Suppose, in September, you rubbed the mystic treasure, and said,

"Winter with all its heating cares is coming. It is my wish that I be relieved permanently and completely of all janitor duties. Let the warmth of my home be an even 72 degrees every day, regardless of weather conditions outside. Let the temperature drop to 50 degrees each night at 11, except, of course, when I have guests. Let there be no dirt, dust or soot—no fire to re-kindle—no ashes to cart out. Let my basement be transformed from a dust-laden coal cellar to a pleasant playroom or workshop. Let me sleep as late as I wish, stay out as long as I want—in a word, forget all about the heating problem—and yet be sure of an even, comfortable temperature throughout the long winter months."

Your Wish May Be Realized

No, this message does not tell where Aladdin's Lamps may be bought—but it does explain how every condition of your wish may be realized.

A MORRISSEY Oil Burner, installed in your home now will do everything next winter that the plea to Aladdin's Lamp demands! It will automatically maintain any desired temperature throughout the cold weather months. It will enable you to enjoy those last precious 30 minutes of sleep with the assurance of cozy rooms when you arise. It will permit you to stay away days, if desired, without thought of the heating problem. It will completely eliminate dirt, dust, soot and ashes. And yet the fuel cost is never much higher, and often no higher, than coal.

The MORRISSEY is an amazingly simple, absolutely safe burner with only one moving part! Made in limited quantities to assure a perfect product; installed only by factory-trained experts to assure adjustment exactly suited to your needs. Every user is an enthusiast, as our file of letters will demonstrate.

SENATOR JONES' PEOPLE BOAST OF THEIR LIQUOR

Seattle Product Is Better than Canada's.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Seattle, Wash., May 18.—[Special.]—Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the 5 and 10 law, seems to be having difficulty in leading his home city into he paths of ginlessness.

Seattle is wet. The unredeemed even seem to rejoice in its wetness. The conviviality bloc greets the inquiring stranger with three loud boasts, to-wit:

That in Senator Jones' home village of Seattle the thirsty sojourner can procure a better mint julep than in Louisville, a more seductive silver fizz than in New Orleans, and a more alluring rickey than in Miami itself.

Proof Is Offered.

They offer empirical demonstration. And, to tell the truth, one finds they ar not dealing in empty words. The boasts give point to some curious paradoxes in the Pacific northwest.

The region is the habitat of some of the most illustrious bone dry leaders and of a proletariat with a magnificent thirst. Some of the camels here seem to wear oversize humps, yet they don't come from any desert. Senators Jones and C. C. Dill, bone dry leaders, come from wet environments in Seattle and Spokane.

The bootleggers are a prolific race. Last year the government dry agents arrested three times as many leggers and runners, moonshiners and brewers in Washington as in Illinois—in proportion to population. This rate of arrests in this state was more than twice as great as in Wisconsin or Michigan.

Ship Stuff to Canada.

The state bone dry act is among the most stringent. But the hardy mountaineers are producing stuff with shaggy ears. They have largely driven Vancouver out of the local market. Some connoisseurs here rate the mountain dew at $5 to $8 a gallon superior to Canadian stuff at $8 a quart.

And wet Canada is now undergoing an invasion of hard liquor made in bone dry America. At some border points, experts say more liquor is being bootlegged from dry America into wet Canada than from wet Canada into bone dry America.

Seattle and Spokane are not openly wet, that is there are no open bars. But there are plenty of joints, under cover. Contacts are easy for the traveler to establish, if he does not look like a dry agent. The night clubs are small and dingy, but travelers report that some of them are stocked with some of the old classics.

Jones Law in Action.

The Jones 5 and 10 act has served to shoot up the price a dollar or so a quart.

It has also put a bridle on the tongues of the bell hops. They no longer exude information or canvass for business as they did last summer. But bottle parties in hotel rooms are still the vogue.

A few cases have already been tried under the Jones law in Seattle, and the clerk of the court reports that the penalties imposed have not been any severer than before. Some authorities say it's going to be hard to get 12 puritans on a jury. In Spokane recently three cases, not under the Jones law, were appealed from the police court and the city prosecutor raised a fuss because the women on the jury drank up the evidence and voted for acquittal.

Racket Too Crowded.

Home brew is slipping, as indicated by the waning market for malt sirup. Tastes have switched to the mountain dew and to gin, for alcohol appears readily accessible. Bootlegging itself has undergone a transformation. One de luxe purveyor says the days of the big easy money have gone, because so many have gone into the racket—the profits are split among so many that a legger has to be up and coming to average $40 a day.

In its social life Seattle is no different from other cities. One leading business man remarked:

"The conventional cocktail is served at dinners, the locker rooms at the clubs contain more than mineral water. Anybody who wants it, has it, just like everywhere."

It's the fashionable trade, of course, that is the mainstay of the more prominent bootlegger.

"You throw a dinner," said one citizen, "and you give one order to the chef, another to the florist, and another to the legger. Thus life is simplified."

One of the dispensers, however, held differently. "It's not so simple," he said. "You got to know your job. Sometimes I get an order to furnish enough to give the guests that feeling of exhilaration but not enough to get crocked. Believe me, that's a problem."

There is the same adjustment in Washington that may be observed in other dry as dust states. Little interference is made with the citizen of substance and standing, who has his quart in the ice box, but there is pressure on the less-well-to-do drinkers.

Logging is the basic industry of Seattle, and loggers, fishermen and other laborers come here between seasons. That's the element that gets the toughest break.

Seattle, the home of the great 5 and 10 puritan, itself does not seem to be puritanical. Three years ago Senator Jones was almost beaten by Scott Bullitt, a wet newcomer from Virginia. Bullitt, campaigning on the liberal issue, came within 15,000 votes of defeating Jones and carried wet Seattle by about 8,000.

PERJURY CHARGE MAY FACE MICHAELSON AS A RESULT OF RUM TRIAL

Miami, Fla., May 18.—[Special.]—Possibility of further prosecution of Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson of Chicago on charges of perjury growing out of his testimony during his Key West trial on charges of importing liquor, loomed here today as the government won its first move to obtain a record of the testimony at Key West.

Judge Halsted T. Ritter signed an order at noon impounding notes taken at the trial by the clerk of the district court. He refused, however, to grant the government's request that H. H. Taylor, counsel for Michaelson, be restrained from preventing Minnie Kehoe, court stenographer, from selling the government a transcript of the notes, holding this was property of the defense.

The government can subpœna Miss Kehoe, however, and require her to read her notes in court, the only disadvantage being that the testimony will not be available for preparation of a new government case.

Although neither W. P. Hughes, acting district attorney, or N. J. Morrison, special assistant attorney general, would consent to be quoted, it is believed that the government is preparing to investigate new evidence uncovered in Haiti.

The Haiti chapter of the case has to do with reports of a purchase by Michaelson at Port au Prince of three kegs of rum similar to one found in the trunk at Jacksonville, a dispute with a customs officer over payment of duty on the rum, and an altercation with a Haitian chauffeur that attracted considerable attention.

Further use of the Key West trial notes will be made in the prosecution of Walter Gramm, Michaelson's brother-in-law, who claimed ownership of the leaky trunks found at Jacksonville, Mr. Morrison said. Gramm was indicted at Jacksonville last week.

Calling Cop 'Dummy' Not Disorderly; Lawyer Freed

Attorney Charles Center Case, former assistant state's attorney and more recently special attorney for the election commission, was found not guilty of disorderly conduct yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court. He was arrested on May 11 because, it was said, he had called Policeman William Garrey a "dummy" during a controversy over the parking of his car.

The hearing yesterday developed into a controversy as to who called whom a dummy. Judge Olson finally ruled that even if Attorney Case had called the policeman a dummy it was not an act of disorderly conduct.

Retail dry goods merchants from all parts of the United States will assemble in Chicago tomorrow for the opening of four concurrent conventions of the National Retail Dry Goods association. The conventions, which will end on Thursday, are the controllers' congress, store managers' division, traffic, receiving, and marketing group, and the personnel group. The sessions will be held at the Drake hotel.

The program will open with a joint session of all the groups, over which Elmer T. Stevens will preside as honorary chairman. The retail men will be given a welcome by John H. Wood of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. Following general talks on problems of the trade the retailers will register and adjourn until the separate afternoon sessions.

Officials of the association are scheduled for talks during the morning and afternoon sessions and leaders in individual fields will present a number of plans and problems that confront the members. During Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday joint sessions will be held in the afternoons by some of the groups, but in most instances the morning meetings will be for the individual groups alone.

Exhibits of office and sales equipment will be displayed by 40 manufacturers. After each session of the groups, the members will adjourn to visit the exhibition booths which will contain equipment ranging from paper sacks to cash registers and card index equipment.

Executives of Chicago retail stores, many of whom are listed as speakers, will be given a luncheon on Wednesday. Alfred B. Koch of Toledo, president of the association, will preside.

Among the speakers on the program are J. P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Ray Hudson, assistant director of the federal bureau of standards, Washington, D. C.; Isabel Craig Bacon of the federal board of vocational education, Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director in charge of domestic commerce, also of Washington.

ROCCO FANELLI ON STAND; DENIES POLLS VIOLENCE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Marcel Nootens, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Conrad Petta, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Robert E. Gentzel.

Rocco Fanelli was the third of the four Eller henchmen, who are on trial before Judge Frank Comerford in the Criminal court for crimes committed on primary day April 10, 1928, to take the witness stand yesterday and deny the charges. In fact, Fanelli said that he has been labeled wrongly by the prosecutors, that he, in reality, was interested only in a Deneen candidate in that particular election. He said he was attempting to assist in the election of Dave Chesrow, the Deneen candidate in the 25th ward for committeeman.

During the cross-examination of Fanelli the name of Lorraine Irwin, star witness for the state in the Dr. Amante Rongetti trials, was brought out by Special Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber. He asked Fanelli if it was not true that he had discussed his election exploits with Miss Irwin and Margaret Welsh, who was to have been a state witness in the first Eller trial. Fanelli admitted knowing Miss Irwin, but denied that he had ever talked to her on that subject.

John Armando and State Senator James Leonardo have already testified in their own behalf. Sam Kaplan, the fourth defendant, was in the American hospital awaiting an operation for a stomach disorder and did not appear in court yesterday. His attorneys said he was in a serious condition.

Arguments in the case will begin Monday morning.

FREE COAL

"Coal for nothing . . . Actually! Automatic combustion paid for itself . . . or gave us the same amount in free coal, take it as you wish."

Coonley Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

It won't cost you a penny to get all the facts about the modern way of burning the cheapest fuel in the world—coal. To see in actual operation the startling economies offered by Combustioneer Automatic Coal Burner.

For any financially responsible manufacturer, apartment house owner, or anyone else in the Chicago area interested in the cost of fuel, WE WILL MAKE IMMEDIATE INSTALLATION OF COMBUSTIONEER AUTOMATIC COAL BURNER.

MAKE NO PAYMENTS UNTIL FALL! A small percent of the contract now, covers our cost of hauling and installation. Make no payments until fall. With hundreds of other Chicago apartment house owners and manufacturers learn that here is the cheapest way in the world to burn the cheapest fuel in the world.

The Combustioneer principle is simple. It is the first machine to automatically feed coal to a fire and at the same time supply a forced draft scientifically balanced to the coal feed. Combustioneer means perfect combustion.

Combustion of everything. Even of the gases that make soot and smoke in the hand-fired job. Gases that are really super-fuel. But require the intense heat of Combustioneer firing to ignite them.

That's why scores of Chicago firms do the same heating or steam job on actually less tonnage of screenings than they used to require of more expensive coal.

Act on Our "Don't Pay Till Fall" Offer

So sure are we that Combustioneer will prove itself just as dramatically for you as it has for scores of other Chicago firms—we are making this offer for a limited time only to responsible concerns.

Are you an apartment owner? Try it for the aquastatic-automatic control it gives to hot water heating in submerged water systems.

Are you a commercial steam user? Perhaps you will find with Peter Schuttler Co., Chicago, that with cheaper coal you can evaporate 2.2 lbs. more water per pound of coal.

IT COSTS NOTHING TO GET MORE DETAILS ABOUT THIS OFFER. SEND THE COUPON. WE WILL MAIL INFORMATION OR SEND OUR REPRESENTATIVE, AS YOU DESIRE. PHONE CRAWFORD 4220, OR ADDRESS

COMBUSTIONEER, Inc., 1829 So. 55th Ave., Chicago, Ill.

King Coal! The ONE ever-reliable fuel. If you don't think so, consider that most refining companies with oil to sell do their own manufacturing with coal. If they can't burn their own oil profitably, can you hope to?

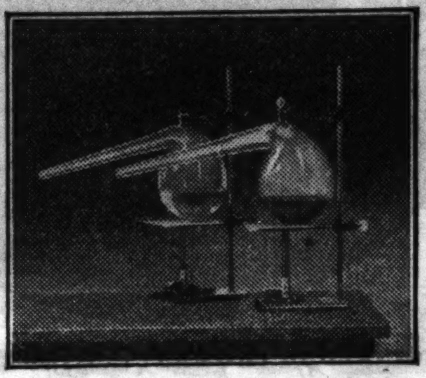
Now, here's completely automatic coal burning. Combustioneer! All the heat there is in coal. Smoke completely eliminated. Stoking time minimized—ALL GUARANTEED. SEE DETAILS OF OUR "PAY NO MONEY TILL FALL" TEST.

DEALERS! A RARE OPPORTUNITY!

Combustioneer has a proposition of unusual dimensions for dealers throughout the Central States. Oil Burner dealers, heating contractors, leading coal dealers—are urged to write or wire for details.

Combustioneer, Inc., 1829 So. 55th Ave., Chicago, Ill.

SCHOOL BUDGETS ARE PRACTICAL so the National College of Chiropractic, Chicago, installed Combustioneer to cut fuel costs, banish the smoke nuisance and lower the expense of stoking to a bare minimum.



TWO BUNSEN BURNERS demonstrate the Combustioneer principle. It takes 20 minutes to boil water with the tiny air-hole closed on the left-hand burner. But 3 minutes to boil water in the retort on the right if the air hole supplies a draft balanced to the fuel feed.

"WITH A 24,000 SQUARE FEET CAPACITY BOILER WE EASILY GET 30,000 SQUARE FEET FOR HOURS AT A TIME. We have burned Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois screenings. Even with screenings the stack is clean." Amazing evidence from The Geo. Wittbold Co., Chicago Florists. Is there a florist who can ignore such economies?

WHO HAS A BETTER RIGHT TO SMILE than the engineer at the John M. Berry Building, 319 West Ohio St., Chicago. For as M. W. Dangle, Manager, says, "We find with Combustioneer that it is possible to use the cheapest coal — we eliminate smoke —and firing requires far less labor than the old way."

FOLKS AT THE DEARBORN SCHILLER APARTMENTS, CHICAGO, know the difference Combustioneer makes. Not only in the even steam pressure all winter long but in the hot water supply during summer. A big factor in tenant good will.

BRITISH HAVE OIL MONOPOLY ON PERSIAN COAST

Petroleum War Cause of U. S. Agent's Death?

(This is the second of a series of four articles on the extension of British oil development in the near east.)

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BAGDAD, Irak, May 18.—On the Persian gulf British oil companies, too, have complete monopoly. The British are chary about giving out the facts in regard to new oil developments, but even here recent discoveries have been made which show resources are considerably more vast than heretofore known.

The Sinclair company had an interest in the development of northern Persia. A contract had been signed, although not ratified, between the Sinclair interests and the Persian government for a drilling concession in the north.

Death of Maj. Imbrie.

The assassination of Robert Imbrie, the American vice consul, who in reality was a special agent for the American government in Teheran in the summer of 1924, put an end to this concession. The death of Maj. Imbrie will always be a mystery. Many people still believe that he was a victim of a rival oil war. Others regard his death as due to soviet activities as Maj. Imbrie was the chief of our intelligence service in Russia during the bolshevik revolution. According to a letter which he received from Robert Lansing, then secretary of state, which I have seen, Maj. Imbrie's reports on Russia are responsible for the American Russian policy, the recognition of the Baltic republics, and the refusal to recognize the soviet government.

The soviets undoubtedly had Maj. Imbrie on their enemy list. He was a special United States agent in Angora in 1922. At that time the premier, Reof Bey, told me he had uncovered a plot against Maj. Imbrie. Bolshevik influences were involved and Reof Bey notified the soviet representatives at Angora that the Turkish government would hold him personally responsible in case anything happened to the American.

Is Slain by Mob.

Later, when Maj. Imbrie was transferred to Teheran, he took a leading part in preparing the way for the negotiations between the Persian government and the Sinclair interests. Maj. Imbrie was killed by a Moslem mob at Teheran. He had attempted to take pictures of a sacred ceremony. Investigation proved that some one had incited the mob against the American representative.

BECOMES BRIDE

Miss Bertha C. Bidwell, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, was married at noon yesterday in Champaign to John Hewitt Rosenstiel, grain merchant of Freeport, Ill. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Hazen Selwyn Capron. After a trip south the couple will reside in Freeport. Both bride and groom were raised there.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Bidwell. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke college. For a number of years she was the director of the Gulick Girls' school in Madeira, Spain. She is a member of the national board of the American Association of Organized Family Social Work. She has been head of the Illinois League of Women Voters since 1927.

Miss Amelia Sears, head of Chicago United Charities, with whom the bride lived during her Chicago residence, and her two sisters, Miss Rose and Miss Sara Sears, attended the ceremony. Dr. and Mrs. Howard Thor Wesenberg of Upper university, Indianapolis, and Mrs. Robert M. Thomas of New York City were the only others present. The Rev. M. T. JAPAN WANTS TO TALK NAVAL CUT WITH U. S.

Hoover Likely to Call Conference of Nations.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The Japanese government has advised the state department of its willingness to meet with the other powers within the near future for a thorough discussion of the new American plan for reducing navies. This conference would take into consideration factors other than tonnage alone in computing the strength of fighting ships.

In making this known today, Secretary of State Stimson said that apparently all the major powers which discussed the naval question in Geneva are willing to discuss the American formula at a meeting to be called for some future date.

Secretary Stimson related that such a conference will be taken up only for finding a formula that would solve the naval deadlock and would not attempt to draw up a treaty. There were indications today that President Hoover intends to call a naval conference in the immediate future.

The state department opinion is that a meeting will be held when all the powers have given their technical experts an opportunity to thoroughly investigate the suggestion of Ambassador Gibson in Geneva that caliber of guns, tonnage of ships, speed, and other factors be taken into consideration in measuring naval strength.

Although Washington officials say no American formula has been formally transmitted to the other naval powers, it is admitted that members of the American delegation at the Geneva meetings acquainted the technical experts of the major naval nations with some of the details of the tentative plan.

Admiral Hilary Jones, the naval member of the delegation, now is returning to Washington for a conference with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson. It is possible that Ambassador Gibson, who has returned to his post in Brussels, will be recalled to Washington to discuss the general situation with the President.

1ST DIV., A. E. F., WILL MOUNT GUN SEIZED IN BATTLE

Veterans of the 1st division of the American expeditionary force will attend the mounting of a captured German cannon in Cantigny Woods, three miles south of La Grange, next Sunday, it was announced yesterday by Charles S. Lewis Jr., secretary of the Illinois branch of the Society of the First Division, A. E. F.

All members of the famous division, as well as members of the society, are invited to witness ceremonies, which will accompany mounting of the cannon, it was announced. Free transportation to the woods, which are a part of the Cook county forest preserves, will be furnished the veterans, and a luncheon, probably a barbecue, will be served.

Special coaches of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad will transport the veterans to La Grange. The train will leave the Union station at 10:37 a. m., daylight saving time, and will arrive at 5th avenue, La Grange, at 11:15 a. m. The former soldiers will be taken in trucks to the forest preserve and lunch will be served immediately.

A program of ceremonies is to be arranged and there will be several short talks, it was said. Returning in trucks to La Grange, the veterans will leave by train at 3:10 p. m., arriving in Chicago at 3:55 p. m.

It is expected that most of the Chicago district First division men will witness the ceremonies, which are in the nature of commemorating the anniversary of the battle of Cantigny, one of the decisive battles of the world war. The battle occurred May 28, 1918, eleven years ago.

HUPMOBILE'S new program has cut all prices
. . . reductions up to $260

LIEUT. REGINALD D. THOMAS . . . Aviator U. S. N. R. Winner of the Schiff trophy for the greatest number of flying hours without accident. Instructor of aeronautics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

LIEUT. THOMAS stepping into his new HUPMOBILE cabriolet. Chosen because "materials used in HUPMOBILE compare more closely with those used in the best aeronautical engines, than with any other moderately priced car ever brought to my attention."

When HUPMOBILE announced its radical price reductions on all models, Lieut. Reginald D. Thomas, aviator of the United States Naval Reserve, was one of the very first purchasers. He snapped up the opportunity. He drove away with a smart new HUPMOBILE cabriolet and a fat cash saving in his pocket.

And he volunteered this statement:

> "Specifications of materials used in the HUPMOBILE compare more closely to those used in the best aeronautical engines, than to those of any other moderately priced car that has ever been brought to my attention."

Lieutenant Thomas knows motors . . . and motor cars. For 12 years he's trusted his life to motors—in the air. Anything mechanical is an open book to him. He won the Schiff trophy for the greatest number of flying hours without accident, and the latest ex-President of the United States presented it to him. He teaches aeronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He chose a HUPMOBILE not alone on its magnificent reputation, its obvious style and beauty, its speed and power, or even its new price allure, but on the quality his expert eyes could see at a glance!

1,700 BRITISHERS WILL BATTLE FOR ELECTION PLUMS

Nomination Lists Close Tomorrow.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, May 18. — The second stage of the British general election will be reached Monday when nominations for parliament will be made in all constituencies. Election day will be May 30, and the first meeting of the new parliament is scheduled for June 25.

To date more than 1,700 candidates have announced their intention of standing and since there are 615 seats, this means a three cornered fight in almost every constituency. According to the latest figures, the conservatives have so far placed 591 candidates in the field as compared with 570 labor candidates, 510 Liberals, 34 Communists, and 34 representing miscellaneous parties. There may be additions to or withdrawals from this list before Monday.

Will Cost Over Six Million.

Each candiate must deposit in cash with the receiving officer the sum of $750, which is forfeited if he polls less than 10 per cent of the total vote. This means that approximately $1,250,000 is tied up in the hands of the returning officer until after the election. It is estimated that about $6,250,000 will be spent on the fight by the candidates.

One of the most interesting features of this year's election is the fact that, for the first time, women voters will outnumber men as a result of the recently passed law which extends the franchise to all women more than 21 years of age. The exact number of voters for the entire country is not yet known but the figures for 500 constituencies show 11,522,942 men registered as compared with 12,889,565 women.

So far the campaign has been dull with the Conservatives on the defensive and the Liberals and Laborites forcing the fighting.

Sir Austen Under Fire.

Sir Austen Chamberlain's announcement that Premier Baldwin has asked him to continue at the foreign office in case the Conservatives are returned to power, is being used by both the Liberals and Laborites as a strong argument against the Tories. This is based on the contention that Sir Austen has made a mess of foreign affairs.

The Laborites are expecting large gains in the towns and suburban districts and are hoping in particular for sensational victories in London and Birmingham. The latter town has been a stronghold of the Chamberlain family for two generations but it is believed now that most of its divisions will swing toward labor on May 30.

The Liberals hope to gain in the agricultural districts, where Mr. Lloyd George's land policy has pleased the farmers, whereas the Conservatives are believed to have lost considerable ground by their inaction. It must be remembered that the Tories can afford to lose more than 100 seats and still retain their majority. Labor, however, is banking on a greater upset which would enable it to combine with the Liberals for control of the government.

U. S. CAN REDUCE NAVY EASIER THAN BRITAIN—TIRPITZ

German Sea Dog Cites America's Advantages.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, May 18.—"Whether a conflict between England and America on the question of freedom of the seas will come about depends on world developments. Judging from present conditions, I do not think this will arise within an appreciable time," Grand Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz said today.

"I think that in such a conflict America would be the stronger, so I believe that she can afford to make concessions on many points. England's difficulties are steadily increasing. During the world war England gave out a motto for self-determination of the peoples and now, to mention only one case, England faces a grave problem in India's desire for self-determination. America's concentration, on the other hand, makes for her strength."

Favors Disarmament.

Dealing with the disarmament conference, Germany's old sea dog said:

"Naturally I want the disarmament plans to succeed and I believe that both America and England have the same wish, but I fear that the difficulties will be insoluble so long as the interests of the two countries are opposed on so many different points: On the one hand, England with a world scattered empire, and on the other hand, America strongly concentrated and holding to the Monroe Doctrine.

"The worst is that these differences are continually changing in detail owing to the changes in the political situation—for instance, the present English general election."

The admiral believes, however, that a frank talk between America and England would be useful.

"U. S. Shows Great Spirit."

Asked what he thinks about America's recent naval disarmament proposals, Von Tripitz said:

"I think that America showed great spirit in its concession, for any reduction in the percentage of small ships that America makes would be most agreeable to England. England could then build more small units, which is the very thing she wants to do.

"Regarding Japan's delay, I assume that Japan's view in these matters is similar to my own. Japan's geographical position and also her real interests incline her more towards England."

The admiral then expressed his view of the fighting value of various ships.

"Germany has adopted a new type imposed on her by the Versailles treaty. I, being no longer personally concerned, cannot say whether without the Versailles treaty Germany would have built such a type. Treble turrets may or may not represent an advantage. I formerly held the view that treble turrets were undesirable because I think that a larger number of turrets is advantageous from the point of view of firing experience.

"In the question of what ships are better for the various countries—that is, the smaller and more mobile, or larger and less numerous cruisers—the decisive consideration is their defensive value. In battle the thing aimed at must be the most powerful possible concentration. This means that big units are desirable, but this policy has its limits set by the maneuvering capability, carrying capacity, etc.

Thinks Size Limit Reached.

"Summing up, it is impossible to lay down arbitrary and general rules for the desirability of the various types of ships. One must find a compromise between the aspects of the defensive and offensive aims. This means a compromise between heaviness and mobility, speed and handiness, and thereby a number of other considerations come into play, such as the quality of steel employed. I think, however, that the limit in the size of battleships has long been reached."

"In this respect," he said, "the German ships are infinitely superior to the English ones, and this is also the opinion of one American admiral. I could mention a number of instances from American naval history and from the battle of Jutland. Even in a big naval fight it is ultimately a question of a duel between two ships. Before the war the shipbuilding policy of several of the nations was influenced more by a regard for publicity than for unsinkability.

"Submarines and submarine cruisers will still play a certain part, but only within the limits imposed by the other factors."

UPHOLDS U. S. IN HANDLING OF INDIAN'S CASH

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The interior department today received a decision rendered by Federal Judge John C. Pollock in Oklahoma City which upholds the action of former Secretary Hubert Work and the commissioner of Indian affairs in handling the funds of Jackson Barnett, an incompetent Indian.

After his marriage to Anna Laura Lowe, a white woman, Barnett's wealth, amounting to more than a million dollars in royalties received from oil on his lands, was divided equally between his wife and the American Baptist Home Missionary society on the grounds he was incompetent.

The division took place with the approval of the Indian bureau and has been the cause of a number of investigations and four court cases.

Barnett said his marriage had occurred after he had been kidnaped. Charges of conspiracy against the Indian bureau grew out of the case, but later were dropped and the gift to the Baptist society was set aside. A senate committee which investigated the case has not yet reported, although a department of justice investigation exonerated the Indian officials.

The Pollack decision held the handling of the funds by the Indian officials "must be approved as done under the full power and authority conferred upon the secretary of the interior by congress."

The ruling held the secretary had full power to make the distribution and to bind the government thereto.

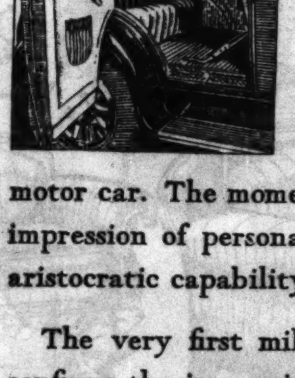
A well-groomed and capable aristocrat

CHRYSLER "75"
ROYAL SEDAN



$1535
f.o.b. factory

THE Chrysler "75" Royal Sedan is a well-groomed motor car. The moment you look at it you get the impression of personality, refinement, luxury and aristocratic capability.

The very first mile you drive it or ride in it confirms the impression that its appearance gives. You find its performance all that the name Chrysler implies in flexible power, eager speed and easy control.

You find its riding qualities well beyond any previous experience or expectation.

And, probably you will find the low price—$1535 f. o. b. factory—the climax of all the surprises that this remarkable car has in store for you. This figure certainly is infinitely lower than the one suggested by the Royal Sedan's distinguished appearance and capable behavior

Scientific manufacturing methods, thoroughly modern plant equipment and precision craftsmanship explain why the Chrysler price is so much less than you would have to pay elsewhere for similar beauty and luxury.

And a demonstration will convince you that Chrysler performance cannot be had in any other car at any price.

SOME DISTINCTIVE FEATURES OF THE ROYAL SEDAN

Interior appointments in formal good taste ++ Broadcloth or fine mohair upholstery, in harmony with exterior color combinations, optional without extra cost ++ Interior fittings of artistic pattern, richly finished ++ Padded armrests and a broad, carpeted footrail, both ornamental and comfortable ++ Deep, soft cushion springs, insuring complete relaxation ++ Side ventilators in driver's compartment, insuring a cooling circulation of air on even the warmest days ++ Safety and ease of handling augmented by slender 18-inch ebonized steering wheel, with non-slip threaded grip.

LIVE WELL AND BE LONG LIVED, CLUBMEN TOLD

Dr. Kegel Gives Rule for Work and Play.

The man who lives well, according to the modern conception, will live long. That was the essence of the answer given by Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel yesterday to the request of 4,400 Chicago business men, members of the Hamilton club, for a health program which will fit them to withstand the complex demands of modern business. He gave the club members instructions for the use of the exercise facilities of the club.

The stress of modern business with its attendant nervous and physical strain has created a health problem for most American men which older countries have passed through, Dr. Kegel said. Conservation and equalization between the body and its controlling system of nerves is the best method of keeping fit, he stated.

Makes People Irritable.

"Living conditions under complex influences and constant exasperations are causes of strained attention and an excess of physical tension," Dr. Kegel advised the clubmen. "This very frequently changes the disposition to one of irritability. Whenever there is a loss of equanimity there is a leak of energy. The results are varied forms of nervous exhaustion and an impairment of body resistance against germ growths and harmful chemical changes. These conditions may occur in the strongest individual.

"A program of conditioning for men should include periodical physical examinations. Secondly, physical conditioning through graduated exercises, competitive sports, and games which tend to develop not only the skillful muscles but also the vital functions; and, thirdly, equanimity in the dispensation of nervous energy, a rest in action while you are going about your work.

"A charcteristic of those who achieve longevity is the acquired habit of slow, deep respiration. Mental quietude is essential to this. The excited man, the emotional individual who suffocates with joy, palpitates with enthusiasm, chokes with rage, gasps with astonishment, sighs from the intensity of his attachments, shortens his life.

Relax Before Exercising.

"Relaxation before violent exercise is always best. Lie flat on a couch and relax every muscle for about ten minutes once or twice a day. Great benefit can be derived from this and an occasional nap. Do not exercise when you are bodily or mentally tired nor continue exercising when a feeling of fatigue warns that you have had enough. It is far better in such circumstances to rest."

Conscious self control under all circumstances is one of the finest of arts, according to Dr. Kegel, and an essential in our busy lives. An acquired state of poise, tranquillity, serenity is paramount in reëstablishing equanimity. Preparation of the nerves for a game of chess, cards, or target shooting is as necessary as preparation for violent physical exercise.

BAKER DISPUTES TITLE OF EARL GIVEN CANADIAN

LONDON, May 18.—The rancher earl—Frederick Perceval—who arrived from his Canadian ranch to take possession of the earldom of Egmont only last January may be shorn of his title if James William Perceval, sexagenarian baker, claimant to the rank, succeeds in winning his case. The latter claims the title and the estate which goes with it, citing the case wherein they were disputed in 1897 and at which time his father failed to put in a claim.

The son is now reopening the old affair alleging that the last two earls, the eighth and the ninth, had no right to the title. The present earl is the tenth.

Unfortunately the claimant's birth certificate papers are in the possession of lawyers who have removed to Australia and whom he has not yet been able to trace. As a result he is basing his claim for the present upon his marked facial resemblance to the Egmont family whose chief traits are alleged to be protruding ears and big noses.

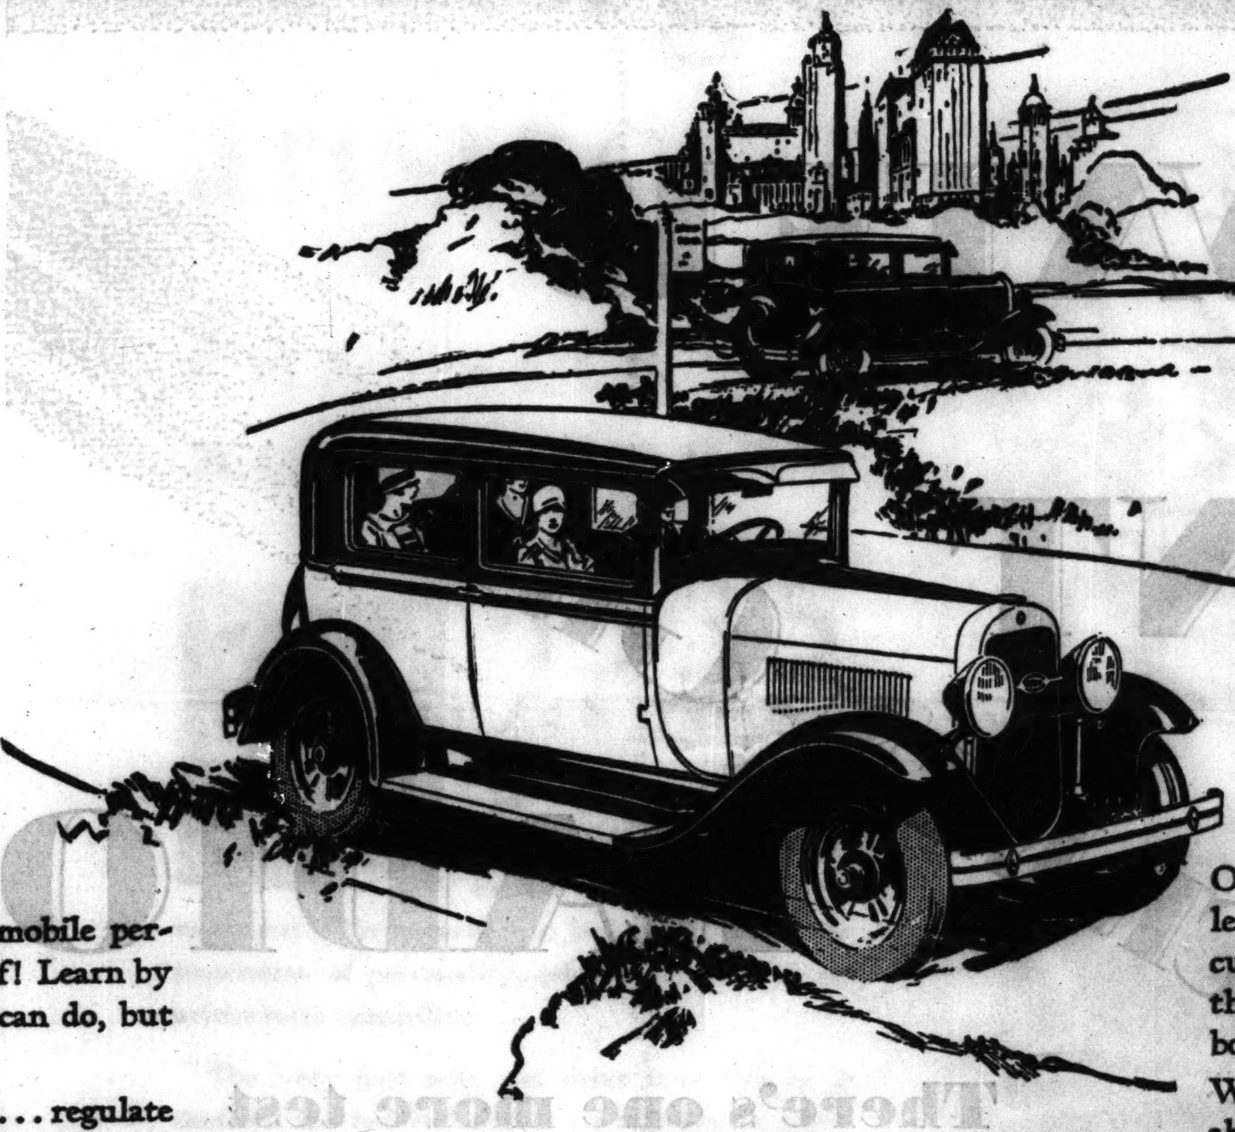
Check Oldsmobile Performance by the Surest Test of all -

DRIVE IT - KNOW WHAT IT CAN DO



THERE'S one sure way for you to prove Oldsmobile performance . . . come and drive the car yourself! Learn by actual experience, not only what this Oldsmobile can do, but how it does it.

Get behind the wheel. Make yourself comfortable . . . regulate the adjustable driver's seat to suit your height. Note the convenient arrangement of controls and instruments—the facility with which you can operate the starter, lights, gear-shift, accelerator, clutch, and brakes.

Then drive! Try this finer Oldsmobile in traffic and out on the open road. Test every phase of its performance.

Even in thickest traffic, you'll find Oldsmobile easy to drive. Swift, stageless pick-up gives you the advantage at the signal light. Easy handling and flexible performance enable you to slip nimbly through crowded streets. Fingertip steering and a short turning radius simplify parking.

Out on the road, Oldsmobile's big 62-horsepower high-compression engine delivers a smooth, rhythmic flow of eager power. There is greater speed than the average motorist ever needs—quick, sure acceleration to flash past other cars—tremendous reserve power for the hills—stamina to maintain a touring pace hour after hour.

And, to match these brilliant abilities, Oldsmobile provides other fine car performance characteristics that add still further to driving enjoyment.

Oldsmobile is smooth and quiet at every speed. The vibrationless engine is mounted on special rubber blocks. Rubber cushioning, used wherever cushioning should go, silences the chassis. And sound-deadening insulation between the body and the chassis creates a silenced interior.

Wide, deep-cushioned seats and four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers assure supreme riding comfort, even on rough roads. Splendid roadability results from a low center of gravity and properly balanced weight. Powerful four-wheel brakes bring you to a smooth, sure stop in a remarkably short distance. But come and make these tests yourself. Drive this car. Compare it, point for point, with other cars. Talk with owners and get the results of the trials of months and miles. Then, when you know what Oldsmobile can do, judge it by your own standards of performance and value.

CHICAGO SENDS BIGGEST CROWD TO THE DERBY

Rain, Then More Rain, Greets Fans.

BY DON MAXWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—Some time there may be a Kentucky Derby run beneath a smiling sun. Sixty thousand rain soaked folk will have to see to believe. They got so wet today watching the fifty-fifth renewal of this 3 year old classic of the Mint Julep country they find it difficult to imagine a Derby on a cloudless afternoon.

Four years ago the Derby army was drenched by intermittent showers. Last year the Churchill Downs pilgrims got a good wetting while they were waiting for Reigh Count to show up and gallop to victory for his Chicago owner. But on both of those historic occasions the Derby fans had periods of comparative dryness.

Today the faucets of the sky were open from 7 o'clock in the morning until the last straggler had splashed through the gates. It wasn't a cloudburst or a spring shower that threatened Derby finery. It was a curtain of water that only lightened, never lifted.

Mighty Wet Drizzle.

And tonight 60,000 people—the wonder is there were so many—know just how moist the ground and the chairs and their clothes can get in a drizzle.

Seventy-five thousand had been expected to watch the thoroughbreds race today for the more than $50,000 prize. It is remarkable testimony to the pulling powers of the Derby that the actual crowd fell only some 15,000 short.

Fans seek cover when a few hesitant drops of rain fall at a ball game. Derby fans are hardier ilk. The few Derby fans who could pry their eyelids open early today found nothing to encourage their hopes that yesterday's sunshine was to continue to shine on the white towers of old Churchill Downs. Skies were gloomy and their gloom soon found expression. The rain began. The fans then hoped the rain would cease before noon. It didn't. It was still falling as darkness shut out from view the flags that flew from the high pole in the center of the infield.

Many Cars Mired.

Thousands of automobiles, parked in vacant lots, were mired in the bog. Cars which did get away slipped and skidded in the tangled knots of traffic that made the journey from the Downs to the business district of Louisville, a tedious, arduous drive. A trip of four miles required almost an hour.

Tonight the thirty or more special trains are loading up, pulling away to the north, east, and west. The lobbies of the hotels are jammed with folks gossiping, recounting their victories, bemoaning the ill luck that made their mutuel tickets scraps of paper. Orchestras are playing in dining rooms jammed to the doors.

A few of the many anticipated airplanes—a large number were kept away by the weather—are winging away.

But the picture of sixty thousand, standing on wabbly chairs, under flapping newspapers, on the water soaked lawns, on the roof and jammed in the shelter of grandstand and clubhouse, cheering and waving their hands as twenty-one nags plowed through a mile and a quarter of muck, is one they can't wash away.

"They're coming on the track," was the cry that brought every person on the grounds to take their places of vantage. What matter if it poured! The Derby was about to be run. Then the slow parade to the post, the colts and one filly picking their way right daintily down the track. Finally the thirteen minute delay at the barrier. It was raining harder all the time. But the crowd didn't seem to notice the deluge. Folks were too busy straining their eyes, craning their necks, so they wouldn't miss the start.

And then the race. It lasted only ten seconds more than two minutes, but sixty thousand let out enough cheering for a race that lasted a week. The roar reached a great crescendo as the home bred gelding, Clyde Van Dusen came dashing under the wire.

Rich and Poor Were There.

The Derby crowd came from everywhere. Railroad trackage was packed with Pullman cars—three hundred and more—garages were turning motorists away. Hotels, as usual, were sold out and thousands of private homes were renting rooms at $10 apiece. One hundred residences were rented from cellar to attic by house parties.

There were notables by the hundreds to cheer Van Dusen on. And there were roustabouts and light fingered gentry, too. Poor folks and rich folks, experts on form charts and people who didn't know whether the race was for three year olds or donkeys and didn't care—they just wanted to be at the Derby. For thousands the Derby is an occasion, a joy ride, a week-end vacation with friends.

There were millionaires and clerks, brokers and bus boys in today's Derby throng. And a great number of them, probably the largest delegation from any city, came from Chicago. By rail-

Clyde Van Dusen, superbly ridden by Linus McAtee, gallops past finish line two lengths ahead of Naishapur to win the Kentucky Derby. Panchio saved third place by a neck. Blue Larkspur, the favorite, was fourth. This picture was rushed to The Tribune by airplane.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—There's no need of a longer search for a successor to Earl Sande.

Pony McAtee, the 28 year old boy and family man of Baltimore who is the father of a couple of children, became the newest jockey idol of the American turf at Churchill Downs this afternoon when he galloped home in front on Clyde Van Dusen in the Kentucky Derby. This seemed to be McAtee's Derby any way you cared to figure it.

Last fall when he won the Futurity on High Strung and caused the son of High Time to open as the favorite in the Derby future book betting it seemed to be pretty much of a cut and dried proposition that McAtee would be aboard and would ride the next Derby winner. It looked like High Strung would win the Derby and McAtee would be riding him.

McAtee Picks Mount.

Disaster befell High Strung. He was injured about the time he started training for the Derby. A month ago he was declared out of the race and McAtee began to look around for another Derby mount.

Most any owner in the race would have been glad to land McAtee, but McAtee picked his own mount and he decided he wanted to ride Clyde Van Dusen.

McAtee had this streak of good luck coming to him. He won the Derby on Whiskery in 1927, but from that day on for nearly two seasons only ill luck trailed him.

Three times he was mashed and splintered up in spills on New York tracks. Two of the falls came last season. The turf goers began to say "Pony's nerve is gone now." But McAtee's nerve was not gone. He proved it when he got High Strung up to win the mad scramble of the Futurity last fall. He proved it again in the Pimlico Futurity in that nose decision over Dr. Freeland. He convinced everybody in the Derby crowd today that he has as much nerve as ever and that he has more skill than any other jockey in the country.

Helped Prolong Delay.

McAtee won the Derby this afternoon in the first quarter of a mile. He probably won it on the start. The field was at the post for 15 minutes. Part of the time McAtee had Clyde Van Dusen out on the outside with Blue Larkspur in his rightful position. But most of the time he was twisting and turning and helped as much as any other rider in the race to prolong the delay.

When the start finally came McAtee wasn't out near the outside fence on Clyde Van Dusen. He was near the center of the bunch, in ninth post position. That break let Clyde Van Dusen get away to a flying start.

"It was easy the rest of the way," McAtee said as he came back to share in the Derby presentations.

"When Clyde jumped to the lead after I had hit him once with the whip just after the start, I knew I was on a horse that liked to run over this kind of a sloppy track. I hit him again as we neared the first turn, for I wanted to be clear of interference at that stage.

"Down the back stretch he was running as easily and as gracefully as any horse I ever rode. No whip was needed here. At the turn for home I gave him another wallop just to show him the race wasn't over. In mid stretch I looked back and saw Naishapur coming. Clyde wasn't doing his best and I gave him another wallop with the whip. He jumped on into a new burst of speed. It was the fourth and last time I hit him during the race. We were in front but I believe we were going fastest of all as we passed the finish line."

McAtee, it is understood, got $10,000 for riding Clyde Van Dusen to his victory. He took a gamble with Owner Gardner and Trainer Van Dusen. If Clyde Van Dusen had been beaten he was to receive only his traveling expenses from New York to Louisville and return.

Luck didn't seem to play any part in the decision of this race. Naishapur was far back as was to be expected and he came with his run in the stretch. But it wasn't good enough to overhaul McAtee and Van Dusen.

Pharaphase Finishes Last.

Karl Eitel, Ald. Coughlin's colt, was in a good position rounding the first turn, but the slippery going was too much for him. He was skidding all over the track on the back stretch and had to be good and game to be ninth at the windup.

Windy City's race was just about the kind he was expected to run. He was off ninth and stayed in that position until the stretch battle started. He showed a rally in the stretch and was only beaten a half length for third money. Voltear and The Nut were only a couple of heads back of him. They didn't like the sloppy going and neither did John R. Thompson's recently purchased Minotaur. He wound up in twelfth place.

Unlucky Bill Fronk. He rode Paraphrase. Every horse in the race tossed mud and water into his eyes. He wound up last in the big field.

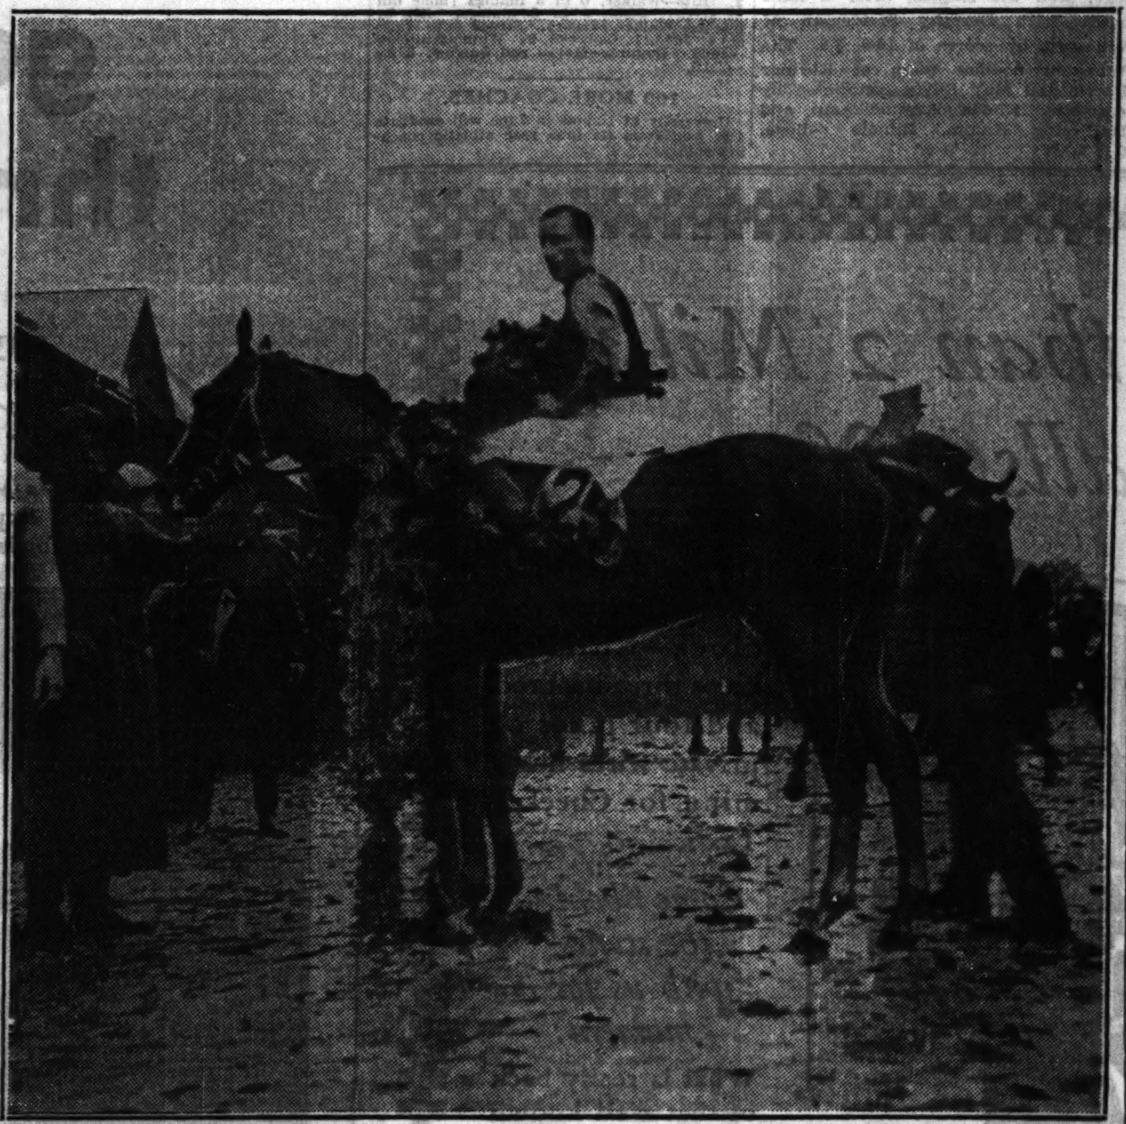
Any horse could have been last. Only Clyde Van Dusen could have won.

Clyde Van Dusen Gains in Bet Odds During Derby Day

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—First odds posted for the guidance of betters are what is known as the "morning line." This is what the track handicapper thinks the odds should be against each horse. These first odds on the Derby were 3 to 1 against Clyde Van Dusen, 4 to 1 each against Windy City and the field, and 6 to 1 against the Bradley entry. In the first mutuel prices, which represented actual betting, Blue Larkspur was back in favoritism at 2 to 1, with Clyde Van Dusen 5 to 2, and the field 8 to 1.



Clyde Van Dusen, after plowing through the mud to win the Derby, returned to the judges' stand to receive a wreath of flowers. He accepted his honors calmly, like a real champion.

Clyde Van Dusen took the lead after he first quarter, saved ground while setting the pace, and responded to a light shaking up to the stretch to hold his opponents safe. Naishapur, slow to start and racing wide, began moving up after going five-eighths and, after being blocked in the stretch, where he swerved, finished with a rush when clear. Panchio was prominent for the entire race and, benefitted by a strong ride, outfinished Blue Larkspur. The latter ran well to the stretch turn, where he dropped back, but came again gamely after going to the inside in the stretch, and just failed to get up for third place. Windy City raced well and held on gamely. Voltear tired in the final drive. Ben Machree finished with a rush. Karl Eitel tired. Minotaur was always far back. Essare showed early speed. Folking was done after reaching the stretch.

U. S. Sweeps Net Matches With Canada

MONTREAL, Que., May 18.—[Special.]—With their objective already gained in the first three matches, the American Davis cup players today went through the formality of completing the Davis cup matches with Canada. The Americans won the two final engagements for a clean sweep of the series.

John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., playing what was declared by local observers to be the finest tennis Canada ever has seen, smothered Dr. Jack Wright in the opening match, 6-1, 6-0, 6-1, but in the concluding engagement Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Tex., who substituted for John Hennessey, found that it was much more than a formality to win from Willard Crocker.

The scores were 2-6, 6-4, 10-8, 4-6, 6-2.

A gallery of 2,820, the largest of the three days of play, filled the stands of the Mount Royal Tennis club today.

CALIFORNIA WINS TRACK CARNIVAL; TWO MARKS FALL

Los Angeles, Cal., May 18.—(AP)—Two national intercollegiate records were established here today at the California intercollegiate track and field meet, in which the disqualification of the majority of the Stanford athletes gave the University of Southern California a decisive victory with a total of seventy points.

Harlow Rothert, Stanford weight man, heaved the shot a distance of 51 feet 1⅝ inches, bettering by more than a foot the mark of 50 feet 1 inch established last year at the intercollegiates at Cambridge by his teammate, Eric Krenz. Emory Curtice, captain of the University of California track force, hurled the javelin 209 feet 9⅝ inches, surpassing by more than four feet the previous record of 205 feet 7⅝ inches, made by C. B. Hines of Georgetown in Philadelphia in 1927.

Charley Root's fifth straight victory was a 7 to 0 win over the Cincinnati Reds—a handsome performance before 15,000 who braved the orneriest weather that ever harassed the national pastime.

Charley now appears to have regained his 1927 form, only more so. The athletes around the circuit have been whispering for two weeks that his fast one is jumping again. And if it keeps jumping, just have the boys polish the tarnish off those trumpets.

Even the direst Cub critics admit they can hear the pennant flappings whenever they think of the Root "IF" being erased.

Cuyler Hits Four Singles.

An especially pleasing feature of yesterday's triumph was another exhibit in the evidence that the Cubs are not sunk when the so-called murderers' row fails to function as an entity. Yesterday Hornsby and Wilson were complete flops and Stephenson went hitless. But the rest of the nine didn't mind. They spurred up all the more.

Cuyler, with four singles, and McMillan with two singles and a double, were king bees of the Cub attack. English was in the thick of things and Grimm, Gonzales and Grace also played an active part in the second successive trimming of the Rhinelanders.

Hornsby supplied the third out in five of the eight innings the Cubs were at bat and Wilson fanned three times and tapped to the pitcher on another occasion. These latter circumstances are important because they mean these two great hitters will in a brutal mood when the Pirates arrive today for a three game series.

Malone Pitches Today.

Pat Malone, who, like Root, is the possessor of a record of five wins to one defeat, will pitch this afternoon. Pat lost a 12 inning game his last time out, so the strain of record making is off his mind.

The Cubs will go to the post today with a first place margin of a game and a half over the second place St. Louis Cardinals—a net gain of two full games over the Cards in the two days since the McCarthys returned from their road trip.

McMillan's second hit — a double with which he opened the third—led to the first Cub run and the one which would have been enough to win the ball game. Mac drove the ball along the left foul line and went to third on English's sacrifice bunt. Cuyler then scored him with the first of his four successive singles. Hornsby hit into a double play.

Score 4 in Fourth.

The Cubs produced four runs in the next inning after two were out. Wilson was thrown out by May and Gooch ran out to the pitcher's box to get Stevie's high fly. Grimm singled to left and Gonzales did likewise. Capt. Charley had stopped at second but Allen, in attempting to return the ball to the infield, threw wide and both runners moved up. Root walked, filling the bases, after which McMillan got his third successive hit, scoring Grimm and Gonzales.

English walked, Cuyler singled, scoring Root and McMillan and putting English on third. Kl stole second. Hornsby hit what probably would have been a record homer had there not been a gale sweeping in to meet it. But the wind halted it on the near side of the center field screen for the third out. The score was Cubs, 5; Reds, 0.

Our boys again waited till two were out before they started work on their last two runs. Grace, who had relieved Mike Gonzales after the latter had hurt his sore hand, open the sixth with a double. He paused while Root struck out. McMillan grounded to Ford, and Grace was run down between second and third, but not until McMillan had pulled up at second.

English singled to left, scoring McMillan, and took second on the throw to the plate, whence he scored when Cuyler singled to right center. Hornsby was thrown out by Critz.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Detroit, Mich., May 18.—George Uhle, the ex-Indian bad boy, now boasts a record of seven straight triumphs for the current American league campaign. He became the possessor of his seventh successful start this afternoon by doing enough pitching and assisting with enough hitting to enable the Tigers to smear the White Sox in the mud of a rain soaked field by an 11 to 4 margin.

There was only one part of the battle that gave signs of a Sox triumph. At about the half way mark the Chicagoans mustered enough strength to clout four runs over the plate and created a tie, but this was broken by a run started on a hit by Uhle in the seventh. In the eighth the party became a riot when the home athletes whacked six muddy runs over the plate at Ted Blankenship's expense. The big cowboy had been summoned into the battle after four chapters had given positive indications that Grady Adkins was nothing better than a Tiger meal ticket.

Tigers Score Twice in First.

The day's fireworks started early. The Tigers nibbled strenuously at Adkins in the first inning and developed two runs from four hits and an error. Johnson inaugurated the mess with a homer into the seats in right center. After Rice had flied out, Gehringer poured a double into center and scored immediately on Heilmann's single to left. Alexander scratched a hit to Kamm and Capt. Willie made a dying effort to recover in time to force Heilmann at second, but the peg went into right field and Heilmann continued to third. The error did no damage as both McManus and Phillips flied to Metzler.

The situation from the Sox standpoint became worse in the third and fourth, one Tiger run scoring in each chapter. When the third opened up, Gehringer slapped one clear into the middle of the street back of right field. The next three batters accomplished nothing. Schuble was responsible for fomenting trouble in the fourth. With one deposed, he clicked a two bagger off the left field concrete, he was run down on Uhle's tap to Kamm, then Johnson sliced a three bagger to right, Uhle scoring.

Sox Hitless Three Innings.

Uhle was a complete enigma to the Sox during three hitless innings, but they opened up a bit in the fourth and with the assistance of an error gathered two runs. Mostil made the preliminary arrangements by singling to left. Metzler flied out, but Kamm shot one to left center for two bases, Mostil scoring. Clancy was eliminated on a fly to center and Reynolds lifted to left, but Johnson obliged by muffing the thing, Kamm crossing the plate. Reynolds took second on the error and died there when Hunnefield bounced to Uhle.

The Sox ripped into Uhle again in the fifth and drove home two runs to tie the count at four apiece. Cissell opened the attack with a hit to left and Crouse flied out. Watwood was selected to bat for Adkins. The youngster bounced at Uhle who slipped and went boom in the rain soaked grass, the batter being given a hit. Mostil came through with a two bagger down the third base line, Cissell and Watwood counting. Uhle then deflected Metzler's hard drive just enough to keep it from being a hit and Kamm ended the round by taking three strikes.

After taking up Adkins' burden Blankenship did nobly for two innings, but was hit boisterouly in the seventh, and the Tigers broke the deadlock with one run.

Uhle led off with a line single to left and continued to second when Metzler let the ball roll to the fence. Johnson crashed a two bagger along the third sack line, sending Uhle across the counter. Johnson then tried to steal third, but was flagged. Rice flied to Mostil. Gehringer singled and Heilmann fanned to complete the chapter.

There is no pressing need for the details of the Tiger eighth when six runs were added. The mound by this time was a mess of slippery clay and pitching was entirely a matter of luck. Blankenship just didn't have any of the latter. He gave up two passes and six men cracked him for singles. One of these six hits was contributed by Uhle with the bases filled.

New York, N. Y., May 18.—The New York Yankees did a complete job of ending their five game losing streak to the satisfaction of 45,000 at the Yankee stadium today, winning both ends of a doubleheader from the Red Sox, 5 to 2 and 5 to 0. The opener was a comeback performance by Herb Pennock after three faulty starts this season, and after a wobbly beginning he did well indeed.

More than 2 Million Calls a Year

Day and night—every turn of the clock—Chicago keeps three hundred and four miles of private wires humming for Checker Taxis.

What is really back of that well known number, Monroe 3700? What happens when you want a private car known as a Checker—and want it in a hurry?

Seated before an enormous switchboard (which cost more than $150,000) scores of voice and ear-trained operators take your call and immediately flash it to the nearest of the fifty-one neighborhood and Loop stations where Checkers are waiting.

In amazingly swift succession, orders are issued that result in a Checker driving up to your door more quickly than another Cab can be summoned. Tests have absolutely proved this, time and again.

Awaiting these relayed calls are 2,809 driver-owners. Their money maintains this most modern switchboard and telephonic equipment; their Company seeks to serve you on the pure merit of their service.

Do you remember the old, filthy shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers . . . and spit on the ends? What a far cry this is from the modern, certified "Cremo-method" of manufacture!

"But I emphatically state that no smoker of a certified Cremo ever runs such a risk."

"Everything put into your mouth should be clean," urges Alfred W. McCann.

"Things promiscuously handled ought not to enter the human mouth.

"Cremo—the five-cent favorite is certified!

"When you smoke a Cremo, you get a cigar which I certify as pure and germ-free."

Cremo's superiority starts with the choicest and tenderest leaves, ripe and mellow, and continues in goodness through a slow, expensive maturing and mellowing process . . . topped off with the finest imported Sumatra wrapper! Cremo contains no scrap—no floor sweepings—all long filler—all fresh, tender leaves. Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the certified "Cremo-method" of manufacture that insures uniformly fine, sanitary cigars. Foil-wrapped . . . germ-free . . . crush-proof . . . the kind of cigar that the late Vice-President Marshall must have had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5 cent cigar."

DERBY THRONG WATCHES RACES DESPITE RAINY WEATHER. Sixty thousand gathered at historic Churchill Downs yesterday. Protected by umbrellas and rain coats they watched the Derby program. Only a few were sheltered, the others standing on the lawn. But it was Derby day and no one cared.

ANOTHER VIEW OF LOUISVILLE'S DERBY DAY CROWDS. Early in the afternoon there was a lull in the rain which had fallen ceaselessly from dawn. But before post time for the Derby the drizzle started again. This shows race down the stretch in one of the races, a prelude to Kentucky's annual feature.

WHEN THE DERBY FIELD PASSES THE GRAND STAND THE FIRST TIME. Prince Pat (Number 17) leads with Chicatie second and Clyde Van Dusen (Number 25) third. Immediately afterward, Jockey McAtee made his first move and went into the lead which he held until the finish wire. The picture shows the kind of a track the 21 entries had in their dash for the pot of Derby gold. The time for the mile and a quarter, 2:10 4-5, is remarkable considering the circumstances under which the race was run.

two first horses, failing to gain third money from the tiring Panchio.

As the roar of cheers greeting a popular victory died down, the mud spattered horses and their riders cantered back to the judges' stand, with the winner, according to custom, returning first to a new salvo of applause while a wreath of roses was thrown over his withers. Owner H. P. Gardner of Amsterdam, N. Y., because of his age and nervous temperament, was not present to see the victory. In his stead Trainer Clyde Van Dusen, an old time jockey for whom the colt was named, listened to the presentation speech of Gov. Flem Sampson of Kentucky and received the gold cup. Now for the race itself.

After fifteen minutes delay at the post Starter William Hamilton dispatched the field to a good start. Jockey McAtee, on Clyde Van Dusen which had drawn a position on the outside next to Blue Larkspur, in some manner had maneuvered to have his charge in the middle of the field as the barrier went up. There was a scramble, as expected, to get to the front. As previously stated, McAtee shot Clyde Van Dusen to the front 100 yards out.

Van Dusen Takes Lead.

As the field splashed past the grand stand and club house, Clyde Van Dusen was on top, turf vernacular for leading, by half a length with Folking second, Panchio third, Blue Larkspur fourth and Voltear fifth.

After four furlongs had been reeled off, Clyde Van Dusen was in front by two lengths, Folking, property of H. T. Archibald of Chicago, second by a length and a half, Panchio third and Blue Larkspur fourth, floundering around in the going. It was shortly after this point that Mack Garner began lashing the favorite.

At the far turn, representing six furlongs, Clyde Van Dusen still was in front by two lengths with Panchio second by a length, Folking third but evincing symptoms of having had enough, The Nut fourth and Blue Larkspur fifth. Naishapur, which eventually ended in second place, was eighth at this point.

Between the far turn and home turn, Jockey Colletti attempted to send Panchio after the leader but apparently soon realized his mount had little left and thereafter nursed the Three D farm representative in an effort to save some part of the money. Naishapur at this time was sixth and moving up with Voltear, another strong finisher, in seventh position. Voltear was through so far as a challenger was concerned but Naishapur was still coming.

McAtee Plays Safe.

As the field straightened out in the stretch, Clyde Van Dusen was three lengths in front and going strongly. Panchio was still second, Folking and Blue Larkspur on about even terms and Naishapur now fifth. The latter was coming so fast that McAtee took no chances of victory being snatched and briefly went to the whip.

Then it was all over but the shouting. Naishapur, son of Omar Khayyam, one time Derby winner and not a mudder, could make up no more ground but he passed Panchio, Folking, and Blue Larkspur for second position with Panchio lasting just long enough to save third position.

road, auto, and airplane they came down to see the race that took the place in racing left vacant when Chicago's American Derby was discontinued more than a score of years ago. Downs officials estimated that 6,500 of the folks in the boxes and along the rail were from Chicago.

The Stuyvesant Peabodys were entertaining fifty friends in box parties. There was Judge Joseph Sabath, taking a day off from the divorce courts to watch his favorite Naishapur and hoping to collect. There was Charles W. Bidwell, president of Bentley Murday & Co., printers, with Mrs. Bidwell and a party of friends, including Senator Dick Barr.

Senator Hughes Probes a Bit.

Senator Ed Hughes, member of the recent state senate sanitary district probing committee, was busy probing in the open this time. He was probing for a winner, and through the third race at least had been unsuccessful.

John Schank, president of the Hawthorne race track, with his bridge companion, R. M. Birck, was gripping tickets on Clyde Van Dusen, and debating the wisdom of making a small plunge on the field. Birck was promising to reduce the price of dry cleaning if the result of their debate proved fruitful. Paul E. Faust was advertising the virtues of Blue Larkspur to Felix Lowey, vice president of the Palm Olive company, and Pat Buckley of La Salle street fame. Charles Ford, in betwixt keeping an eye on his C. & E. I. Derby party, was hunting for tips on long shots.

Then there was Charles Ellis, vice president of the Peabody Coal company, hunting through the clubhouse for John Halpin, vice president of the Halpin Printing company. Charles Shriver of the A. Frank Advertising company was here, forgetful of copy and mindful of form sheets.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright—he's the baking powder magnate—were seeing that the Charles A. McCullochs and Roy Carruthers had a good time. Messrs. Otto and Edward Lehmann and their families were members of the Wright group.

John R. Thompson was in a front row box answering inquiries of friends on what he thought of his recently purchased colt Minotaur's chances in the big race.

Mrs. A. T. Hert of Louisville, a member of the national Republican committee and a great enthusiast for racing, chaperoned a party in the clubhouse.

Gov. Flem Sampson of Kentucky entertained as his Derby day guests a number of state executives. Among the number were Gov. Henry H. Horton of Tennessee, Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana, Gov. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, Gov. John C. Fisher of Pennsylvnia, and Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin.

Illinois didn't send a governor to the Derby, but Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling and Attorney General Carlstrom were on hand, confident they could pick four out of seven winners.

Down in the boxes, reserved months ahead, some of them retained year in and year out, were men and women whose names make front pages.

R. M. Eastman, president of the Kodak company, Clarence Saunders Jr., of chain store fame, Admiral Carey T. Grayson, White House physician during Woodrow Wilson's administration, Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, and Walter C. White, president of the White Motor company, turned up their rain coat collars and laughed at the weather.

Politicians enjoyed the Derby. Minor officials may have remained at home, but the big shots were studying form charts.

Tammany Chieftain on Hand.

John Curry, New York, recently made the chief of Tammany, was entertaining a party in which were Judge Thomas F. McAndrew, W. P. Keannally, Ald. Warren Hubbard, Charles L. Kokler and Daniel E. Finn, commissioners. They said they were wagering on Chicatie. They said the colt's record on eastern tracks was consistent.

Mrs. Edward V. Hartford of New York took a party in a limousine from her private car to the track. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Belmont, Miss Phyllis Walsh, Miss Mary Strange, M. M. Cuniff, C. Geer and Graig Culbertson were Mrs. Hartford's guests.

Pittsburgh's delegation to the Derby, headed by Judge J. B. Drew, Homer Lane, and James Weir, author, arrived in a private car. They weren't enthusiastic over the east's chances, preferring, they admitted, to hazard their money on Clyde Van Dusen.

Walter S. Salmon, millionaire owner of Dr. Freeland, was kept busy during the afternoon explaining why he didn't enter the winner of the Preakness in the Derby. Kentucky friends accused the easterner of fearing Blue Larkspur as the result of the Bradley colt's defeat of the Doctor last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Salmon's guests at the track included Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Swathmey, all of New York.

The American Legion was well represented. National Commander Paul V. McNutt headed the delegation and was scheduled to take part in the official ceremonies before the judges' stand after the race.

Republican Leader Present.

Other officers and former officers of the national organization who saw the Derby were Mrs. Gwendolyn Wiggin MacDonald, national secretary of the American Legion auxiliary; Frank Samuel, assistant national adjutant of the American Legion; Robert F. Garrett Kinney, the downstate Republican leader of Illinois, and George J. Jobst, millionaire contractor of Peoria, were in a party which included several high railroad officials and a number of Illinois bankers.

Palmer House William Ryan of Chicago, just back from Paris and garbed in the latest Paris creations from his toes to top of his head, was among those out early in the parade on the lawns.

Hundreds of Chicago women attended the Derby. Here are a few of them. The costumes given are those which last night they planned to wear. Most of them came to the track in raincoats, but after reaching their boxes, divested that uninteresting raiment for their original Derby ensembles.

Penn State to Give Major Awards for Soccer, Lacrosse

State College, Pa., May 18.—[Special.]—The major sports letter may now be won by a Penn State varsity la crosse or soccer player as a result of the vote on amendments to the constitution of the athletic association this week. The students voted in favor of the amendments to award the major letter to members of these teams when the record for the season shows only victories. Previously the minor "S" was the only award available, even though the team in question might have won the league championship.

WINNER OF DERBY CAME FROM BEST EQUINE FAMILIES

Got Mud Running Ability Through Mother.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—The blood of two of the most famous thoroughbred families the American turf ever has known was combined in the production of Clyde Van Dusen.

Most people are familiar with the male line in his family tree. His daddy was the mighty Man o' War. His grandpa was Fair Play.

On his mother's side of the house he is closely related to Old Rosebud, whose Derby record stands today and probably will continue to stand for many years. Clyde Van Dusen's dam was Uncle's Lassie. She was a daughter of Uncle, a great mud running horse. Uncle's sire was Star Shoot, and Star Shoot was also the sire of Old Rosebud.

Because he is a gelding, Clyde Van Dusen is not eligible for a number of important stakes to be run this year. He is useful only as a racer. But it isn't likely he will ever wind up pulling an ice or milk wagon. His trainer plans to race him this year and next and then retire him to a life of ease.

PROVISO BEATS DEERFIELD AND LEADS LEAGUE

Proviso took undisputed possession of first place in the Suburban league yesterday by handing Deerfield, its strongest competitor, an 8 to 5 defeat at Maywood. It was Deerfield's second defeat. Proviso now has a record of six won and one lost.

Elmer Hass started on the mound for Proviso, but Deerfield reached him for several hits in the first and he retired to the outfield in favor of his brother Will. Elmer contributed two doubles later in the game while Lekawitz poled out a pair of triples to share the batting honors with him. O'Connor, Martin and Rogan led the Deerfield hitting attack.

St. Ita won its fifth victory in the south section of the Catholic league by defeating St. Leo, 10 to 5. Etten featured for the winners, getting five hits in as many times at bat. Two of these were doubles, the last coming in the seventh inning with the bases loaded.

De La Salle hung up its second straight victory in the Catholic league yesterday by trimming Mount Carmel, 8 to 2.

Heard and Seen Around Track at Churchill Downs

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—Shortly before the fourth race today the One Eyed Connelly's of Louisville did their customary fence busting acts. Several thousand men and boys and a few women who congregated by the stables across the far side of the track rushed the police. The latter were mounted on coal black steeds, and as the crowd went scrambling across the infield they galloped after, but only the stragglers were caught and forced back. Three thousand, at least, obtained their objective, the fence on the stretch.

Old timers who have watched many a Derby said that the track today was as sloppy as any over which a classic has been run. The footing last year, when Reigh Count won, was infinitely better than was that today.

Shortly before the horses were called to post for the third race, and while there was still time for Col. Bradley to have scratched Blue Larkspur, a rumor went through the crowd that Dick Thompson, veteran trainer of the Idle Hour farm, had died following an operation for appendicitis. "Bradley will scratch," the rumor said. Where the unfounded story started none could learn. Hospital attaches said Thompson was not in a dangerous condition.

Scores of Chicago friends of Bath House John Coughlin arrived in town early today and began boasting of what Karl Eitel would do to the favorites. Apparently the Derby throng didn't take their boasting seriously as the odds of the alderman's colt at post time were 29 to 1.

Friends of Styvesant Peabody were lamenting last night that he didn't start his recently purchased colt, McGonigle, in the Derby. McGonigle has shown himself a good mudder, and the track today would have been to his liking. McGonigle couldn't have done much worse than some of the highly touted ones.

Thousands of dollars plunged on Ervast in the winter books when news of his spectacular workouts at Tia Juana came over the wires, was washed away when Baron Long, his gambler owner, decided the track was too muddy for his speedster.

Blue Larkspur and Derby Money Colts to Race Here

Louisville, Ky., May 18.—[Special.]—Three horses which ran in the money today are scheduled to run at Washington Park. Chicago turf fans who missed the Derby will get a chance to see whether the race today was, as the experts all say, truly run. Col. Bradley is expected to ship Blue Larkspur to the American Derby. If that race is contested over a fast track, the Idle Hour farm master expects the story to be a different one.

GRINNELL ACE TAKES ANOTHER TENNIS TITLE

Harris Coggeshall of Grinnell college added another championship to his rapidly growing list yesterday afternoon when he defeated Tom Markey of Notre Dame in the finals of the Central Intercollegiate singles tournament. Coggeshall won in four sets, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

The match was played on the center court of the Chicago Town and Tennis club under conditions that were more suitable for football than for tennis. The Knute K. Rockne trophy was at stake.

Coggeshall, who is 14th in the national men's ranking and one of the outstanding college players of the country, found Markey a Tartar for two sets, but finally solved the style of the angular Irish lad and then coasted through to a victory.

Markey annexed the first set before Coggeshall could find his game, his hard service and accurate placements enabling him to outshoot the Grinnell ace. Markey continued his smashing tactics in the second set and got off to a 5-2 lead, only to have the Iowan begin a slashing offensive that gave him the set at 7-5. Coggeshall directed hard, accurate shots at his tiring opponent throughout the last two sets and won without much trouble.

Coggeshall's march through the four preliminary rounds and championship final of the tournament was a consistent one. He defeated [illegible] of Albion college, 6-3, 6-2, in the first round, trounced Lietz, Loyola, 6-0, 6-1, in the second round, and defeated Byrum, Western State Teachers, 7-5, 7-5, in the quarter finals.

Grinnell Wins Doubles.

Friday he defeated Wilson of Butler, 6-2, 6-0, 6-3, and won the right to meet Markey for the championship honors.

Playing with accuracy and speed as their best assets, Coggeshall and Dan Stowe of Grinnell won the doubles championship. The match went five sets before Coggeshall, who had previously won the single title, and his partner could defeat the Bulldog team 1-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The Drake team was easily the master in the first two sets, but once Coggeshall had his second wind he made short work of the affair. Grinnell took the last sets in rapid succession and the defense of the Drake pair went to pieces.

The winners will get the Knute K. Rockne cups for their victory, while the losers get conference medals.

QUADRANGULAR TRACK MEET WON BY OHIO STATE

Maroons Take 2d Place; Northwestern Third.

Ohio State romped off with the quadrangular track meet held on Stagg field yesterday afternoon, scoring 73¾ points. Chicago was an easy second with 43, Northwestern finished third with 31¼ points, and Wisconsin was fourth with 28.

Only one University of Chicago record was shattered. Big Buck Weaver, 230 pound tackle, put the shot 47 feet 11 inches, only to have Sammy Behr, 160 pound Badger star, tie the effort. Warren Klein of Chicago, who set a new mark last Saturday, was third.

Walter Whips Gist.

Ohio State piled up the majority of their points in the dashes, hurdles, and broad jump. Ten points in the 220 yard dash, 9 in the high hurdles, and 8 in both the 100 yard dash and the broad jump gave the Ohioans a tremendous lead.

But Walter, Purple ace, ran two beautiful quarters, besting Virgil Gist, Maroon star, in the 440 by ten yards, and picking up 25 yards to win the mile relay for Northwestern. Gist was boxed and was running seventh up to the last 100 yards, when he broke loose to all but catch the Purple star.

Simpson, Rockaway Star.

Simpson, Ohio's dash man, and Rockaway, its hurdler, tied for individual honors with 10 points each. Simpson won both dashes and Rockaway duplicated the performance in the hurdles.

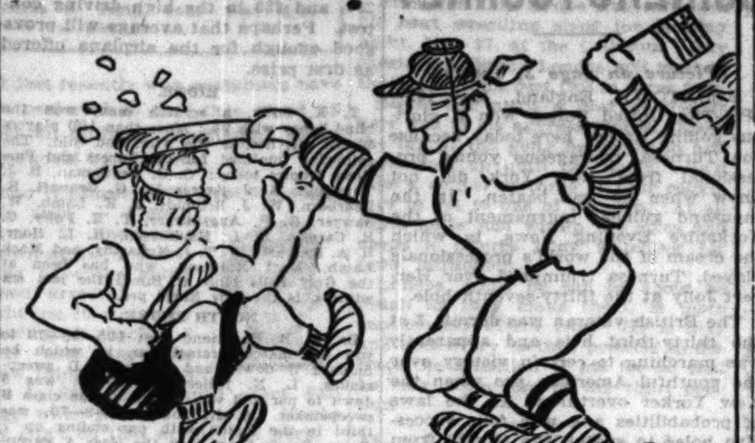
Clubhouse Confessions of Our Cubs

WORDS AND ART BY

Edward Burns

This is the fourth of a series of confessions designed to let you know something of the human hearts that throb under the insignia on the bosoms of Cub uniforms—intimate studies that will guide you in case you are rearing your boy to become a big league ball player. This week we are running an autograph as usual, but we can give no more answers as to uses for autographs other than as tracings on baseballs, albums, programs, and sofa pillows. For instance, three ladies have asked us Hack Wilson's favorite color—they want to use it in the floss with which they embroider his name on doilies. You can see what this sort of thing would lead to, can't you?



Many persons think of Jackson Riggs Stephenson only as a great hitter and former great football player. Few persons know that this splendid Cub outfielder was the 1922 champion of the steamship Empress of Canada in the game of "Are You There, Brother Bill?"

This may not mean much to landlubber baseball fans, but persons familiar with pastimes on ocean liners readily will appreciate what it meant for an American to become Are You There, Brother Bill, champion of a vessel like the Empress of Canada.

The only thing that detracts from the fact that Stevie won the title over some of the best known British players is the circumstance that he cheated. Stevie probably never cheated in any other game he ever played, but he cheated when he won the Empress of Canada title.

Major Leagues Tour Orient; Stevie in Bunch.

In 1922 a team of National and American league stars organized and toured the orient. Besides Stevie, the bunch included George Kelly, Casey Stengel, Freddie Hofmann, Herb Pennock, Waite Hoyt, Luke Sewell, and a half dozen others.

The boys weren't a day out from Vancouver when they were introduced to the game of Are You There, Brother Bill?

Two players oppose each other. A soda cracker is tied on top the head of each player and each is blindfolded and supplied with a paper bludgeon. To use Mr. Stephenson's verbiage, the idea is to burst the opponent's cracker with the bludgeon, sensing his location when he asks, "Are you there, Brother Bill?" A "bursted" cracker decides the contest and the burster thereof goes into the next round of the tournament.

Stevie reached the semi-finals honestly and found his opponent in the finals was to be a deft cracker smasher from Great Britain who had saved his own cracker by marvelous dodging. The finals immediately took on an international aspect.

A clubhouse meeting was held by the Americans, and Casey Stengel suggested that signals be arranged similar to those employed in baseball games. For instance, if the Britisher were ducking to the right, Casey was to shout, "Stay in there, Stevie, old boy." If Kelly shouted, "That a ol' footwork, Stevie, boy." Stevie would sock left. And so on.

Code Works Perfectly; Stevie Breaks Whole Box.

The final was for five crackers out of nine. Stengel's code worked perfectly and Stevie broke five straight crackers and nearly pounded the British champ bow-legged. He then staged an exhibition and broke a whole box of crackers with only one miss.

Jackson Riggs Stephenson was born in Akron, Ala., Jan. 5, 1899. Akron still is his home in winter, and he maitains a house there for his mother, Mrs. Addie Stephenson.

One of the most enjoyable privileges of knowing Stevie is to hear him talk. Baseball is full of southern dialects, but everybody says there's none like Stevie's. Akron is just south of Birmingham, and eight years in northern baseball hasn't taken a bit of the Akron out of the young man's mode of expression.

Mr. Stephenson Tells a Bit About Himself.

We shall not attempt to get the music of Stevie's voice into this confession. We'll write it "straight" as the authors say.

"Mr. Stephenson, you went to the University of Alabama?"

"Yes, sir, starting in 1917."

"You were a football player. Tell us of your record."

"Full back (not tackle as generally reported) for three years on the Crimson Tide and all-Southern two years."

"Did you go to the university on your family funds or earn your way?"

"I had a job at the university."

"What was your job, Mr. Stephenson?"

"I was disciplinarian at the barracks. The boys there had a passion for throwing rocks at the windows, and during the three years I played football the state paid me to keep down the rock throwing."

After two years of bush league ball following his graduation, Stevie came to the big leagues in 1921 as a second baseman, a position which he played until a leg injury sent him to the minors in 1925. If you're interested in fat batting averages, look over Stevie's:

Cleveland	1921	.330	Indian'p'lis	1926	.385
Cleveland	1922	.339	Cubs	1926	.338
Cleveland	1923	.319	Cubs	1927	.344
Cleveland	1924	.371	Cubs	1928	.324
K. C.-Ind.	1925	.325

Stevie's philosophy of life and his outlook on the future is embodied in this slogan of his:

"Ah love to swoop 'em in the pinch."

Illini Track Squad Defeats Wolves, 73-62

Champaign, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—Illinois defeated Michigan, 73 to 62, in a dual track meet today, the competition being marked by several exceptional track performances although the meet was held in a driving rain with the track flooded with water.

The Illini took eight firsts, evenly divided between track and field, and the Wolverines six firsts also were split.

Eddie Tolan, Michigan's colored dash star, won both sprints in fast time. He took the century in 9 9-10 seconds and the furlong in :21 3-10. Tarbill won the low hurdles in :23 5-10.

Chambers, who competed in his first varsity meet a week ago, defeated Ketz of Michigan in the javelin. The Illini took slams in the high hurdles, mile, and pole vault, and Michigan in the discus.

Crane Junior College Wins on Track; Brooks Shines

Crane Junior college track team won its sixth meet of the season yesterday by defeating Elmhurst college on the latter's grounds, 75 to 56. Brooks of Crane won four places to take scoring honors, winning the 100 yard dash, the 120 yard high hurdles, the broad jump and the 220 yard low hurdles. The victory makes Crane the favorite to win the northern Illinois junior college championship Saturday.

Champaign, Ill., May 18.—[Special.] Tilden Tech and Hyde Park of Chicago, each led by a young athlete who performed in superb fashion, shared the state interscholastic track championship today in the thirty-fifth annual presentation of the University of Illinois prep classic.

Ralph Metcalfe, Tilden's dusky sprinter, with his sturdy legs working like pistons driven by a high powered engine, tore down the Memorial stadium track to victory in both the 100 and the 220 yard dashes. The meet was run off in a driving rain and the track was covered with water, but the colored lad ran the century in the fast time of 9 9-10 seconds and surpassed this in the furlong when he established a national interscholastic mark of :21 3-10, which excelled the former record of 21 2-5, made by Carter of University high in 1914.

Tilden Wins Relay.

Metcalfe also ran the last lap in the half mile relay, giving his team the best time of the various sections. McCarty, Slack, and Spaulding were the other Tilden relay racers.

Eggleston was Hyde Park's leader, winning the high and low hurdles. Eggleston's feat closed a brilliant campaign this season; he has not been defeated. Dixon added another first to the Hyde Park total when he won one of the half mile races.

Hansel of Malden established a state record of :51 1-10 in the quarter mile. The former record was :51 1-5, made by Beckemeyer of Carlyle in 1926.

Oak Park Misses in Relay.

Oak Park was a close second to the winning teams, the suburbanites finishing a point behind. Breedlove's first in the half mile was their only victory. Fourth and fifth places in the shot put, century, high hurdles, and discus placed them in a position to claim the championship had their relay team, which placed second, been able to win.

Atwood, with 10 points, was the leading downstate team. Linder of Lostant proved the best shot putter, with a toss of 49 feet 8½ inches, which was close to the state record.

Fifty-six schools won points in the closely contested meet, which was run off in the worst weather conditions since 1897. Summaries:

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK, May 18.—Donald Tarpley, an architect, poking about the domestic débris of a revolutionary cabin on a back road in the state of Connecticut, lately came upon a bound volume containing the issues of the Police Gazette for the years 1881 and 1882. The Police Gazette was at that time a weekly compendium of crime, irregular social conduct, and sport among a tempestuous people, and was illustrated with woodcuts depicting current episodes with great vitality.

There is particular charm in one drawing setting off an item from North Carolina which tells of the beheading of a farmer by his hired man, who was duly lynched from a trestle.

The cabin was the home of several generations of pioneer Americans, including a captain of infantry in the civil war. The ravelings of the family still reside in the woods near by in tar papered shanties and the stock seems to have declined, the present generation being scrubby, and, like the hill people of the Cumberlands, suspicious of city people, whom they regard as foreigners. The generation of 50 years ago, however, presumably were solid citizens of a community made up of family outposts in the hills, and it interested me to picture the mother of the household carefully binding, of all publications, the Police Gazette, with its scandalous flavor, as a permanent and presumably a favorite volume in the library, which probably was meager.

Indeed, the children of this hardy New England household, so remote from the sinful pleasures of their cities, appear to have done their early reading in the Police Gazette, for there occur occasional pages with baby scrawls on the margins, and all the pages are well thumbed.

One issue contains a facsimile of a letter to the editor, the late Richard K. Fox, from the late Jesse James, reading as follows:

"Mr. Fox, I write to you this, that the sheriffs, detectives and scouts have been after me, but it is of no use. When I want to give up my job, I will do so. People, let me alone. Yours truly, Jesse James."

Another issue tells of the fight between John L. Sullivan and the English middleweight, Tug Wilson, in the first Madison Square Garden, in which Wilson won $8,000 by holding out against Sullivan for four rounds, although he went down nine times in the first round and 20 times in all. This seems to have been a most unsatisfactory prize fight, indicating that William Stribling and Jack Sharkey merely followed ancient precedent in fighting with such restraint in Miami Beach last winter. The ensuing comment for weeks afterward all sounds quite familiar and modern.

There is, for instance, an editorial reproduced from the New York Times, saying: "The combat between Sullivan and Wilson divided attention equally with the war in Egypt and the destruction of Alexandria. It cannot be said that the hundreds who went to see Sullivan and Wilson pummel each other were all blackguards and ruffians. Among them were gentlemen of education, refinement and good social position. This generation of mankind is not wholly effete, and in the hard hitting of the fistic arena there is a touch of nature that finds its response in every rank of life."

There is that in the remarks of Mr. Fox about the promoter, which suggests that the late Tex Rickard might have gone to the old files of the Police Gazette for his ideals and purposes 50 years later.

Mr. Fox said: "I was pleased to see so many doctors, lawyers, brokers and respectable men from every walk of life present. I want to see exhibitions of the manly art carried on in such a manner that the most respectable citizens may witness them with pleasure."

Said Sullivan: "I didn't train. My friends told me I could do him easy. I was careless."

Said Wilson: "I wasn't in there to fight him much in a four round bout with soft gloves. I was not hurt. I would like to have a return match, London prize ring rules, with bare knuckles. America is a rose garden, and I am going to bring over the wife and chicks."

Said George Manz of Washington, who seems to have been one of the gabby honest Johns of his time: "I can't understand men betting on Sullivan to stop him in four rounds. What good man did Sullivan ever do? Steve Taylor? You know Steve was fat with ale. Jim Elliott? He was on a spree for two weeks before the fight. Sullivan never faced a good man until he met Wilson."

All of which strikes me as having been said in substance about all the heavyweight championship fights of the current era. I was fascinated, too, by the disrespect in which Mr. Sullivan was held by his contemporary journal which betrays evil glee in reporting a saloon fight in Boston, wherein one Hogarty, a diminutive tailor, hit Sullivan on the head with an ale crock and knocked him out.

Sullivan had disparaged the character of the tailor's wife, and when he came to the tailor was gone. This all embarrassed the tailor, however, for he was no great fighter, and he found himself under attack several times a day for weeks by neighborhood bums who knew he couldn't fight and desired the technical distinction of licking the man who had knocked out John L. Sullivan. So, after some time, pining for peace at any price, Mr. Hogarty published hand bills which were circulated in his neighborhood, denying that he had ever seen John L. Sullivan, much less flooring him with a grog pot.

The Police Gazette also rebuked Mr. Sullivan rather brusquely following his appearance as a pitcher for the Metropolitan baseball club at the Polo grounds. "A hog," said the article, "sometimes is a pretty nice animal, but about the worst specimen of that beast that can be found at present is John L. Sullivan, who pitched for the Mets against a picked nine on May 28. He can't play ball and his swaggering conduct was disgusting. Hundreds of people left the field before the game was half over. The ball players had to let up in their fielding and hitting to shield the great prize fighter from becoming a laughing stock. Sullivan received $1,585.90 of the receipts and never so much as asked the boys to take a drink.

"They were heartbroken when the big glutton walked off without even spending the odd 90 cents for beer. They will make a sorry fool of him if he attempts to play ball here again."

Baseball Rather Primitive; Cricket Incurs Enmity.

Baseball was rather primitive then and cricket still was popular and the object of some ministerial enmity in Philadelphia, where the matches diverted crowds from Sunday devotions.

There were challenges to six day walking races, men were jumping off high bridges for cash guarantees, prize fights were held on islands in the Mississippi or at side track stations in the wilds. Several lady prize fighters were in more or less serious competition for a ladies' championship, boys were claiming the clog-dancing championship of America and one earnest specialist appealed in vain for some one with cash backing of $1,000 to meet him on a neutral ground and drive nails into pine planks for 24 hours for the nail driving championship of the world. And, finally, there occurs a news item establishing the kinship of today with half a century ago. It tells of two students of a Pennsylvania college turning up drunk for class.

MOORTOWN, England, May 18.—(AP)—The United States won a glorious golfing victory here today because Joe Turnesa, courageous young professional from New York did not know when he was beaten. In the thousand guineas tournament of the Yorkshire Evening News, in which the cream of the world's professionals played, Turnesa triumphed over Herbert Jolly at the thirty-seventh hole.

The British veteran was dormie 3 at the thirty-third hole and apparently was marching to certain victory over the youthful American pro when the New Yorker overturned all the laws of probabilities and won four successive holes to snatch the trophy from Jolly's outstretched hands.

When Joe pulled his iron shot from the tee at the short 32nd hole to land among trees beyond the green, to the crowd it spelled his doom. Jolly then went three up and immediately halved the next hole to become dormie.

Turnesa sent his putt nearly dead on the 34th, while Jolly's ball stopped 18 inches away. The Briton had another putt to end the match with victory, but after a little tap the ball remained on the lip of the cup. Even then he half stymied his opponent, but Turnesa deftly pushed his ball into the cup for a reprieve.

Again at the 35th Jolly was nearer the cup in two, but his opponent ran his 35 foot putt down, while the home player missed his try at half that distance.

On the 36th Jolly was longer from the tee, as usual, but the American slammed his second 200 yards to the hole and 12 feet beyond. The Britisher then pitched into a bunker at the right side of the green and played his third without reaching the green. Joe had an easy four to bring the match level.

Jolly appeared recovered and slashed two tremendous shots to the 500 yard extra hole—the first. Turnesa's second stopped short of the green and at least 20 yards from the cup. He studied the line with great deliberation and then sharply struck the ball straight into the cup for an eagle three. Turnesa dropped wearily to the ground and did not even see Jolly miss his 25 foot putt for the half.

Decorah, Ia., May 18.—[Special.]—Luther won the annual triangular track meet with La Crosse Normal and Columbia with 55 points. Columbia took second with 41,

WITH CHICAGO GOLFERS

LESTER OLSON, with 88—10—78, won the Robin trophy awarded in an 18 hole medal play event at Ridgemoor yesterday. Rial Rolfe drove with a strong wind last Wednesday and made drives of 286, 294, and 289 in the high driving contest. Perhaps that average will prove good enough for the airplane offered as first prize.

RIDGE.

T. K. Polly, a scratch man, won the blind bogey with 94. More than 100 players turned out despite the wind and cold. The following qualified for the Sports and Pastimes trophy today: C. G. Gentleman, B. J. Thiebault, A. J. Sayres Jr., G. Gravatt, R. Dearborn, W. J. Schmidt, J. K. Lamb, W. Sawyer, R. H. Augsburger, T. K. Polly, C. E. Carmer, H. L. Hankenson, H. L. Hoey, H. A. Stewart, Dr. T. J. McCarthy, and Mack Lamb. Matt Matteson, who has been at the Gulf Hills club at Biloxi the last six winters, is the new Ridge pro.

NORTH SHORE.

Dr. W. B. Hammond shot 105—26—79 to win the match against par, in which he finished 3 down, and the class D sweepstakes. L. N. Nilles, 92—12—80, was 5 down to par and was winner of the class B sweepstakes. A. R. Soule, 87—8—79, was third in the match with par ending up 7 down. Frank Snow won the class A sweepstakes with his 87—6—81, and M. N. Ellis won in class C with a 114—24—90.

EVANSTON.

E. H. Evans shot 83 for low gross in class A. E. A. Kalkhurst had 87—11—76 for low net. In the class B Ray Gartland turned in 93 for low gross, while R. L. Wetzel went around in 94 and with a handicap of 12 won low net honors. A 106 score gave E. B. Davis low gross in class C and George Raymer took 106—24—82 for low net.

NORTHWESTERN'S golf team defeated Purdue, 11 to 1, in a match played at Lafayette yesterday. Inasmuch as Northwestern had the match won, even if it lost all the double points, the latter were called off, a heavy rain fell during the singles. The results:

RIVERSIDE.

J. Otis won the F. K. Babson trophy in a match against par event when he finished 3 down. N. W. Willard won the class A sweepstakes with 82—7—75; H. G. Richards, 84—7—77, was second, and O. M. Burnett, 92—11—81, third. Winners in class B were B. F. Miles, 98—19—78; G. Merton, 103—21—82, and T. J. Lawless, 100—17—83. J. Otis, 98—24—74, and D. S. McQuiston, 114—27—87, were the class C winners.

BRIERGATE.

A. R. Hulbert shot 88—9—79 that won the ball sweepestakes and topped the qualifiers in the spring tournament. B. H. Elliott, with 90—10—80, was second in the sweepstakes. L. N. Ball, 96—18—78, led the class B qualifiers, and H. K. Curll, 109—36—73 was out in front in class C.

ACACIA.

C. W. Tanke, 112—33—79, and C. L. Banbelow, 104—25—79, tied in the blind bogey event, the only competition of the day.

ITASCA.

GLEN OAK.

Frank Llewellyn won the 18 hole medal play competition. The low net foursome was composed of J. Winterbotham, Frank Llewellyn, Ford Richey, and E. R. French, with 329.

WALTER HAGEN AND WALES WIN ROUND OF GOLF

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, May 18.—Walter Hagen had the novel experience of playing a round without a gallery today when he partnered with the prince of Wales against Sir Philip Sassoon, undersecretary for air, and Aubrey Boomer, British Ryder cup golfer.

The prince is not much used to solitude either, but his desire for a quiet game led to such deep secrecy that only Inspector Detective Burt, the prince's personal bodyguard, saw the heir to the throne and Hagen trim Sassoon and Boomer by one hole in the 18 hole match.

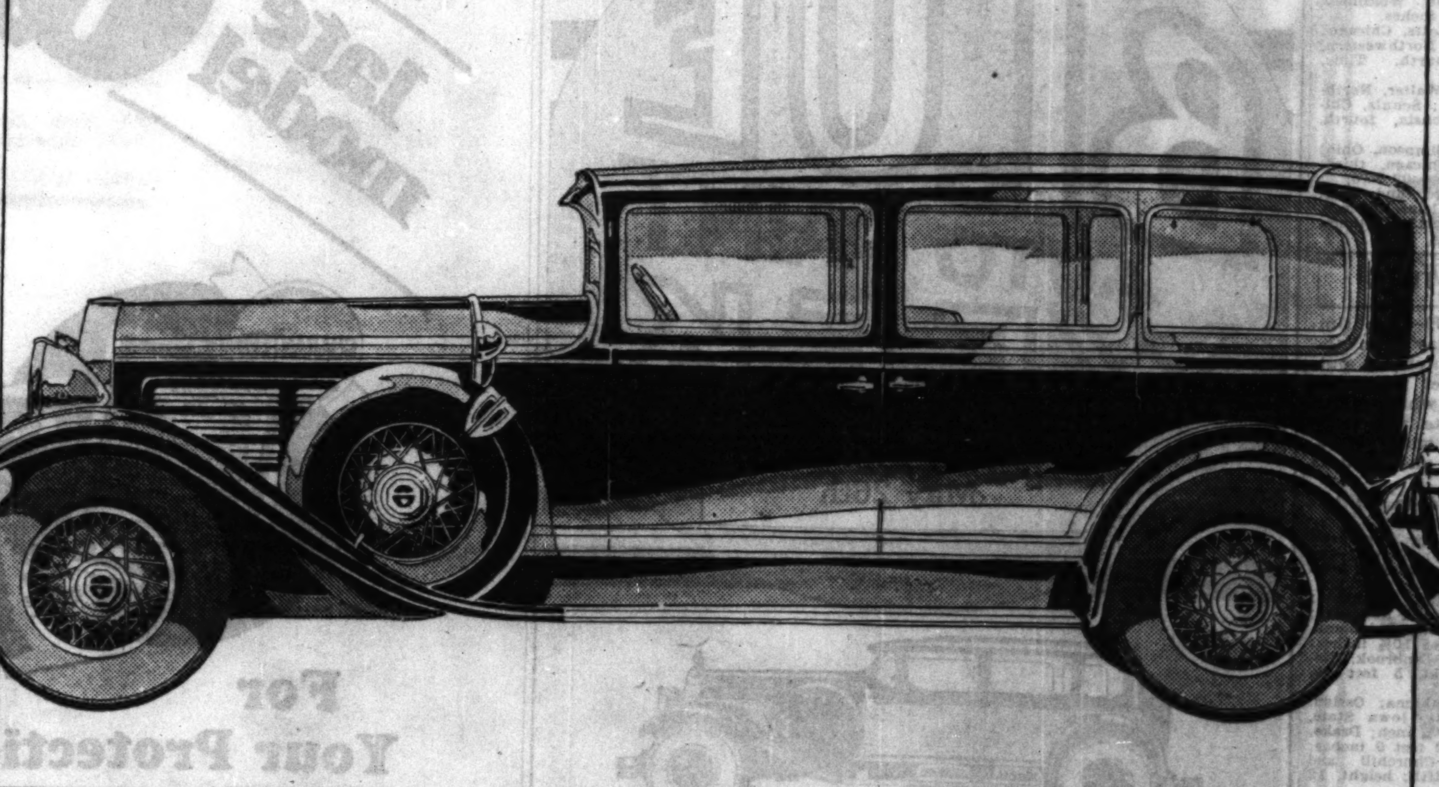
Secret from Walter, Even.

The scene of the game was the so called millionaires' course at Swinley Forest, near Ascot, with which Lord Derby is identified. Even Boomer and Hagen did not know where the match was to be played this morning—or said they didn't. A large car drew up at the rear entrance to the Savoy hotel, where both are staying, and the pair managed to slip through the door evading reporters. They were quickly whisked away to the course.

The type of play selected was the "greensome," wherein all four players drive and then each couple selects its best ball and plays alternate shots as in an ordinary foursome. It was not only the prince who made the second shot from Hagen's drive. In fact, the final hole was played with the ball which the former had driven while Hagen's contribution was to miss a three foot putt.

Then Prince Enters Tourney.

The prince had a full day of golf, for he played in a tournament later in the day as a member of the Fernhill club artisan section on Swinley Forest links. Here he was pitted against a postman and from the fact that the report of the result of the match was studiously suppressed, it may be safely assumed that the prince lost. The prince's handicap was 18.



You'll love the feel of the sturdy wheel—the snap and go of this brawny car. The throttle kick when she gets away. Well—you're a red blooded American—you love style and comfort beyond the ordinary—and that's what I'm talking about.

JACKIE FIELDS TO MEET CLYDE CHASTAIN FRIDAY

Clash in Windup Bout on Coliseum Card.

Jackie Fields, claimant of the world's welterweight title, and Clyde Chastain of Texas, will meet in the main event of Promoter Paddy Harmon's boxing show at the Chicago Stadium on Friday night. It will be the only professional show to be held in the city during the week.

Fields is well known to local fans. He is fast and clever. He depends upon his skill to win decisions. Chastain is a hard right hand hitter who will take a punch to land one. Jackie has been made an 8 to 5 favorite and he may be a 2 to 1 choice before they enter the ring.

Armando Santiago of Cuba, one of the hardest hitting lightweights in the game, will clash with Luis Vicentini, the Chilean, in another ten rounder. Santiago stopped Joey Sangor of Milwaukee at the Coliseum but was knocked out later by Tony Canzoneri. This should be a fight as long as it lasts.

Tuffy Griffith, the Sioux City, Ia., lightweight, who will meet Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia for the world's light heavyweight title next month at the Chicago Stadium, will clash with A. Friedman of Boston in the other ten rounder. All fighters are in active training at local gyms.

Sammy Mandell, the world's lightweight champion who meets Jack Berg of England in the windup of Promoter Jim Mullen's show at the Mills' stadium on May 22 is in active training at the Barry gymnasium. Berg is working at the same place and the supporting card will be announced this week.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the "Inquiring Reporter" to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune. For today's question Thomas S. Trifill, 2441 West Huron street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

What do you think of a baseball fan who throws lemons or pop bottles at players or umpires?

The Answers.

W. R. Medow, 4705 Milwaukee avenue, electrician — One can't think much of them. Such tactics harm the game, and is bad business. However, I go to ball games often, but I recall only one instance where pop bottles were thrown. This action never is justified, no matter how enraged the fan becomes.

Ralph Heineman, 918 Greenwood avenue, Winnetka, Ill., salesman—I think it is a good thing, because it puts pep into the game and gets the crowd excited. A ball game without pep is like a dinner without a cigar. Of course, all lemon or pop bottle pitchers must throw a curved ball or they might hit and injure their human target.

S. H. Fryer, 25 East Jackson boulevard, chemist—A poor sportsman, that's what he is. I read about the injury to Umpire Ormsby and it occurred to me that danger of like mishaps would be eliminated if waxed paper bottles were used at all ball parks. I understand that just recently wax containers have been perfected so that they stand up under all ordinary conditions. If so, they should be adopted.

John Wilfinger, 3831 West 62d place, office clerk — I don't know. If one were thrown at me, I surely would have the guilty person arrested. One might get in wrong by throwing it back. I never saw any one throw things, although I go to Sox park almost every Saturday when there is a game. Maybe they don't do that at the Sox park.

S. M. Fergus, 1245 North Spaulding avenue, postoffice clerk—I would consider such a person a poor loser. The true sportsman takes his reverses calmly, philosophically, and without a grumble. I have witnessed that stunt, especially at Sox park. At some of the National league parks they are selling pop in paper containers. These cannot be thrown effectively, and they can't hurt any one.

Davis Cup Honors Divided by Greece and Denmark

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 18.—(AP)—Greece and Denmark divided honors in the first pair of singles matches today in the third round of the European zone Davis cup play. Zerlendi of Greece defeated Ulrich in a turbulent four set duel, 3-6, 8-6, 7-5, 17-15, but Henrickson of Denmark evened the count by beating Safiropoulo, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Steele, Londos to Head Mat Show May 27

Promoter Doc Krone has arranged his next wrestling show for Monday night, May 27, at the Coliseum. Ray Steele and Jimmy Londos will meet in the main event, best two in three falls.

Steele has made a host of friends here due to his aggressiveness. From the tap of the gong he wades in and never lets up until the finish. He'll take a couple or three or four roughings to get in one of his own. At all times he is just within the rules and keeps a referee busy watching for some infraction.

Londos, while he can be about as rough as they make them, is more gentlemanly in the ring. He is foxy and uses every method possible to distract the attention of his foe so that he may place him in the right position.

Yale Retains Regatta Cup in Close Race

Ithaca, N. Y., May 18.—(AP)—A wily and game Yale varsity eight that saved its best for the last and won in a furious drive whipped one of the finest of recent Cornell crews by half a length and trimmed Princeton by 2½ lengths in the Carnegie cup regatta on Cayuga lake this evening.

Taking command at the halfway point in the two mile race, Yale beat off a great Cornell challenge in the final half mile and fully earned the right to keep the cup that has been out of the Eli's possession only one year since Ed Leader became coach there in 1923.

The victory was Yale's sixth since this regatta was begun in 1911 and makes matters even in that respect with Cornell, whose string of triumphs was woven back in the days of Coach Pop Courtney.

Cornell men gained some solace in a victory in the freshman race, but Yale won the junior varsity as well as the feature event.

Helen Blanks Foe in U. S., French Tennis

PARIS, France, May 18.—French players won two of the three opening matches in the Franco-American tennis tournament today but Helen Wills scored a brilliant triumph, smashing through Madame Lafaurie to the tune of 6-0, 6-0.

A small gallery was on hand in the newly constructed concrete stands of the Roland Garros stadium, but a burst of applause greeted the American champion as she came out upon the nicely brushed brick red court. Helen wore a white sweater and the usual sunshade over her eyes, but was barelegged, her white sox being rolled down around her ankles.

Edith Cross of California went down to defeat before Madame Mathieu, 6-3, 6-2, the French woman driving a wicked service and red hot cross court shots which the American girl could not reach.

OUTSIDERS WIN AS 7,000 SHIVER AT AURORA RACES

Collins Horses Only Short Priced Victors.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Derby day at "The Downs" also brought its crowd to the lesser races at Aurora's Exposition park where 7,000 braved the chilling temperature and an arctic northeasterly breeze to see outsiders in the betting take down five of the seven purses.

Gray skies that continuously threatened rain failed to send a shower, though it had rained enough in the early morning to make unnecessary the sprinkling wagon's trip around the track between races. But it grew steadily colder until the fans who had neglected to wear overcoats stood around with their hands in their pockets and their backs humped to the wind. Only two favorites, both sent to the post by George Collins, came down in front.

In the Derby day handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature of the program, Lincoln Plaut, stoutly backed favorite, made it a double win for the Collins stables and rewarded the short odds players by coming from behind under a hard ride in the stretch to win from Devon by a head. Devonshire had set a fast pace for the first mile, and Lincoln Plaut's final drive equalled the track record of 1:45, set by Florence Mills.

Five Race in Feature.

Only five paraded to the post in the feature, and Devonshire, 10 to 1 in the betting, raced into an early lead with Devon and Lincoln Plaut close on his heels. After the turn into the stretch, Jockey V. Smith shook up Lincoln Plaut, and he came on fast, conquering Devonshire which quickly tired and dropped out of it. An eighth out, Lincoln Plaut headed Devon and came on to win, while Devon held on grimly to save the place. Old Rip Rap, saved for three-quarters, responded strongly when called on and was wearing down the leaders at the finish, but got up only for third.

Taddywawa, 3 year old filly, took the secondary feature, the Aurorana purse at six furlongs, by outfinishing Big Sweep, and paid her backers $11.82. Racing outside the leaders but close up until the stretch, the filly came fast and gamely under Jockey Ayraud's hard riding to race Big Sweep into defeat and go on to win by more than a length. Big Sweep, the favorite, saved the place money by a length from Gold Mint.

Thistle Ann Breezes to Wire.

In the other nonclaiming race, the third, a four and one-half furlong dash for 2 year olds, Thistle Ann from the Collins stables breezed under the wire four lengths in front. Off in front, Thistle Ann steadily increased her advantage over the field. Tom Hill, second choice, was as easy a place as Thistle Ann was winner, but couldn't threaten the leader. Bootsie Boo, which took the show, was remarkable chiefly because she paid only $3.50 to show, though 16 to 1 to win.

At least 1,000 of the crowd, half of whom expected to ride the last race train back to Chicago, stayed after the seventh race to hear the Kentucky Derby broadcast over the track's loud speaker. They learned the winner of the Derby and then found all trains had departed.

BRICKLAYERS AND SPARTAS RENEW RIVALRY TODAY

The Bricklayers and Sparta soccer clubs will meet today in the semi-final round of the Peel challenge cup competition. The game will be played at Sparta field, 22d street and Kostner avenue, at 3 p. m.

Recently these two clubs met in a cup game and battled 90 minutes to a 1 to 1 tie. An extra half hour had to be played, and, chiefly due to the fact that the Bricklayers' goal keeper, Vic Neate, sustained a broken leg 13 minutes before the expiration of the 90 minute period, the odds proved too great for the Bricklayers to overcome, since the national cup rules did not permit another goal keeper in Neate's place. Sparta scored two easy goals in the extra period.

Sparta and the Bricklayers met again three weeks ago in a game for the benefit of Vic Neate, the game ending 3 to 3.

For Best Flavor

If you like the flavor of a fine "dry" ginger ale, try Clicquot Club Pale Dry. You'll like the flavor because it gets added richness and mellowness from six months' ageing.

Good alone. Gives sunny flavor to recipe drinks. And in every bottle—4 oz. more ginger ale than you usually get. Remember—to get full flavor and full measure, always say "Clicquot Club Pale Dry." At all dealers.

Keep it on Ice

Here's the handy Party Package (12-bottle carton). A more convenient, more economical way to buy. And in every package, 48 oz. (equals 3 bottles) more than most ginger ales give you.

ARLINGTON PARK STAKES ATTRACT STABLES OF EAST

Several Women Owners Enter Horses.

Judging by the interest that eastern horsemen are evincing in the July race meeting at Arlington Park, under the auspices of the American National Jockey club, owners whose activities usually are confined to the Metropolitan and Saratoga tracks are going to invade the central states this summer in quest of the rich prizes offered at Arlington Park.

Eastern turfmen have made liberal nominations for the eleven stakes to be decided during the meeting, and also have attended to the important matter of making stable reservations. Entries to the stakes closed one week ago yesterday, and when they are made public it will be found that the easterners will be extensively represented, notably in the $60,000 added money American Classic.

The active part shortswomen are taking in turf affairs is evidenced by the large number of stake entries they have made in all sections of the country. The nominators from the Atlantic seaboard include such prominent owners as Mrs. F. A. Clark, Mrs. G. L. Kaufmann, who races in the name of the Loma stable; Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer; Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, owner of the Fair stable; Mrs. W. M. Jeffords, Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt, and Mrs. Payne Whitney. All but one of this number have an entry in the American Classic. Mrs. Clark has named Aquastella; Mrs. Kaufmann, Twink; Mrs. Pulitzer, Tipperary II.; Mrs. Vanderbilt, Chicatie; Mrs. Jeffords, Constitution, and Mrs. Hitt, Sunvir.

Dashes to Victory After Being Blocked.

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—The Keene Memorial went into history at Belmont Park this afternoon and the white and green silks of the Rancocas stable flew proudly in victory for the second successive year as Jockey Eddie Steffens piloted Mokatam home half a length in front of Crack Brigade. Why pay more for a car than it costs to get just what you want?

QUALIFYING TESTS FOR AUTO CLASSIC START SATURDAY

Thirteen Entries Doomed in Preliminaries.

Motordom's international 500 mile race, which will be concluded at the Indianapolis speedway on May 30, will get under way next Saturday. At this time the qualifying trials will start at the big oval and this year the qualifying rounds will be of more specific interest than at any time since before the world war.

The real contest starts with the first of these trials, for there are forty-six entries and only room for thirty-three cars in the final phase of the hippodrome. Thirteen cars thus will be eliminated in the preliminaries. More care than in the past is to be applied to this feature of the preparations and the officials at the track announce that four days will be given over to qualifying—Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Final Phase on Thursday.

The final grand struggle is to take place on Thursday, which this year is Memorial day.

While forty-six cars have been nominated, the American Automobile association, governing body of the speed sport, decrees that there shall be one car only for every 400 feet of trackage. Thirty-three cars—the largest number in any American race—may start the Indianapolis classic.

Only Fastest Survive.

Therefore it is the thirty-three fastest cars that roll to the tape on race day. The fastest car in the qualification trials is awarded the pole position and the other fast cars line up in rows of three cars according to their speed. As an award for being ready on the first qualifying day, the cars which qualify on the first day are given starting precedence over the cars that qualify on May 26, 27 and 28, the other days of qualification.

The trials are four laps of the two and one-half mile course or ten miles at a minimum average speed of 90 miles an hour. However, this minimum qualifying mark will mean nothing this year, with thirteen cars to be eliminated.

Racing experts declare that the thirty-third car in the race will have an average of more than 100 miles an hour. It is certain that there is keener pre-race rivalry than for many years. The car crews know that thirteen cars must fall by the wayside and there is a determined effort being made in every garage to make sure it is not their car.

Duray Holds Record.

The record lap at Indianapolis is held by Leon Duray, who drove the course at a pace of 124.018 miles an hour. He also holds the four lap qualifying record at 122 miles an hour. There is some indication that the pole car this year will exceed Duray's mark, but it is generally conceded that his one lap mark will stand. It was made last year under ideal conditions and is regarded as the most perfect lap ever driven on the Indianapolis course.

There also is a scramble among the drivers for the better cars this year. Many entrants have left their drivers unnamed because of the intense rivalry among the pilots. There are many more pilots than cars, and with thirteen drivers as well as cars to be eliminated in the trials, the entrants are waiting to pick the best from the large available field.

Late among the entries was an English race car, the Thompson Valve Special, which will be driven by a Frenchman, Jules Moriceau, making the third foreigner to nominate himself for the international classic.

Six Duesenbergs Enter.

There will be six Duesenbergs of Indianapolis origin, three of them composing a factory entry and the remainder individual entries, including one made by Tommy Milton, only two time winner of the Indianapolis race, who has not yet named a driver but who indicates that he will not come from his retirement. Milton is preparing a Detroit Special, which Cliff Durant, multimillionaire patron of the speed sport, will wheel in the coming classic.

Louis Chiron, European champion, a Frenchman, who will pilot a French De Lage; Gianfranco Comotti, an Italian, who will be seen at the wheel of a French Talbot, and Jules Moriceau, a Frenchman, who will drive an English car, form the Simon pure foreign contingent who will ride here in a desperate effort to lift the speedway laurels which have rested more or less peacefully on American heads for several years.

Chiron, an active champion, will be pitted against Louis Meyer, the Yankee champ, while both Comotti and Moriceau will be out to trim the European champ, Chiron, even if they can't defeat the American stars.

Some of the Contestants.

Ray Keech, former straightaway champion of the world; Bob McDonogh, one of the real stars of the younger generation; Leon Duray, who holds the track record; Cliff Durant, the multimillionaire racing star; Anthony Gulotta, who was leading the race only seventeen laps from the finish last year when a cracked gas tank threw him out of the running; Lou Moore, who was second to Louis Meyer last year; Cliff Woodbury, star and captain of the Boyle Valve team, are among the stars who will participate in the international race.

Twelve cars have been entered with drivers unnamed. Tommy Milton, two time champion, has entered a car with the driver unnamed; Bill White leaves one of his two cars without a driver; Cliff Woodbury still must name a driver on one of his best cars; and there are other fast automobiles entered without a driver definitely assigned to them.

There is a pre-race activity at the track that is unheard of. There are enough cars on the track ready to run to make a race tomorrow.

Tickets Still Plentiful.

Although there has been an unprecedented demand for tickets, caused probably by the presence of the European champion in the race, T. E. ["Pop"] Myers, general manager of the track, declares that there still are thousands of desirable seats to be had.

With all of the drivers having all winter to work on their cars, preparing them for the big Indianapolis race, the coming contest will present the finest array of mechanically perfect creations that ever has come here for an international race.

The Yankees are troubled, in a sense, over the strong competition Europe is providing this year, but the American stars are confident they will repulse the foreign invasion that began in 1913 when Jules Goux in a Peugeot started a series of victories that continued until 1924. The Yanks are working to retain the stronghold of speed they have established.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

A PECULIAR TRAP.

Chicago, May 17.—A trap exists in Michigan City on the main road through town which is a potential danger. I noticed the weird looking stop light showing green and increased my speed to get past while it still was green. Imagine my surprise when I saw a car suddenly shoot out from the intersecting street. I put on my brakes, but to this day cannot figure how I managed to miss a collision. I decided to stop and examine the spot. I found underneath the light a sign about the size of a lady's handkerchief reading: "This light for interurban cars only." The sign is visible in daylight but not at night. I hope this may save some Chicago motorist from a smashup.

L. C. BENNETT.

PICKING ON LA SALLE STREET.

Chicago, May 15.—I have read with interest the article by Putney Haight entitled "Motorists Find Little Use for New La Salle Street" and would mention a few observations as they have occurred to me.

In comparing the La Salle street bridge to the Michigan boulevard bridge it is evident that the La Salle street tunnel is a considerable obstacle for the free flow of traffic. Although the pavement south of the bridge is in good condition, the pavement north of the bridge to Lincoln park is poor. When you add to this already objectionable feature the awful elevated structure which crosses La Salle street north of the river at a height of 8 feet 9 inches, one can easily understand that the average driver dislikes to select this thoroughfare.

Of late the elevated company has added a most homely stairway to this low elevated structure and pasted it with unsightly signs. This low elevated structure north of the bridge creates an awe inspiring impression, especially when you notice machines passing under it that just about clear the elevated structure. I have often wondered why the officials of the elevated company display such an utter lack of civic pride by leaving this unsightly stub end as a barrier to traffic. One hardly ever sees a train pass over this structure. It would seem, therefore, that the least the elevated company could do would be to tear down this obnoxious structure and start their elevated stub end at the west side of La Salle street. In doing so one of the chief obstacles to traffic on La Salle street would be removed and the road would be open for bus lines and the general flow of traffic.

It is well to remember that even Wacker drive cannot function properly as long as the La Salle street widening and paving north of the river to Lincoln park are in its present bad condition.

I am very glad that you have called attention to this deplorable condition, and I hope that with your coöperation early relief can be obtained not only for the badly suffering property owners between the river and Lincoln park, but also for the benefit of the entire city.

KARL EITEL.

LET THERE BE LIGHTS.

Chicago, May 16.—Why confine attention to tail lights? I have amused myself several times within the last five or six years by counting the violations concerning head lights and I have found that eight per cent of all the cars on the streets drive with either one light or none. The count practically never goes below five improperly lighted cars out of a hundred and it frequently runs up to ten or twelve. This count has been made on the boulevards and on through streets such as Western avenue and on Madison street and in the downtown district. The average is about the same no matter where you count.

CATHERINE J. TROUT.

AND LICENSES, TOO.

Chicago, May 15.—A serious accident at Morse and Ashland avenues indicates the necessity of enforcing the existent license laws. Three boys were observed stealing tires and followed. The robbers rode down Ashland at a fifty mile gait and crashed into another car going west on Morse, overturning the latter vehicle. Luckily no one was hurt. The occupants of the first car jumped out and got away. A license on the car would have helped to trace them. Cars without licenses or with last year's licenses should be taken off the streets whenever seen unless the driver can show an application for license dated within ten days previous. Crooks and irresponsible hoodlums would thus be removed or at least hampered in their criminal operations. The support of THE TRIBUNE would go far toward bringing this about. J. D. H.

SANE SOUND.

Chicago, May 18.—I submit this question to the public on a matter I believe to be of some importance: "Would you be in favor of an authorized and uniform automobile horn?" Agitation in this respect I firmly believe would greatly reduce a lot of unnecessary noise, and be a boon to the public on and off the streets.

FRONT DRIVE CAR PRODUCTION WILL BE IN 2 MODELS

A group of men in the automobile industry met in Detroit last week to arrange for the production of a new front wheel drive car, to be known as the "Ruxton."

The car was designed by C. Harold Wills, Detroit automotive engineer, financed by Archie M. Andrews, New York capitalist, and director in the Hupp Motor Car company.

Mr. Andrews made it plain that the Hupmobile company will not manufacture the new car, which at first will include but two models, a runabout and a sedan. It will be built on contract, deals having been completed with Cleveland and St. Louis companies, and a Detroit company will be included.

The car is designed to sell above $4,000, will be of 90 horse power with eight cylinders in a row, and capable of reaching and maintaining a speed of 90 miles an hour. The wheel base will be 135 inches and production is scheduled at 12,000 cars.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Cook county Pontiac dealers are showing with pride the 500,000th car of that model to be turned out at the factory, just forty months after the first production announcement. The car is being exhibited in turn by all dealers and is the 80,000th of the big six type to come off the assembly line since Jan. 1.

Reo Motor Car company has instituted a million dollar damage suit against an automobile trade paper, charging that the company was libeled by an article which purported to forecast a change in type of production by the Reo company. Incidentally, last Tuesday a corps of salesmen of Butler Motors, Inc., Chicago Reo distributors, flew to Lansing for a sales conference and to hear an address by C. E. Eldridge, general sales manager. They also drove away from the factory more than 100 cars.

Reports from Nash covering April shipments to Canada show the month to have been substantially the largest in the history of the company. It is also reported that April climaxed an eight month period of unprecedented gains in deliveries to the Canadian distributing organization.

Two new Durant models are now in production in the Lansing plant. Both are equipped with four speed transmission, according to announcement made early this week. The engines in these cars, built by Continental, are Durant specifications.

Announcement is made by Tropic-Aire, Inc., Minneapolis, of the appointment of the Gabriel Snubber company, 2636 Indiana avenue, Chicago, as exclusive distributors of Tropic-Aire heaters for Chicago and surrounding territory.

Sales of Stearns-Knight cars during the first four months of this year more than doubled actual shipments during the corresponding period of last year, officials of the corporation of Cleveland announce.

"In designing De Soto bodies," Karl H. Bronson declares, "Chrysler engineers' predominating idea was to give greater luxury and more comfort than was ever before found in the field of moderate priced 6 cylinder cars. That is the principal reason for the universal popularity of De Soto body styles."

Packard's April deliveries exceeded 6,000 units, establishing a new high monthly record in this company's history.

Roosevelt car No. 10000 was shipped from the Marmon factory on Wednesday last, on the fifth anniversary day of President G. M. Williams' incumbency in that office. The ten thousandth Roosevelt went to the retail branch at Detroit and was a five passenger sedan. The factory is now on a schedule of 250 cars a day.

MOTORS — TRAFFIC — HIGHWAYS

WAUKEGAN ROAD IN LAKE COUNTY GOING TO PIECES

24 Mile Strip Holds Up Vast Traffic.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

The pavement on Waukegan road or route 42A is going to pieces rapidly in Lake county between the Cook county line and the Wisconsin state line, a distance of about twenty-four miles.

If this condition affected only Lake county it would be a matter of minor interest. Unfortunately this strip of pavement is essential to the movement of a vast volume of traffic plying between Chicago and the business centers and playgrounds of Wisconsin. In summer time the peak load carried over this route, despite the fact that only a single track exists north of Cook county, runs to about 40,000 vehicles in a day.

Not only is the surface condition of the existing pavement in Lake county going to be a serious detriment to traffic movement, but the fact that when repaired as best it can by patching, this season, it still will be a narrow, inadequate pavement. This is distinctly retarding the wide highway program in the state of Wisconsin.

Influences Badger Action.

There is now legislation before the Wisconsin assembly to provide revenue for the purpose of building forty feet of pavement on U. S. route 41, which is the Wisconsin connection with the Waukegan road thoroughfare. If this were done it would provide a four lane concrete slab for the 85 miles from Chicago to Milwaukee, with the exception, of course, of the twenty-four miles in Lake county. It would reduce running time for motor traffic between the cities to about two hours instead of the three and a half to four hours now required.

The state highway department of Illinois, under the terms of the gasoline tax law, is obligated to widen this highway through Lake county to the Wisconsin line. It constitutes one of the vivid examples of narrow road congestion in the Chicago area. Gov. Louis L. Emmerson and the highway department have asserted explicitly that gas tax funds appropriated for relieving congestion will be applied to narrow roads in the Chicago region. It has been impossible, however, to get a definite statement from the administration that this highway actually will be put under wider construction.

State Maintains Secrecy.

Just why the state highway administration prefers to make a secret of its plans is not exactly clear to the public, and the practice is considered by unofficial road boosters as an inheritance of the Len Small administration.

The importance of coming out in the open with a definite declaration that the highway in Lake county will be widened to forty feet and the surface maintained, lies in the effect it will have upon legislation in Wisconsin during the next month or two. Wisconsin will, if faced with the presence of a 40 foot road to the state line from Chicago, undoubtedly make arrangements for a continuation at that width to Milwaukee.

"In the proposal to increase the gasoline tax to four cents in Wisconsin," Representative Wallace Ingals of Racine said, "the idea is to allocate the fourth cent to improvement of continuous state routes. At present the gas tax revenues are used to encourage building within the various counties. The practice is for the county to set up a certain amount for a particlular local project, finance it with a bond issue, and then the state matches the sum with an appropriation from gas tax revenues. The result is that in many counties quite wonderful road systems have been developed, but there are no through and continuous highways crossing the state in any direction.

Would Impress Wisconsin.

"It seems to me that if the legislature were made aware that the state of Illinois is building an extension of the 40 foot pavement (which was constructed by Cook county to the Lake county line) to the Wisconsin line the designation of the fourth cent for extension of the 40 foot pavement from the state line to Milwaukee would not be a difficult problem. Wisconsin, however, is not informed that Illinois will build up to its line.

"Those who have studied the requirements of motor traffic are convinced that one of the crying needs in Wisconsin is the widening of the Chicago-Milwaukee highway to four or six lanes. That is where the traffic is, and that is where traffic facilities should be provided. The two most important elements in Wisconsin's prosperity are highway facilities and commercial electricity. Each has its important part in serving the agricultural and dairy interests of the state, and those interests are the basis of all our prosperity.

"Although a pioneer in good roads, Wisconsin has fallen behind because the direction of highway construction has rested with the counties instead of the state. Through highways result from central control of designing. Disconnected and noncontinuous highways result from county control.

An Argument for Funds.

"Because of the political element in the legislature the present two cent gasoline tax will continue to go back to the counties for local paving. The pressure is so great from the counties that an added cent would be applied to county projects also. But since the state has provided for a paid highway commission and that commission is charged with designing state routes with some degree of continuity, it is clear that some funds must be placed in their hands for the purpose of defraying the costs of continuity. The fourth cent should be used for this purpose.

The legislature is not convinced that the best policy is to provide any funds for state construction of highways. If, however, the state of Illinois is known to be building a wide highway up to the south line of the state that fact probably would have the effect of stirring the consciousness of a majority of the members and might result in making a law of the proposed allotment."

While nothing is being done through Lake county except some patching of the narrow pavement, and that only sparsely, the four lane highway in Cook county is developing a steadily increasing mass of north bound traffic for delivery to the Lake county thoroughfare. Over the last week-end the lines of cars were miles long in each direction, immediately north of the Cook county borders. Traffic speed was reduced to fifteen or twenty miles an hour, and drivers suddenly coming to the obstruction from the clear, high speed sections in Cook county had difficulty in adjusting themselves to the low rate of speed forced upon them just south of Deerfield. As a result, on Saturday afternoon wrecks were strung along the ditches at the side of the narrow pavement, fully a score of disabled cars having been noted off the road within the Lake county area.

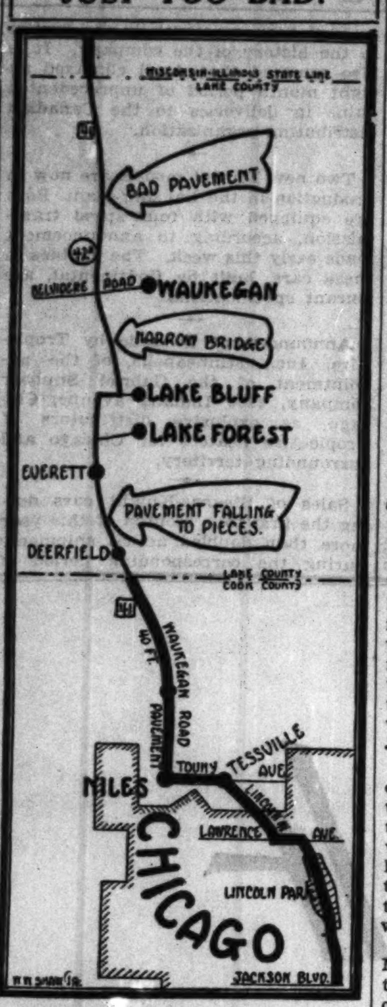
Logical Wisconsin Route.

Waukegan road is the logical through traffic highway out of Chicago for Wisconsin. It skirts to the west of the north shore communities in Cook and Lake counties and is a half dozen miles west of Racine and Kenosha in the Badger state. No cities nor villages of any size are encountered. High speed is possible at its safest, providing sufficient width of pavement is provided.

At present that portion of the pavement in Lake county is comparable to the condition that existed on Roosevelt road west of the city toward the Fox river valley for several years. This road was one of the earliest constructed, and the pavement went to pieces in 1922 or 1923. It remained in fearful condition for more than four years, but is now repayed. It accommodates 35,000 to 40,000 vehicles a day at peaks and is a great boon to traffic, except where it narrows down to two lanes west of the county line. In the four years of its worst condition the road cost traffic hundreds of thousands of dollars in time, wear and tear, and general inconvenience.

Will the state permit the Waukegan road to cost traffic a similar or greater amount by holding off improvement for another four or five years?

JUST TOO BAD!



Motorists bound to and from Wisconsin will find execrable conditions on the Waukegan road in Lake county, where it is not only too narrow for safety or comfort but is coming to pieces on the surface. Map shows the bottleneck in Lake county and indicates the worst of the bad pavement.

CHICAGO GETS 4 GERMAN BUILT MOTOR TRUCKS

Three 120 horsepower six wheel trucks, manufactured in Germany and the first of these European motor trucks to be shipped to America, were unloaded at the Pennsylvania railroad automobile unloading platforms in the 12th street yards last week.

The trucks were built in Braunschweig, Germany, by H. Bussing, Automobilwerke Aktien-Gesellschaft. A distinguishing feature is the two drive shafts, one connected with each pair of wheels. The chassis alone weighs seven tons and the truck has a capacity of 26,000 pounds, which when loaded is equivalent to the weight of a modern railroad freight car.

Laving Bremen, Germany, on the S. S. President Harding, the trucks were delivered to the Pennsylvania at New York and hauled to Chicago on special freight cars.

Good Roads Lengthening Life of Automobile Tires

Improved roads are bringing about greater tire mileage. Registrations have increased 110 per cent during the last five years, whereas the number of tires produced has increased 52 per cent in the same period, according to a survey of tire and rubber companies.

Keep Cushions in Place to Keep Them in Shape

Unless the cushions are in their proper places, the seat springs are almost certain to become deformed, with the result that the deep depression in the middle of the cushion becomes most uncomfortable.

AUTO INDUSTRY'S SPRING DECLINE STILL FAR OFF

Usual Slack Months Are Setting Records.

Detroit, Mich., May 18.—[Special.]—The outstanding feature in the automobile industry is the failure up to the present time of a seasonal curtailment of production, due to the continued demands for motor vehicles of all prices. Using past years as criteria, the spring curtailment is long past due; but, with shipments in April setting a new high record with more than 600,000 units and the first half of May keeping pace with the corresponding period of April, there is little likelihood that there will be any noticeable decrease before June.

During the last four years the decline started in mid-April and continued well into July, and it was therefore logical to suppose that it would follow precedents; but such has not been the case. To the contrary, in fact, the demand and production have both showed increases as a whole.

In the low price field in particular May schedules have been announced that will produce an output in excess of any previous month. In the medium and high price fields March and April conditions are being duplicated, so this source of output will not afford any decline in the total for the month.

Indicates Rush in May.

Summed up, it all indicates a May rush of business before the slackening about the middle of June, for it cannot be expected that the present conditions and those of the last three months can continue much longer.

Truck schedules have increased along with those of passenger cars. This includes both light and heavy service vehicles, with demand for the heavier models in the lead.

Increase in sales of used cars provided a significant development in the market. The turnover is rapid, especially in the better grades of cars, and because of the record sales so far this year the used car industry also is having a banner year. However, the fact remains that a used car is worth only as much as it can be sold for. A close estimate places the number of cars that figured in tradeins this spring at 2,000,000.

Analysis of sales figures for the last three years shows that nearly 65 per cent of all new passenger cars sold in the United States this year will be in the less than $800 class.

This estimate shows that in 1926 the percentage of cars sold in this class was 63.6; in 1927, 59.0, and in 1928, 61.2. During these three years the number of cars sold in the United States reached a total of 9,440,000, of which 5,790,000 were listed in the class of cars priced less than $800.

May Count on Exports.

The export trade continues to increase more rapidly than the domestic in the demand for motor cars. Indications are that out of a probable production of more than 5,000,000 units this year one out of every five will be shipped to some foreign country. This, if carried through, will mean the initial year in which one million or more cars will be absorbed by the export demand.

From now on American automobile builders may safely count upon the foreign demand as one of the features of the business. The foreign manufacturers have done their best to make a product which will appeal to their own people, but they do not seem to have made a satisfactory job of it, and American-built cars have a decided edge in European countries, and South America, India, China, and Japan.

The soviet government last week let a contract to a Detroit architect for a $4,000,000 tractor plant to be built on which work will begin immediately.

COOK COUNTY TO ENFORCE RULES ON 4 LANE ROADS

Traffic Must Keep to Outer Edge.

Motorists who cruise the county's system of four lane roads will hereafter be subjected to a little more regulation than has thus far been demonstrated, if a resolution to be offered by Commissioner Francis Boutell of the county board tomororw is adopted.

Mr. Boutell's resolution proposes that the board invoke an ordinance compelling all traffic to keep in the outside lanes excepting when passing another car. This will have the effect of forcing all slow moving vehicles to the outer lane in either direction and giving over the inner lane to high-speed automobiles.

"The fact that traffic is not regulated on the four-lane portions of the county road system at present," Mr. Boutell says, "practically nullifies the entire widening work thus far done. Of course, the four lanes permit traffic to move some faster, but we are not getting the dividends out of our investment that we ought to.

Few Know Traffic Ways.

"In recent journeys out on the wider county highways I have found that the general run of motorists do not know how to drive upon them. They travel along leisurely on the inner lanes, and that is not what they were put there for. The slow traffic must be confined to the outer lanes so that those who desire to make time on these really wonderful highways will not be prevented from doing so.

"This system of regulation is now in force in the state of Delaware and in the region of Wayne county just outside of Detroit. In both those places the enforcement of ordinances compelling all traffic to travel in the outside lanes, excepting when passing other cars, has cleared up the situation."

Another drawback to the proper alignment of cars based on speed classification is the fact that the lanes are not properly marked at a number of places. In cases where the widening work was done by adding more on one side of the road than the other, as is a usual custom at curves or turns, the lines created by the slab itself confuse motorists.

State Ought to Mark.

As the state has taken over these highways for maintenance, the county highway department contends, it is responsible for the proper marking of lanes throughout the system.

"Orange lines should mark the lanes," Maj. George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways, said, "as this color is more easily seen at night than others. Also there are some black lane marking put down by the county as temporary markings, and these do not preserve alignment on four lane sections, as they were marked to show the center of the original two lane roads."

Observations by county highway officials and county police have led to the conclusion that unless steps are taken to mark the highways and then confine slow traffic to outside lanes, the results from the $15,000,000 improvement will be seriously reduced.

Drive Slowly, See Town; Drive Fast and See Jail

A signpost has been placed at each entrance to the village of Arcissac, France, bearing the legend: "If you drive slowly you will see our village; it is very pretty. If you drive quickly you will see our jail; it is very damp."

FRENCHMAN HAS DRIVEN 2,000,000 KIL. IN 30 YEARS

A long distance motoring record of 2,078,000 kilometers since 1897 is the unique accomplishment of the Frenchman Charles Faroux, former billiard champion and chess player, according to figures just received through the bureau of information and statistics of the French chamber of commerce in New York. M. Faroux's motoring record was established through a survey recently conducted by the Journal l'Auto to determine how many pioneer motorists had exceeded the million kilometer mark. Second to M. Faroux, the survey showed M. Rivier, chauffeur at Michelin's at Clermont-Ferrand to have motored 1,250,000 kilometers, and the soprtsman, Briand, 1,120,000 kilometers.

CROWDED FIELDS ADDED HAZARD TO AIR SERVICE

Collisions Aloft Call Attention to Danger.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Two major airplane accidents which occurred last month serve to show the hazards provided in big crowded airports and the need for smaller airports in greater numbers to thin out congested terminal traffic and reduce the danger of accidents from collision in flight and on the runways.

Two persons were killed in one accident; six in the other. On April 13 two planes collided in midair over the Ford airport at Dearborn, Mich., and crashed from a height of about 500 feet, instantly killing one aviator, fatally injuring a second and seriously injuring a third. One plane rose from the runway and came up under a second plane in flight. The two locked and plunged to the ground.

The Ford airport is one of the largest in the country. It was especially crowded at the time of the accident because of the many aviators who were attending the all-American aircraft show at Detroit. Planes jammed the hangars, the runways, the parking spaces and the air.

Six Killed on Coast.

The second accident, causing the death of six persons, occurred at San Diego, Cal., when a cabin passenger plane of the Maddox Air lines and an army pursuit plane collided at an altitude of 2,000 feet, hurtling both planes to the ground. Accounts of observers stated that the army plane was maneuvering about the larger plane.

San Diego has three air fields in the same general locality along the ocean front. One is the airport used by the Maddox line and other commercial [illegible], a second is the army field and a third is the navy airport. Their proximity centers the activities of the planes from all three in one area [illegible].

Speed Adds to Hazards.

Two days before the collision of the army and commercial planes, four navy flyers were killed when two planes collided as they swung in to land at the air station field.

The speed of airplanes and the lack of clear visibility from the cockpit makes landing at a crowded airport a task for the most alert pilot. He must follow closely the movements of several planes flying at 75 to 100 miles an hour in various directions, and the movements of those taking off and landing on the field. His job is made more difficult by obstructions to his view which constantly change as a wing crosses his line of vision above or the floor of the cockpit obscures it below.

Wide, clear areas are required for airplane maneuvering. With the increased number of airplanes using the principal airports traffic is bound to become more and more congested. The tendency should be toward more and smaller airports rather than a few large landing fields.

Novices Are Dangerous.

Operators of air lines using the municipal field at Cicero avenue and 63d street predict a major tragedy unless something is done to relieve the pressure there. Besides the commercial lines operating from the field, sightseeing services and student schools use it as a base. At certain periods of the day the sky above the field swarms with student planes flown by novices, and through these the big transport planes must maneuver.

A plane in the hands of a youth who is just learning how to manage it is a constant hazard to the safe operation of transport planes carrying passengers. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh recently declared that student training should never be conducted from a commercial air field. Chicago operators urge the segregation of the various activities by retrieving the old mail field at Maywood for student training and transient flyers.

What seems to be a successful solution of the problem has been devised by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of the middle west Curtiss Flying Service, in the plans for the new Curtiss field now under construction at Glenview. Here one field will be devoted entirely to student training. A second and adjoining field will be used for commercial ships.

Boston U. S. Custom House to Have Airplane Beacons

The United States custom house building at Boston is to be equipped with two rotating beacons using red cover glasses. The beacons will rotate at two revolutions per minute, and will be of 200,000 candlepower voltage. The apex of the tower will be illuminated with four red obstruction lights, one on each side.

Air Meeting in St. Louis Draws Leaders

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—Outstanding leaders in aviation from the United States and Europe will be in St. Louis for the third national aeronautic meeting to be held May 27 to 30, inclusive, in conjunction with the Gardner cup air races, and under the auspices of the aeronautic division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The meeting has been characterized by Victor J. Azbe, general chairman, as the "most comprehensive in the history of aviation." Among the 43 persons who will present papers at the sixteen meetings are William P. McCracken, aeronautics secretary of the department of commerce; Commander C. E. Rosendahl of the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station; Hugo Junkers, German aircraft builder, who will be represented by his daughter, Fräulein Bertha Junkers; Lieut. Jimmy Doolittle, United States army flyer, holder of many records, and Lieut. F. W. Reichelderfer of the dirigible Los Angeles.

Louis C. Brequet, designer of the motor that powered the plane used by Costes and Le Brix in their world flight, is to be a speaker at the meeting, as well as Commander J. M. Shoemaker, United States navy, and C. S. [Casey] Jones, air mail pilot.

Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, is to be the principal speaker at the banquet to be held the final day of the convention. Other invited guests include: Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps; Brig. Gen. W. E. Gillmore, commandant of Wright field; Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the navy, and Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautical corporation.

Two other prominent guests will be Orville Wright, "father" of aviation, and Daniel Guggenheim of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aviation.

Guggenheim will be the first recipient of the "Spirit of St. Louis" engraved gold medal by which the society, in the future, will reward "outstanding service in the promotion of aviation." The medal is to be awarded infrequently, probably every three years. Guggenheim has founded air schools at New York university, Leland Stanford university, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and has given more than six million dollars of his personal fortune toward the advancement of aeronautics.

QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q.—Where is the supercharger on an airplane engine interposed relative to the carburetor?—Ward Gaffin, Fond du Lac, Wis.

Q.—What is an outside loop? Can you make a turn with the rudder alone?—Eugene Wazeka, Kankakee, Ill.

A.—An outside loop is one in which the pilot rides on the outside of the loop rather than on the inside of a normal loop. A slow turn can be made with the rudder alone although it is very poor flying to do so because of the resulting skid.

Q.—What is the present world's speed record for airplanes?—Warren Patterson, New Dayton, Alberta, Canada.

A.—The present world's speed record is 318.624 miles per hour, and was made by Maj. Mario de Bernardi at Venice, Italy, on March 30, 1928. The ship used was a Macchi 52 monoplane powered with a Fiat A. S.-3 engine. It should be understood that this record was not made on a closed course but on a straightaway.

Q.—What is meant by a "whipstall"? What is a dihedral angle?

A.—A "whipstall" is a stall in which the ship is pulled into the stalling position to such a degree that the weight of the motor causes the plane to whip down into a dive. The dihedral angle commonly refers to the lateral dihedral angle and is the angle formed by the upward inclination of each wing of an airplane to the horizontal.

U. S. AIRPORT IN TEXAS WILL BE WORLD'S LARGEST

Total Cost to Be Around $50,000,000.

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex.—[Special.]—Further details of the plans which have been adopted for constructing at Randolph field, San Antonio, the most modern and largest army airport and flying school in the world have been made public by the war department. It was stated that the immediate expeditures in this airplaine development program will be $14,000,000 and that when fully equipped and completed, the cost of the improvements will be approximately $50,000,000.

Everything is in readiness for converting what is now a mesquite covered tract of land into a city which will have a military population of more than 5,000 persons. All structures, including barracks, officers' quarters, residences and school buildings, will be of Spanish mission type of architecture.

Built Like a Wheel.

Nothing can better describe the proposed new field than comparing it with a huge wheel. The officers' mess will form the hub with the officers' quarters, 359 in all, corresponding to spokes. The rim will be created by the enlisted men's barracks, athletic fields, swimmings pool, hangars and numerous other departmental buildings. And from this rim in three directions will extend the wide, flat landing fields from which 250 planes can take the air at one time.

The entire field, purchased by the city of San Antonio and donated to the government, will cover nearly five square miles. Already work has been started on clearing away the site and it will only be a matter of months until the first of the hundreds of buildings which will go to make up this army airport is started.

Plan 800 Buildings.

Actual construction of buildings, of which there will be nearly 800 in the post, is expected to start some time in June of this year. As fast as they are completed, they will be filled. It is thought that the first unit of the post will be completed within two years' time.

Never before has any government extended to its soldiers the comforts, modern equipment and beauty that the United States will provide for its flyers and flying students at Randolph field, it was stated. Not that those officers and enlisted men at the San Antonio field will be privileged, for the general program of improvement of all army camps, forts and fields is now being undertaken by army officials. Randolph field, however, will be the only absolutely new field or camp to be constructed at present under the program.

The average charge for passenger air travel over the regular air transport lines in the United States is 11 cents per mile, according to a survey recently completed by the traffic department of Boeing Air Transport, operators on the Pacific coast and transcontinental airmail and passenger routes.

It is possible for an aerial passenger to travel 12,914 miles in this country over the lines of air transport companies operating regular passenger services without retracing a mile of the journey. For nearly 13,000 miles of travel the passenger would pay $1,427 or 11 cents per mile.

The lowest aerial passenger fare per mile in this country is 7.6 cents, between Portland and Seattle, and the maximum 21 cents per mile for a short over-the-ocean flight along the Pacific coast. The airplane rates include taxicab or bus transportation between the airports and the business sections of the cities they serve.

GLYCOL, COOLING FLUID FOR PLANES, INCREASES SPEED

The first commercial use of the new ethylene glycol cooling fluid for aviation engines of the water cooled type has been made at Mitchel Field, N. Y., where a Curtiss Falcon, using the fluid, easily outflew a similar plane with the old water system.

Use of the new cooling liquid permitted a reduction in frontal area of the radiator by four-fifths and increased the speed of the plane, by reduction of the wind resistance, by 8 miles per hour, engineers said.

The fluid was developed by army research workers at the army air corps aeronautical laboratories at Wright field, Dayton, O., where it has been applied to military engines.

England Is Experiencing Boom in Landing Fields

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON. — With the increasing number of private flyers in England, there is a distinct boom in municipal landing fields. The first field owned by a city, that of Manchester, was opened recently. No less than 30 other cities have had suggested sites approved by the air ministry, and some of them have begun work on their airdromes.

YOU CAN'T GET RUN OVER IN THIS NEW TOWN

Model Community Has Novel Plan.

Home owners who object to being bathed in gasoline fumes from passing motors as they take the air on their verandas, and mothers who shiver with visions of accidents until their children return from school, will be interested in what is going on in Radburn, N. J., says the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

For the houses in Radburn are turned completely around so the porches front on the gardens and the streets in Radburn are laid out so the pedestrian can pursue his way without thinking of his accident insurance.

And if any one gets a bad break in this made to order town it will be the maids who will have to look out on traffic tieups as they stir the soup; but the home owner, who after all is the one who paid for the house, will be sitting on the edge of a quiet garden.

A Made to Order Town.

For Radburn has been raised directly from a real estate deed with no mistakes of early settlers to make the task difficult. It has been financed by New York capitalists and is being built by the famous City Housing Corporation that has been engaged for some years in practical demonstrations of how to increase the efficiency of American homes.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. is one of the outstanding men who has agreed to underwrite a large part of the total capital required to build this little city; and Felix Warburg, Miss Anne Morgan, and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, are among the stockholders of the limited dividend corporation.

Nor is Radburn a dream of the rich, for the Housing corporation already has distinguished itself in a garden community it developed in Long Island City; and two hundred homes are nearing completion in Radburn now. The 1,250 acres that will comprise the town will be opened for both residential and industrial purposes, the homes, of course, being separated from the commercial districts, in accordance with the most advanced principles of zoning.

It is estimated that the project will cost $70,000,000 and that it will take ten years to complete the work. The homes will be designed mostly for small salaried workers who may ply their trades in Radburn itself in industries located there or in the nearby industrial towns or even in New York that is only thirty-two minutes distant. The American Radiator company has completed a $100,000 warehouse and distributing center in the new town.

A Network of Garden Walks.

And in this city that will ultimately have a population of 25,000 people, a network of garden walks connect groups of houses and traverse the entire community without crossing a vehicular traffic street. And these pleasant foot paths are reached from the garden doors of houses that are built around short, closed streets so that only the few automobiles going directly to these residences will ever pass their doors.

Radburn was laid out by expert city planners who hold that there should not be through traffic on every street and if a town is "raised up" from the beginning, with short auxiliary streets, such as Radburn has, traffic can be regulated for all time to come and residential streets need not be so wide. The main arteries of vehicular travel in Radburn will be amply wide and adequate, says the housing corporation, for the thousands of people who are expected to go through Radburn, which is strategically located between the growing industrial towns of Hackensack and Paterson, with combined populations of 155,000.

A through street entirely encircles this model town and cuts through its center; but pedestrians do not have to cross it, but go under it via a tunnel. Thus school children, no matter on what street they live, can go to and from their studies in perfect safety, which will certainly make for the peace of mind of Radburn mothers, comments the real estate association.

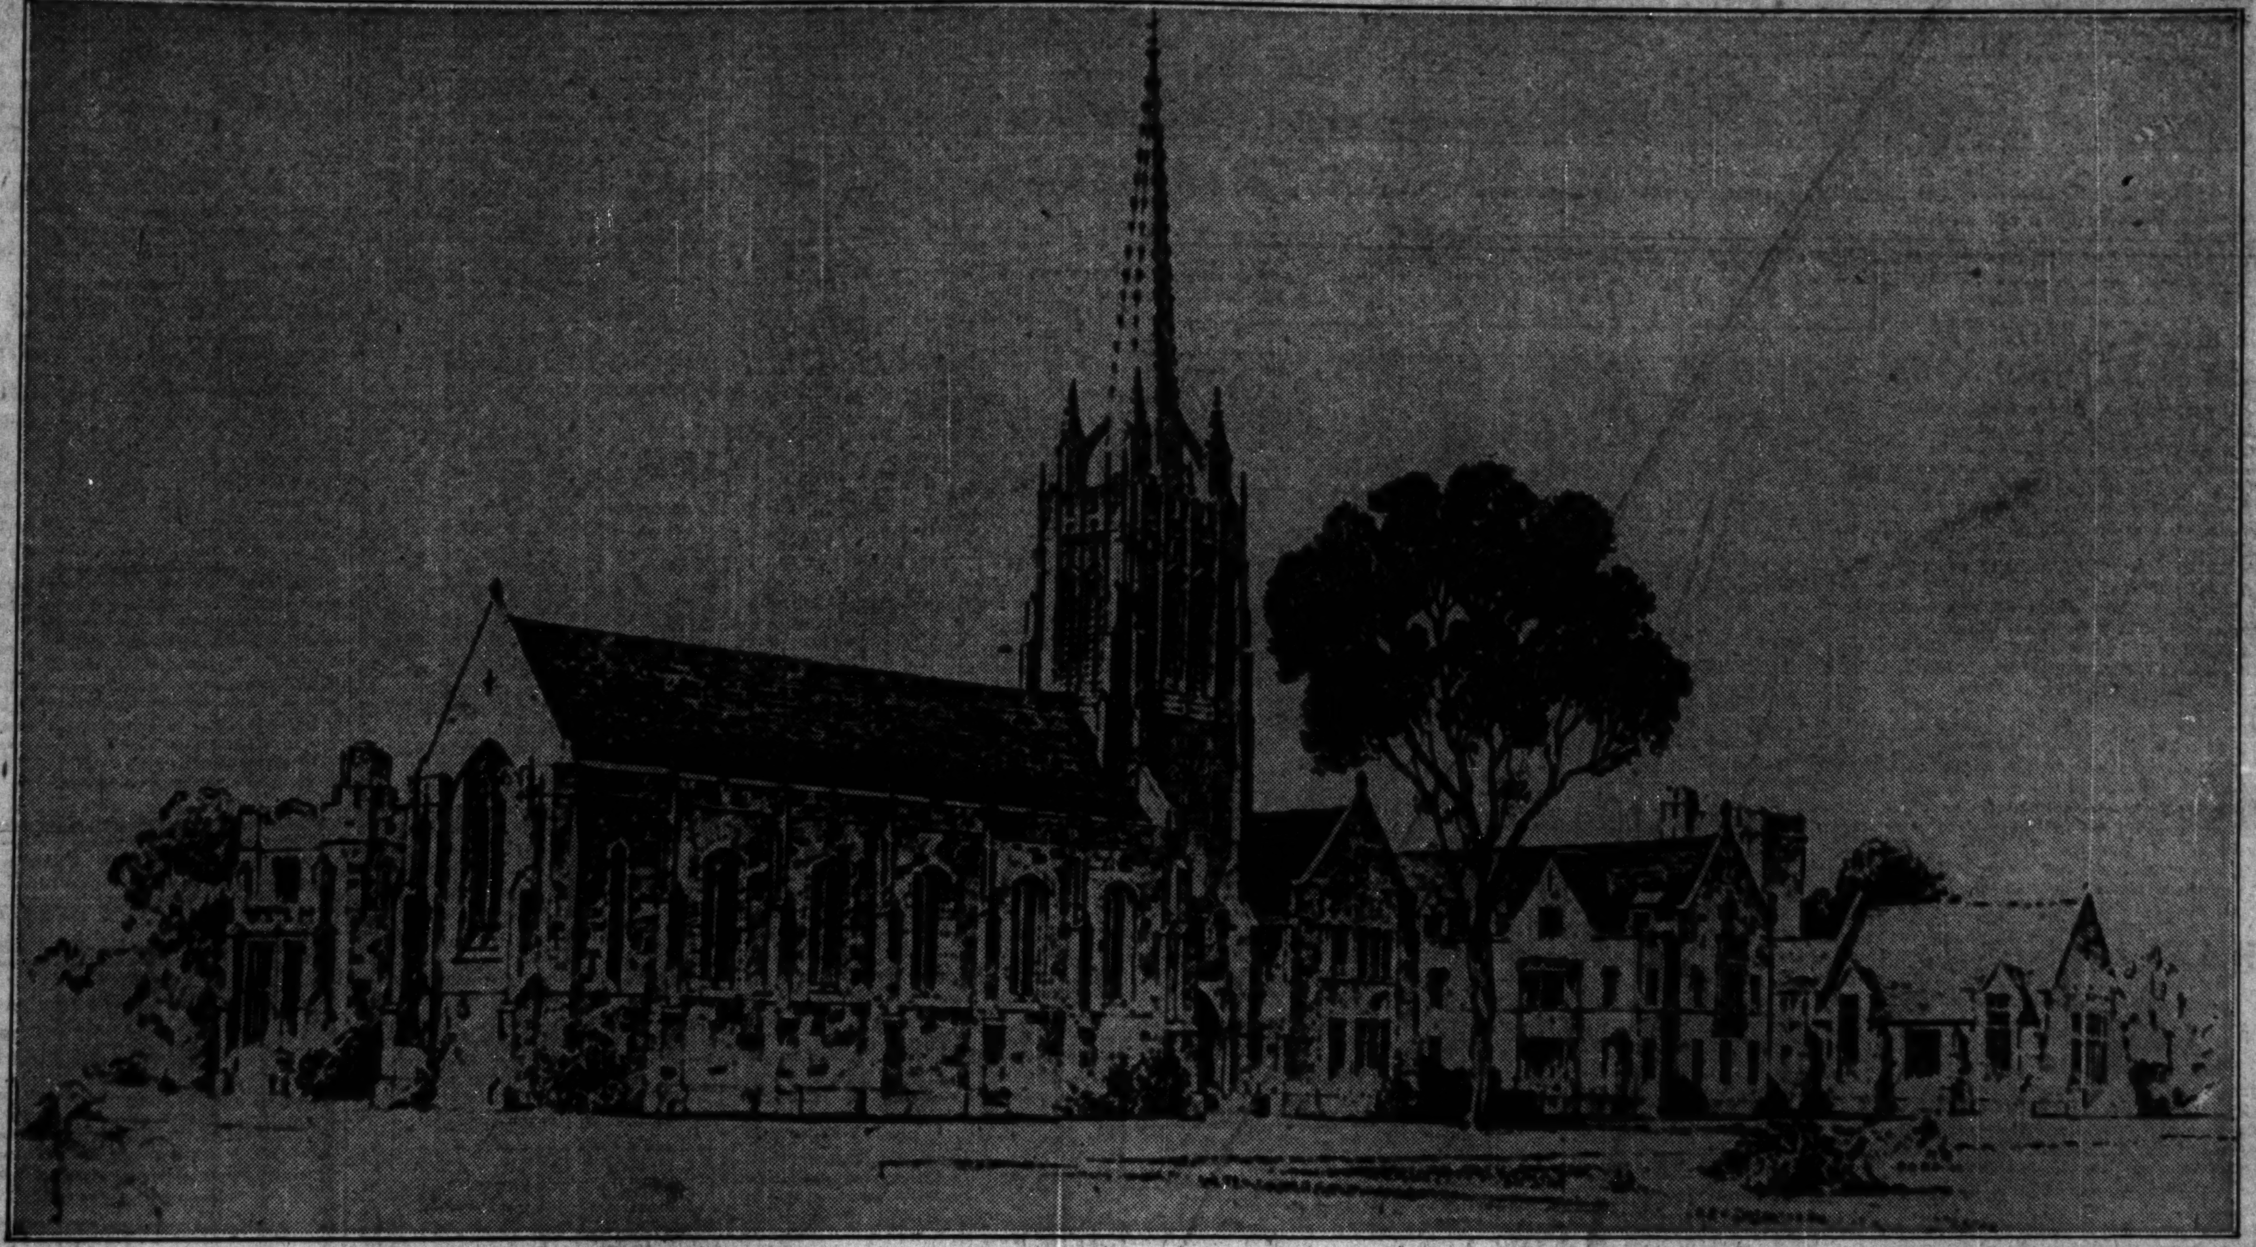
Houses Face Gardens.

The backs of the Radburn houses front on the auxiliary streets on the theory that the noises, dirt, and fumes from modern traffic is objectionable to the home owner and that a few feet of front yard does not remove him far enough from this confusion. Therefore, the Radburn houses are turned around so the living rooms, dining rooms, and porches look out on generous gardens provided by the Radburn plan and the kitchens look out on the stub-end streets.

There was a time, reminisces the realty association, when it was delightful to sit facing the street. Years ago the street was a parkway with an occasional horse and buggy passing by. Housewives took their sewing to the front windows and neighbors called pleasantries to each other from the porch steps. Now anything one might say would be drowned out by an automobile siren or crash of a passing truck. Now the street is a service alley even in most residential districts, and householders are drenched in gasoline fumes, irritated by noise, and worried about the safety of their children.

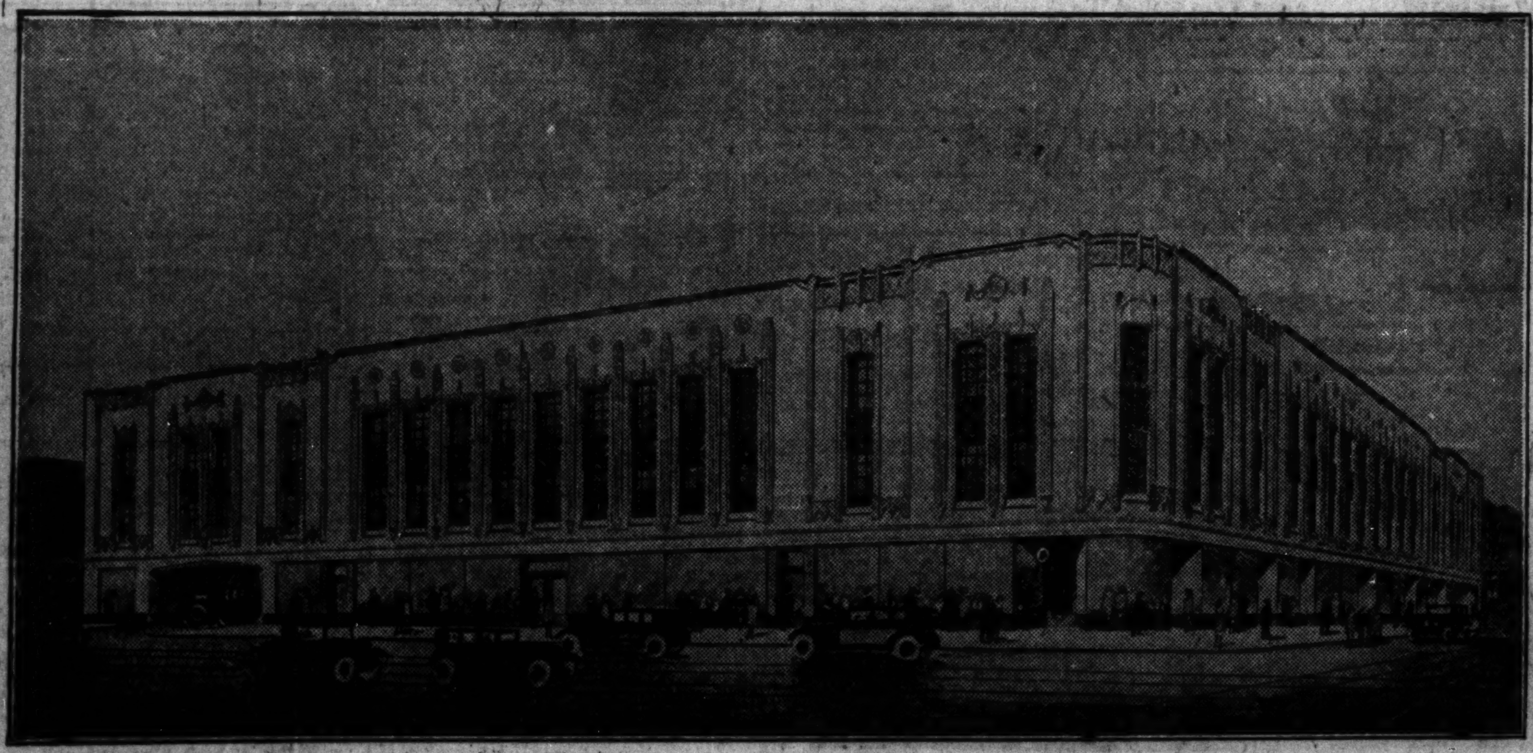
We must have traffic because the modern activities of the modern home owners make it necessary. They won't carry home parcels, and so the parcels must be delivered. But we can gain the quiet of olden times by the simple device of turning our houses around; and 25,000 people will be living this way within the next ten years in New Jersey.

ENHANCING EVANSTON'S EDUCATIONAL PRESTIGE



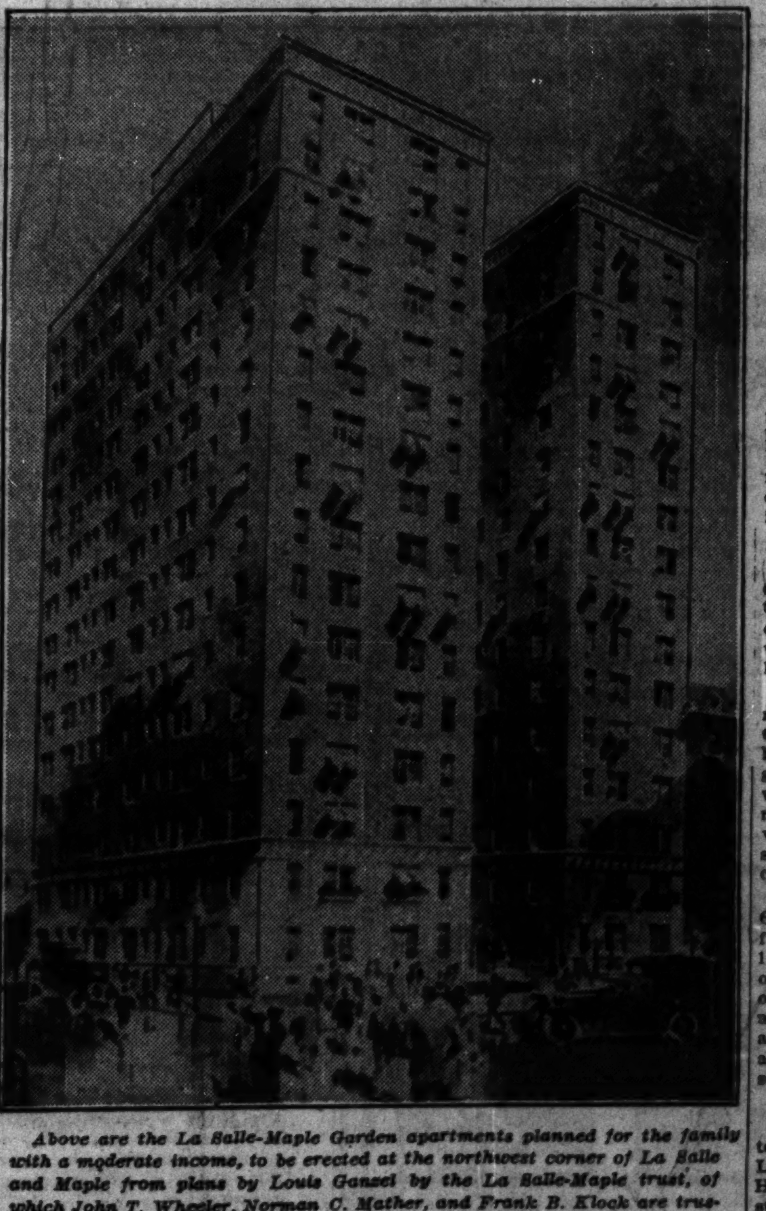
Work is now under way on the library, administration and dormitory groups, and plans are about complete for Anderson chapel and R. Floyd Clinch tower of the Western Theological seminary at Evanston. Armstrong, Furst & Tilton are the architects. The seminary group, on Sheridan road, south of Haven street, opposite Northwestern university, will be fireproof. All exterior walls will be faced with Wisconsin limestone, with rustic Gothic Indiana limestone trim. The dormitory group includes the Horlick refectory, or commons, which is to open up to a timbered roof with exposed trusses. The interior will have stone trim and antique oak wainscoting. This is the first public showing of the above drawing of the seminary group.

GARAGE FOR SOUTH SIDE CORNER



Louis M. Kroman designed the above building—a garage being erected for occupancy by the 55th Ritz Garage company at the southwest corner of 55th street and Lake Park avenue. The structure will have a capacity of 400 cars and will represent an investment of $700,000, it is stated. Lackner, Butz & Co. are financing the enterprise. Edgar L. Bloomster drew this picture.

FOR SLENDER PURSED FOLKS



Above are the La Salle-Maple Garden apartments planned for the family with a moderate income, to be erected at the northwest corner of La Salle and Maple from plans by Louis Gansel by the La Salle-Maple trust, of which John T. Wheeler, Norman C. Mather, and Frank B. Klock are trustees. Others interested financially in the project are Bertram J. Grigsby of the Grigsby-Grunow company, C. A. Liddle, and E. P. Lachman. F. W. Fitzpatrick made this picture.

311 HOMES FOR FAMILIES WITH LIGHT INCOMES

At Northwest Corner of Maple Street.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

La Salle street, between the river and Lincoln park, is to have its first tall building, a sixteen story fireproof housing project, at the northwest corner of Maple street, as a result of the unusual success of the La Salle-Elm Garden apartments, built a year ago especially for the four cylinder bank balance. John T. Wheeler, who carried out the idea of the popular rental type of unfurnished apartments in his La Salle-Elm project, has just started work on the La Salle-Maple apartment building, which, it is announced, also will cater to the family with the modest income.

In this connection it is interesting not only to know that his first venture was entirely rented thirty days before completion but a casual and unidentified inquiry at the building yesterday brought the answer, "Everything rented." Later we learned that not only have the La Salle-Elm Garden apartments been completely occupied ever since they opened in April, 1928, but they have a waiting list of seventy-five at present.

Demand Prompts Second Project.

It was this demand for space in his first venture that prompted Mr. Wheeler to organize a syndicate to erect the second and similar project. Members of this syndicate are: Bertram J. Grigsby, president of the Grigsby-Grunow company; C. A. Liddle, president of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation; Norman C. Mather, vice president of the Lord & Bushnell company and president of the Glenwood School for Boys; Frank B. Klock, president of the Murray & Nickell Drug company, and E. P. Lachman.

Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Mather, and Mr. Klock are trustees of the La Salle-Maple trust, to which the First Trust and Savings bank has made a loan of $850,000. The land and building to be erected at La Salle and Maple are valued at $1,500,000.

The sixteen story structure will contain 311 unfurnished suites, of which forty-eight will have two rooms and 263 one room. The two room apartments will consist of living room, bedroom, bath, and kitchenette. The one room flats will contain a living room, kitchenette, and bath. All suites will have concealed beds, built-in wardrobes, porcelain kitchen cabinets, and complete bathroom accessories, including showers.

Rent Includes Light, Heat, Etc.

As this project fits into an entirely different niche in the apartment field than the average building completed or under construction, it seems worth while to quote Mr. Wheeler on the leasing prices.

"Rentals for the one room apartments will range from $41 to $54 and the two room suites from $69 to $79," he said. "These prices include light, gas, and refrigeration. All tenants will be required to give satisfactory references, the purpose being to provide homes for those desiring respectable, completely equipped living quarters at minimum rates."

The sixteen story La Salle-Maple Garden apartment building has a frontage of 105 feet on La Salle street, 107 feet on Maple street and 66 feet on Hill street. The structure will be of face brick on all sides. It will have a lobby and lounge on the first floor, as well as an office, receiving room and delicatessen store. Completion is set for April 1, 1930.

Plan Bottle Neck at Oak Street.

Mr. Wheeler will be general contractor and also will manage the property. Louis Gunzel is architect; James P. Hudson, field engineer; Ben Shapiro, structural engineer, and Robert E. Hattis, mechanical engineer.

La Salle street is to be widened from the river north to Oak street from its present eighty to 120 feet. Here a permanent bottle neck is to be formed, as the thoroughfare is to be only 100 feet wide from Oak street north to Lincoln park.

Another North La Salle street improvement, which, it is stated, awaits the widening of that thoroughfare, was announced yesterday. The property at No. 1535 has been sold by Joseph Albrecht to J. H. Stoll. This is to be merged with the southeast corner of Germania place, thereby giving him an 80x110 corner which he may improve with apartments when La Salle street is widened, according to J. Birren of Crowe Bros. & Co., brokers.

CHICAGOLAND '29 MAPS NOW READY FOR HOMESEEKERS

The automobile and airplane editors have told their readers about the new Chicagoland map, and now Hugh Donaldson, manager of The Tribune Public Service office, suggests we tell the realtors, real estaters, and the realty public in general about it. As we've stated before, an item about a new map is always good real estate news. Now that suburban property figures more and more extensively in the realty market, this 1929 Chicagoland map is even more necessary to any one who owns or hopes to own land of any kind.

We know of no map on the market today as attractive as this one, and none so accurate. Some 2,500 changes have been made over last year's map, with countless new features added, such as airports, rotating beacons, danger points, etc., and a complete revision of the list of golf courses. For those who are out looking at subdivisions or seeking a suburban home the map shows all changes in roads as they actually exist.

Sculpture consisting of two reclining female figures symbolic of music have been placed over the porticos at both ends of the arcade along the new Civic Opera house in Wacker drive. The sculpture—the work of Henry Hering—at both porticos is identical. The female figures represent music in both tragic and comic aspects.

Garage Resembling Bank Is Rising in Hyde Park

A garage building which will resemble a bank rather than the usual run of automobile hostelries is to be erected at the southeast corner of 55th street and Lake Park avenue—in the Hyde Park district. This enterprise will represent an investment of $700,000—including the cost of the land—the builders state.

The building will be known as the 55th Ritz Garage. It will be three stories and basement high and will have foundations capable of carrying an additional two floors.

Designed by M. Louis Kroman, both street fronts of the structure will be finished in terra cotta, with elaborate ornamentation. First floor street frontage will be divided into eight stores and a spacious automobile salesroom. It is anticipated that recreation rooms will be located in the basement.

As to the garage part of the building it will be of ramp style. There will be some provision for car storage on the ground floor, but the major storage facilities will be on the second and third floors. A feature will be a lounge for chauffeurs which will have showers, lockers and other conveniences. There will be room for 400 cars in the building.

The owner of the property is the 55th and Lake Park Building corporation of which M. C. Golden is president, Ray A. Larson is secretary and Margaret Kerrigan is treasurer. The garage is being leased to the Ritz 55th Garage company for a long term of years. Size of the lot is 150x150 feet. Financing is by Lackner, Butz & Co., who have underwritten a $450,000 6½ per cent first mortgage bond issue for ten years.

Excavation work is now in progress and it is planned to have the garage in operation the latter part of this year. The Callner Construction company has the general contract.

EDISON ELECTRIC COMPANY BUYS BLOCK ON WALLER

The Edison Electric Appliance company, located at 5600 West Taylor street, has acquired the land and building of the Manufacturers' Equipment company, occupying the block on the west side of Waller avenue, between Fillmore and Taylor. The land has a depth of 300 feet and is improved with a one story building containing 24,000 square feet on a part of the property.

It is stated the Edison company—a General Electric organization manufacturing Hotpoint appliances—will improve the entire block in the near future. J. R. Prendergast and H. F. Enright represented both buyer and seller.

REALTY BOARD PRAISES HEWITT TRACTION STORY

Oscar Hewitt's story in last Sunday's real estate section on how the settlement of Chicago's traction problem would affect realty values brought a request from 3,218 persons for copies of the original story as it appeared in The Chicago Tribune Survey of May 10. The Tribune Business Survey has had reprints made and these will be available for free distribution at The Tribune's public service offices at Madison and Dearborn and in Tribune Tower.

The Chicago Real Estate board directors passed resolutions of appreciation, stating: "Be it resolved, that we express to Mr. Hewitt and The Chicago Tribune our belief that Chicago real estate values will receive great benefit from the preparation and publication of this article and that The Chicago Tribune be congratulated on its effort to acquaint its readers with the facts regarding the effect of the traction settlement on Chicago real estate."

CHIPPENDALE IS NEW ENTERPRISE AT ARLINGTON

Chippendale is the name of a new development which the H. Roy Berry company is opening four blocks south of the railway station at Arlington Heights. This development contains seventy-two acres. Sewer, water, sidewalks and pavements have been installed. As one might imagine from the name, the character of the development is to be English. One unit of ten homes has been completed and it is stated a second unit of ten residences—all of English inspiration in their designs—will be started shortly.

SHARE IN TACOMA DESIGN IS GIVEN CARL SEIFFERT

The Tribune has received a letter from Carl Seiffert, a structural engineer with Walter W. Ahlschlager, Inc., stating that he, and not Henderson & Purdy, was responsible for the calculation and structural designing of the Tacoma building—described in this department recently. Col. John A. Holabird of Holabird & Root, formerly Holabird & Roche, states that an examination of the original drawings and plans, both architectural and structural, discloses that all were signed by Holabird & Roche, with no reference to Henderson & Purdy. Col. Holabird added that Mr. Seiffert was a member of the Holabird & Roche organization at the time the Tacoma was built and undoubtedly had charge of the structural designing. Information linking Henderson & Purdy with the Tacoma building work was obtained from Col. W. A. Starrett's book, "Skyscrapers."

PLAN LIFE SIZED VILLAGE FOR 1933 FAIR GROUNDS

Would Illustrate Clearly the Ideal Town.

A modern village or town, which would include about twenty homes, schools, churches, a town hall, police and fire departments, playground, stores, a community center and other features is proposed for Chicago's World Fair of 1933. Tentative plans for the World's Fair Garden Village—as the enterprise will be known—have been discussed at meetings attended by N. Max Dunning and Eugene H. Klaber, architects, and officials of the fair.

It is stated that Harvey Wiley Corbett, chairman of the architectural commission of the world's fair, has approved a proposal to set aside sufficient space in the lake front exposition grounds for a full sized village.

Town Planning Details.

It is hoped by the promoters of the enterprise to have a life sized town which would illustrate clearly the model village, with subdividers, civic bodies and the general public sharing its educational features. All subjects pertaining to town planning would be gone into, including principles governing the height of buildings, zoning, town extensions, highways, parks, automobile parking space, sewerage systems, water supplies, etc.

The garden village, it was explained, would fit in with the fair trustees' plan to dramatize the whole human struggle today for better living conditions—for recreation, sanitation, proper zoning, etc. The modern homes shown would express a new type of house design, not distinctly American, but a composite derived from world experience.

The planting and adornment of the village would be done under the supervision of the American Society of Landscape Architects, and it is possible that the Association of American City Managers might set up in it a model community government. The American Playground and Recreation association might be put in charge of the amusement features, while a health association would demonstrate the most modern methods of sanitation, hospital equipment, and health prolonging methods.

Stores May Exhibit.

Leading department stores of Chicago, New York, and other large cities would each be invited to pay for the building and furnishing of one of the modern homes. It was suggested that in the upper parts of the public buildings of the village it might be feasible to stage exhibits of building materials and equipment, together with the methods used in their manufacture.

Miniature models of modern British and German housing projects could be shown, and the whole exhibit, including the garden village, used as the nucleus of a permanent bureau of research on community housing, Mr. Klaber declared.

APRIL PROVES BANNER MONTH IN BUILDING JOBS

Investment in new construction in April was the greatest of any month this year, figures compiled by the research department of Greenebaum Sons Investment company indicate. The total for the month shows an increase of nearly one-third over that of March, and it is also approximately equal to the record amount reported in April, 1928.

The aggregate value of new contracts awarded throughout the country in April is placed at some $706,267,000. The March contract total was $533,333,000. The figure for February was $397,401,000 and for January $450,965,000. In April, 1928, approximately $707,450,000 was invested in new work.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]

The lineage of awnings can be traced far back to ancient days. Who has not seen the picture of a decorative canopy protecting the royal head of some biblical queen? And for centuries inhabitants of desert countries have taken refuge from a scorching sun beneath huge pieces of cloth.

In modern times awnings have been widely used for their recognized practical value. But it is only in recent years that the awning has taken on an ornamental and decorative value as well.

Today we see the awning serving two definite purposes. Most assuredly it gives to the exterior of a home personality and distinction, and provides beauty without as well as comfort and coolness within.

Many a family in the fall has resolved firmly that never would another summer come and find its dwelling place unawninged. Memories of days when porches and sunrooms, living rooms and bedrooms were too sizzling hot for habitation were still fresh in mind.

"We will have awnings next spring" is the concensus of opinion.

"Next Year" Is Close.

Well, that "next year" is close, and the season for dressing up the home with these features of real beauty and usefulness is here. The sooner one has awnings installed the sooner will the house taken on a softened and mellowed look.

There was a time when awnings had to be made to order. Today one can have them so made or purchase them ready to put up. And the latter type are manufactured in so many patterns and styles and colors that they are eminently satisfactory unless one's windows are of exceptional size or of unusual shape.

Nor are awnings an expensive proposition. As there are awnings for a window and porches and lawns and terraces so there are awnings for all purposes. And, if properly taken care of, they can be depended to last for from five to ten seasons.

The colors obtainable in awnings run the gamut of the rainbow, from the most brilliant and vivid of shades to soft, dark and serious colors.

To decide on the awnings first is a good plan; then choose one's cushions and hammock, lawn umbrellas and porch furniture with the awning colors in mind.

There are many types of awnings. There is the spearhead awning, wisely used in Spanish homes and supported from below by decorative spears.

The round top or elliptical awning is adaptable to windows with an arch.

The square window awning is a conventional awning favored for windows of the average size and type. This awning may be had with or without sides and is usually raised with a rope.

There is an excellent door awning similar to the square window awning but larger, and the porch awning which is flat for uncovered porches, and the entrance awning which is used as a canopy between sidewalk or steps and door.

There are also spring roller awnings like porch awnings except that they work on rollers.

Graceful iron arms and iron brackets give distinction to the awning of today, adding to its beauty and colorfulness—different from the old rusty bars of former days.

Black and Orange Modish.

Many new and handsome designs are obtainable. Black and orange stripes are modish this season as last; blue and white is always popular. There are handsome green awnings on the market paneled, perhaps, in white with a handsome fringed curtain. And, of course, the awning with the scallop is still a favorite with many people, especially when used in conjunction with decorative iron arms in period styles for different types of homes.

Awnings for the porch deserve special attention. They are needed here as much as anywhere in the home, for the porch is the logical transition from house to garden and should be so cool and inviting as to lure one from within.

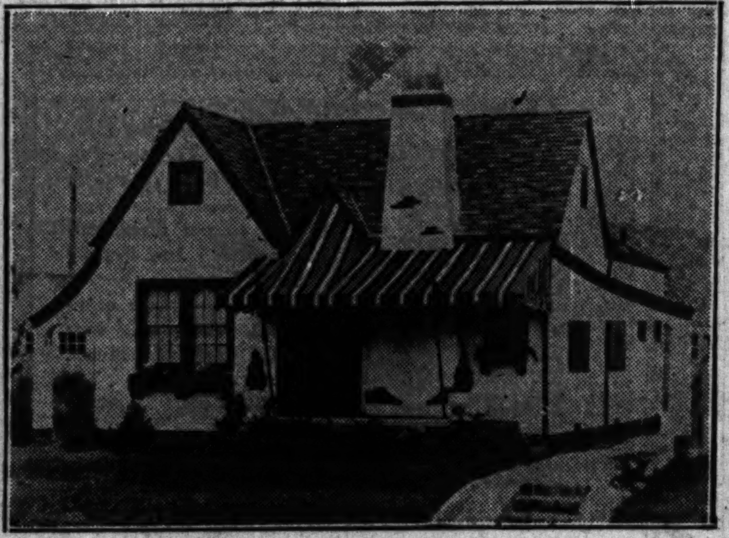
Where there is no porch one can create a substitute by extending a large awning over the entrance way.

Hominess and charm and service, these modern awnings render a home; for they are things of real beauty and a joy for many months in the year.

RESISTING THE HOT RAYS OF A SUMMER SUN

Harmonious awnings soften and mellow any home exterior, and make of summer's hottest days a cool interior within sun excluded rooms. Yes, awnings are a thing of beauty and a joy for many months.

COMFORT AND DECORATION



The architecture of this small home has been thoughtfully considered before it was dressed for summer with a decorative combination porch awning and canopy and spear arms. Observe the deft way the awning has been run up into the peak, fitting into the general house lines.

BRONZE BRICK TO STAMP HOUSE AS A "GOOD BUY"

BY HOMER GRANT.

Homes with walls of common brick are soon to be certified, according to the Common Brick Manufacturers' association. This is by way of assuring the buyer that he is getting the very highest grade of tested material.

There is no danger of buying a pig in a poke when one purchases a house so certified.

Very soon one will be noticing in the walls of newly built common brick homes an inset bronze brick of conventional size. This little brick insures you your money's worth.

It will be the mark of excellence, not only in material but in workmanship.

Risk in Walls.

It will mean that the walls of a home so marked are built of burned clay products, whether solid or hollow ideal wall construction or of brick backed with hollow tile. It will mean, too, that the workmanship is first class and that the materials are as good or better than the requirements of the specifications of the American Society for Testing Materials.

In the walls of a home lie a paramount risk, for it is difficult above all thing to detect what is in the wall of the average new home covered by weather boarding.

Use Poor Materials.

Here is a way in which jerry builders do a lot of their cutting in costs. They use poor and indifferent materials in their wall construction or, even worse, sometimes use poor substitutes. This cannot be seen at first, but a few years show up the wall frailties—to the despair of the home owner who must stand the brunt of the poor purchase he made.

This movement on the part of the Common Brick Manufacturers' association is in line with the effort which the United States bureau of standards at Washington, D. C., has been making for the last year, inducing manufacturers of every material which enters into home construction to certify it as a standard of quality.

Screens Should Be Both Ornamental and Useful

Is your door opening screened to harmonize with the architecture of your house? Do your windows reflect the charm that lies within your home? Screens are an important feature of the home—let them be beautiful as well as useful.

EVOLVE NEW WAY TO HEAT HOUSES BY ELECTRICITY

Developments in the electrical heating of homes are making progress.

One system has been recently developed which is already heating homes and buildings in several cities.

By this system large thermal tanks of water are heated by electricity at night when it can be obtained at lowest cost, and then this stored heat is released in the home during the day.

It is claimed that this electrical heating system can be installed as a hot air, hot water, vapor or double pipe system. The same plan can be used to supply the hot water needs of the family.

New Note in Bathrooms and Kitchens

Authorities say profit by others' experience. Investigate first before building or remodeling your bathroom or kitchen. It pays.

BY MARIE LA SALLE.

The keynote of modern bathroom and kitchen decoration is not only colorful beauty, but also sanitation, economy and utility. To provide a sanitary material that would supply all these features has been the problem of scientists for years. Marble, tile, porcelain, and board tile were tried and found to be lacking in one thing or another when put to the test. Not until a few years ago was the right material invented. It is made of twenty materials gathered from every part of the world and fused at 3,000° F. This new recreated rock material is called Vitrolite. Before it was offered to home owners, Vitrolite was put to the following tests along with marble, tile, porcelain, and board tile. It is well to study them, for it is a means for you to get the best material for your money. I suggest that you read each carefully.

TEST No. 1

Vitrolite won't absorb water; therefore germproof. A very important point in bathroom and kitchen sanitation. Always beautiful.

TEST No. 2

Inks will not stain or discolor Vitrolite. Vitrolite's beauty can never be marred by such expensive annoyances. First cost only cost.

TEST No. 3

Powerful acids, scouring powders, or soaps do not affect Vitrolite's fire-polished, smooth and unblemished surface. Saves time and money.

TEST No. 4

Cigarette burns are as harmless to Vitrolite's steel-like surface as is water. Surely it is best for sanitary purposes. Most economical.

TEST No. 5

Vitrolite won't scratch. Ugly, unsightly scars from children's toys or other means never harms Vitrolite. Never crazes or cracks with age.

TEST No. 6

Vitrolite's inherent strength makes it a lifetime material that never grows old. Its beauty never fades.

TEST No. 7

Vitrolite has an unblemished surface; that's why it is easiest to clean and keep spotlessly clean. Another very important economical point.

If you want to see the latest ideas in beautiful bathrooms and kitchens visit the Vitrolite showrooms, 11th floor, 120 So. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill., at once.

Do not remodel or build your bathroom or kitchen until you see Vitrolite. Honestly, it is the most remarkable sanitary material you ever saw. There is nothing to equal it for its purposes. Beautiful . . . smart . . . individual . . . these descriptives cannot begin to tell you what it is like. You must see it at once. If you cannot visit the Vitrolite Showrooms at 120 S. La Salle St., 11th Floor, write your name and address here below, tear out, and mail to Vitrolite, 120 S. FARM AND GARDEN

QUINCY'S 'CO-OP' BRINGS CASH TO DAIRY FARMERS

Cut Big Melon with Milk at 10 Cents.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

J. A. CONNERY.

In six years one hundred and seven Adams county farmers have built a successful coöperative milk selling machine at Quincy, Ill., which already has started marketing students on a path to the door of that old town on the bluffs of the Mississippi river. Although they delivered high quality milk to homes at 10 cents a quart, the dairymen sliced a Christmas patronage dividend "melon" that totaled $7,286.49 for last year.

Under the management of J. A. Connery the coöperators produce more than half the milk sold in the town. The farmers not only charge the consumer less but they get more for producing and delivering the milk than they did under the non-coöperative plan. After paying the running expenses out of the 10 cents paid by the consumer, the dairymen have left 5.6 cents a quart.

A Comparison with Chicago.

The significance of this is shown by comparing Quincy and Chicago milk prices, according to A. D. Lynch, the Illinois Agricultural association's dairy marketing director, who helped organize the Quincy Coöperative Milk Producers' association. He points out that Chicago consumers in paying 14 cents a quart for milk pay 4 cents a quart more than is paid at Quincy, while local dairymen get three-tenths of a cent a quart less than the Adams county farmers.

Mr. Lynch's figures below illustrate what the consumers paid and what the producers received for milk in 1928 at Quincy and Chicago:

	Quincy	Chicago.
Consumers paid	10 c per qt.	14 c per qt.
Producers. recd.	5.6c per qt	5.3c per qt.
Difference	4.4	8.7

"The difference or 'spread' is what the plants, whether coöperative or private owned, have as their portion of the consumer's quart price to pay expenses and profits," said Mr. Lynch. This figure shows that almost twice as much is allowed for profit and for expense of bringing the milk from the country to the Chicago consumer's back door as is allowed in Quincy.

Delivery Costs Held Down.

"At Quincy the dairyman gets 5.6 cents per quart f. o. b. market, while at Chicago they receive 5.3 cents per quart f. o. b. country shipping point. The Chicago buyer must operate the country station and pay freight to the city, the total cost of which ranges from about one-fifth of a cent per quart to one cent per quart," added Mr. Lynch.

Delivery costs are held down in Quincy because each wagon hauls a load of 400 quarts. This is said to be the largest load per wagon in any town or city in Illinois if not in the whole United States. In attempting to carry the maximum load the Quincy coöperative drivers broke down two wagons last year. Chicago drivers carry about 350 units on a wagon, including milk, cream, butter and other milk products, as well as eggs.

Back in 1922 the Adams county farmers realized that the delivery cost was a profit-eating element in their business. A survey made at that time showed that as many as seventy-three farmers were producing and peddling milk in Quincy. It was not uncommon to see ten and twelve farmers' wagons peddling milk in a single block, competing with each other and none making money. The survey was made and the organization fostered by the Adams county farm bureau coöperating with the Illinois Agricultural association.

Build Up-to-date Plant.

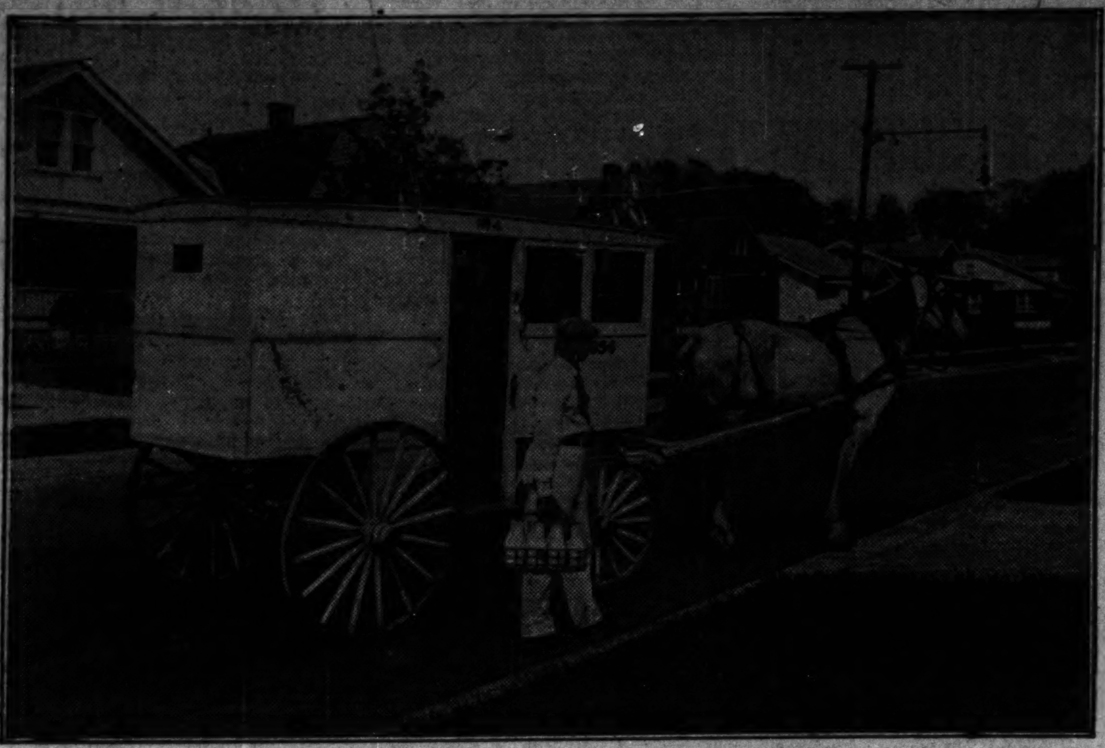
The coöperative's fleet of white wagons used today has helped reduce the delivery cost. The seventy-three milk peddlers along with others formed the coöperative, took out stock and built an up-to-the-minute plant for pasteurizing the milk. Today instead of cluttering up the streets with seventy-three wagons, many in the dilapidated class, ten retail wagons and four wholesale trucks deliver all the milk, cream, butter and other dairy products in a businesslike, profitable manner through the farmers' own organization.

Extreme precaution is taken to keep up the standard of milk in Quincy. Every wagon driver is compelled to take a medical examination once a month. The men are all dressed in white suits and drive white horses hitched to snow white wagons. They are demonstrating that farmers can run their own business in a businesslike way.

Last year the coöperative handled more than five million pounds of milk, selling it as whole milk, cream, skim milk, ice cream, and especially prepared chocolate.

Manager Connery says that during the six years the association has paid regular stock dividends and held a cash surplus practically equal to the paid in capital. The surplus last year amounted to more than $26,000. The association sold $237,207 worth of milk products in Quincy in 1928. The business has steadily grown until the coöperative supplies fifty-five per cent of the milk consumed in the town.

THE WHITE "CO-OP WAY"



MARKETING MILK FOR FARMERS—With ten wagons, like the one above, and four trucks, 107 Adams county dairymen supply more than half the milk used in Quincy, Ill. They do the work formerly done by seventy-three milk peddlers.

Every wagon running out of the Quincy Co-operative Milk Producers' association plant carries about 400 bottles, the heaviest load hauled by distributors in Illinois and possibly the United States.

Questions and Answers

FALL IS LILY PLANTING TIME.

Would you kindly give me some information about how to plant lily bulbs? When is the best time to plant them and how deep they should be planted?

REPLY.

In this part of the country gardeners set out lily bulbs as early as the first part of August and as late as October. Occasionally they are set even later in the fall. Some growers have found it necessary to blanket the ground with a layer of manure to prevent freezing in order to set the bulbs as late as December.

Experts consider the spring planting of lily bulbs feasable, but recommend late summer or fall as being the best time.

Lily bulbs kept in cold storage over winter are set out in early spring. The bulbs should be covered with about a three and a half inch layer of soil. Perhaps a little thicker layer of soil would be best where the bulbs are set in the spring. That is the proper depth for bulbs of the smaller species. Setting bulbs ten inches deep is a common practice among growers where the larger species of lilies are used, including such lilies as auratum, tigrinum, elegan, and regale.

TEST FOR GRAVEL USED IN CONCRETE.

This summer I expect to build a water lily pool and a walk leading to my garage. I want to avoid using gravel that contains a lot of soil. Is there any practical test that I could use to make sure that the gravel I use will be clean enough for concrete work.

E. S. N.

REPLY.

Here is a simple test for gravel recommended by D. A. Albrecht, mechanical engineer at the University of Illinois:

To make the test, two inches of the gravel are placed in a quart fruit jar and water then added until the jar is three-fourths full. The mixture is shaken vigorously for one minute, the last few shakes being sidewise to level off the material. The jar or bottle is then left to stand for an hour for the silt to settle. If the layer of silt above the material is one-eighth of an inch or more thick, the gravel will be unsuitable for concrete work unless the silt is removed by washing. Usually the cost of washing is more expensive than clean gravel from some other source, according to Albrecht.

He says it is important that gravel be free from foreign materials such as loam, clay and vegetable matter, as these materials prevent the cement from adhering to the hard particles of the gravel. They also prevent the cement from hardening properly and may cause the concrete to be unsatisfactory for the intended purpose.

"For best results, gravel used in concrete also should be hard and tough. It should be graded in size from fine sand to coarse pebbles, the diameter of which is not more than one-third of the thickness of the finished work. The proportion of fine to coarse aggregate should be such as to give the correct mixture for the particular work. In using mixed sand and gravel these proportions should be tested by screening a sample through a ¼ inch screen and determining the proportion of sand which passes this size screen to the proportion of coarse pebbles retained on the screen. When the coarse pebbles range in size from ¼ to ½ an inch the sand and pebbles should be in equal proportions. If the coarse pebbles are ¼ to ¾ of an inch there should be about three-fourths as much sand as pebbles and if the coarse pebbles are ¼ to 1½ inches in size there should be about one-half as much sand as pebbles," says this engineer.

Congressman Henry S. Boutell has sold to Israel and Samuel Lanski the property at the northeast corner of Laflin street and the south branch of the Chicago river, 296x243 feet, for $34,500. The purchasers gave back a trust deed to Albert D. Currier to secure a loan of $29,500, six years at 5 per cent. The purchasers are junk dealers at 22d and Jefferson and say they bought the property, which is vacant, for investment.

The North Shore Park district, created by the act of 1895 for the purpose of establishing small parks, acquired from William K. Roberts and Emil Jung two tracts on both sides of Farwell avenue, extending back from the lake, for a total consideration of $27,000. The two tracts have a total frontage of 357 feet on the lake, with a depth varying from 204 to 224 feet, east of Sheridan.

The ground lease is for thirty years at a reported net annual rental of $10,000. Murphy & Co., were brokers. There are twenty-two Stover candy shops in St. Louis, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, South Bend, Omaha, Kenosha, Chicago and other cities.

SISALKRAFT IS 6-PLY

SISALKRAFT

This 6-ply building paper protects your home — even in high winds

Think what it means to your comfort and health to have absolute protection in your home from infiltrating air, dust and moisture.

A complete application of Sisalkraft (6-ply building paper) — under roof and floors and over sheathing —keeps germ-laden dust, air, moisture and gases from infiltrating through all types of walls

—stops all roof leaks

—prevents floor warping and creaking due to moisture, and stops air, dust and smoke from below coming through.

Heating Expense Reduced

No air can pass through Sisalkraft, even under wind pressure in which no house could stand up. Its use, therefore, with insulating mediums positively stops air infiltration, which robs even the best insulations of their effectiveness. Sisalkraft is also often used to create dead air spaces, which stop heat loss.

Sisalkraft Cost Negligible

The building paper in a home costs so little that it can scarcely be found in the total. Therefore, why not use the best?

Sisalkraft permanently protects your comfort and health as well as the decorative features of which you are justly proud. This type of protection is of vital importance and can be secured with Sisalkraft at little, if any, more cost than the ordinary make-shift papers.

Your lumber dealer will be glad to show you samples and applications. If he hasn't Sisalkraft, send the coupon to us.

CALM PERVADES LONDON STOCK MART TRADING

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 18.—The combination of the fluctuating Wall street market, the impending Whitsuntide vacation, the hopes and fears on the outcome of the general election, and the renewed weakness of sterling exchange were the chief factors tending to diminish business in the London stock exchange this week, which has basked throughout in an atmosphere of pronounced calm.

The speculating public seems definitely to have detached itself from city circles, and until the general election influence liquidates public activity is not likely, and if possible there may be a further dwindling of such interest.

Arouses Anxiety.

The renewed weakness in sterling exchange is causing real anxiety and is a factor of considerable importance, although with high money rates ruling in New York, the weakness was unexpected. The situation, however, tends to diminish recent hopes for a reduction of the London bank rate. Sterling now stands at a point enabling America to import gold from London profitably if the metal could be secured. The Bank of England, however, continues to pay a higher price than could be paid by American buyers as an exchange operation, but the fact that the bank is only able to obtain gold from the open market at a considerable premium on its statutory buying price indicates an unsatisfactory state of affairs for financial interests, even where American exchange is concerned.

Reason for Rate Drop.

This week's drop in the sterling rate is believed in some quarters to be partly due to the investment of money received from France for reparations. Whatever the cause, developments in the foreign exchange market in the immediate future will be watched with anxious interest.

Another feature was the smart recovery of German marks, the demand for which at times was keen. Other continental exchanges were inclined to reflect the weakness of sterling in New York, moderate movement against London taking place in the rates of France, Belgium, Switzerland and Holland, while the Scandinavian exchanges also tended to move unfavorably against London. This week's new rise in the Bank of Roumania's rate from eight to nine and one-half per cent following the recent movement from six to eight per cent, probably has no connection with the situation in America, but it is believed to be due to the difficulty of maintaining the exchange value of currency.

Continue to Suffer.

Consequently the investment markets continue to suffer from the uncertainties of the money outlook, the only activity—and that spasmodic, being confined to the speculative sections, the market continuing to a great extent to take its cue from Wall street.

Gilt edged stocks and other high class securities are unusually depressed owing to the weakness of sterling, with scarcely sufficient interest to maintain prices. Any minor improvements actually occurring were later lost, though there are a few cases to be recorded of great differences. The actual amount of business in British funds was small.

Professional investors and operators are not inclined to put money into stocks momentarily which give yields lower than the prevailing money rate, while the public appears content to wait a turn of events to give them a lead.

Reflect Selling.

Aside from the 5 per cent war loan most other long dated or irredeemable securities reflected a selling, while Indian loans also share in the prevailing tendency. Home corporation colonial loans were quiet awaiting the result of the big new Australian loan.

The iron and steel market appears to be deriving increasing encouragement from recent developments with some bidding for low priced shares. The expectation of a good holiday traffic backed up home rail stocks towards the end of the week after a remarkable apathetic lapse, great westerns showing up the best, while the southern group looks more cheerful. The feature of the foreign railways group was the activity in Buenos Aires Pacific market, entertaining a strong suspicion that the buying was on behalf of American interests, a fact which has probably prompted the directors to propose steps to keep control in British hands. American buying has sent the stock up to a record quotation of one hundred and three.

PARIS BOURSE IMPROVES

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 18.—After hobbling along for two days in a state approaching paralysis, the Paris bourse picked up slightly in the middle of the week with the more optimistic atmosphere prevailing on the experts conference following Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's completion of his long awaited report.

A better market tendency began to prevail on Wednesday with contango money cheap and prices firmer after unloading Tuesday's commitments, but the amount of business was small.

Further progress was made Thursday and a more optimistic opinion prevailed as to the outcome of the expert's deliberations. Despite the eve of a three day holiday conditions were quite satisfactory Friday and the market proved calm but resistant.

LATEST BANK MERGER HOLDS SPOTLIGHT IN CHICAGO'S MARKET

Chicago Trust company and National Bank of the Republic held the center of attention in the bank stock market early in the week, due to the announcement of the merger between these two institutions. The former was lifted 300 points to sales at 990, while the shares of the latter rose 35 points to 295, carrying the rights. The rights were wanted at 17¾ with offerings at 18½. On profit taking they dropped back, however, and closing prices follow: 885 to 895 and 250 to 254, ex rights, respectively.

Continental Illinois ran up 30 points to 975, but it eased off to sales at 840, later rallying to 850 bid, offered at 854. First National was reactionary and was the soft spot in the list, suffering a loss of 65 points at 875 to 885. The rights were wanted at 11. State Bank of Chicago was also under pressure and lost 20 points to 800 to 805. Sales in Central Trust Company of Illinois ranged between 650 and 685. Northern Trust company was 10 points better at 900 bid, offered at 905; so too was was Peoples Trust and Savings when it changed hands at 540. Foreman National was carried up 10 points to 1,050 to 1,055. Union bank was 20 points higher at 448 to 452.

Chicago Title and Trust continues to display pronounced strength, scoring a 15 point gain when it sold between 667 and 672.

Chicago Daily News common was 2 points higher at 47 to 49, while the preferred was neglected at 97½ to 98½. Interest in the Federal Electric issues seems to lag—the common was 2 points easier at 103 to 105, while the preferred at 121 to 123 was up 3.

NATIONAL CITY BANK REPORTS ON PERSONAL LOANS

[Chicago Tribune News Service.]

New York, May 18.—Statistics issued by the National City bank on the completion of the first year of its personal loan department operation reveal that $16,529,805 was loaned to 51,203 applicants in sums ranging from $50 to $1,000, the average loan being $320.

The first year's operation yielded no profit, as was expected, but the bank feels that with the growing volume of this business it will yet yield its proper return, even on the basis of the 6 per cent discount charge, which is the only fee for the service.

Losses on loans are described by the bank as "negligible." The prompt meeting of obligations by borrowers is attributed by the bank to the provision that deposits be made in a compound interest account each week or each month, so that the money would be on hand at the end of a year to pay off the note. On these deposits interest of 3 per cent per annum, compounded monthly, is paid.

In answer to the question, "What is a description of an average applicant?" the bank's figures show the following: The average borrower is 34 years old, has been in the same position steadily for more than 5 years, earns $2,755 a year, is married, and has at least one child. The average loan made is $320.

Approximately 87 per cent of all applications received were approved. More than 97 per cent of all deposits were made regularly, and on less than one per cent was it necessary to initiate legal action in order to effect collection.

Kansas City, Mo., May 18.—(AP)—Formation of the $25,000,000 Porterfield Aviation Interests, Inc., holding company for several aircraft and aeronautical concerns which are to be operated in conjunction with American Eagle Aircraft corporation of Kansas City, was announced today by E. E. Porterfield Jr., president of American Eagle.

Controlling interest in Lincoln Aircraft Company, Inc., of Lincoln, Neb., has been acquired. Lincoln manufactures three types of airplanes and controls manufacturing rights to the former Wright-Morehouse motor.

As a part of the plan American Eagle stockholders are being asked to approve an increase in capital stock from 200,000 to 2,000,000 no par shares. A complete line of aircraft will be turned out. A production schedule of 1,000 planes is announced for 1929. Mr. Porterfield reports unfilled orders for 800 planes.

N. Y. Exchange Seat Sells Under Previous Price

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—A slump of approximately $31,000 in the last previous price paid for a seat on the New York stock exchange was registered today when the seat of Arthur E. McCabe, with rights, was sold for $525,000 to Joseph P. McCarthy, an employé of Jules S. Bache & Co., whose sponsors are Fred L. Richards and J. Chester Cuppia. The last previous sale of a seat on the stock exchange was for $450,000 without rights which are valued at between $105,000 and $106,000.

Passenger Revenues Drop Despite Increased Traffic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Despite an increase in commutation traffic passenger revenue of the Central Railroad of New Jersey declined $280,000 to $8,450,000, according to the annual report of R. B. White, president. He attributes this result to competition by automotive vehicles. Express revenue decreased $142,000 to $1,240,000. The railroad is planning to enlarge its motor bus routes.

Freight Ready for Lake Shore Barge Lines

BY SCRUTATOR.

From several sources have come indications that business concerns in towns along the lake shore are manifesting keen interest in the suggestion advanced here recently that it would be entirely feasible to move properly constructed barges directly from the lakes-gulf waterway to all the Lake Michigan harbors.

Under such a system of operation transfer of freight from the barges to the deeper draft lake ships would be eliminated, a great deal of terminal congestion in Chicago would be done away with, and the other lake ports would obtain the full benefits of low rates throughout the whole central valley.

A letter from S. E. Doster, president of the Superior Steel and Malleable Castings company of Benton Harbor, Mich., makes it plain that there is a large tonnage in heavy materials ready for such a transportation system along the eastern shore. A portion of the letter follows:

Foundry Freight.

"You will be interested to know that at our foundry alone here in Benton Harbor we use 5,000 tons of molding, furnace, and blast sand a year. There is one other steel foundry in St. Joseph, two other large gray iron foundries, and two other very large malleable foundries, which all use blasting sand and furnace sand in larger proportions than we do, although they do not use as much molding sand as our plant. This material all moves now by railroad from the great Ottawa, Ill., sand district.

"There are large foundries at Muskegon, Grand Haven, South Haven, and Michigan City, and of course many other foundries within fifty miles of Benton Harbor. This particular sand business would be a large item for barge freight on this eastern shore of Lake Michigan."

Mr. Doster also points out that a study of the map of Chicagoland shows that there are not many large manufacturers of glass in northern Indiana and southwestern Michigan and that lake going barges capable of supplying them with sand and coal at low freight rates might make it advantageous to establish that sort of industry on the lake periphery.

Perhaps nothing else would give the inland waterway system such a boost, aside from the actual tapping of the vast industrial territory comprised in metropolitan Chicago, as the extension of the full facilities to the cities along the lake.

Effect on Steel Industry.

The steel business, in many of its forms, would gain tremendously by adequate water transportation. In Chicago and northern Indiana the basic iron and steel plants have been running virtually at capacity for several months, but despite this eastern manufacturers have found it possible, through favorable rates on the lakes, to ship here and sell. At present several boatloads a week arrive from the district touching Lake Erie. Rates are said to be as low as $1 a ton.

Pittsburgh's iron and steel men have found the Ohio waterway a great boon in shipping to the southwest. In eleven months last year more than 1,100,000 tons were moved out on this route, extending a trade radius that rail rates might have limited to 500 miles by two or three times that number. Charges on Chicago shipments to southwest territory are much larger.

And the waterways are directly making business for the steel interests. It was reported in April that the Inland Waterways corporation, operator of the Mississippi lines, had ordered forty steel barges in Pittsburgh, a total of 22,000 tons.

Week's Debits Increase, Reserve Bank Reports

Debits to individual deposit account reported to the Chicago federal reserve bank for the week ended May 15, by 264 banks in 38 leading clearing house cities in the seventh federal reserve district, aggregate $1,627,920,000]. Compared with the corresponding week of last year [$1,688,412,000], an increase of 0.04 per cent was shown.

Rumor Chatham Phenix Bank to Increase Stock

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—An increase in the capital of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust company from $13,500,000 to $15,000,000, with an accompanying splitup on the basis of 10 for 1, was rumored in the financial district today. Bids of $850 were made for the bank's stock today, against $800 yesterday.

GRIGSBY-GRUNOW BRIGHT SPOT OF CHICAGO LIST

Issue Makes Gain of 13½ Points.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Grigsby-Grunow and the Bendix issues featured an otherwise typical week-end two hour session on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday.

Grigsby-Grunow shot up 13½ points on a turnover of more than 5,000 shares to a high of 148. Reports were current that the company is preparing to resume full operations on a large scale in a short time. Bendix Aviation sold in 1,000 share lots to a total of more than 18,000 shares and finished the day 4 points higher. Bendix corporation advanced 9½ points to 189½.

Word came from San Francisco during the day that the United States District court there has held the Brennan patent as valid. The device is a brake testing machine owned by the Cowdrey Brake Tester company, recently acquired by Bendix Aviation.

Automotive Profit Taking.

Ainsworth Manufacturing finished the day with a gain of 2⅝ points, while profit taking in Borg-Warner and Auburn Automobile brought those two issues down 2 points each. The General Spring Bumper and Houdaille-Hershey issues were off from 1 to 1½ points each.

Plans for the expansion of the Ground Gripper Shoe company and the organization of the capital structure were approved by the stockholders yesterday morning. The authorized common stock was increased from 100,000 to 1,000,000 shares of no par value and an issue of $5,000,000 debentures, of which half will be publicly offered soon, was also approved. The stockholders will be offered rights to additional stock on a basis to be determined later and the debentures will be convertible into stock at a price also yet to be fixed.

Most Active Issues.

Activity for the week just closed continued above the 1,000,000 share mark with prices generally higher. The fifty most active stocks of the week had a market value of $1,082,027,423 at the close yesterday, compared with $1,046,350,433 at the end of the preceding week, a gain of $35,676,990, or 3.41 per cent, a compilation of Lage & Co. shows. Of these fifty issues, only twenty were listed and traded in a year ago. These twenty had a market value of $440,282,972, against $267,882,134 on May 18, 1928, a gain of $172,400,838, or 64.35 per cent.

The most sensational performer of the week was Auburn Automobile, which was pushed up 35½ points in connection with plans for the introduction of a front wheel drive car and the listing of the stock in New York. Bendix was up 22¾ points for the period and Grigsby-Grunow advanced 19 points.

Club Aluminum was down 1⅛ on quiet sales. Harold N. Selling, vice president, reported that expansion of the company's business into the sale of electric health devices has met with success and that sales will approach the mark of $100,000 a week by fall.

Gold Imports for Week Far Outrank Exports

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Gold imports at New York during the week ended today amounted to $6,827,000, consisting of another large shipment from Germany, amounting to $6,689,000, and $138,000 from Latin America. Exports of the metal from this port during the week totaled $200,000, all of which went to Venezuela. With sterling down to the gold import point the announcements of gold shipments within the next fortnight will be watched with interest.

Security Salesmen

A client of ours—a well established, highly rated Investment Securities Company—is about to offer a limited number of shares of stock of an old established radio manufacturing company, founded in 1919. The company now has in production a new and advanced all-electric set, for which it has already received orders from distributors amounting to over $3,000,000.00. The company is operating under complete patent protection, with licenses issued by Radio Corporation of America, Hazeltine and La Tour companies. INCREASED USE OF GASOLINE OFFSETS EXCESS OIL OUTPUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Increased consumption of gasoline is the cause of the recent strengthening in the demand for crude oil in the midcontinent area, according to opinions in trade circles. An additional reason is seen in the natural decline of settled production in the Seminole district which also resulted in the discontinuance of restrictions on output.

Stocks of gasoline, primary product of crude oil, even though considerably increased in the first quarter this year were actually less proportionately at the end of March than on the same date last year. They totaled 47,205,000 brls on March 31, last, equivalent to 44 days' supply at the March rate of demand, compared with 41,078,000 brls on March 31, 1928, which was equal to 45 days' supply at the March consumption rate last year.

While the new supply of gasoline in March increased 18 per cent over the same month last year, the gain in consumption was also 18 per cent larger. In the first quarter, during most of which stocks are built up to provide for anticipated peak consumption later in the year, the quality ran into storage totaled 14,139,000 barrels, contrasted with 7,762,000 barrels in the same period of 1928.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR LAST WEEK UNDER YEAR AGO

New York, May 18.—Bank clearings again show a slight reduction from the heavy amount at this time a year ago, the total this week at all leading cities in the United States, according to Dun's Review, of $12,214,584,000 being 3.4 per cent below that of last year.

New York City clearings of $8,455,000,000 show a decline of 1.4 per cent from the amount reported a year ago, while the total for leading centers outside of New York of $3,759,584,000 is reduced by 7.7 per cent. There are declines this week at sixteen of the twenty-two outside centers.

Banks Show Tendency to Reduce Stock Par Value

During the last year and a half 31 New York banks have adopted the popular $10, $20, $25, or $50 par value for their stocks. Two years ago there were only two New York banks with a par value below $100, namely, the Bank of the Manhattan company and the Mechanics Bank of Brooklyn, both of which had stocks of $50 par value. Oddly, neither of these banks are among those with stocks with par values of less than $100 today, Manhattan having increased its par from $50 to $100 in August, 1927, while the Mechanics stockholders exchanged their stock for the $100 par stock of the Brooklyn Trust company at the time of their recent merger.

Offerings of Bond Issues Show Slump

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—The total of new bond offerings for the week ended today amounted to $78,988,000, as compared with the previous week's aggregate of $106,712,358, which was the largest total since mid-March. A year ago the total was $121,312,000. As was the case last week, the largest number of individual offerings occurred in the state and municipal group, an even dozen of new issues. The offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This week.	Last week.
Railroad	$34,620,000	$17,880,000
State and municipal	21,808,000	17,683,000
Foreign	20,560,000	35,649,000
Public utility	2,000,000	11,000,000
Industrial	....	15,500,000
Financial corporation	....	7,000,000
Investment corporation	....	2,000,000
Total	$78,988,000	$106,712,358

The principal issue of the week was the issue of $25,000,000 Allegheny corporation 5s, which were offered at par by a group headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. Subscription books were closed within a few minutes after they were opened Monday morning. Incidentally, the syndicate did not allow dealers the usual commission of ¼ of one per cent so that dealers and the general public paid the same price, par and interest.

The next largest piece of financing was the issue of $18,000,000 Canadian National Railways equipment trust 5s, brought out by a syndicate of New York and Canadian banks at prices to net 5.10 to 5.75 per cent. Next in size was the issue of $9,135,000 Chicago Sanitary District 6 per cent warrant notes, marketed on a 5.80 per cent basis by a group headed by Lehman brothers.

Although industrial stock offerings were much in evidence this week, not a single issue of industrial bonds was offered, and only one public utility issue was marketed, whereas $11,000,000 in public utility financing, consisting of two issues, occurred last week.

GROUPING OF U. S. COMMUNICATIONS HELD NECESSARY

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—Consolidation of radio, telephone and telegraph companies into communication companies regulated by the government was proposed as an economic necessity today by Maj. Gen. George S. Gibbs, chief signal officer of the army, in testimony before the senate interstate commerce committee.

He declared that the present law which forbids radio communications to own telephone and telegraph stock was "unfortunate and reactionary."

The committee is considering a bill to set up a federal communications commission to regulate radio, telegraph, telephones and cables in interstate commerce.

"The method of the present law is all wrong," Gibbs said, adding that the "time will come when all communications will be carried on by companies formed to operate by wireless as well as by wire."

Hears J. J. Bernet Will Be New President of C. & O.

Richmond, Va., May 18.—(AP)—The News-Leader says today it has learned authoritatively that John J. Bernet, president of the Erie railroad, will shortly become president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, succeeding W. J. Harahan who, the paper says, will become senior vice president of "the Van Sweringen system."

CURB TRADERS UNEASY; PRICES MOVE DOWNWARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Reports that the Chicago Reserve bank had applied again to the reserve board for permission to raise its rediscount rate above 5 per cent was responsible for a lot of uneasiness in the financial community here today. Traders fear that such action might foreshadow a similar move here.

Following price movements on the big board, the trend of the curb market was irregularly downward from the outset of trading. Speculators as usual were disposed to take their profits as the brief session neared its close and the result was that plus signs were pretty widely scattered in the finals.

Realizing also was apparent in the aviation group. Fokker, after its early rise yesterday on news that General Motors had obtained control, continued under pressure, but absorbed the selling well.

Bendix Aviation and Bendix Corporation made upward strides into new high ground. Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea, which has scored a gain of more than 100 points in the few days it has been traded on the curb, quieted down with the market. Little of the stock is held by the public which accounts for the violent rises when any buying orders appear.

New York, May 18.—Announcement last week of the plan to merge the Equitable Trust company and the Seaboard National bank into a $860,000,000 institution made public the ninth major consolidation of the year in New York. Aside from the fact that the mergers mark the passing of many old names from the roster of financial institutions whose growth during the last century and in the 20th coincided with the financial and industrial progress of the nation, it is notable that in every case the new combination was regarded as logical since little duplication of service was involved.

New York, May 18.—The specter of higher money rates and an advance in federal reserve bank rediscount rates hung over the stock market in today's week-end session. The fact that both the New York and Chicago reserve banks want to advance rates despite the opposition of the reserve board again emphasized the uncertainties of the credit situation.

In view of the schism between the two most powerful reserve banks and the reserve board, several commission houses put out letters advising customers to sell stocks on rallies and warning against expectations of any broadly rising market. These letters were offset, however, by reports of continued high production in the iron and steel industry and favorable corporation earnings statements.

Specialties Erratic.

A flurry of profit taking and some professional short selling carried prices down moderately in the first hour. But the market steadied later and finished the short two-hour session with an array of highly irregular price changes. Trading was quiet, with total transactions of 1,247,300 shares, or at the rate of 3,118,000 shares for a full five-hour session.

The most erratic fluctuations occurred among the specialties. Adams Express plunged down 35 points and losses ranging from three to nearly seven points were incurred by Advance Rumely, Associated Dry Goods first preferred, Burns Brothers A, Case Threshing Machine, Commercial Solvents, Greene Cananea and Spiegel-May-Stern. On the other hand, Sparks Withington soared nine points, Curtiss Aero and Burroughs Adding Machine rose eight and seven points respectively, and American Commercial Alcohol, Stromberg Carburetor and Wright Aero gained more than three points each.

cluding St. Regis Paper, which barely although General Electric and Du Pont advanced two points or so. But United States Steel was off two points and the new stock "when issued" was off a point. American Smelting, American Can and Western Union also lost a point or two.

Motor Issues Lower.

Most of the motor issues were lower as the result of selling influenced by reports of curtailment in production. Auburn Auto sagged three points and smaller losses were shown by Borg-Warner, Electric Storage Battery, International Combustion Engineering, Motor Products and Packard Motor. But Eaton Axle and Motor Wheel gained more than a point each.

The steel and copper issue generally followed the leaders downward. Losses of a point or two were incurred by Anaconda Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Calumet & Arizona, Cerro de Pasco, Granby Copper and Miami Copper. But

NEW YORK BOND MARKET TREND MOVES LOWER

Convertibles Weak; Rails Show Some Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Bond prices moved within a narrow range today and trading was on a small scale. The general trend was toward lower levels. Bonds have lost ground steadily all this week except for a small improvement yesterday. Domestic averages show a net loss of about a point for the week.

There was some strength in the rails in today's market but the convertibles were weaker from the opening. The two telephone issues were heavy, American 4½s selling below 103, compared with their high price since issue of 142, and International 4½s were off about 6¼ points from their recent high. Trading in both was small.

In the railroad convertibles Missouri Pacific 5½s were the most active and with Southern Pacific 4½s held around yesterday's closing. Atchison 4½s were unchanged. The Allegheny corporation 5s were quoted at par. American I. G. Chemical 5½s made a slight advance.

Railroad legal bonds were steady and dull. Three of the United States treasury issues advanced fractionally. The return on the certificates maturing this year has been slowly advancing throughout the week. For those due June 15 and Sept. 15 it is approximately 5.20 per cent. Among the industrials the strongest issues were General Motors Acceptance 6s, Dodge 6s and United States Rubber 5s. Brooklyn Manhattan 6s were off fractionally.

UPHOLDS DENIAL OF GOVT. CLAIM TO PREFERENCE

St. Louis, Mo., May 17.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed a decision of the federal district court of Minneapolis denying the government's claim to preference over other creditors of the defunct Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad for $2,924,000 advanced to the railroad after relinquishment of war time control. The road went into receivership in 1923.

The government contended that under federal statutes its claim held priority over all others. The Appellate court held, however, that the government, in loaning money to needy railroads, had encouraged private capital and had "placed itself in a position where it is estopped to seek priority over those who have advanced money and furnished supplies under conditions which entitles them to a preferential status."

RAILROAD NOTES

A tax increase on railroad property amounting to $214,342.76 for 1929 over that of a year ago was announced in the order of the Wisconsin tax commission for the assessment of railroad properties. The largest increases are for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, whose valuation is increased from $83,000,000 to $86,000,000, and the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie increased from $56,000,000 to $59,000,000. The Chicago and North Western was raised from $119,000,000 to $120,000,000.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad to issue $8,370,000 5 per cent equipment trust certificates, series J, to be sold at not less than 98.08 and accrued dividends, in connection with procurement of new equipment.

March net operating income of 183 class 1 railroads totaled $97,466,478, against $90,876,038 in March, 1928, and for the first three months of 1929 net operating income was $259,541,881, against $217,370,419 in the same 1928 period.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has placed orders for 3,000 freight cars costing between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. The order was divided as follows: 1,000 hoppers, with the Standard Steel Car company; 1,000 hoppers, with the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and 1,000 gondolas with the American Car and Foundry company.

The Nickel Plate has ordered four locomotives from the Lima Locomotive company. The Southern Pacific has ordered twenty gasoline-electric cars to cost about $76,000 each, from the Brill and Pullman companies.

The Unit.

Recently there have been put on the market a number of issues of composite securities under the label of "units." This method of financing is not new, but it has come into increasing vogue of late.

A unit is a combination of securities sold on the market as one. A typical unit consists of one share of common stock and one share of preferred. Restrictions governing the sale of units vary in different instances. Sometimes the component parts may be sold separately after the original offering. In other cases the preferred and common shares remain Siamese twins. In such cases the price is quoted on the unit as a whole and the common and preferred shares comprising the units have no individual market prices.

There are advantages in this kind of financing both for the underwriter and the investor. It gives the underwriter one situation to handle instead of two. It is easier for him to maintain and control a single market for units than a double market for preferred and common stocks if they were sold separately.

Affords Some Stability.

Such an arrangement also affords a certain amount of stability. The more conservative senior issue generally acts as a check rein preventing radical fluctuation of the junior stock that might result if it were dealt in separately.

Units appeal to the investor because they offer him the protection of the dividend-paying preferred stock together with the speculative possibilities of the common. He may regard them as a speculation with an insurance policy. If dividends are being paid on the preferred; but not on the common, he figures that he has at least a fair return on his combined investment while he is waiting for the common to produce.

The public obsession for common stock has resulted in a comparative dearth of demand for preferred stock. Underwriters have hit upon the plan of letting the preferred ride along with the common and in this manner overcoming at least in part the present sales resistance to senior issues.

Helps Sell Preferred.

The increased popularity of the unit method of selling, therefore, may be directly attributed to the state of mind of the buying public. The share of common stock that goes with a share of preferred to form a unit is the sugar coating on the pill. It is one way of getting the public to buy something that it doesn't especially want to buy. It is salesmanship.

Many other means of making bonds and preferred stock attractive to a public that is interested mainly in common stock are being used at present. Senior issues are endowed with conversion privileges entitling holders to exchange them for common stock. Frequently bonds are issued with stock purchase warrants entitling the buyer to buy a certain number of common shares at a stipulated price.

Units vary in complexion with individual issues. One share of preferred may be offered with one share or one-half share of common. Units of corporations having more than two classes of stock may comprise shares of each class. Some units carry with them stock purchase warrants entitling the holder to purchase a share of common stock at a stated price in addition to the common share included in the unit.

In general it may be said that the sale of stock in units is a method of financing aimed to help corporations sell their senior securities to a public primarily interested in speculative stock.

COTTON PRICES HIGHER

Cotton prices moved upward yesterday, with buying largely to cover shorts and with no particular purchase until there has been an advance of around 20 to 25 points. This brought out profit taking and weekend evening up, resulting in a fair recession from the top and a close at intermediate figures, with futures in Chicago at 10 to 17 points higher and in other markets gains of 11 to 17 points.

Spot markets were 15 points higher, with a better trade. New York closed at 19.85c, with sales 400 bales; New Orleans, 19.05c, sales 517 bales; Galveston, 18.90c, sales 1,957 bales; Houston, 18.90c, sales 2,318 bales. Liverpool was closed for the Whitsuntide holiday.

Weather was wet over a good part of the eastern belt, where dry weather is needed, which was a factor in disturbing the shorts. A report on spinning consumption during April is due Monday morning, and is expected to show a reduction as compared with recent months. Prices follow:

EGG FUTURES FIRMER

Light receipts of eggs had a strengthening effect on the nearby deliveries on the Chicago Mercantile exchange with the finish at the top. Storage packed firsts for May gained ½c for the day and closed at 32c, while June were ½c higher at 31½c. November refrigerators eased ⅛c in the early trading, but rallied and closed unchanged at 35⅝c. Sales were 126 cars and receipts 22,413 cases. A bullish construction was placed on the government's weekly report on the butter situation, and the close was ½c higher with fresh June at 42⅝c, and December storage at 44⅛c. Sales were 6 cars and receipts 15,734 tubs.

Improvement Is Noted by Armour in Packing Trade

Armour & Co., in its review of general packing house trade conditions says: "There was a somewhat better tone in several major packing house lines this week and the general trend was better though there were still some weak and draggy spots. Lamb trade particularly showed improvement after a long period of dullness and dressed prices were slightly firmer under the influence of a more active demand with supplies cleaning up pretty well for the week. Smoked meats continued to move fairly well. Fresh pork held fairly steady all over the country with movement moderately good and demand just fair. High price levels again curtailed dressed beef demand and while prices were somewhat stronger they were still out of proportion to live cattle prices. Veal continued draggy and slow."

Have You Bought This Bargain Stock?
ON April 27 we recommended to our clients the purchase of a Special Bargain stock then selling in the low 60's.
In exactly two weeks time this issue had advanced approximately [illegible] points. Notwithstanding this advance, however, the security is still greatly undervalued and should be included among every investor's holdings.
In fact, if our original surmise that this bargain stock should double in price was correct, then it is still entitled to a 40 or 50 point upward swing.
It is hardly likely that this issue will long be available at its present levels. In fact, its outlook is so unusually favorable and the buying that has come into it has been so impressive that it is possible for this security to forge ahead as rapidly in the immediate future as it has in the immediate past.
If you would like to know the name of the bargain stock, we shall be glad to send you a copy of the Special Bulletin in which it is analyzed. Or, if you prefer quick action, we will wire you the name of the stock.
Simply send your name and address and the name of the bargain stock will be sent to you without cost or obligation. Also an interesting book called

Will There Be another duPont In This List?
THREE years ago McNeel's Service provided its clients with a list of industrial stocks for long pull growth. At recent prices they show a total increase of 168%—68% greater increase than the average level of the stock market in the same period.
Among these stocks were duPont, with an advance of more than 1,000 points; General Electric with more than 600 points advance; International Harvester, with more than 300 points advance.
$25,000 invested in this list three years ago would be worth $67,000 now. $5,000 invested in these stocks would be worth $13,500 now. $100,000 invested in these stocks would be worth $270,000 now.
McNeel's has just recommended another list of stocks for long pull growth for those to whom appreciation rather than income is important. This list represents an investment of $25,000. If you have $5,000 or $500,000, this program will suit your requirements.
What these stocks are, which stocks McNeel's Financial Service believes will duplicate the profits of duPont, General Electric, International Harvester and the other great successes of the last few years, is revealed in this bulletin.
Some copies are available for free distribution and will be sent to interested investors upon request.

PROFITS BY DIVERSION.

WET WEATHER IS FACTOR IN RISE OF CORN PRICES

Wheat Decline During the Week Not Severe.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Week-end short covering developed in the wheat market yesterday after all deliveries had sold at a new low on the crop early, but the finish was at net losses of ⅛@⅜c with May, $1.01⅝; July, $1.05⅝, and September, $1.09@1.09⅛. Winnipeg was strong and ⅜@¾c higher, short covering being the main influence.

Corn was affected by wet weather and gained ⅜@1⅝c with May leading, the latter finishing at 85⅝c; July, 87⅝c, September, 89c, and December, 83½c. Oats were ⅛@½c higher with May, 46¼c; July, 44⅝c, and September, 42⅞@43c. Rye closed unchanged to ⅜c higher with May, 85c; July, 85¼c and September, 88⅛.

All deliveries of wheat and rye and September and December corn sold at a new low for the season during the last week, but net losses were not severe, declines on wheat being 1⅞@2⅜c, and on rye 2⅜@3⅝c, as compared with the previous week, while May corn was 2⅛c higher and the deferred futures ⅛c higher to ½c lower for the week. Oats advanced ⅜@1c. Provisions were weaker, with lard 12½@20c; ribs, 20@40c, and bellies, 12½@22½c lower as compared with a week ago.

Wheat Undertone Weak.

The world's wheat trade is paying little attention to minor fluctuations in prices at the present time, and shows much concern over the immense holdings of cash wheat in the leading exporting countries, with indications that the carryover at the end of the crop year will be the largest on record. Added to this is the very favorable outlook for the new American winter wheat crop, and the excellent start of the spring wheat both sides of the international line. The result has been semi-demoralization in the markets, with all deliveries selling at a new low on the crop, and May wheat at the inside figure yesterday at $1.01 was at the lowest price that future has sold since October, 1915, when the world's crop was 4,436,000,000 bu, or 87,000,000 bu less than in 1928-29.

Greater part of the strength in the local market yesterday was due to week-end short covering, and relative firmness in Winnipeg, but there was nothing in the general run of the news to result in bringing about a change in sentiment, which remains decidedly bearish. Liverpool was closed and will have a holiday until Tuesday as will a majority of continental markets. Export demand at the seaboard was slow.

Wet Weather Helps Corn.

Soaking rains over part of the corn belt served to increase apprehension regarding plowing and planting, and was instrumental in checking selling pressure despite the weakness in wheat early. At no time were prices as low as the inside figures of Friday, and the finish was on a strong rally. Cash houses were persistent buyers of futures, and there were intimations that all of the cash grain being sold was not reported. A local house reported a cargo being loaded for Quebec. Buenos Aires closed unchanged with July in that market finishing at 81⅝c.

Oats were easier early with wheat, but the decline brought in fair buying and the market rallied quickly with the nearby deliveries showing the most strength. Sales of 200,000 bu were made to go to store for delivery on May contracts. All deliveries of rye sold at a new low on the crop early in sympathy with wheat and on favorable crop reports, but rallied toward the last.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods market was quiet today, with prices unchanged from Friday's levels and with little new business in any line. While general reports indicated a quiet week, some houses were able to report the largest business in several weeks, taken, however, at lower prices. Burlaps were cabled unchanged, with this market quiet and with the holiday Monday in Calcutta. The largest denim manufacturer announced a policy of 25 per cent curtailment for June, July, and August. Spring print silkworms are in some cases sold out. Spots raws were unchanged, although Japan was lower.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—There was no change in the raw sugar market today, but the undertone was steady, with refiners continuing to show interest in specified positions at the 3.61c duty paid level. The only sale reported was 22,000 bags of Cuban for June shipment to a local refiner at this price, but with the futures market closed there was a disposition to limit fresh commitments and await developments over the week end. Nothing new was reported in the refined situation with all refiners listing at 5.00c for fine granulated.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed steady; sales, 550 bales; May, $4.91; July, $4.86; September, $4.75. Open market quotations [sixty day basis] Shanghai: Steam, extra B, $4.90; Canton double extra A 14-16s, $3.85; Japanese crack double extra, $4.95@5.05.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Lowering of wheat prices to nearly the dollar level for May in Chicago and with Kansas City down to 95c for May at one time, and 96c at the close, the lowest in recent years, has not changed the general tone of the market. Although liquidation appeared to be lighter, there was less disposition to press the short side owing to it being Saturday. The impression is that unless new bullish factors develop, wheat is liable to sell below a dollar.

Active buying of offers on July wheat at $1.10½, good all this week, was a feature of the privileged trading. Apparently there are a number of people with northwestern connections who have something bullish in their minds which they are not divulging, as there was buying of offerings all the way down from $1.16 early in the week. Houses with northwestern connections were good sellers of wheat throughout the day and have been for several days, while southwestern interests were among the buyers.

A study of the corn planting reports for a number of years does not indicate that planting so far this year is seriously out of line, but a continuation of bad weather might easily change these ideas. In some sections, however, the season is late.

A charter was made for 50,000 bu of corn direct to Montreal at 7½c per bu, from Chicago. This is a low rate. Rates to Buffalo are also easier with no activity in chartering.

Reports covering the central corn belt to J. E. Bennett & Co., say that in the vicinity of Jacksonville, Ill., the situation is more serious than generally conceded, with no farm work done during the week owing to rain. Quincy, Ill., reports bottom lands covered with water, with the wheat in the district from west Quincy to Taylor, Ill., looking good, while Louis county is not expected to raise more than half a crop, owing to too much rain. It rained all Friday night. One report said that not more than 5 per cent of the corn acreage has been planted.

PROVISIONS EASIER

An easier tone prevailed in provisions yesterday with a fair business in liquidation of long contracts at a lower range of prices, with net losses of 2½c on July and unchanged for other deliveries after a range of 5c. Liverpool was closed and exports were 336,000 lbs lard and 113,500 lbs bacon.

Ribs were dull and unchanged to 10c lower and clear bellies 2½c lower for July, the only month traded in. Shipments of lard and meats for the week were larger than the previous week and last year. There were fair deliveries of lard and bellies.

Hog values were steady with a liberal run expected on Monday. Packing in Chicago for the summer season to date, 1,314,000 hogs, against 1,394,000 for the same time last year. Prices follow:

To a greater degree than any other class of securities, Common Stocks of well-managed companies should reflect the steadily improving position of this industry.

We have prepared circulars descriptive of the following Common Stock issues of Public Utility Companies:

YOUTHFUL INTELLIGENTSIA—Bates' Flashlight and her eight offspring, all done in liver and white, offer a few pointers on pointers. They are prized possessions of J. W. Bates of Chicago, secretary of the National Indiana Field Trial club.

BERNICE AND EMILY, the young Chicago dancers who took the outstanding success of all the performers in the New York run of the ninth issue of George White's Scandals. Their success in the Chicago engagement also was notable. Miss Abbott has placed them for the summer in European engagements.

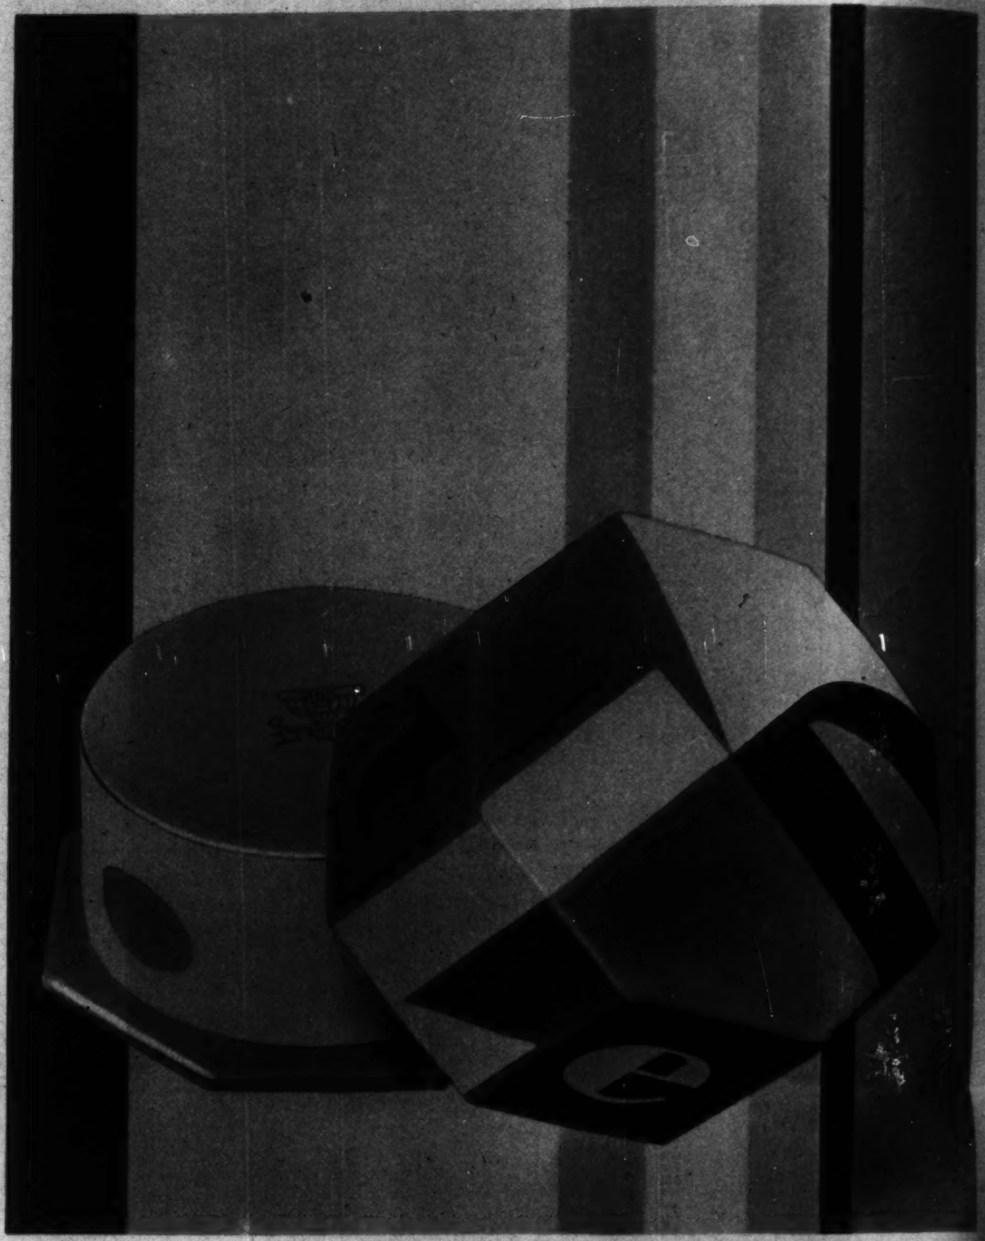
It gives you something no face powder has given you before –

POUDRE Le Début

Here is a face powder — totally new — vitally different. A powder, exquisitely fragrant — keyed to modern fashion and out-door living — which includes several newly discovered ingredients never before used in a face powder. A safe powder that not only protects, but one with a smooth, velvety, even texture and subtle range of natural color tones that blends perfectly with the tone and texture of your skin and brings you new loveliness . . . And it adheres indefinitely.



POUDRE Le Début

If there is one thing Poudre le Début is not, it is not "just another face powder." It is the result of an effort to discover, for the first time, what the modern woman really needs in a face powder — and to give it to her. An achievement which required two years of intensive scientific research and constant consultation with authorities on Fashion and modern style . . . and several newly discovered ingredients never before used in a face powder.

What powder offers you this? • First, it protects the skin. Women these days are living so much more in the out-doors. Poudre le Début guards against the ravages of the sun, wind, dust or city soot. It is not only a safe powder (apply it as often as you like) but it has properties actually beneficial to the skin . . . If you burn or freckle easily, just try it and see.

For another thing, it is so unusually fine and smooth-textured that it blends with an almost invisible, velvety loveliness into your skin. A powder that never cakes, dusts off or smears—and which adheres indefinitely.

Also, it is offered in what is perhaps the most complete range of natural colors ever found in a face powder:

FOR LIGHT COMPLEXIONS:

"Pearl"— for the fair skin with color.
"Pearl with glow"—a warm tone for the fair skin with little color.
"Naturelle"— to match the medium-toned skin.
"Sun-tint"—a tan for the fair skin.

FOR BRUNETTES:

"Rachel"— for the brunette with color.
"Rachel with glow"—a warm tone for the brunette with little color.
"Ocre-rose"— a warm tone for the olive skin.
"Sun-tan"—a tan for the brunette skin.

Certainly, here is no mask that merely "covers up." This fine, even-textured powder brings out and delicately accents your own lovely under-coloring — subtly, as color seen through chiffon—so that the powder becomes a very part of your face . . . It will bring to your skin an unimagined beauty.

With the loveliest of lovely fragrance • A fragrance that suggests Paris. Just what you'd expect from the makers of the exquisite Parfum le Début . . . And the box — so colorful and modern — adds a gay, decorative note to the smartest dressing-table.

Poudre le Début is as near a custom-made powder as you'll find anywhere . . . It may be had at any of the better shops.

TRY THIS TOUR OF A SUNDAY—The second of the Tribune's circles in Chicagoland, mapped by pathfinders who have sought out pleasant secondary roads to the southwest of the city, offers the motorist an uncrowded swing through suburb and countryside that may be completed in a few hours' driving. If you can't make the tour today, keep the map in your scrapbook for a future drive.

WOOD AND STREAM, and a smart, modern bridge. The bridge spans the Desplaines on U. S. route 66.

AN EMBLEM IN THE NIGHT—New floodlights bring the Washington cathedral into glowing relief against the capital sky, lending added beauty to the spectacle of Washington after dark.

"JOY OF LIFE" is picturesquely silhouetted against a fountain illumination in the modernist manner at the all-American exposition of contemporary sculpture in San Francisco. The scene is at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor.

Countless miles of rope to interfere with true, sound rest . . . that is what each pajama drawstring helps to total. Month by month these miles are lessening in number as more men first use Faultless pajamas—and rid themselves of drawstrings forever.

They're loaded with Comfort, men!

—modern Faultless Nobelts have brought sound sleep to millions!

They stay up without noticeable waistline pressure

THIS advertisement is addressed to those men who tenaciously refuse to resort to the ludicrous nightgown . . . yet who dislike the uncomfortable strings of pajamas. Faultless makes pajamas with a new-found comfort for these modern men! In the two short years since their exclusive patented Nobelt waistband was invented, they have become the most popular pajamas of today!

And no wonder! The Nobelt is a broad, flat, softly resilient band that clings gently about the waist in place of the unyielding pajama drawstring. It contains no rubber thread elastic to cut into the flesh. By a special process, its resilience is woven into the very fabric of which it is made. The Nobelt quietly expands and contracts with every body movement. You scarcely know it is around your waist . . . yet it firmly holds your trousers up, helps them to hang correctly, trim and neat, without any bunching or unsightly wrinkles. Yet its gentle pliancy permits your tired muscles to gratefully relax, unbound and unrestricted.

All Faultless pajamas are provided with the Nobelt waistband. There are countless models, colors, fabrics and designs, from which you can make a selection exactly to your taste. And any pair you buy will bring you real, sound sleep o'nights. The Faultless Manufacturing Company, Baltimore, Md. Chicago Sales Office: Republic Bldg., 209 S. State Street. New York Sales Office: 452 Fifth Ave. (at 40th Street).

Faultless Nobelt Pajamas

"The nightwear of a nation" since 1881

The Nobelt waistband is guaranteed to stay resilient. It can be laundered without fear. A tag is attached to every pair of Faultless pajamas insuring replacement of the entire garment if the waistband loses its resilience.

CRABMEAT AND TOMATO SALAD—Line a salad bowl with crisp lettuce leaves. Arrange on the lettuce in separate piles 1 tin Three Diamonds Brand Fancy Crabmeat, 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped; ¾ cup celery, cucumber, or endive cut in very small pieces; 3 small tomatoes, peeled and cut in eighths. Between the piles place strips of green pepper, free from seeds. Make a nest of heart leaves of lettuce in the center of the salad and fill with mayonnaise dressing. Sprinkle center of mayonnaise with paprika. Serve individual portions from salad bowl.

Only the coldest of

can produce crabmeat so matchless in flavor

IN THE icy depths of the North Pacific, only, are found these Taraba-Gani . . . huge deep-sea crabs with meat of superb, delicate flavor, and tender white texture. This rare treat comes to your table as Three Diamonds Brand Fancy Crabmeat . . . with all its original piquancy and subtle charm. For, the moment the crabs are taken from the sea, they are cooked, ready to eat, their meat is packed in sterile parchment wrappers, and sealed in lacquered tins. This entire process is controlled by the famous Mitsubishi Company of Japan.

Served simply, in salads and sandwiches, there is no nourishing meat so cooling for hot-weather luncheons . . . or so delicious, served in simple or elaborate style for any meal. Expert blending makes it Mild and Mellow

GO TO any of those hotels or clubs where connoisseurs gather and you will find "Canada Dry." Notice that on many transatlantic steamships this fine old ginger ale is not only on the smoking-room stewards' menu, but also, nine times out of ten, receives more calls than any other beverage. It is served in London . . . in Parisian restaurants and cafes . . . at famous continental watering places.

Marvelous flavor which brings sheer pleasure and delight

The universal appeal of "Canada Dry" has been won for the same reasons which make it the favorite in countless homes throughout the United States and Canada. Its marvelous flavor brings a sheer delight, a thrill of goodness, which you can find in no other beverage. Always order "Canada Dry."

This fine, true quality is the result of careful methods of making. Absolutely pure ingredients give "Canada Dry" basic excellence. Jamaica ginger of the highest quality make it a real ginger ale. The process of blending and balancing is carried on by exact proportions. Hourly check-ups are made to see to it that no variation from those proportions occur. A secret process of carbonation enables "Canada Dry" to retain its sparkle long after the bottle is opened. Such are the careful methods which give you this better, purer, finer ginger ale.

So pure and mellow that it graces any occasion

Its sparkle adds zest to a meal. Its gaiety makes an evening of bridge even more pleasant. Its mild mellowness matches the feeling of greeting old friends when they drop in. Its purity recommends it to parents. Always have "Canada Dry" on hand . . . to drink with meals . . . for entertaining. And order it when you dine out.

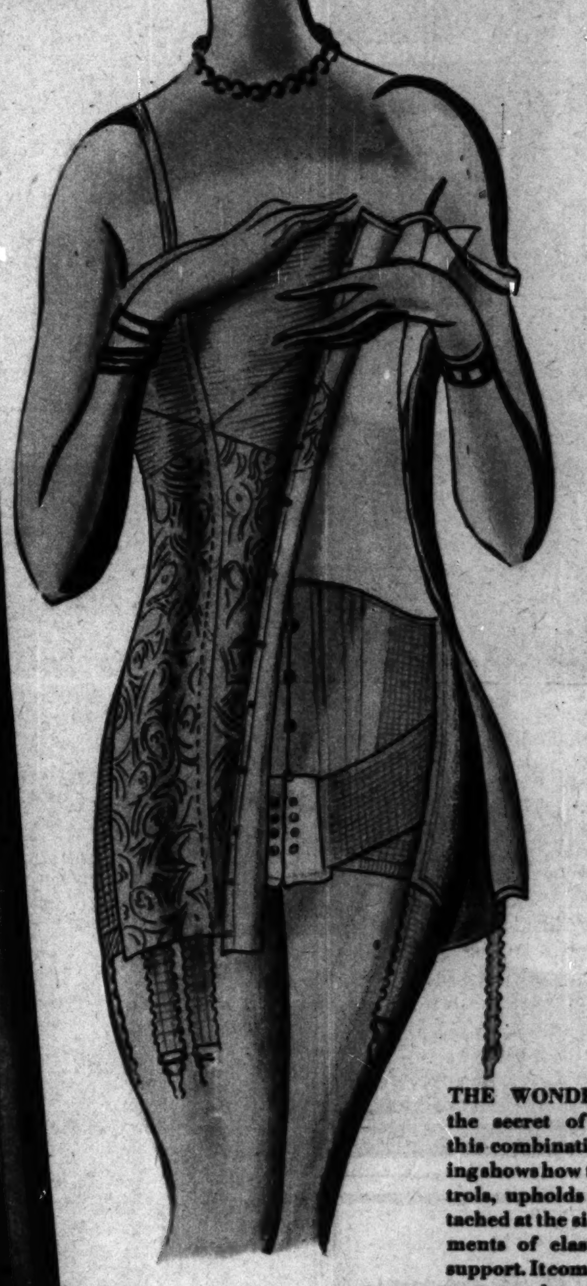
Flexible Slenderizing

This is the Combination Smart Women are Choosing



BECAUSE it slenderizes—

BECAUSE all its outer lines are smooth and flowing—

smart women by the hundreds are buying this Nemo-flex combination and the Nemo-flex work rooms can scarcely make it fast enough to keep up with the demand.

Women tell us their figures have never looked so well, so slender, so smooth of line, as they do in this combination. And it is so comfortable. One can walk in it—and sit in it—feeling all the while as svelte and graceful as one looks.

The Wonderlift Inner Girdle holds the figure in and up—supports and flattens just enough. The outer part of the garment fastens smoothly over the girdle and its side inserts of elastic give an easy yet restrained hipline.

Six garters mean added smoothness.

In all leading stores and specialty shops, in a range of fine materials, $6.50 to $15.00.

Illustrated, in handsome pink brocade, with rayon top, No. 96-101, $10.00

THE WONDERLIFT GIRDLE is the secret of the slender figure this combination gives. The drawing shows how the inner girdle controls, upholds and restrains. Attached at the sides, with reinforcements of elastic for additional support. It comes in three lengths, average, long and extra long. The combination is patented.

READ IT IN TODAY'S TRIBUNE

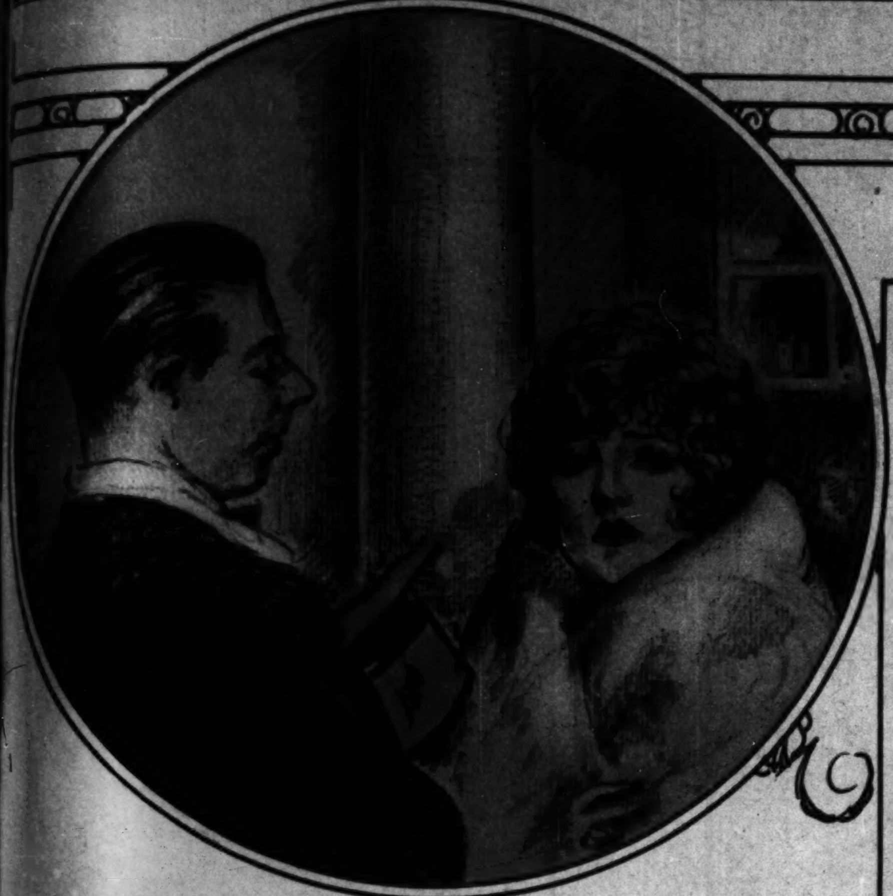
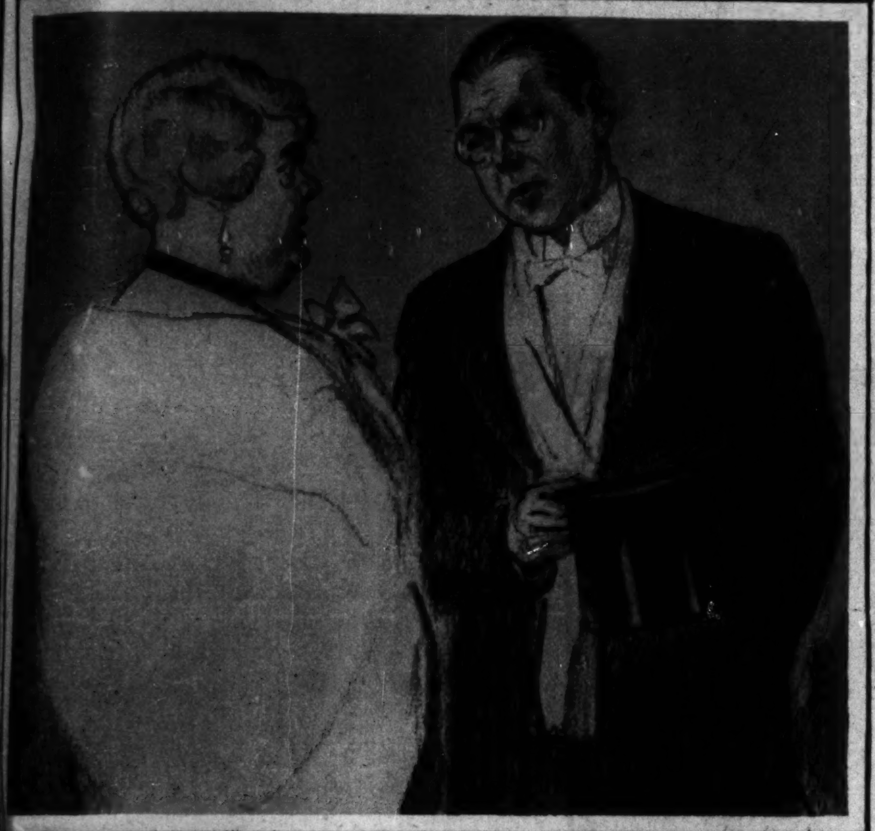
Our Own Book of Etiquette

By W. E. Hill

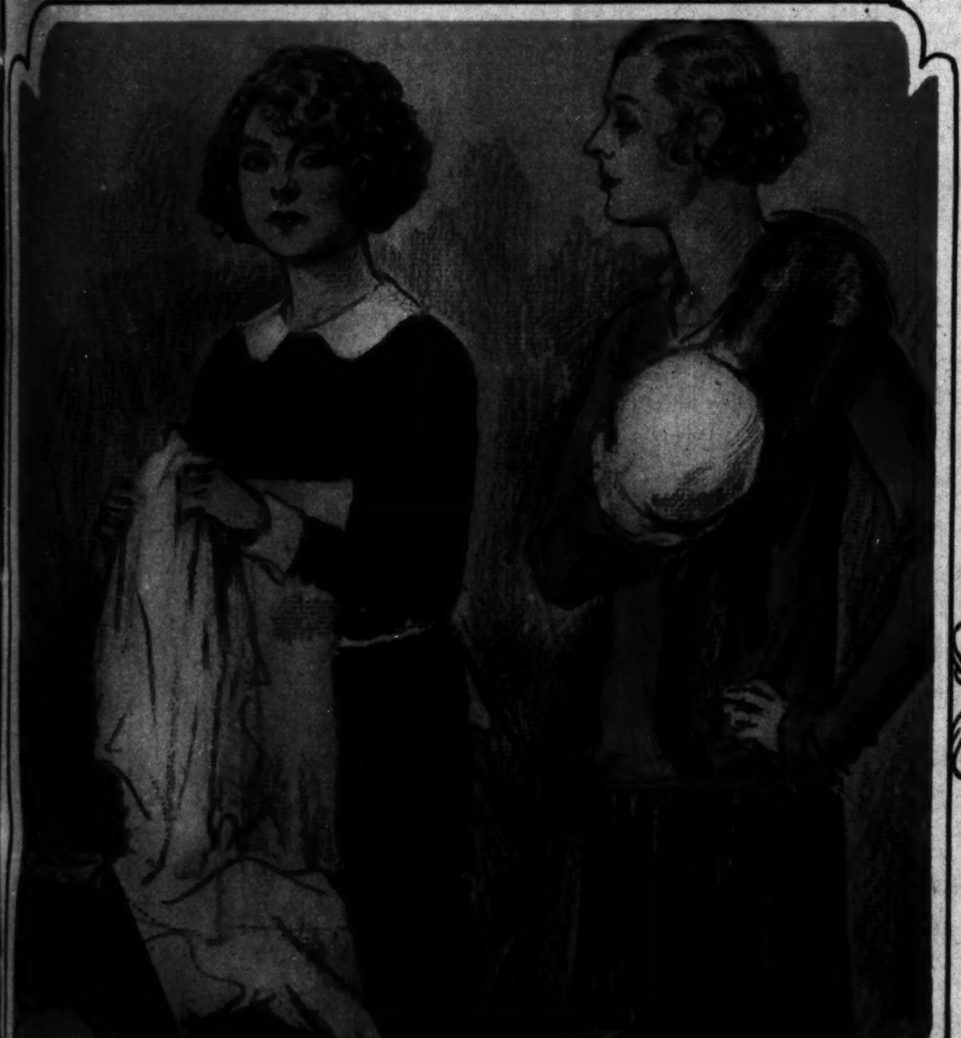
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]



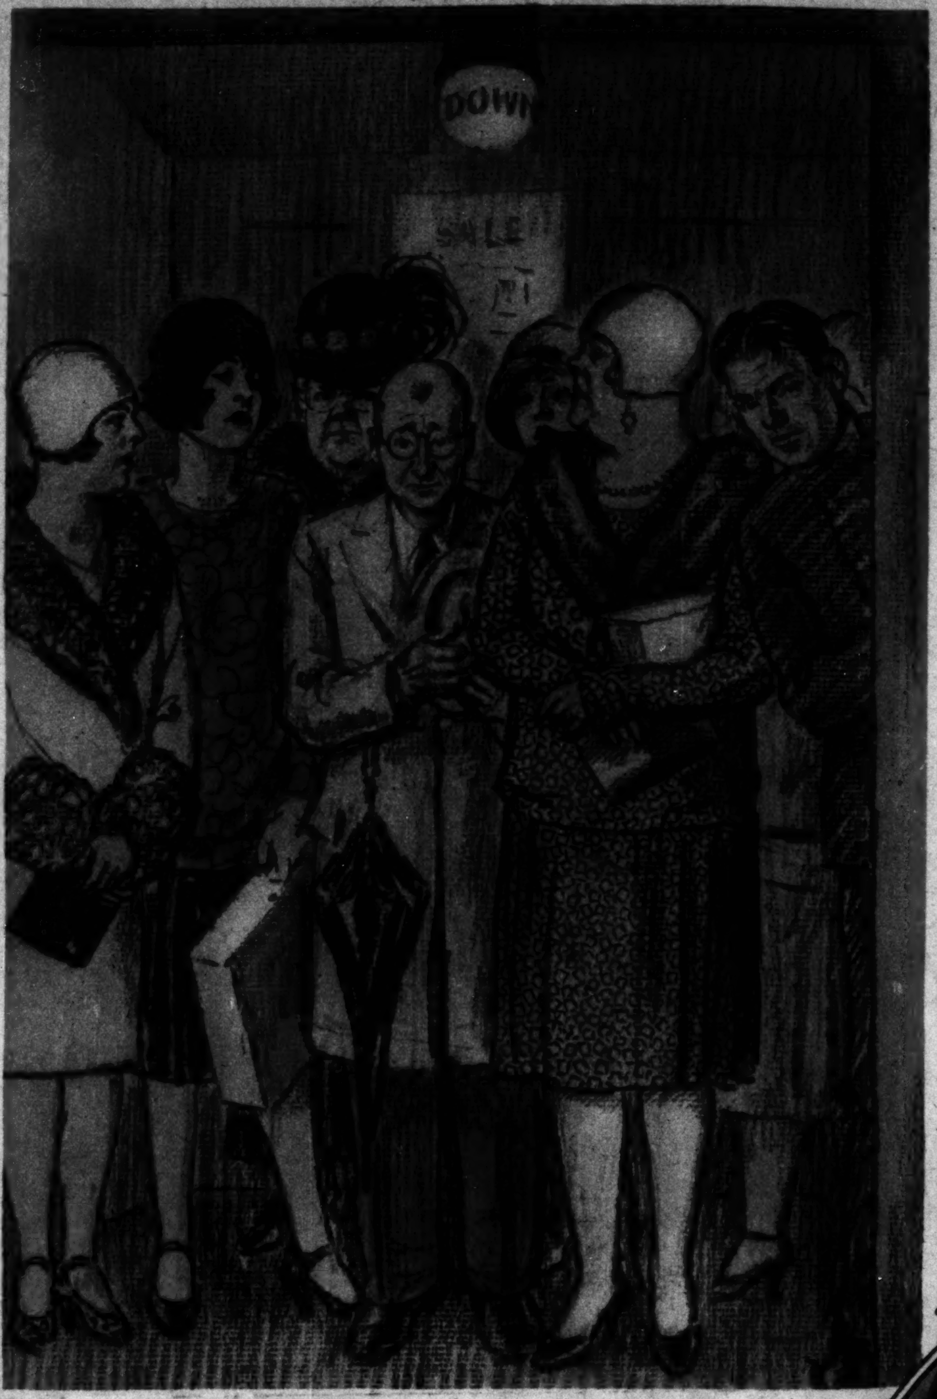
When seeing Nellie home. "What should she do? Ask him in? Or should she say good night outside?" This query from the day of Messalina up to the present time has baffled a lot of swell girls. This, we believe, is the right answer for use among the bon tons. By all means, ask him in, girls, but you go in the front door and let him sneak around to the back door, so the neighbors won't see.



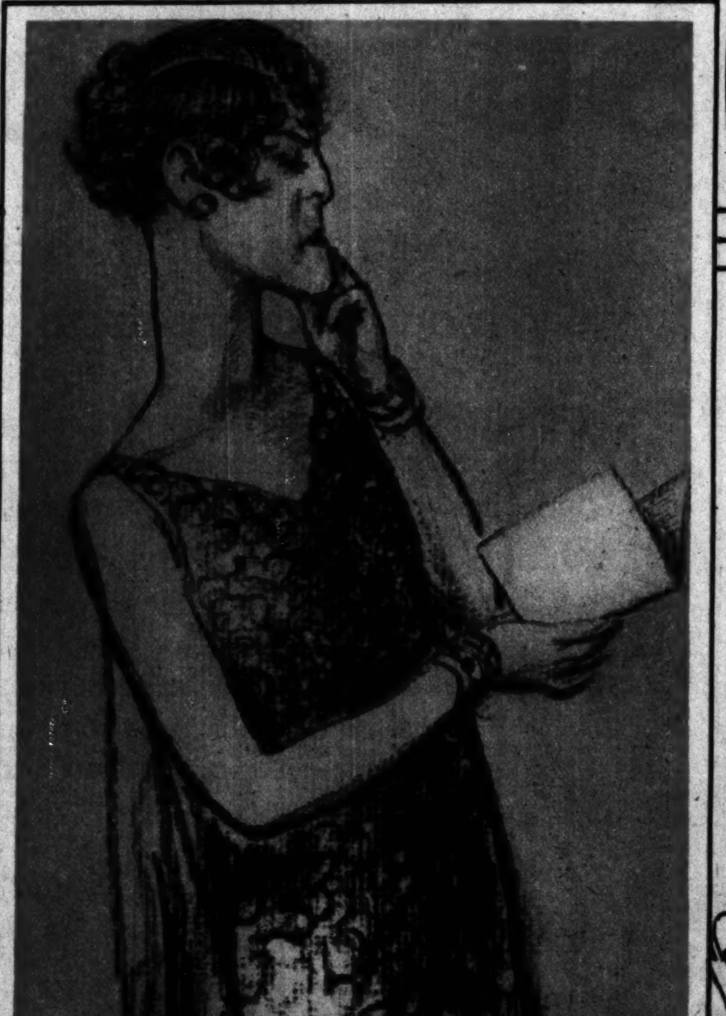
How to go home early. An unattached young man who is asked to accompany a lady older than himself to the opera and tires of his hostess before the evening is over ought not to tiptoe away without some little pleasantry as to why he is not seeing her home. Good form requires a well bred youth to say, for example, "I know you will pardon me, Mrs. Marrowbone, if I wish you 'bon nuit,' as the French say, because I have on thin shoes and they are slightly damp from getting out of the taxi. Promise me you will take the street car home. I shall feel safer about you, than in a taxi!"



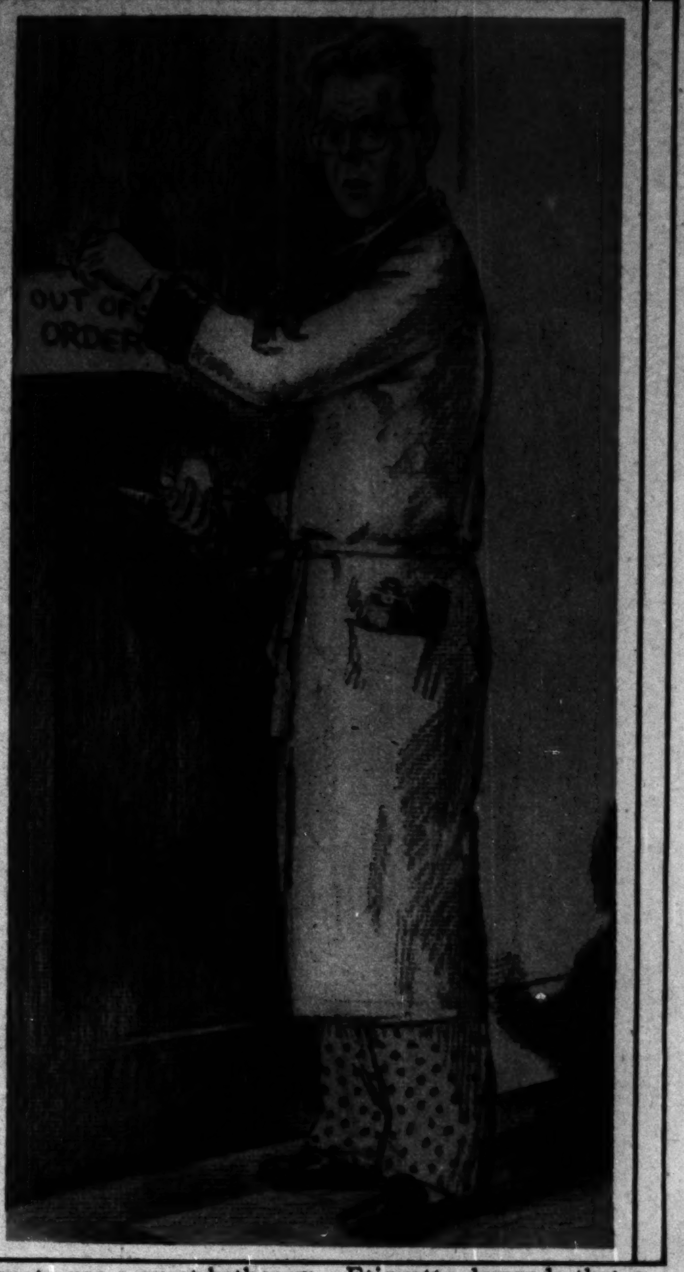
As to tipping. Many hostesses will not allow their week-end visitors to fee the servants, on the ground that tipping spoils them. Maybe so, but a guest should insist on doing something to show appreciation for services rendered. When the hostess is hot around one may in all propriety say to the maid or the cook or the second assistant laundress, as the case may be, "Rose, I would like to do something for you. Why not come and work for me? I will be happy to double your wages."



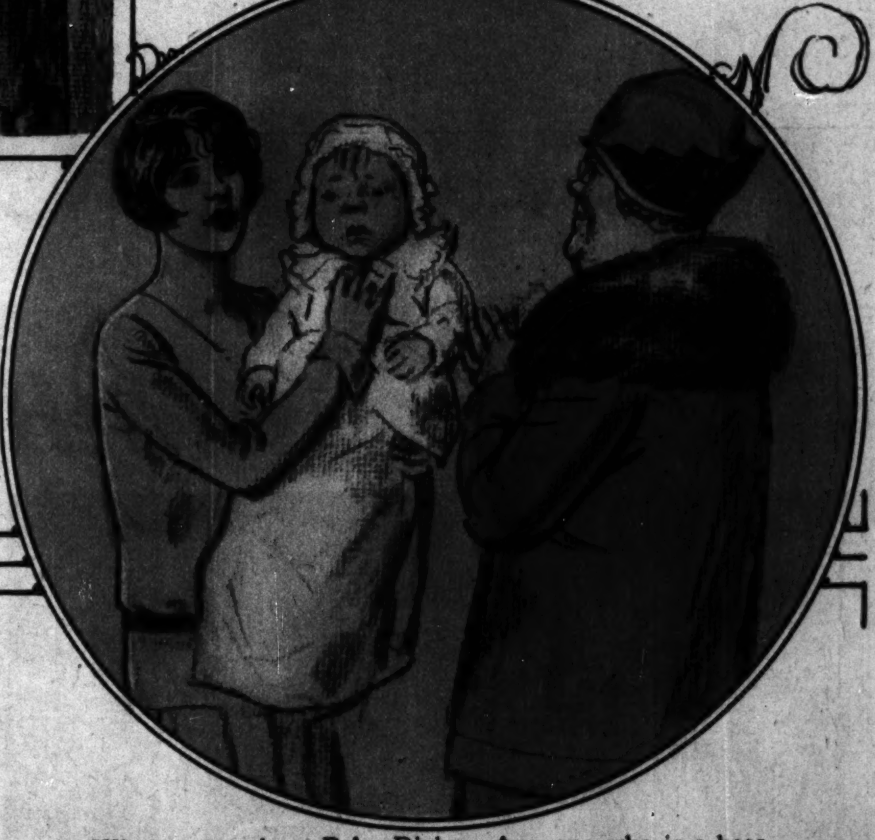
Elevator technique. It is a terrible breach of etiquette for a man without much hair and one whose head is not a pretty shape to remove his hat in an elevator full of feminine wiles. Women with an innate feeling for the beautiful hate to be disillusioned.



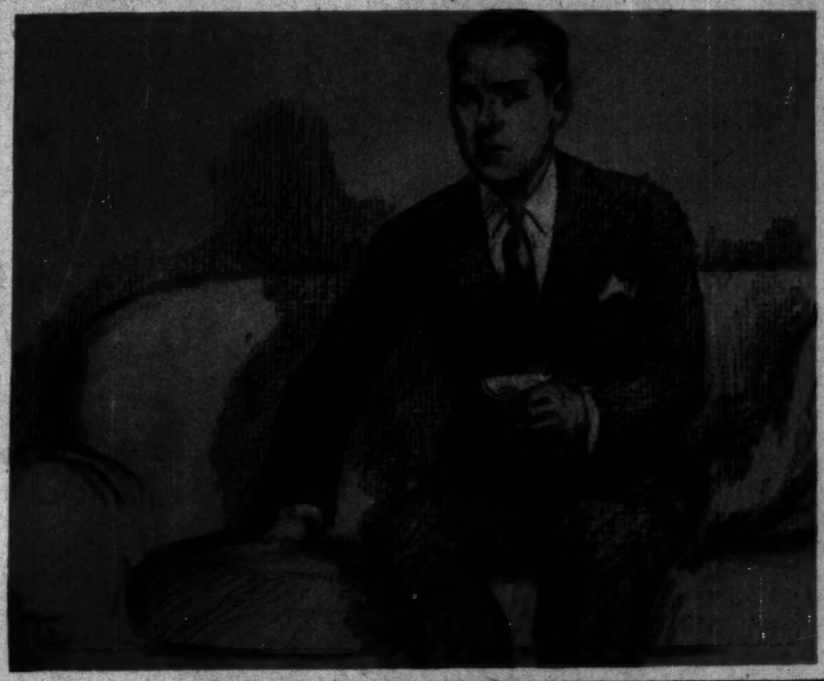
A bride's thank you note. A bride should write her thank you notes never later than two years from her wedding day. This sample note is a model which a bride may do well to copy. "Dear Aunt Bessie: It was darling of you to send us the dear little check. Everybody sent us so many big things that we were glad to get something little for a change. Hartwig and I have thought and thought, but we can't think of a thing we can get with it, so we are going to keep it as a nest egg toward my dentistry. I shall think of you during my bridge work. Fondest love, Gert."



How to use a guest bathroom. Etiquette demands that a house guest should not spend hours and hours at a stretch in the bathtub to the exclusion of others who may have just as much right to the tub and the huck toweling. Then, too, rattling the knob of the bathroom door to hasten the occupant makes hard feeling all around. It is a good plan for a guest to print in nice big letters a sign reading, "Out of Order." Let him pin this on the door. Then he can stay as long as he chooses.



What to say about Baby Dicky. Any one who is a bear for etiquette must say just the right thing when viewing a new baby. Something not too hackneyed and not too insulting to the parents, like "Isn't he just the image of you, Winifred?" One should look hard at the child, inhale deeply, and say, for example, "O, hasn't he nice big pores. And isn't he red—how I do love red!"



How to treat hors d'oeuvres. When unstuffed olives are served at cocktail time much embarrassment is often caused when guests are left with olive pits in their hands. Many people are accustomed to throw olive pits behind radiators and such, but a really well bred guest will sneak his olive pits between the cushions of the overstuffed sofa.

ORDINARY CHIPS OR FLAKES
SUPER SUDS
Super Suds
Super Suds
Super Suds
BEADS OF SOAP

Make this amazing test!

Instant suds . . . not only on top . . . but all through the water. No other soap but Super Suds can give you this.

Prove this to yourself by making this simple two-second test. Put a teaspoonful of Super Suds in a glass; a teaspoonful of any chip or flake in another. Now fill both glasses half full with water of dishwashing temperature.

Instantly, every bit of Super Suds rushes into suds all through the water, not just on top. Instantly every drop of water in the glass becomes creamy with soapiness. While in the other glass, gummy chips float undissolved on top or sink to the bottom, leaving the water in between clear and soapless.

This is the way these two soaps act in your dishpan. This is why Super Suds gets to work faster . . . cleans with such amazing swiftness.

MILLIONS of women have found a way to save from one-third to one-half their dishwashing time. A faster, easier way to wash clothes.

It's Super Suds. Soap in a wonderful new form. Not a chip. Not a powder. But tiny hollow beads so tissue thin that they dissolve into fast-working suds the moment they touch water. Because of this amazing speed, Super Suds has become America's greatest dishwashing soap, in less than a year.

Four reasons why Super Suds is better

1. Instant suds in any kind of water. In water cool enough to keep your hands soft and white (even hard water) . . . without waiting . . . without stirring. Super Suds will give you suds in a flash. Just as the test picture at the left shows you.

2. Suds all through the water, not just on top. Super Suds gives not only instant top suds, but instant "under-water" suds as well. These suds penetrate at once to every drop of water in the pan. Giving a rich down-to-the-bottom soapiness that speeds cleaning.

3. Saves one rinsing for clothes. You don't need to rinse and rinse to get Super Suds out of your clothes when you're through washing. You don't need to inspect each garment for clinging bits of half-dissolved soap. For Super Suds always dissolves completely. You can get clothes whiter, clearer, absolutely soap-free, in actually one less rinse than you need for chips or flakes.

4. Makes dishwiping unnecessary. Because Super Suds rinses off dishes like magic, no dishwiping is necessary. A hot rinse and dishes drain dry to clear, sparkling brilliancy without the touch of a dishtowel.

Get Super Suds today. Your grocer has it. Use it for dishes, for laundry, for quick wipe-ups of sinks and linoleums. Wherever you want speedy, safe cleaning. Ten big cups of soap for only 10 cents.

*We made a cross-section investigation of America on soaps; visited 20 cities ranging in population from 41,326 to 3,188,012; called on 21,296 women; asked them 212,960 questions. The facts in this advertisement are based on this investigation.

WITH PERFORATED STEAM-TAB

THIS picture of a Eugene Sachet is a peep behind the scenes of permanent waving.

You may never have seen anything like it before, but we hope, for your hair's sake, that you will insist upon seeing it in future.

Take particular note of the tiny perforations in the steam tab of the Eugene Sachet.

From these carefully placed, graduated perforations, come tiny jets of steam where, when, and as the operator desires. No other device used by permanent wavers has this essential feature of Control. It is patented by Eugene all over the world and vigorously protected from infringement.

Be sure your waver uses genuine Eugene Sachets—26 to 40 of them for each wave or re-wave. You will recognize the genuine by the Eugene trade-mark stamped boldly on each sachet.

Send for sample Eugene Sachet!

We will gladly send you a sample Eugene Sachet for your inspection, together with our interesting booklet, "The Eugene Method," and a list of genuine Eugene Permanists in your vicinity . . . Please address, Eugene, Ltd., 568 Fifth Avenue, New York City, U.S.A. England, France, Germany, Australia.

Over deserts by airplane--through barbed wire barriers--Tribune Writers pursue world NEWS!

Meet ANN SOMERS HOUSE—Tribune correspondent, who braved barbed wire and guards and gave the world its only eye-witness account of any of the happenings inside the grounds of Castle Doorn during the ex-Kaiser's recent birthday festivities. She did it by climbing the wall shown in another view and presenting Wilhelm, when she encountered him within the castle, with a bouquet and best wishes. It is such enterprise which gives Tribune readers the best news, first—today, tomorrow and every day.

This is the wall separating the ex-Kaiser's castle at Doorn from the outside world, which Ann Somers House surmounted to get her story of the ex-Kaiser's recent birthday. She had to scale this wall two and one-half yards high and topped with barbed wire, cross a moat just inside it to a second wall, by means of an overhanging tree branch, then elude the vigilance of a small army of attendants and functionaries before she came face to face with the ex-Kaiser.

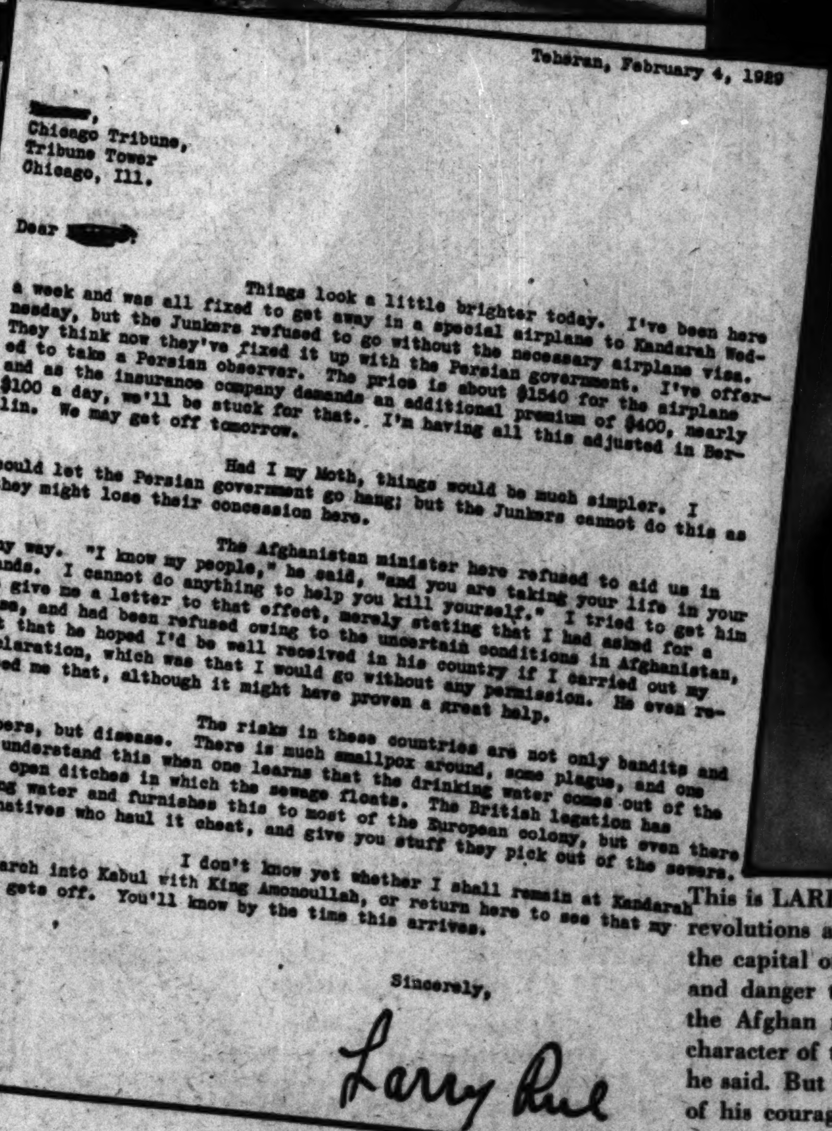
The heavy line shows how Larry Rue followed the danger-beset trail of King Amanullah, that he might tell Tribune readers what was happening in this uncivilized corner of the world. Chartering an airplane to cross deserts where bandits and robbers are as numerous as traffic cops in Chicago, braving dangers which admittedly meant risking death—these were but stimulating sauce to the appetite for news, and better news, and first news, which has made Larry Rue so successful a member of the Tribune's foreign news staff.



Teheran, February 4, 1929

Chicago Tribune,
Tribune Tower
Chicago, Ill.

Dear [redacted]

Things look a little brighter today. I've been here a week and was all fixed to get away in a special airplane to Kandarah Wednesday, but the Junkers refused to go without the necessary airplane visa. They think now they've fixed it up with the Persian government. I've offered to take a Persian observer. The price is about $1540 for the airplane and as the insurance company demands an additional premium of $400, nearly $100 a day, we'll be stuck for that. I'm having all this adjusted in Berlin. We may get off tomorrow.

Had I my Moth, things would be much simpler. I could let the Persian government go hang; but the Junkers cannot do this as they might lose their concession here.

The Afghanistan minister here refused to aid us in any way. "I know my people," he said, "and you are taking your life in your hands. I cannot do anything to help you kill yourself." I tried to get him to give me a letter to that effect, merely stating that I had asked for a visa, and had been refused owing to the uncertain conditions in Afghanistan, but that he hoped I'd be well received in his country if I carried out my declaration, which was that I would go without any permission. He even refused me that, although it might have proven a great help.

The risks in these countries are not only bandits and robbers, but disease. There is much smallpox around, some plague, and one can understand this when one learns that the drinking water comes out of the same open ditches in which the sewage floats. The British legation has spring water and furnishes this to most of the European colony, but even there the natives who haul it cheat, and give you stuff they pick out of the sewers.

I don't know yet whether I shall remain at Kandarah and march into Kabul with King Amonoullah, or return here to see that my stuff gets off. You'll know by the time this arrives.

Sincerely,

Larry Rue

This is LARRY RUE, whose specialty is getting the truth about impending revolutions and wars for Tribune readers. His letter (left), written from the capital of Persia, throws a vivid light upon what it means in hardship and danger to give Tribune readers the news first. The terms in which the Afghan minister refused to help him speak volumes concerning the character of the mission. "I cannot do anything to help you kill yourself," he said. But Larry Rue was not killed—and Tribune readers got the benefit of his courage and resourcefulness.

Take-a-Picture Week BEGINS TODAY

IF anyone should ask you, "Have you enough snapshots of your children and family and friends?", you'd probably say, "No, not nearly enough. Why don't I take more? Well, I probably would if I only had someone to remind me."

Take-a-Picture Week is a coast-to-coast reminder. It comes at just the right time, too, for at this season of the year picture opportunities beckon to us on every hand. All Nature smiles . . . bright skies, long days, and balmy air . . . no wonder faces glow with a new cheerfulness.

But besides reminding you of the pictures you mean to take, but so far haven't, besides calling attention to the most appealing time of the entire year for snapshots, Take-a-Picture Week of 1929 spotlights an additional opportunity.

An Extra Golden Opportunity

While there are only twelve days more in which to take pictures for the Eastman $30,000 prize contest, these twelve days are obviously the best of the entire three months during which the competition is being conducted. Whether you have already sent in some entries, or have as yet failed to take advantage of this chance to win one of the 1,223 cash awards, get your camera out at once and enter the resulting snapshots. You are entitled to submit as many as you like, and the more you submit, the better your chances of winning. You can obtain information about the contest, as well as entry blanks, by asking the dealer from whom you buy your Kodak Film, or by writing to us. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York.

Dance Frocks for the Summer Season

Two Materials are Ever Popular—Tulle and Taffeta, and Colors Are All the Delicate Shades Of an Artist's Palette.

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Times have changed since a young lady went trustfully to the ball with only an escort and a program. One can't be sure of a good time today unless one arrives on the scene with a mob scene of escorts. A debutante of last winter confided to me that she never went out in the evening without having five or six young men who could be depended upon to cut in on her dances and thus present a front of indubitable popularity. "Yes," she added cynically, "this is the day of the ensemble escort, just as it is of the ensemble costume."

Such obligation to call out the whole escort force is but one symptom of a day of extravagance. In other decades it was possible for a debutante to get along with a few well chosen evening gowns. Now the gowns have to come in suites. For one thing, no active "prom trotter" can afford to let the other active "prom trotters" see her twice in the same model. For a second—well, there is no doubt but the old tranquil system of program dancing when one did a whole waltz with but one partner was literally a saving of the wardrobe. This day of shredded dances is also the day of shredded dance frocks. And my same debutante who told me of her multiple escort also confided that she had had a tulle frock simply finished by a lightning exchange of partners.

Granted then that we must prepare for the summer season by a variety, where shall we begin? At one of two materials, tulle or taffeta—but of course you have already guessed it. As for the former, it has, sartorially speaking, at least nine lives. Today after seasons of popularity it is still enshrined as firmly as ever in the heart of the debutante.

At the extreme right we are showing one of the tulle models which, designed by a Paris couturier, seems to have more than the usual voltage of that feminine current so impressive in today's evening modes. Yes, it is just as feminine as Empress Eugenie herself—this creation of rose colored tulle with its many handmade ruffles and its adorable little ruffled shoulder cape so transparent that the corsage is completely revealed.

This frock, which is made over self-colored taffeta, shows an affinity with the present mode too obvious to require much emphasis. The bouffante skirt dipping in the back, the accompanying slope of the fitted corsage, the presence of the shoulder cape—all these are thoroughly in tune with today's understanding of fashion. One may, however, select here a feature of more individual interest. It is the adjustment of the little cape into fichulike folds at the pointed neckline of the front. This fichu is a feminized version of the many rever arrangements which, used both at the back and front of the décolletage, are today operating so successfully.

We see this rever finish in the frock at the extreme left. This model is designed for the "sub deb" who is permitted to go to the college dance and who is admitted to all the privileges of the mature mode—save one. The neckline must be almost as high as the snow line.

To the young lady of tender age, tulle—together with combinations of tulle and taffeta—represents just as authentic a taste as to her sister who is "out." So do chiffon and taffeta. But there are two fabrics which, although worn by the older sister with perfect propriety, seem predestined for the late teens in their late hours. One of these is the printed crêpe that has this year scored such a smart triumph. The other is that classic expression of youthful charm, organdy.

It is of the latter material that the designer achieves this particular suggestion. Furthermore, the organdy—as are so many of our best organdies today—is printed. You see it here in pale yellow with green and brown design in charming relief. The sheer material is made over matching yellow taffeta extended into the vestee, the asymmetric rever and the profuse bow at the front. For the rest, the tiers dipping downward in the back are all picoted.

It seems a strange survival of the masculine mode which we are so fast living down—this rever finishing so many ultra feminine creations. Yet everywhere one sees the midnight ride of this rever. Yes, it overrides all sorts of feminine flounces and tiers and draperies and beyond doubt does bestow a sort of piquancy upon many a creation which might otherwise be too sugary feminine. Often the rever outlines the deep V neckline of the older woman's corsage in the back and here, as well as in the front, the rever is apt to have only a one sided nature. In models for the young girl the tailored rever front combines jauntily with all manner of skirt exuberances.

Those dance frocks of printed crêpe to which I have just referred are especially eloquent anent this type of tailored finish. For example, one Fifth avenue shop shows a delightful frock, equally applicable to the debutante and her younger sister, which is made of flat crêpe printed in a small unobstrusive design. This model exploits a bloused and natural waistline above a fitted hip section to which is attached the usual flounce The shortened front length is accented by streamers of monotone velvet and the neckline, high in the back, is finished at the very meager V of the front with two tiny revers.

The higher waistline is undoubtedly one of the most impressive features of the evening dance mode. No longer, in fact, is the waistline much of a tourist. It has decided to move back home. Even when the corsage is long, as we see it second from the right, the natural locality is indicated by a belt. Incidentally, our evenings are just full of these long corsaged models to which is attached a dipping flounce and a belt amid hips.

The frock selected here from this group of models is carried out in chiffon printed in those tones of primary interest in the evening calendar, green and yellow Its belt is of self-material stitched finely and held by a buckle of gold set with green stones. The final detail occurs in square shoulder drapery.

Our evening occasion of today has certainly called out the figures—though not in the sense of the good old barn dance of yore. Patterned fabrics of all types are much in the foreground and, although chiffon retains all its former ascendancy in this group, many rival claims are effectually pressed. Witness the figured tulles and nets, the elaborately patterned laces, the printed organdies and the sprigged taffetas—the last named never having been more popular. Also, printed satin.

With the model we have just described the sagacious young woman will wear a harmonising wrap. And of what? Well, monotone transparent velvet. During the past weeks coats of this material have gained a tremendous ascendancy over our evening imaginations. They are worn with harmonizing gowns of all ilks—both monotone and printed.

Yes, capes are also achieved in this charming material. But the honors are going to short coats which come usually to finger tip length and which range from the plainest little box affairs to the most fanciful treatments. Often these accompanying wraps are cuffed and treated to Tuxedo revers of the dress material. Sometimes, however, they defer to the mating gown only in their selection of color.

One of the most charming of such wraps which I have seen occurs in Nile green transparent velvet to top a frock of printed yellow and green chiffon. This model, instead of being tailored simplicity, indulges in the same flounce appetite as does the underlying skirt. That is to say, it is finished with two circular ruffles at the hem. Other details of feminine influence occur in a yoke back to the center of which is applied one of the omnipresent bows with long streamers which are doing so much toward enlivening our evening wrap mode.

Evening fashions of this season may be described as obeying an old home week impulse. If the waists are going back to the old place to live, the same observation may be made regarding skirts. Yes, they continue to go up in the front, but they don't go to the extreme lengths of other years. We no longer aspire to look like one of the guards outside of Edinborough castle. Either back or at the sides we are bound to observe the creed that to spare the yard spoils the evening. What is more, some of the newest gowns are quite, quite long all the way round.

Illustrative of this renaissance of the good old corn fed skirt of a lost age is one of Callot's new evening models. This model, made of pale green lace, shows frank sympathy with the princess silhouette. Its corsage is moulded to the figure and from that point the exceedingly long skirt stiffened below the knees to flare widely, drops into numerous points that almost touch the ground. And between those points the skirt is not short.

This stunning princess frock, which is finished with rounded décolletage, bears one more testimony to the importance of costume jewelry as an integral part of our evening toilettes. Much of its charm would be lost had the designer not offered as the one supreme trimming touch, a strand of pearls encircling the throat to fall to the knees. This strand interpolates large turquoises that blend with the green lace of the gown.

As the last word, forget not the peplum, so important in the creations of Lanvin, nor the bouffante hip draperies which Boulanger has construed into her new "pin wheel" silhouette. These tendencies are indicated in our final model—the white taffeta second from the left with its peplum keeping office hours only at the back.

Next, we indicate in white taffeta the continued vogue of the bouffant hip drapery and the long side lengths. A slanting peplum in the back and single red flower are the finishing details.

Third, a charming creation of chiffon in yellow and green shows a stitched belt of self material.

Last, a frock of rose colored tulle goes back to the Empress Eugenie for its ultra feminine message.

LEFT. An evening handkerchief of chartreuse chiffon trimmed with matching lace is followed by a cap made of silver cord studded with pearls. Below, strands of the fashionable tiny white beads with silver clasps lead to three evening bags—one with a design of colored beads on a foundation of seed pearls, next, a brocade exploiting yellow and rose, and last, a satin model corded in pastel tones.

Room Designed for a Boy

Your Young Penrod Will Delight in the Purely Masculine Treatment Given His Furniture and Decorations

By WillElla de Campi

ROOMS for boys are seldom given the consideration they deserve. Every boy should have a room he himself likes. If he has a personal preference for some particular color, have that in his room, used with other shades with which it combines properly. Sturdy furniture which will stand some knocking about should be attractively arranged for him, and fussy, fancy effects should be avoided. In conjunction with his room there should always be an adequate closet, fitted with plenty of hangers and shoe-racks.

Suitable for a boy, whether he be 10 or 20, is the bedroom illustrated today. One view shows one corner of the room with a deep set window. This has been fitted with a window seat, and book shelves are recessed at each side. Glass curtains hanging to the sill are of natural colored theatrical gauze. The over draperies of delightful glazed chintz have a background of henna red, decorated with medallions of sailing ships. These hang straight to the floor, and are topped by wooden cornices painted olive green, with a line of henna red in the depressions. Woodwork is painted to match, and the book shelves are lined with henna red.

On the window seat there is a comfortable boxed cushion covered with olive green stric rep, piped with henna. A [illegible] armchair placed near the window is upholstered in heavy linen Normandy plaid, in olive green and [illegible] color with cross lines of henna. Beside the chair is a maple table holding a small geographical globe and a lamp made from a pewter candle

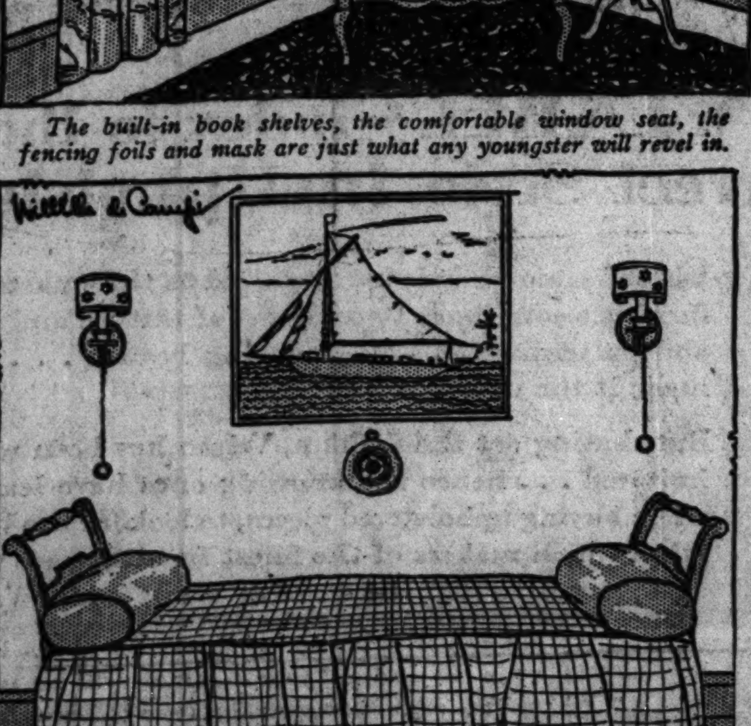
The built-in book shelves, the comfortable window seat, the fencing foils and mask are just what any youngster will revel in.



This bed of maple is simple and practical. The space over it is attractively and appropriately filled by the ship picture and the barometer.

Furnishings Colored by the Finger of Time

Antiques in Household Effects Offer Opportunity to Get Away from the Ordinary

By Edith Weigle.

TUCKED away in Chicago's Furniture Mart are many surprises. None is more unexpected than a shop full of rare and beautiful antiques from France, England, China, and Japan. Tables, chairs, mirrors, paintings, chests, china, and glassware fill the room with the atmosphere of a museum rather than that of a utilitarian wholesale showroom.

In the windows which look out on the lake are the wrought iron screens shown in the photograph. They make an unusual and artistic design in silhouette and solve the problem of something new, something different in window treatment. These decorative panels come in sets of four and are not especially expensive.

The bronze Buddha in the same picture is a rare old treasure from the Ming period (1368-1644), which brings the eternal serenity of the orient into a western setting.

If you think French and Chinese might not harmonize, try to tell the origin of some gorgeous blue glass finger bowls and a vase and large bowl. Some came from China, some from France, but the mysterious dark blue of each is identical.

Colored by Time.

The vase and two bowls are shown in another photograph. They are placed on a French provincial table of a lovely reddish brown wood, which is nothing more nor less than pear. Trust the thrifty and artistic French to utilize a humble fruit tree in this practical, charming manner. But only time can give the wood the richness of hue, the depth of color which is its greatest asset. It was made about 1800 and has been growing lovelier ever since.

The chairs that go with this table are small and have particularly graceful lines. They have genuine rush seats and are in an excellent state of preservation. So, also, is the sideboard with its gray black marble top that accompanies this group.

The ideal china to use on this table would be French Quimper ware, which is easily obtainable now and is as inexpensive as it is quaint.

Behind this group of furniture is an old French screen made of wall paper which is painted by hand. Watteau-like figures of a man and a maid are done in bright blue and repeated over the surface. Small flowers are bright rose and all are against a background of soft gray. This paper is now a rarity and therefore doubly precious.

A Collector's Paradise.

Two little armchairs of the Louis XVI. period would be fascinating in a boudoir. They are made of walnut and again have that rich patina imparted by time. The conscientious artisan who made them signed his name—"Jacob." It would be fun to choose the fabric for covering them, to hunt for just the right brocade, probably yellow or blue, with little French flowers and a narrow satin stripe.

In this collector's paradise are some interesting English antiques. Around a dropleaf table are four English provincial Chippendale chairs of mahogany with solid wood seats. Most of the Chippendale one sees has upholstered seats, so these are unique. The workmanship is quaint and rather rough. Given these chairs and table, all that is needed is tea, muffins, and jam to make the British atmosphere delightfully complete. The china already is there and is as old as the rest.

There are several examples of Italian Chippendale in this shop. These chairs accentuate the curves of the English, and are more ornate and florid, but charming, nonetheless. They have deep scarlet brocade seats.

Near them is an old English mirror, curious with its slanting mirror sides and its ornament on the top. One much like it was used over a dressing table in the play of Pepy's day called "And So to Bed."

For the Country Cottage.

For the country cottage there are four adorable little oak chairs, a little like the Puritan Windsors we see in the antique shops that dot the coast from Boston to Gloucester. But these hail from England, and if you'll look at them closely you will see they are lighter than their American cousins, more graceful, perhaps, and certainly smaller. They would make excellent card chairs. Even the cynic who hesitates and then examines an antique carefully before he trusts his weight to it will not object to spending an evening on one of these, for they are as sturdy as the oak of which they are made.

For the more pretentious town house or apartment the Directoire and Empire forms of French furniture, because of their beauty and rarity, will always be in demand. The period of the Louis', too, while more ornate and sophisticated, will continue to be popular among people who appreciate artistic and exquisite things. Nothing could be more suitable for a certain type of marble mantel than a pair of Girondoles. They are elaborate candelabra, with many pendants of crystal and amber glass and, while decorative and ornate, are not overdone.

They were seen on an old French white marble mantel, a perfect setting, and if a gold framed mirror were hung between them the picture would be complete.

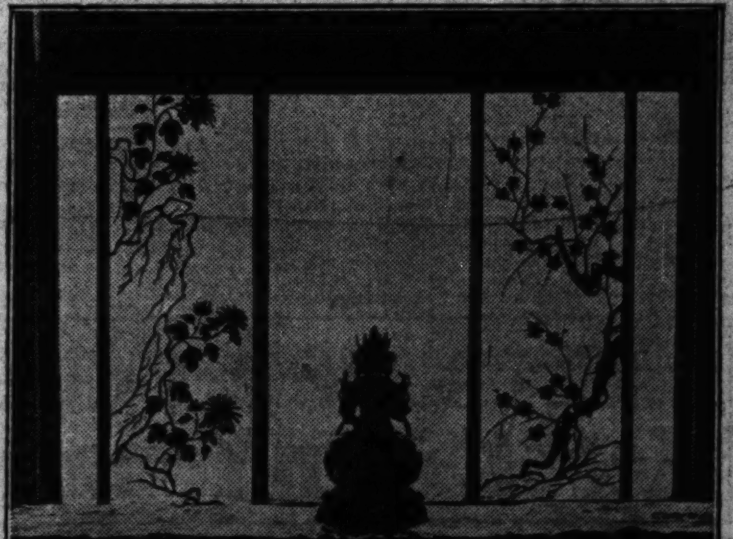
Periods May Be Blended.

As one expert has put it, "The smartest interiors show a blending of related styles, this treatment being much more effective and interesting than when all pieces from one period or matching suites are used." It is perfectly possible, for instance, to blend French provincial furniture, like the group in the picture, with early American, and to use pieces from the Empire and Directoire periods with modern groups. Any room has much more character and personality when all its furnishings are not of one piece, as to speak.

Therefore, the more one knows about the different periods and their characteristics, the better, for by knowledge and observation one will come to find the things that are best for his own particular needs—best for his purse, his use, etc.—and, more than that, he will be creating something that represents his taste. He will be getting away from the great hoi polloi of the ordinary. He will be achieving something different.

This group of French provincial furniture would be highly appropriate for a summer cottage. It is made of pear wood of a lovely reddish brown. The glass bowls and vase are of deep blue and are extremely handsome. In the background is a quaint screen made of old French wall paper of a type now a rarity.



These beautiful wrought iron screens are photographed in a windows as they are silhouetted against the light. They make unusual and exquisite window decorations. The bronze Buddha is really a museum piece. It dates back to the Ming period of Chinese history.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Night brings out the stars. We won't dispute this fair weather truth. Night also brings out darkness—the familiar "pitch black"—and this does concern us. Not as a natural phenomena, but as a fact of fashion. Paris, this spring, has done a thorough job of blackening the evening mode. Fair women whose whims make fashions are, one and all, enveloping themselves in the ebon tones of night. Translated, you understand, into cloth.

There is every kind of black material—chiffon, lace, moire, taffeta, satin, marquisette. In fact, the whole fabric family has gone into mourning for the sweet sake of Paris chic. Black is back—a conquering color, extinguishing all the lighter and more frivolous colors, as something supremely smart and utterly desirable.

Since mystery, as a feminine quality, is sought after and captured wherever possible, in the styles emanating from Paris, how natural that black should come back in force. No shade is so provoking of the atmosphere of mystery, and suggested feminine allure as black. Particularly black, in vaporous tissues such as lace, chiffon, net and marquisette, is potent to evoke an atmosphere of the inscrutable and fascinating. It is, then, in such materials that Paris has created a triumphantly dark evening mode for spring and summer.

Think of any elegant, famous, aristocratic or sirenlike woman you have heard of, and you may be sure that in her wardrobe this season there is at least one all black evening gown. And it does not languish in her clothes closet, either. It is frequently worn.

As for the great Paris dressmakers, they have black evening frocks by the hundreds, which represent their choicest creative talent expended lavishly for the women of the world. Patou is making tailored black evening gowns of old fashioned net, which are simple enough for a woman to wear when she goes out alone, and alluring in no small measure. Worth makes heaps of evening dresses in black veiling, with full, almost floor length, skirts and slender bodices. They are just too fascinating for words and do a lot to advance the vogue for black. Chanel has simple black evening frocks a-plenty, and Vionnet has some of the loveliest ones, worn over light foundations. In fact, everybody's doing them, and every smart woman's wearing them.

The way black is worn in Paris there's not a chance for the old, threadbare criticism, "O, but black is so old!" It just isn't. Of course, black is not adolescent, never was, and never will be. But everybody who is fashionable, and adult, these days has abandoned the idea of adolescence as the ideal appearance for women. Black, as seen here in Paris, is ageless and sirenlike. Now, what could be more desirable than that?

It has the advantage, too, of complementing perfectly a sun bronzed skin, a lily white and a rosy one. With cleverly applied makeup, black goes beautifully for the sallow skinned as well. And the black evening gown has a sure fire chic, not to forget its practicability, for it may be worn anywhere and everywhere—and it wears longer because it doesn't get tiresome. Nothing else, except pure white, can be so distinguished.

This makes out the complete case on the strength of which Paris has so thoroughly blackened the smart spring evening affairs, social and merely pleasurable. That this black vogue will travel around the world I've little doubt.

Turn your eyes on our drawing. It illustrates four frocks from Paris which demonstrate the black vogue for spring and summer. At the extreme left is a black evening frock from Germaine Lecomte, which achieves a tailored simplicity that is one of the important qualities of many smart black evening gowns.

This dress is made of black crêpe amaieris, a very thin, transparent silk crêpe, which is not unlike georgette, and which has enough body to be successful in a tailored dress. Its transparency gives to this model a charm, a hint of mystery. The straight bodice has a rounded décolletage, and is dipped at the waistline in back in a rounded curve. Its only trimming is two clusters of tucks. There is a narrow crêpe belt with a small rhinestone buckle. The skirt which, like the bodice, dips at the back, is made in three tiers, solidly tucked, and slightly flaring at the back.

At the opposite side of our sketch is another black evening gown from Germaine Lecomte, this one the girlish, fluttery kind of evening gown. Lecomte makes it of black taffeta, with a molded bodice and fitted skirt yoke which is pointed at the bottom. The skirt is flared by an arrangement of spiral circular ruffles, which are lined with red taffeta—you see, there's no law against adding a bright color to your black frock if you wish.

The little shoulder cape, which is detachable is also lined with red taffeta. Such a frock as this may be worn most informally, and when really hot weather comes it can be put on in the late afternoon. When the capelet is removed it becomes much more formal, for the deep, asymmetrical décolletage is revealed.

The black evening frock from Redfern, which is sketched on our second figure, I have selected because it is the finest example I have seen of the draped black chiffon evening dress that Paris is mad about. This dress is worn over a black satin slip, which mounts over the left shoulder and leaves the right shoulder bare. The chiffon is laid over the satin, and draped in diagonal folds around the waist. It extends above the slip at the top, making a transparent band, and below, making a transparent hem. A panel and loop of black chiffon are placed on the left hip, and a full length black chiffon jabot is placed at the right side front. Very smart with this frock are the multiple bracelets of black wood and ivory, which are shown in the sketch.

Our third figure shows a black moire evening frock from Bernard et Cie. This frock has a most bouffant skirt, most of the lower half of which is made of black tulle. Embroidered flowers made of rhinestones and emeralds are placed at the sides of the skirt where the moire and tulle are joined. An embroidered necklace in these two stones, on a black tulle foundation, serves as shoulder straps and motif on the front of the closely fitted bodice.

Accessories for the black evening frock may be in the most brilliant colors, or gold or silver, if you like.

Second, this is the smart draped black chiffon evening frock, so popular in Paris. From Redfern.

Third, Bernard et Cie brighten this black moire and tulle evening gown with embroideries in rhinestones and emeralds.

Accessories: Gold brocade and gold lace make the smart evening scarf, and gold brocade also forms the evening bag, which is tied around with a gold tasseled cord. Smart evening slippers are often half crepe, half gold cloth, as illustrated here. The smartest evening necklace is composed of large crystals strung on a small diamente.

Best Parties

A Valentine Frolic.

When it's time for Valentine parties I am reminded of the jolliest one I ever attended. The invitations were written on the backs of comic valentines and we were bidden to come costumed like the picture on the invitation. Each valentine was different, of course, and the guests were a wild looking crowd and there was much merriment occasioned by the costumes during the whole evening. Each one recited the verse that accompanied the picture she represented.

We played various games—shooting with a small bow and arrow at a heart target; the suit of hearts was taken from a card deck and each guest tried to throw as many of the thirteen cards as possible into a hat placed at a distance of about four feet; and one or two more quiet games.

But of course the unique invitations and costumes "made" the party.

"A Different Party."

When I was a junior in school, a girl friend gave a party which she called "a different party." We were told to wear things that were becoming to our opposite types. For instance, a blonde was to wear colors becoming to a brunette, a little girl must wear big clothes, and a big one as small clothes as she could. The serious kids were to laugh all the time and the jolly ones be serious.

We were surely a funny looking bunch—but we had one grand time. The hostess made us do everything we didn't want to. If we wanted to dance, we had to work puzzles or things like that.

For lunch she served bread and milk, spice cookies and coffee. L. W.

"The Nations."

The best party I ever attended was called "The Nations." Different homes were opened for our reception, one being named Italy, another Ireland, another Germany, and so on. Each guest dressed to represent any nation he wished, and there was much fun when any one was supposed to have returned to his own country. My opinion is the few nations would have recognized their representatives, as there seemed to be many funny burlesques.

One ticket entitled each traveler to visit all countries, where he was served with national dishes.

Fun? Good cheer? A plenty, I'd say.

A Rushing Stunt.

The most unique party I ever attended was one given at a girl's boarding school. It was a rushing stunt the old girls gave for the new. The upper classmen were all dressed in tuxedos as boys, and the rushees were in their customary evening dresses. The "boys" sent their "dates" corsages and called for them at their different boarding houses.

When we arrived at the main building a cabaret dance was in progress. The lights were low, and the couples danced to a well tuned orchestra. In between the regular numbers, solo dances were given.

After enjoying several dances, my partner and I drifted toward a table on which lay a printed menu. Some of the things listed were chicken à la king, lyonnais potatoes, and imported wines.

After we had given our order to an attractive little French maid, she returned with a tray on which were a chicken feather, raw potatoes, and a bottle of red ink. A prize was given to the couple considered the best dancers on the floor.

Later real refreshments were served and we were then escorted home.

Laugh a While Party.

Once I attended a "Laugh Awhile" party. The guests appeared in humorous costumes, paying as admittance fee one joke. Laughter provoking vaudeville was staged, each act having been assigned to groups before the evening of the party.

In another room an odd supper arrangement prevailed. The silver hung on an old fashioned hat tree and could be collected only at the cost of a "chuckle." Each kind of food had a like price—a grin, a giggle, a laugh, etc.

The deliberate effort of each person to produce these in turn brought spontaneous mirth from the rest, and for one evening, at least, the corners of many mouths had a decided upward tendency. There was no possibility of remembering dull care in that atmosphere.

A Hobo Hike.

One of the most novel parties I ever attended was a hobo party. Invitations came on brown wrapping paper. We all came in overalls, coveralls, or some old clothes, and were asked to wrap on the back door.

The hostess, in regular hobo costume, met us at the door, gave us all a knotty stick and red bandanna, and we were told to be on our way. She led the way, and we tramped about five blocks, following arrows, and halted at a large white cross at a doorstep of one home. We were told to ask for something to eat, so we went to the door, rang the doorbell, and the girl's aunt gave each of us a sandwich put up neatly in [illegible] paper.

We continued our tramp, following makers, and our next stop was at the back door of a girl friend's home where another parcel was given us, which we added to our knapsack bandanna, already tied on our sticks and placed over our shoulders. There were two more stops, and at the last one a relative asked us all in for a cup of coffee.

Our little group had tramped some distance and all were glad to come inside. We grouped in a circle on the floor, and opened our bandannas, well filled with eats, and enjoyed a good hobo meal after an interesting and enjoyable hike.

PARIS SNAPSHOTS

COLORED and white crystals of dewdrop dimensions in triple twisted strands like the necklace of the Hula dancer are the newest Paris jewels.

Paris is stepping around in the night clubs in toeless and heelless clogs of metal brocade or leather, held on, a la Greek, by straps. The wearers, however, do not have their feet on the ground because soles are supported in back by four-inch stilt-heels.

Envelope purses, belts, and boutonniere of panama straw bound around with bright colored leather are a new Paris ensemble theme.

Wide hats made of flowered crochet lace are the latest success of Agnes. The brims are turned up in front like a sou'wester.

Currant and grape are two fruit shades that Paris is forecasting for fall, and the green of the bottle in which their juice is often incarcerated is vying with these colors in fashion importance.

Taking a Snooze.

In one corner of our basement we have a small fruit room. It is rather dark in there and I always have a queer feeling every time I go in.

One night I dreamed I went into this room after some fruit and when I moved a box of fruit over there lay a snake all coiled up. When I awoke I told the family my dream and vowed I'd never go in there again.

My hubby laughed and said: "You are not liable to find one in there during the winter."

But, nevertheless, Sunday morning my husband decided he'd get rid of some of those surplus boxes in the basement and in so doing, right there under one of them, all coiled up for its winter sleep, was a bright colored snake.

Fatal Accident Foretold.

My brother lived in a distant state and none of the family had seen him for several years, and knew little of his life. One night I dreamed of seeing him on a wagon driving through a thickly wooded section in a very narrow road. A limb caught him, throwing him from the wagon, breaking his back. I saw him picked up by some one and laid in the bed of another wagon and carried for miles suffering intensely. When his home was reached, life was gone. The following morning I related the dream to my family and in just two weeks a wire brought the news of his death, and following that a letter from his pastor telling of the accident that caused his death. It occurred just as it had in my dream.

L. C.

Given a Tip.

A few weeks ago I had a promising offer of what seemed to me a better job. After a lot of correspondence I knew it was just what I wanted.

During the last sleep before I took the train for the place, some 150 miles away, I saw the words in bright letters, "Don't go, the job's no good." It was so vivid that I awakened.

On awaking in the morning after going to sleep again, "Don't go" ran through my mind. These words ran through my head for several hours before my train came.

But I went and found the job no good. It was far different from what the correspondence had led me to believe. So much so that I returned. I might have saved the money and time lost if I had paid attention to the hunch that was freely and truly given me as I slept.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

DO you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty.

To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a face lotion of unusual merit. One ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

Complete your toilet with Cuticura Talcum

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

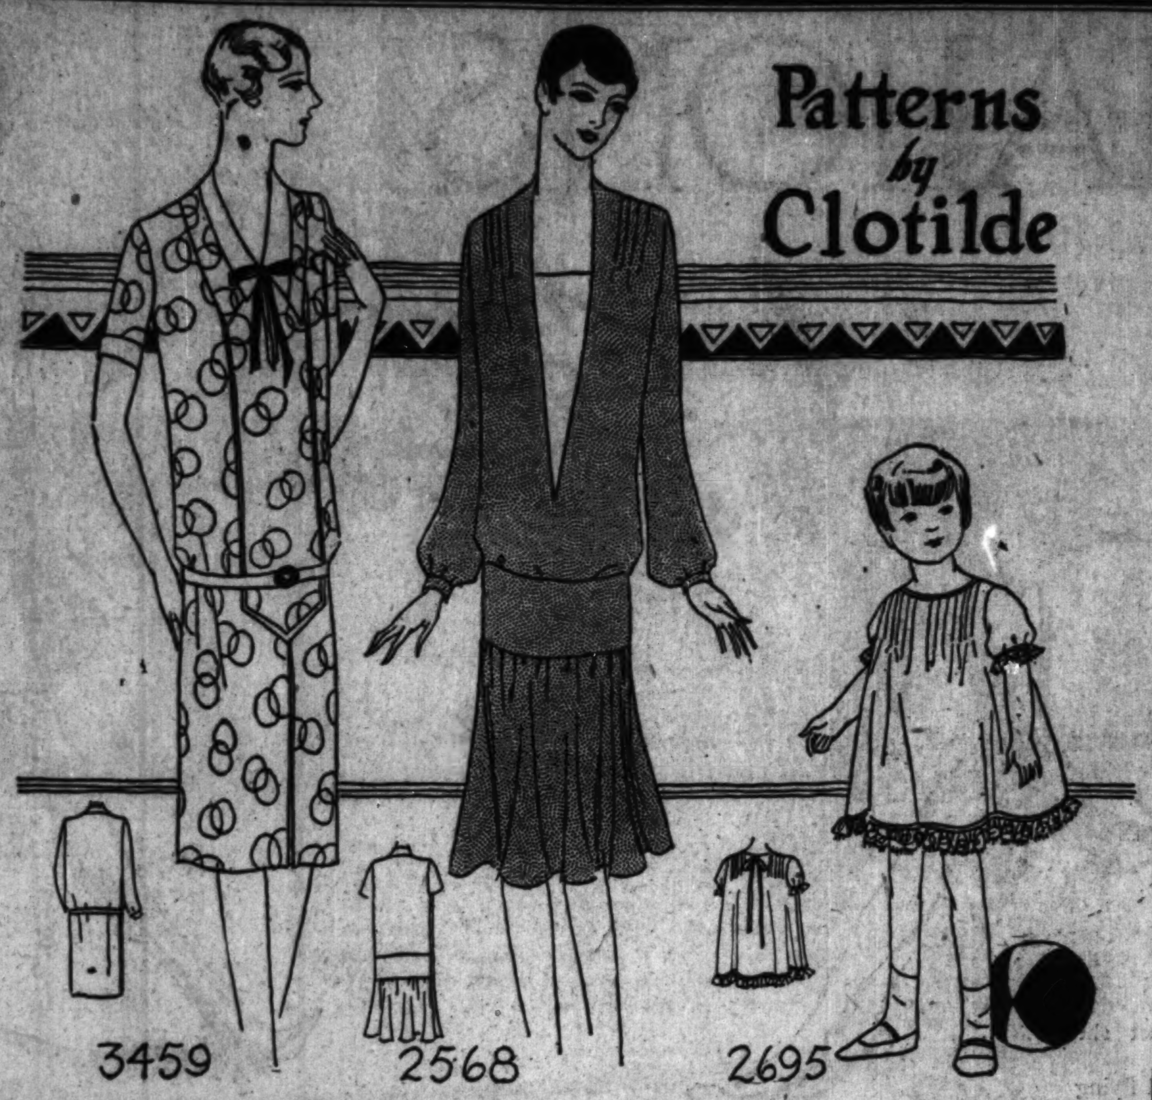
NOVELTY and interest are centered in this smart one piece dress, made by pattern No. 3459. It is exceedingly easy to cut and make, and can't help being satisfactory when finished. It is a suitable design for silk crêpe, rayon novelty crêpe, or for many of the lovely cotton and linen fabrics shown in such a bewildering array in all the stores.

The back of the dress is cut in one piece and is quite straight in line. The front is also cut in one piece, but there is a little more work to it. It is cut out in the center from the neck to a low waistline, ending in a pointed outline there. This is to allow for a chemisette to be set in. The skirt at the center front is laid in an inverted plait, which allows ample freedom of movement. This chemisette may be made of the dress material, or it may furnish good reason for using a contrasting color.

You may set the chemisette in place by turning the edge of the dress under on both sides of the front the width of the seam allowed and then, laying the chemisette edges under the turned in places, pin and baste in place. Then stitch twice, once close to the edge, while the second row of stitching can be one-quarter or three-eighths of an inch away.

The plait on the skirt must be laid, basted and pressed before setting the chemisette in place. A perforation on the chemisette shows how far down the dress is to be slashed at the neck. These edges are to be bound, and this opening will make it easy to get into and out of the dress. The next step will be to baste the shoulder and underarm seams together, and try on. After the seams are finished, the bottom of the dress may be hemmed; but, of course, before you cut the dress you will see if you need to add to or take from the length allowed on the pattern. If the pattern is the right length for you it allows for a three inch hem.

Patterns by Clotilde



3459 — Woman's and miss' dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards of 40 inch material with ½ yard of 36 inch contrasting and 1¾ yards of binding.

2568—Woman's and miss' dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 40 inch material with ¼ yard of 12 inch or wider contrasting.

2695—Child's dress. Sizes 1, 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1½ yards of 40 inch material with 3 yards of lace and 3 yards of binding.

The prettily shaped turn over collar finishes the neck smartly and may be made of the dress material or something contrasting. Long and short sleeves are provided for, the long ones being gathered at the wrists and set in to narrow, fitten bands, while the short ones are finished with turned back cuffs. A narrow belt completes the dress.

For small girls this one piece dress made of delicate pink handkerchief linen, trimmed with a narrow Valenciennes edging will be as pretty as can be. The pattern, No. 2695, is as easy as possible to use. There are tiny tucks taken across the back and front, forming a yoke and at the same time throwing the necessary fullness below. The short puffed sleeves are set into narrow bands and edged with the lace. The bottom of the dress is hemmed and the lace edging whipped on, and the neck is finished with a narrow binding.

The dress opens down the back, and this opening is finished with a straight strip of the material, cut long enough to go from one end of the opening to the other. This is stitched to the dress in a wrong side seam, then the opposite edge is turned in and hemmed by hand over the stitched seam.

Dotted Swiss, sprigged dimity, chambray, tissue gingham, batiste and cottom broadcloth are appropriate and serviceable materials. For something a little more dressy use crêpe de chine, organdy or chiffon.

Pattern No. 2568 is an entirely feminine model, having a practical appeal for everyday occasions, and the design is one that should be generally becoming. The long waisted bodice, set in to the snugly fitting hip band is cut in a deep V in the front. This V is prettily filled in with a vestee of a contrasting color. The neck edges may be faced or bound. Shoulder tucks are decorative, and, besides, throw a becoming fullness over the bust.

The one piece, long sleeves are a comfortable kind for warm weather as they do not fit the arms closely. The fullness at the wrists is gathered into narrow, fitted bands. If preferred, the sleeves may be made short, simply facing them at the edges and leaving them untrimmed.

The skirt is straight, is cut in two pieces, and gathered to the lower edge of the hip band. The width at the bottom for size 36 is about 2¼ yards. Canton faille crêpe, plain sheer crêpe, crêpe Elizabeth, dull flat silk crêpe, flowered chiffon, printed dimity and crêpe de chine are interesting fabrics from which to choose.

That Zero Hour After the Dinner

by Doris Blake

Reg. U S Pat. Off.

Why Not Enliven the Time with Games That Will Amuse Your Guests and Drive Away That Awkward Pall of Silence?

AFTER dinner what? It's nine, nine-thirty or ten, according to the hour for which the dinner invitation was extended. The apartment doesn't offer much floor space for dancing. A count of the bridge players leaves out a number who must be entertained somehow. If they're a congenial group the hostess may not have to bother about any other entertainment features than the exchange of chit-chat or the expression of more serious opinions if they are people interested in conversation for conversation's sake.

The last named group is limited, if we judge from the average hostess' experience. There usually descends a pall, extremely disconcerting to her, in which she is at a loss to start a conversational theme in which all may have a chance to show off—incidentally a necessary opportunity for the success of a party from the guest's point of view. If not conversation, then, why not have a fairly well arranged program of games so that the dread hour may be forestalled?

Maybe only one or two may be needed to get the assorted guests to feeling better acquainted, after which they may be permitted to find their own expression. Caution is needed on this subject against making a whole long evening a trying test of culture, intelligence or activity of one strenuous sort or another.

Anyway, the revival of games at parties is apparent in our best circles and whether they always make successful parties or not depends on the tact of the hostess, for one thing, and on the spirit of the gathering for another. For instance, in a certain group it would be less than tactless to spring an "insanity test," the "it" rating test or a "truth telling" game. For the general average it is just as well to keep away from the extremely personal element when arranging a feature program.

The Game of Adverbs.

"Adverbs" has the advantage of not searing any one's soul, nor does it overwork a brain that is out for an evening's fun. Some one in the party is chosen to appoint an adverb for his use, which means he need only choose one, keeping it quietly to himself. When he has picked a descriptive one, he announces he is ready, and before the guests he must do various things in the manner of the adverb.

He may choose "indignantly," say. The crowd orders him to do something that will be revealing and help them to guess the word. They might ask him to play the piano, or hit the table or some such order. He might be asked to treat one of the women guests in the manner of his adverb. Whoever pounces on the right word first, is the next adverb maker and actor.

Charades is as old fashioned as grandmama's morals and always ready for revival, it would seem. It is a game that demands one side shall guess the word acted by the other side. If it is a long word, each syllable is acted first by itself. Then the whole word. If it is a short word, it may be done in one act.

"The London Tower."

A game that is supposed to have a psycho-analytical tinge is known as "The London Tower." Someone is appointed IT. A question is addressed to IT. "Who would you rather be locked up in the Tower for a year with —" (naming two widely known and perhaps differing characters). IT decides on one. Then he must give a reason for his choice. Then his choice is coupled with another well known or notorious name and IT has to make a second decision for a year's incarceration in the Tower. After public characters have been exhausted, the names of persons personally known to IT are introduced, until all of his friends and acquaintances have been eliminated but one.

This game has the disadvantage of putting the player, IT, in an uncomfortable position and perhaps had better be confined to a chosen few. In a certain corner of the world, the game is played with some one naming the person he or she would knock off a cliff into the water until one last beloved relative survives. Not a a happy or a healthy amusement, you must admit.

The Adjective Letter requires a little beforehand preparation, but it turns out amusingly. The hostess, before the guests assemble, has written either a letter or a short story in which she discusses the party of the evening, using the names of all the guests. If she likes, she may also insert the names of persons not present, preferably national or freakish persons of local fame. The letter describes the time and the place of the party, the sort of party, the habits and clothes of the guests. Before each noun she leaves a blank space.

Proper Names.

The guests are asked to fill in the adjectives when the game starts, and she begins to read her letter or story. Unpleasant or uncomplimentary adjectives are supposed to be subscribed. Not knowing what it is all about, the guests will give such adjectives as odious, dirty, detestable, hideous, slatternly, mangy, clammy, and so on. The hostess fills in the blank space before each noun in turn as presented by the guests. Then she reads her letter and the guests may find a surprising account of their own habits or their clothes, or their friends, and so on.

Proper Names calls for active guesswork. One person is made IT. He goes out of the room while the other players select a Proper Name, the name of a person, place, etc. Let us say they choose Lindbergh. IT is told on his return only that the name he must guess begins with L. IT has to question the crowd. He might ask if it's the name of an artist. The one he asks must answer, No, it is not Leonardo. If IT asks the next if it is the name of a gallery, that player must answer specifically: "No, it is not the Louvre." IT goes the rounds, and if the players do not answer him with something beginning with an L, a forfeit must be paid, although this feature is usually left out, and the game is only to make IT work his mind until he arrives at the proper name.

Throwing cards into a hat keeps on amusing people because the game requires only a chair, a hat and a deck of cards. The chair on which the player sits is five feet away from the hat. You hold a deck of cards in the left hand, and with the elbow on the right knee you deal the cards one at a time from the left hand into the hat with the right hand. There is a betting angle to the game which may explain its popularity with men. A score is kept and determined by the number of cards that land inside the hat.

Some times the score is determined by counting the cards in the hat at their face values, an ace counting 13, a king 12, a queen 11, and so on. If you have enough cards and hats, several chairs may be placed in a row at equal distances from the hat with the game won by the man with the greatest number of cards in his hat.

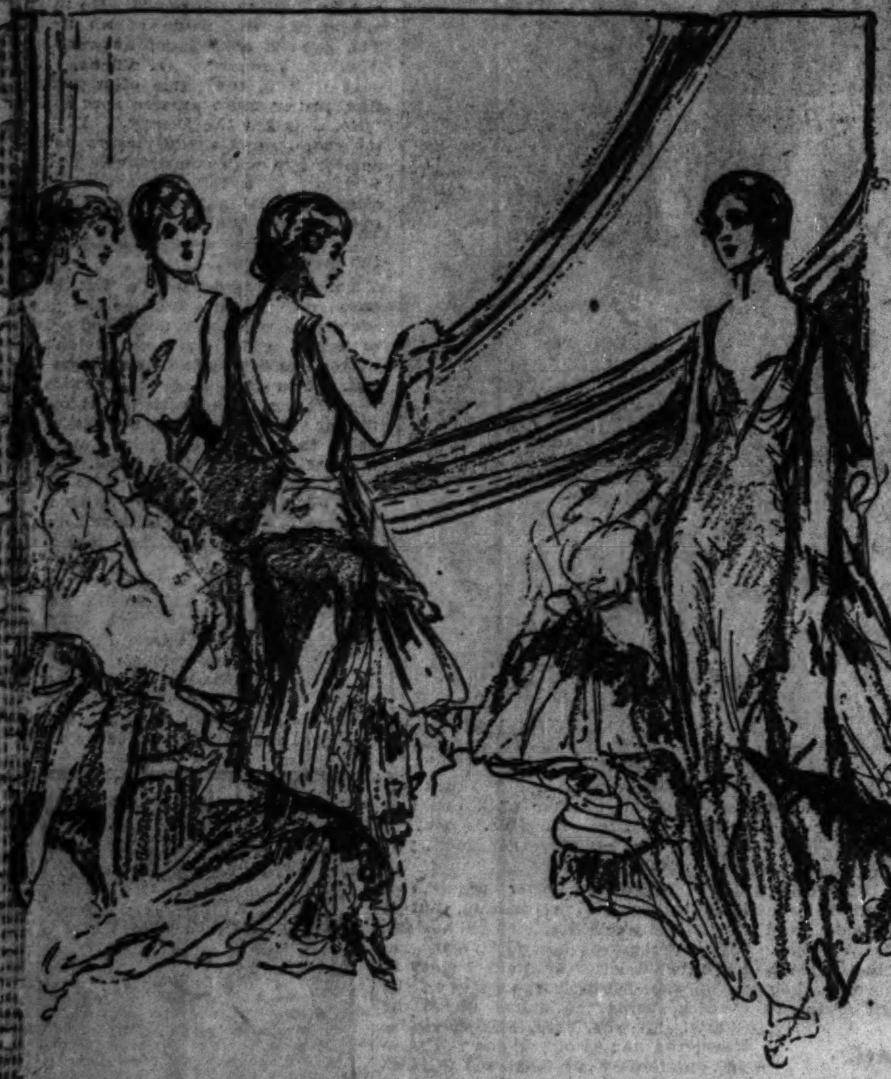
MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

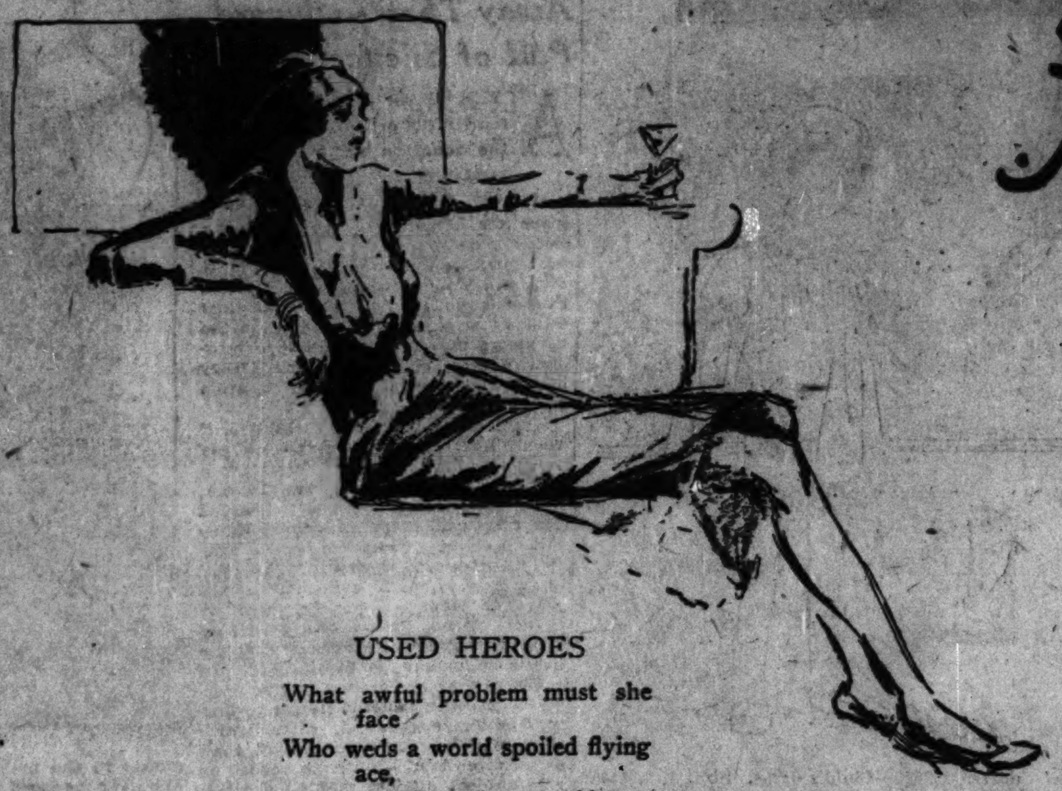
By Sara Moore



THE PENALTY OF LEADERSHIP.

Let's pity dears, the social queen
Whom high position frets;
She's all worn out indorsing things
Like bathtubs, mattresses, and springs
And rouge and cigarets . . .

(Won't some bright little advertising genius tell us what electric wringer she uses when she does the family washings?)



USED HEROES

What awful problem must she face
Who weds a world spoiled flying ace,
Since being hero 'round a 'drome
Scarce fits a chap to grace a home.
Will one who used to lead parades
For company squeeze lemonades?
Of medals, honors, will he boast
While carving up the Sunday roast?
Can he who knows why bi-planes hum
Tame any sweeper vacuum?
He might come handy, laundry day,
When balky wash machines won't sway,
But—will he pout and act obtuse
When asked to change a blown out fuse?

MAYME, HERSELF, IN PERSON!

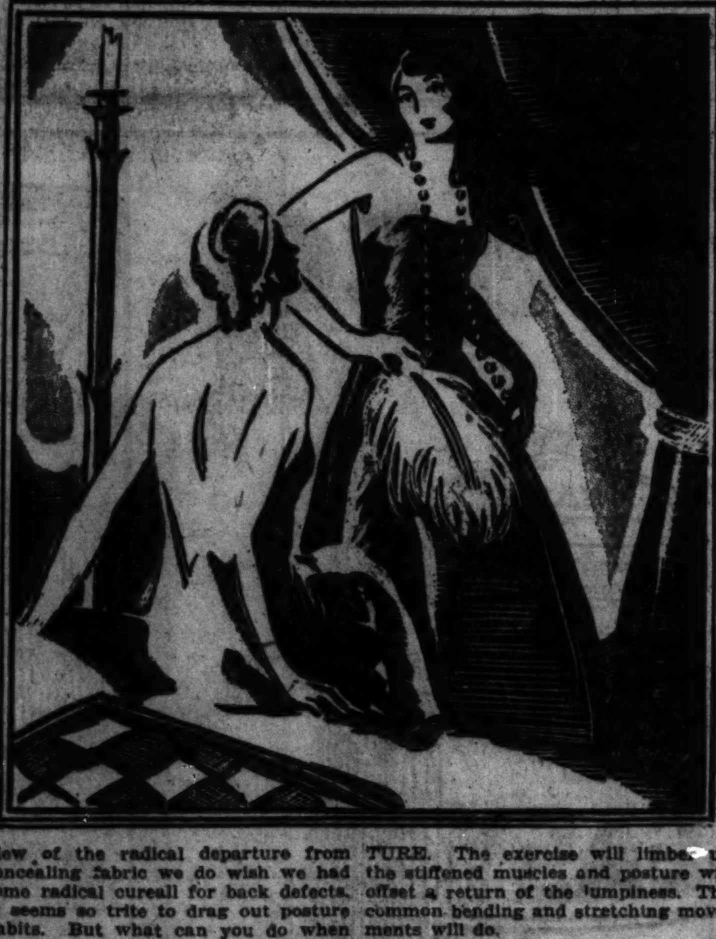
(Is there really a Miss Mayme Hickey? Up to now the answer has always been no. Miss Hickey was merely a mild manifestation of newspaper imagination whose planetary body was printer's ink and whose astral vehicle consisted of haphazard rhyme. But today, Mayme Hickey, herself in person, came true. To their mutual astonishment and incredulity Miss Hickey and her author encountered each other in the hat department of a Chicago shop. The following contribution to the Shorthand Diary is, therefore, unusually authentic and is quoted to prove how true to fiction a living fact may be.)

"I'm just like Mayme, when it comes to men! . . .
I buy, I sell, I study, plan, design . . .
I've never married for I love my job.
When very tired, at times, I think I'll settle down . . .
Just be a placid wife. I could, of course,
If I should spend as much of common sense,
Persistence, business training, tact and thought
In landing me a husband I should meet success . . .
If I went after marriage as I go about a job—
I'd probably acquire the best—
But somehow—I like millinery,
It's too hard
To concentrate on men.
Just when I think I'm sold
On marriage as a big career—
I fall
For some new boom in hats."

Keeping Up with the Mode

Now That the Smartest Gowns Expose the Back, It's Just as Well to Have One That's Worth Uncovering

by Antoinette Donnelly



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—It must make poor old Mister smile to look at the 1929 summer models and recall the bawlings-out he used to get for hooking Maw up wrong in the back.

The backs of the 1929 frocks, if you're to believe what you read in the papers, see in the fashion magazines, and observe in shop window, theater, and night club, have about as much use for Paw's services as a bobbed head has for hairpins. Hooks they have none. Eyes—they'll have them a-plenty ere the latest back mode is done, but they won't be metal, 'less Paw goes berserk and shoots a few steely ones himself.

The great modern difficulty of trying to keep women from breaking out somewhere becomes more and more complicated. But if Paw thinks he's got his troubles minding Maw and the girls, what does he think a poor beauty editor is up against? We no sooner get the legs shaped up for a swell ankle contest than down flop skirts, obliterating the good work. We just about get the figures whittled down to a smooth plane when along comes a cry for curves.

And now, when we thought we'd earned a day's peace, with only hair tonics and complexion purifiers and a few little things like that just to keep a hand in the game, word comes of a terrific outbreak in the female camp. Backs that never saw the light of day since they lay in bassinettes have broken loose from their cloth moorings and shrill cries of "Help! Help!" penetrate the air.

First Rumbles Last Winter.

The first rumbles of the backless dress era were heard down Palm Beach way some months back. Great ovals were cut out of sports dresses, presumably then to give wider area to sun tan cultivation. Great V's and squares were hollowed out of bathing suits. And evening frocks might have been described in Kiplingese as being 'less 'n 'arf of that behind. Whether the sun god worship, as symbolised by the current rage for tan skin oils, creams, and dusky powders, brought backs into the open, or whether the long protected vertebral surface found a healthy tan glow necessary, is one of those things that remain deep secrets between woman and her Maker. But we do know that backs are in for an inspection they never met before. Being so, your business and mine is to see that they are ready to meet the test.

Naturally we must begin with, "How is yours?" Is it straight, flexible, smooth-surfaced? Is it young or aged? Is it stiff, bent, swaying, or grossly overpadded about the shoulder blades?

One thing we'll guarantee is that the women who've held throughout the years to a good posture will be in fine fettle for the summer back review.

Exercises we may offer you for rounded shoulders, for overweighted blades, for underdeveloped curves. But we cannot offer you any more magic formula for remodeling an unlovely back than straight posture advice. In view of the radical departure from concealing fabric we do wish we had some radical cureall for back defects. It seems so trite to drag out posture habits. But what can you do when man has discovered no better remedy?

Loveliest Back in the World.

I remember some years ago one of my first interviews brought me to the hotel suite of one whose reputation included among other assets the most beautiful back in the world. Her back may have carried a whole cartload of freckles for aught I know. Backless dresses were not in vogue then. But there was no guesswork about the foundation for her startling claim. She sat gloriously, with erect and exquisite ease. She moved about the room with the incomparable grace of one whose spinal cord is keyed perfectly to its duties of supporting head, neck, and shoulders with consummate grace.

Only one other of the numbers I have interviewed duplicated that same beautifully upright, easy sitting and moving impression. Irene Castle she was then, whose back in one of the new models ought still to be a lovely one. For the back rewards of posture habits like hers could only be defeated by mountains of fat or emaciation, neither of which has been rumored as the former dancer's fate since she deserted the stage.

The loveliest backs are slightly flesh padded to conceal bone and sinew, with skin of marble smoothness and as free of blemish as the skin of a healthy baby. The flapping wings of the undernourished make the hardest back to remodel. It means a period of weight building must be accepted, to which the "very thins" subscribe unwillingly by the very nature of their usually restless, high strung systems.

But the fat back—fat all over or lumpy in spots—can be dieted and exercised down to the desirable layer of tissue with comparative ease. I have large doubts if you can take a heavy roll off the base of the neck or lower down by exercise alone. That fat is the fat of the food indulgent and calls for penance of its own kind.

Lift Up the Chest.

But there are backs that lump agedly from nothing more serious than wearing rounded shoulders at work, or at reading, or while walking. Give them exercise and BETTER POSTURE. The exercise will limber up the stiffened muscles and posture will offset a return of the lumpiness. The common bending and stretching movements will do.

It isn't necessary that you absorb any better posture rule than to lift the chest up. You do not want to hold the back stiff nor force the shoulders back. If you force the shoulders back the spine bends in. The high lift of the chest will automatically take care of spine and shoulders.

Beyond the defects brought on by bad posture, by excessive weight or leanness, a back preparing for the season's exposition must be scrutinized for skin defects. Curiously enough, the area at the base of the neck is almost as favored a camping spot for blackheads as the face. It isn't always that bathers do not stretch the bathbrush arm up far enough that the powder-shot looking skin appears here. It's just that it is a blackhead area. Being so, however, the arm with the bathbrush must reach up and hard scrubbing be administered in order to rout them.

Just as posture is a preventive and cure for the more serious back defects, the cold water shower relieves the skin defects just described. After the warm water bath and scrubbing the cold water and vigorous rubbing with a towel stimulates the circulation into forcing off these pore impurities.

It was after face veils were discarded that face cultivation began in deadly earnest, until today little short of perfection is asked of complexion and skin texture. With the unveiling of the back no less will be required of its complexion and form.

Jupiter Commends Study and Devotions for Today

By Jupiter.

FOR those who are guided by the stars today this will prove a period of constructive effort. It is a particularly auspicious time to attend religious services, to study or read that book you've planned to for so long, to go to lectures or call on men and women interested in intellectual matters. For the cocktail drinker and patron of bootleggers it is a black and forbidding day and evening as the sun forms an adverse aspect to Neptune, a configuration noted among astrologers as the one under which so many deaths from acohol occur.

If this is your birthday, Uranus, the star which destroys to build better, rules your next twelve months. Be careful of new ventures and do not be deluded by fairy tales or pleasant sounding promises. Stay at home and keep out of arguments with your superiors.

A child born today will be abrupt, aggressive, self-confident, boisterous, and egotistical. He will not be popular unless he learns that other people have a right on earth also. Until he learns that he does not know everything there is to know he will have many unpleasant experiences, but after he has been taught tolerance, generosity, sympathy, and tact great success will attend his efforts.

Monday, May 20.

Up until 2:30 p. m. this afternoon the vibrations are not helpful for any matters except those of routine nature. Save your important work until 3:30 p. m. when the aspects will be more favorable. Products of the earth and liquids will be particularly benefited at this time.

If this is your birthday you have a pleasant twelve months before you. Social affairs will hold your attention and bring you happiness. Many friends will confide their secrets to you and you will advise them wisely. A constructive, buoyant period is your year, marred slightly by the illness of those you love.

A child born today will be bold, fastidious, clever, talented, and exceedingly popular. He will be successful and will have more than the ordinary amount of happiness. But he will be inclined to be vain, selfish, and to marry for money.

Tuesday, May 21.

An adverse aspect between the moon and Saturn today will tend to a nervous condition which few people will understand. It is easier to be disappointed under this configuration and to find fault with your environment, position, friends, or work. The feeling will pass away when the moon has moved on.

If this is your birthday you will have to hold your tongue throughout the next twelve months and stay your pen as well, for the stars warn of danger through unguarded speech and writings. Law suits may result over agreements and even violence over an argument. If you have to spend a great deal of time by yourself this year, don't be depressed, use the hours to better yourself and you will be prepared for the good years which are to come.

A child born today will have a turbulent disposition. He will be quick to speak either kindly or harshly but unfortunately there will be more opportunities for him to do the latter. He will be fiery, radical in his views, and resentful of any attempt at discipline, yet today's child needs careful guidance if his brilliant mind and unusual gifts are to be developed in the right direction.

Wednesday, May 22.

No less than eight adverse aspects operate throughout today making this just one unimportant hour after another. As Uranus, Mars, and Neptune are all afflicted there may be an increase in accidents, violent quarrels and crimes. It is not a good period during which to make agreements, undertake new business, or make changes.

If this is your birthday you have a fairly good twelve months before you if you are careful about your money matters. There may be some attempt to get you into risky ventures or people who call themselves your friends will cause you grief by borrowing more than you can afford to loan. If you make it an unbreakable rule to keep your finances to yourself and not to loan, you will avoid considerable trouble.

A child born today will be ambitious, talented, visionary, industrious and inclined to be too trustful of his associates. They will take advantage of him until he learns to say no. He will also talk too freely about his dreams and personal affairs. He should be taught to keep his thoughts to himself and to save his money for his declining years.

Thursday, May 23.

Saturn slows affairs up for a brief time this morning, but by 1 o'clock this afternoon every one should have his routine matters cleared away and be ready to take advantage of the splendid configuration which holds sway during the afternoon. During this period you can push your plans with enthusiasm and energy. Not only are mechanical and industrial matters benefited, but everything electrical, automotive and metaphysical.

If this is your birthday you have twelve months of aid from the stars. Your business affairs should progress and you may make a contract or agreement which will turn out much better than you hope for. If you are an employer you may experience some difficulties with your staff, but your own personal affairs will not suffer, neither will your finances in general.

A child born today will be industrious, honest, intelligent, reliable and possessed of considerable initiative. Today's child will succeed in spite of all obstacles because of the splendid qualities which mark his character. A happy marriage is forecast.

Friday, May 24.

Many a typist will wonder today why she keeps hitting the wrong keys. It's the stars. Mars and Mercury both form adverse aspects with the moon, which tends to error and imperfect work. Employers may be more critical at this time also, which makes the little mistakes just that much harder to contend with. Don't try to keep pace with the vibrations. Slow down and take things easy. That is the way to overcome these aspects.

If this is your birthday, this year is just one of those quiet, inconsequential periods when nothing happens. One day will come and go just like the other, and if you don't suffer from boredom you won't suffer from anything else. An uneventful, peaceful and pleasant twelve months are before you.

A child born today will be witty, frank, fond of the opposite sex, clever, popular and ambitious. His jokes may prove to be boomerangs, and unless he controls his heart he may suffer from its fickleness, but in the main, his life will be happy and successful.

Saturday, May 25.

If some one in your family, or one of your friends, suddenly goes berserk this afternoon, don't be surprised. The vibrations tend to excessive mental activity, anxiety, annoyance, disagreement, and among those who lack self-control the prevailing aspects lead to brainstorms. Make up your mind in advance to forget any unkind words that are spoken during this period.

If this is your birthday you will receive great favors from elderly people, and should you possess real estate good fortune will come to you through it. In general you have a splendid twelve months before you, but your popularity with people of influence will create jealousy, and you may be annoyed by anonymous letters, but your success will not be affected.

Room Designed for a Youth

Crossed foils and a fencing mask form a suitable decoration for the wall. The wall treatment is particularly successful for use in a boy's room. It is finished in sand color in a washable paint.

The other picture shows a simple bed of maple. If two beds are needed, they could be placed out into the room in this same space instead of lengthwise. The bed cover is of Normandy plaid linen, matching that on the armchair, and finished with a narrow fringe in henna and green.

In every boy's room there should be a well equipped desk where he may study his lessons and keep his private papers. If two boys are occupying the same room, they should have separate desks just as surely as they should have separate beds. If space is limited, two slant top desks may be placed back to back at right angles to the wall. In this room, the desk stands between two windows and is lighted by an adjustable wrought iron reading lamp with a parchment shade. A Windsor chair is used in conjunction with the desk, and a framed map hangs in the space above.

Completing the furnishings are a radio and a Windsor arm chair and a maple bureau with a hanging mirror in matching wooden frame. The floor is almost completely covered by a large hooked rug in which all of the room's colors are happily blended.

Next week we will give a description and illustration of a room which would delight almost any girl, big or little.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

by Antoinette Donnelly

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat-chested or flat-footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

K. H.: TO GIVE YOUR LIPS A natural redness you want to improve the condition of your blood. Drink two quarts of milk a day, as nothing makes blood so rapidly as milk. Practice deep breathing exercises at an open window at certain hours each day and form the habit of breathing deeply when outdoors.

MISS V. N.: IT IS DOUBTFUL if cutting the hair on the lip close to the skin with manicure scissors will stimulate the growth. The hair may be bleached and made less noticeable by the use of peroxide of hydrogen, or for a stronger solution add a couple of drops of household ammonia to a tablespoonful of peroxide. My leaflet may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

EDNA: HAVING DRY HAIR YOU will need oil treatments after a permanent wave. The night before you wash your hair, warm olive oil and apply it to the scalp with small pieces of absorbent cotton. Part the hair so that every particle of the scalp may be treated with the oil. Allow this to remain on until the following morning, then shampoo. Send a stamped addressed envelope for my booklet on the hair.

BROWN EYES: HERE IS A LEG raising exercise which is excellent for developing the legs: Stand with the back up to a chair, hands clasping the chair, back bent slightly backward. Raise the right knee as high as possible. Repeat the movement five times with the right knee, then alternate with the left five times. Increase to twenty or thirty times.

READER: VASELINE APPLIED to the eyebrows every morning and night will promote their growth. After applying the vaseline, brush them with a tiny eyebrow brush to promote their gloss and train them into shape.

C. R.: WAIST BENDING AND twisting exercises will reduce the hips and waistline. I have them in illustrated form and ask that you send a stamped, addressed envelope for them.

I. W. K.: IT WILL TAKE ABOUT six months for the hair to return to its natural color. There is nothing you may apply to hasten the process. Wash the hair every ten days or two weeks, and brush it for five minutes every morning and night.

L. C.: A 25 PER CENT SOLUTION of aluminum chloride in distilled water is an excellent perspiration remedy. It should be applied every other night until three applications have been made—then once a week to prevent recurrence. Other suggestions may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

FLORENCE R.: YOU AREN'T TOO tall, but you do need to increase your weight. As you fill out you will not appear so tall. I have printed instructions for weight gaining and ask that you send a stamped addressed envelope for them.

HARRIET D.: THE DANDRUFF remedy is sixty grains of sulphur mixed with one ounce of vaseline, applied every other night to the scalp with massage. It is an inexpensive and effective remedy. Send stamped addressed envelope for my booklet on the hair.

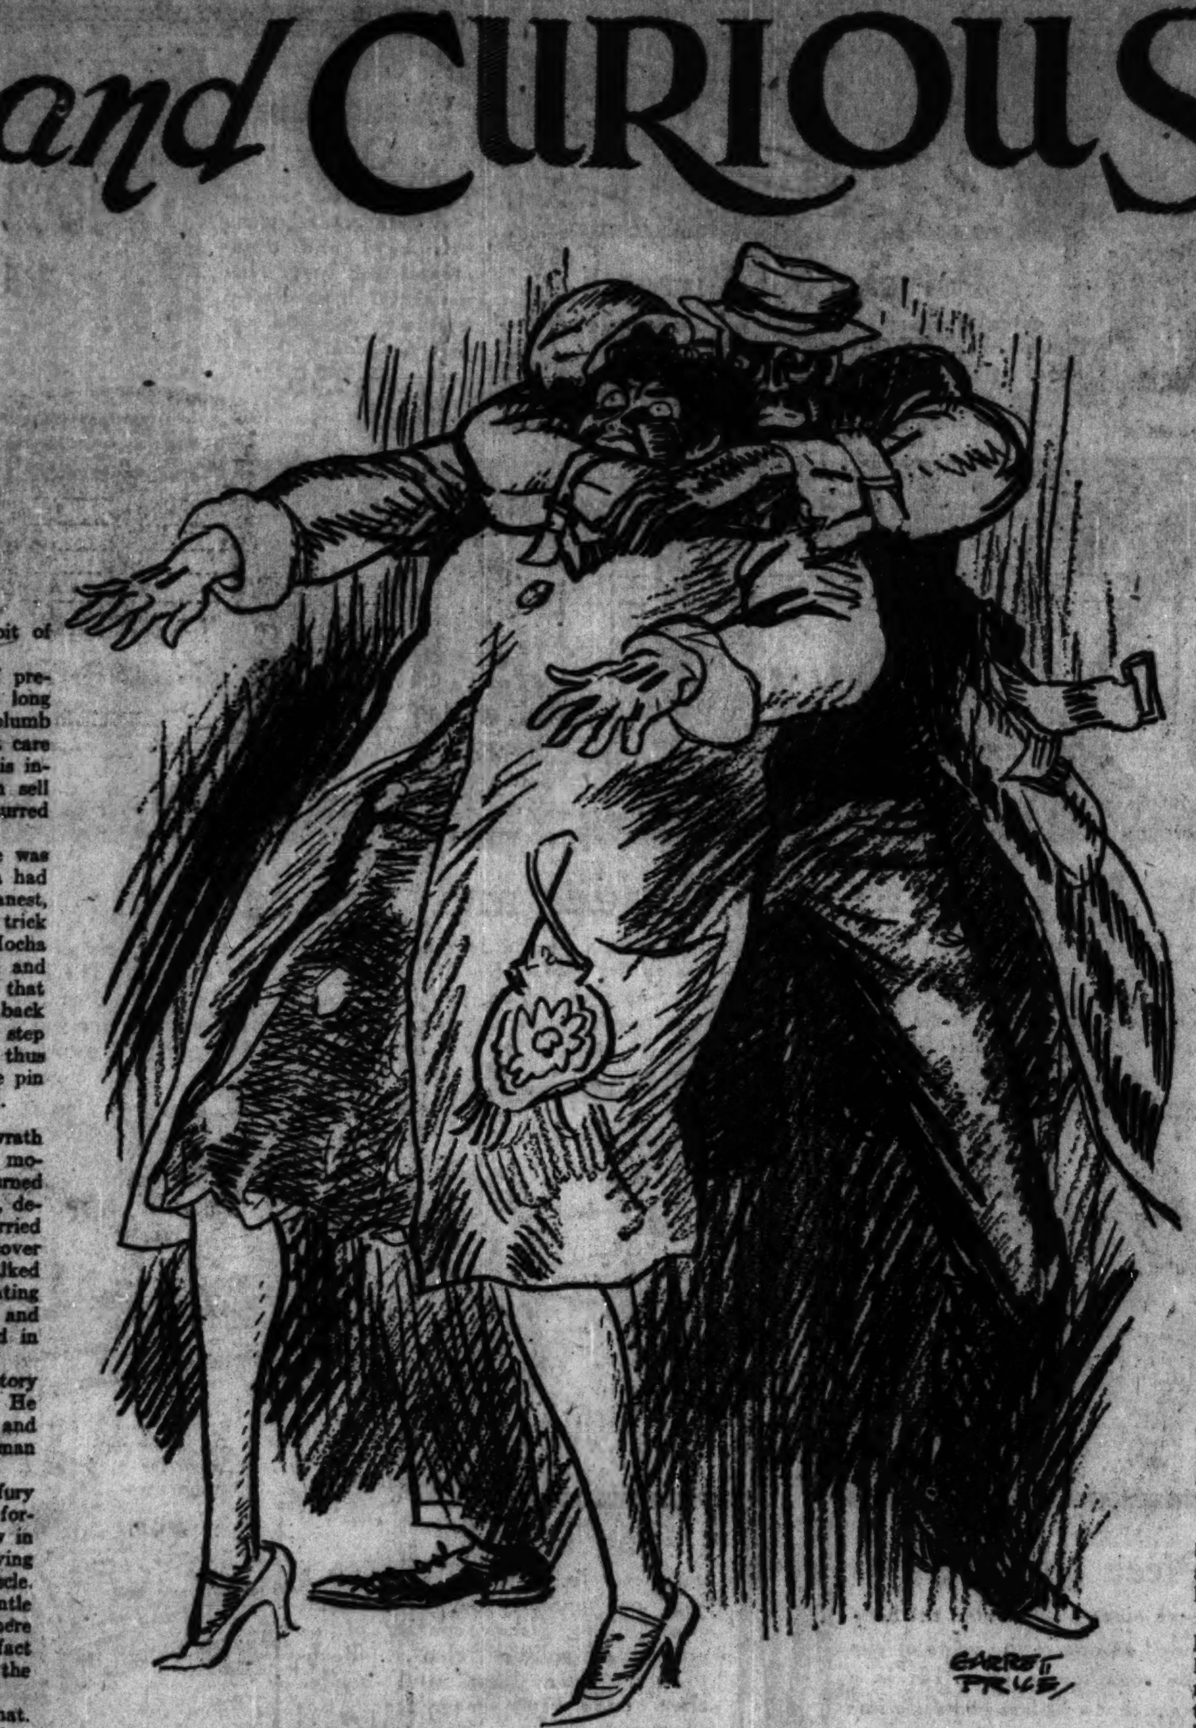
FAST and CURIOUS

by Octavus Roy Cohen

When Mocha Williams Found Himself Cheated of a Diamond Pin He Had Spent Months Paying for, Trouble Began in Darktown.



Mrs. Electra Williams discovered suddenly that something awful was happening to her.

WHEN Mocha Williams entered the jewelry store he possessed five dollars and a great deal of anticipation. He marched proudly to the installment department, slapped the five dollar bill on the desk, and addressed the clerk.

"Yonder's my las' installment, Cap'n," he announced proudly. "I crave to git my diamond pin."

"Your diamond pin?"

"Yassuh—the diamond pin I been payin' installments on fo' more than a year."

The white gentleman shook his head. "Don't be absurd," he advised.

"D-d-d-don't be which?"

"Absurd," repeated the clerk. "Your wife, Electra, came in here not two hours ago, paid the last five dollar installment, and got that pin."

Mocha's countenance became the hue of desolated ashes. He blinked rapidly several times and clutched the counter for support. The full consciousness of disaster did not immediately penetrate his somewhat slow-moving brain, and his question came to the ears of the installment clerk with a desperately pleading note.

"Wh-wh-who done which, when, mistuh?"

"Electra came in here about two hours ago, paid me the last five dollars, and took that pin."

"Sh-she couldn't!"

"She did!" The clerk sifted through some papers and produced the original contract. "Look it over for yourself, Mocha. When you and Electra came in here sixty weeks ago and contracted for that pin, you announced that you were buying it for her. You both agreed that either of you could pay the installments and that the pin was deliverable to either when the full amount of three hundred dollars should have been paid."

"But—but, Cap'n, don't you remember that I has paid fifty-nine of them installments out of my own pocket, an' Electra ain't paid but this last one?"

Electra

"Sorry! When you bought the pin you said it was for her——"

"It was then," murmured Mocha. "But us had just got married, an' I didn't know her so good as I do now."

The clerk shook his head. "I had no choice but to give her the pin when she paid that last five dollars."

"An'—an' you mean it's her pin now?"

"Yes."

Mocha swayed. One large hand caressed his perspiring forehead: "O! whoa is me! Who I done what to, that I should git treated like this?"

He staggered from the store into the bleakness of a January day. Misery had succeeded exaltation, and slowly there seeped into his veins a great and consuming anger against the large, dark lady who shared his name and owned the pin.

OF course Mocha knew that the jeweler was right. The contract was just as he claimed; and it was true, too, that on the memorable day when the first installment was paid Mocha had announced pridefully that this was intended as a wedding present for Electra. But things had changed since then. O, gosh! how they had changed! Electra the bride and Electra the veteran wife were woefully different persons.

Realization of her true character had not come suddenly to Mocha. For two or three months after the marriage ceremony he considered himself a happy man. Then faint doubt entered . . . doubt which was followed by certain knowledge that being the husband of so positive and Amazonian a person as Electra was about the most misfortunate job a man could tackle.

Until becoming acutely acquainted with Electra's stupendous capacity for spreading domestic misery, Mocha had regarded himself as a pretty bad hombre. His temper was short and violent; he shunned work in all its phases and had imagined that married life would be an existence of luxurious idleness. In that he figured without the militant Electra. Vicious tempered as Mocha was, his wife went him several better, with the result that their domicile had been the scene of continuous warfare, with Mocha always on the losing end.

Of marital affection not a trace was left on either side. Mocha doggedly had continued to pay his weekly installments on the three hundred dollar diamond pin because he understood that the contract they had signed with the jeweler provided that should the payments cease their equity in the pin would vanish.

And so for the past seven months he had visited that jewelry store once every week with his five dollar bill. The equity had grown steadily, until—up to a few minutes ago—Mocha had been delighted with the prospect of eventually acquiring so fine a bit of genuine jewelry.

Of course the original idea of presenting the pin to Electra had long since been abandoned. He was plumb annoyed with his wife and didn't care how soon she knew it. It was his intention to get the pin and then sell it to good advantage. It never occurred to him that he might be tricked.

His rage mounted rapidly. He was obsessed by the idea that Electra had negotiated the dawg-gondest, meanest, lowest-down, orneriest, terriblest trick that had ever been pulled. He—Mocha Williams—had paid two hundred and ninety-five hard earned dollars on that diamond pin. Electra had sat back and watched him do it, only to step in with the last five dollars and thus acquire not only possession of the pin but the right of possession as well.

SO great was Mocha's righteous wrath that fear of his wife was momentarily dissipated. He turned furious footsteps toward his home, determined that for once in their married life the large Electra was to discover who was who and why. He walked down the street with long, space-eating strides; he was muttering things, and his large, bony fists were clenched in preparation for war.

He swung in at a modest one story cottage on Twenty-third street. He stamped across the little veranda and shoved the door open. A human menace greeted him.

Somehow one's most stalwart fury could not prevail against Electra's forbidding might. She faced him now in their combination dining and living room, a mountain of female muscle. Her face held all of the soft and gentle allure of a large Swiss Alp. And there was a promise of action in the fact that she was hatted and coated for the street.

Mocha's eyes took in more than that. He saw that she was flanked on either side by a suitcase. But before he could put anything into words, she struck the initial blow.

"Good-by, Useless!" she said sharply.

"S-s-says which?"

"I says good-by."

"How come?"

"I is goin' away."

"Wh-where to?"

"Nowhere. I'se gwine to stay right heah in Bumminham—but not with you. Fum now hencefor'rd I'se gwine be Missis Mocha Williams on'y so long as it requires Lawyer Evans Chew to git me a divorce."

MOCHA'S eyes were focused on the gorgeous diamond which twinkled at him from her ample bosom. The pin in which it was set wasn't so hot—the jeweler had valued the setting at about twenty-five dollars. The single diamond represented the balance of the three hundred. Mocha's pin! The pin for which he had put aside almost half of his weekly wage since the day of his wedding, denying himself the fleshpots of Bud Peaglar's barbecue lunchroom and billiard parlor and the luxury of movies.

"Gimme that pin," he demanded desperately.

"Foolishment you utters!"

"It's mine."

"The jooler says it ain't. He says it's mine."

"I paid all them installments, didn't I?"

"All 'cept the last," she confessed. "That was the on'y one which was impawtant."

He contemplated assault, but discarded that idea before it took shape. Bitter experience had taught him that assaulting Electra wasn't the healthiest thing in the world. He stared in dumb, futile misery as she picked up her gripe and started for the door. There she turned and bent upon him her most exasperating smile.

"As a husband, Mocha, you has been a total loss. But as an installment payer you is the champeen of the world. Good-by!"

She was gone, leaving Mocha wallowing in an abyss of woe. The world was a dismal place—inside and out. Rain bit against the walls of the flimsy cottage, now rid of its homelike bitterness. The winter wind howled down the street and screamed through the barren branches of trees. All nature seemed in tune with Mocha's unhappiness.

He carried that unhappiness down to Bud's, where a game of pool with Florian Slappey did not serve to alleviate his sufferings. Mr. Slappey was inclined to be a wizard with a cue, and he had an exasperating habit of neglecting to perform his wizardry until his opponent had been enticed into a bet.

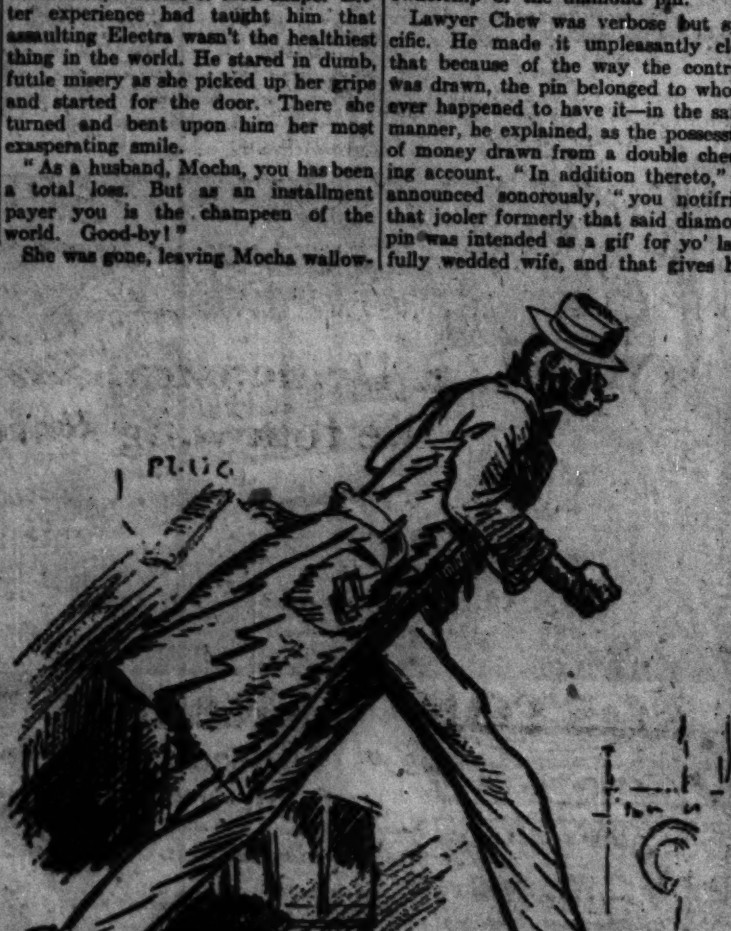
A crowd witnessed the game, and among all the spectators there was no one who had any sympathy for Mocha. Next to his wife, Mocha was the most unpopular colored person in all Birmingham. Men and women despised his narrow vision and vicious temper. They considered it only just that he should have married a physically powerful shrew like Electra. "Dawg eat dawg!" remarked Sis Callie Flukers when the marriage ceremony occurred, and Darktown shared her opinion.

THE following day Mocha received formal notice from Lawyer Evans Chew that divorce proceedings had been instituted against him by the departed Electra. He visited the erudite attorney in the Penny Prudential Bank building and confided to him that the sooner Electra got divorced away from him the happier he'd be. Then, as man to man, he inquired about the legal ownership of the diamond pin.

Lawyer Chew was verbose but specific. He made it unpleasantly clear that because of the way the contract was drawn, the pin belonged to whomever happened to have it—in the same manner, he explained, as the possession of money drawn from a double checking account. "In addition thereto," he announced sonorously, "you notifried that jooler formerly that said diamond pin was intended as a gif' for yo' lawfully wedded wife, and that gives her the right of possession as well as the actual possession, duces tecum. In summary, Mistuh Williams, I would promulgate the decision an' rulement that the pin is yo' wife's, an' that she has same, an' preposes to keep it, ab initio and ad infinitum."

"Do you mean," inquired Mocha miserably, "that I cain't git it away fum her after I paid fo' it myse'f?"

"Not a chance. Of co'se, you has maybe got a moral right to it, but legally you ain't even got one leg to stand on."



Mocha

DIVORCE proceedings were speeded up, and eventually there came a clear, frosty day in February when Mocha Williams found himself once again a single man—hopelessly broke and colossally unhappy.

Memory of that diamond pin rankled in his manly bosom. Most of the thoughts which had to do with his matrimonial adventure were of a grayish hue, but this climax was the worst of all. Toward his ex-wife he felt nothing but a desire to commit mayhem, and he knew that she reciprocated his sentiment.

He was convinced that legally he was beyond the pale. Morally, however, was another angle. He saw the thing clearly now—only reason Electra hadn't left him before was because she knew perfectly well he'd continue to pay installments on that pin—and then she'd go in and get it for five dollars. It was not difficult for Mocha to follow her mental processes. Goodness knows he had tricked others just as diabolically in the past. Even Semore Mashby, the attenuated money lender, bore a reputation for honesty and fair dealing in comparison with Mocha. Colored sassiety had always known that Mocha was just naturally no good, never would be, and didn't want to be.

But it was his very badness which caused the pin to rankle more deeply with the passing of each cold day. It was the first time he had had anything put across on him. And finally he decided—with many graphic profanities—that it just nachelly wasn't to be stood! Nossuh!

Mr. Williams was an unscrupulous and desperate man, and he schemed an unscrupulous and desperate scheme. He laid his plans and watched his opportunity. It came in less than a week.

He swung into action one freezing February night when the streets were sheeted with ice and pedestrians bowed their heads against the whining gale. He had seen Electra enter the Frolic theater shortly before dark, and he shivered on the curb across the street until she left. He knew where she was staying—over on Avenue B—and he knew that, barring a chance lift, she'd walk home.

Thereupon he secreted himself in a dark alley. The nearest street light glowed dully in the sleetstorm. Traffic crept slowly southward. Electra moved with difficulty in the general direction of her home.

She came abreast the spot where her ex-husband was hidden. He wore a felt hat, which was pulled well down over his eyes; the collar of a huge overcoat was pulled up almost to his mouth. He knew where the daimond brooch was—he had seen it flash as Electra stood in the lighted lobby of the Frolic buttoning her coat.

Mrs. Electra Williams discovered suddenly that something awful was happening to her. A figure bore down on her, and two powerful hands ripped the buttons from her coat. She stood in paralyzed terror as one of those hands closed around the diamond pin and wrenched it loose with a ripping sound. And by the time she emitted the first of a series of shrieks the robber was vanishing down the Stygian alley.

She did not recognize Mocha. Even if there had been the slightest suspicion, she wouldn't have credited him with the requisite courage. And so she stood still and sent her pleas for help shrilling out on the night air.

A crowd gathered like magic. A policeman arrived. The leaping figure of Mocha could still be discerned flying down the alley. A howling pursuit started, and it was given impetus when Mocha's eagerness caused him to slip on the glassy surface of the alley and go sprawling.

THE thoughts of the pursued were not particularly optimistic. That a chase would form thus quickly had never entered into his calculations. The fall stunned him and helped to break his spirit—and he gave swift, clear thought to the situation in which he was likely to find himself.

He knew it wouldn't matter much to a court that he had paid two hundred and ninety-five of the three hundred dollars with which the pin had been purchased. The stark fact was that he was guilty of robbery, and he realized that there would be little hope of mercy from Electra. Any one else, perhaps, but never from the former Mrs. Williams.

He knew that his speed had slackened. He was gripped by the horrid fear that he was about to be caught. Suppose, then, that they did catch him? Even though he hadn't been recognized, they'd find the pin. Then five years, maybe ten, in Kilby prison. Not so good!

Discretion conquered avarice. He rounded the corner and flung the diamond pin into the gutter. He turned another corner just as the pursuers swung out of the alley.

There were many persons on the street into which Mocha had turned. Struggling to control his expression of terror, he settled into a walk. The chase promptly caught up with him, but no one eyed him askance. He heaved a sigh of vast relief. He had lost the pin, but at least he could continue to enjoy the effete delights of Alabama's largest city.

And then a new idea came to him. Perhaps—there was just the faintest chance—he might be able to find that pin. He had a fairly accurate idea of where he had thrown it. Of course it wouldn't do to return immediately to the spot . . . but in fifteen or twenty minutes.

It was an excellent idea. But Mocha neglected to take into consideration a black, wispy, apologetic colored person of the male persuasion. He gave no thought to Frantic Marshall, because at the time he hardly knew that such a person existed.

Frantic Marshall's character approached the human negative. He was just a wee bit more than five feet in height, amazingly skinny, and he walked with an outward shuffle as though wondering whether he actually had a right to the sidewalks of Birmingham.

The few who knew Frantic intimately liked him. He had a heart ten times as big as his shriveled body. He possessed the soul of a cavalier, and despite his wizened frame and appearance of great age, there was youth yet flowing through his veins.

DURING all of Frantic's lean and uneventful twenty-six years there had been little of joy in his life save the thought of romance. That any amorous adventure upon which he embarked could be successful never occurred to the apologetic little man. He had, for instance, courted Canary Gaunt for no less than four years, and, so far as he knew, Canary wasn't aware of much more than the mere fact of his existence.

Frantic's friends might have warned him against Canary had they considered that his suit had a chance for success. As it was, they preferred to let him keep his gossamer dreams. Nobody liked to hurt Frantic. He was so eagerly friendly, so woebegone, so pathetically grateful for every kind word. He was a ready listener and a sage adviser in times of stress; he went his lonesome way timidly, wondering why the world at large was so harsh, and shrinking from unpleasant contact. It was ironical that he should have directed his affections toward Canary Gaunt—not that there was anything wrong about Canary, except that she most certainly wasn't the sort of woman who could make Frantic happy.

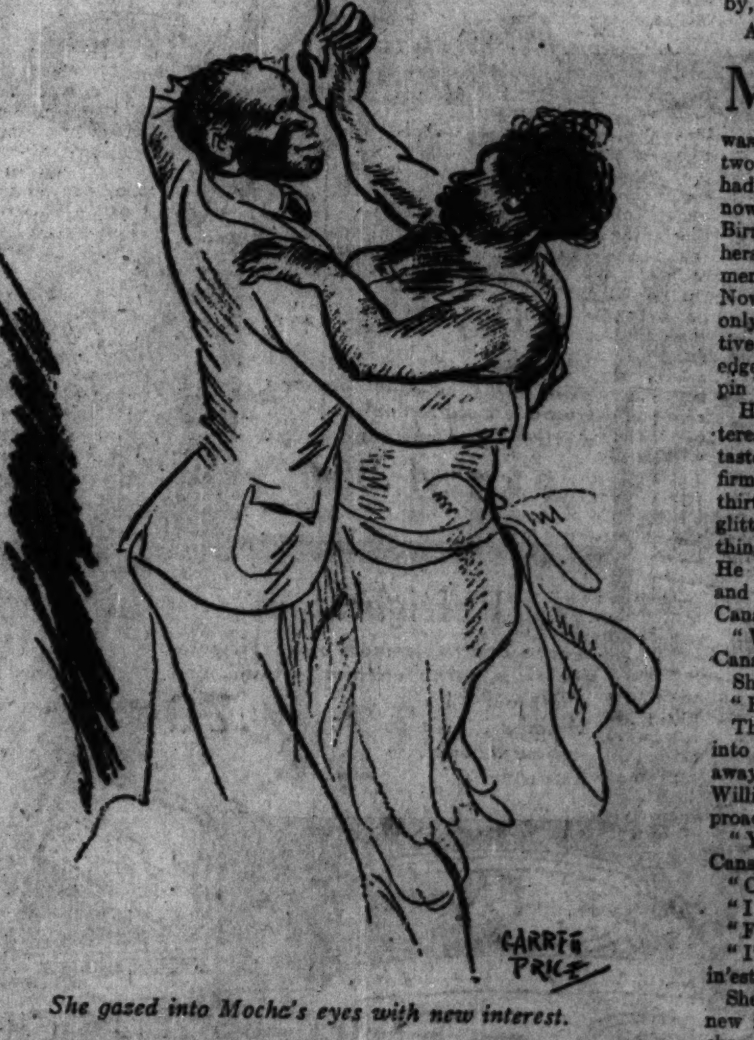
Canary was all right—in her way. Some day, folks thought, she'd marry a big, muscular man who'd see that she kept a good job. But Frantic . . .

Well, after all, Canary didn't even know he was courting her. In all his life Mr. Marshall had never earned more than ten dollars a week. And on ten a week one cannot court a woman like Canary with any degree of success. Frantic did not press his suit—he feared a rebuff. He feared almost everything.

Tonight he trudged toward his tiny room on the top floor of Sally Crouch's Cozy Home Hotel for Colored. He shrank from the gale which wailed in from the north pole. He shuffled slowly down Seventeenth street, watching his step, eyes focused on the shiny pavement.

He stood at the curb, patiently waiting his chance to cross through the skidding traffic. And it happened that something caught the gleam of a headlight and reflected that gleam into Frantic's eyes.

He frowned. He stooped. His fingers quested in the gutter, and when the emaciated frame was straightened Mr. Frantic Marshall was in possession of the three hundred dollar diamond pin which recently had been the property of the large and powerful Mocha Williams.



She gazed into Mocha's eyes with new interest.

INSTINCT helped Frantic. It impelled him to depart from the spot he occupied. He made his way to the hotel room with more haste than he had exhibited in years. And then, in the warmth and sanctuary of his room, he gazed upon his treasure.

Frantic Marshall was no fool. He was certain that his trophy was genuine. His watery eyes blinked, his breath came fast . . . and he envisioned the reward which would be offered by the person who had lost this jewel.

That night he was emboldened to call upon Miss Canary Gaunt. Canary was glad enough to see him, the miserable weather having blasted her plans for the evening. She found herself in the company of a new man. Not that Frantic was any larger physically, but he seemed to have expanded mentally. As the evening progressed he even presumed to have an idea.

"You know what, Canary?"

"What?"

"A swell lookin' gal like you ought to wear diamonds."

"Fumadiddles! Where at would I git diamonds fum?"

"O . . . maybe if some feller was crazy 'bout you, an' you was willin' to commit matrimony with him . . . maybe he'd give you anyhow one diamond. A big one."

"Reckon he'd buy it fum the ten cent store, too."

"No. I meal a real ginuwine one. Do you like diamonds, Canary?"

"They is the craziest things I is about."

"Hmm! An' would you like a feller which gave you a real one?"

"Boy! that's the one thing I wouldn't do nothin' else but."

"W-w-w-would you be willin' to marry him?"

FRANTIC rushed in. "S'posin' it was me, Sugarplum? S'posin' I gave you a real swell diamond—would you be willin' to become engaged to me?"

"O! Frantic!"

"Tell me, would you would or would you wouldn't?"

"I—I is awful fond of diamonds, Mistuh Marshall."

"An' of me, too?"

Canary eyed him speculatively. She had never before regarded Frantic as the possible giver of diamonds—or of anything else worth having. But she knew that he was not talking idly. Naturally, she'd have to own the diamond before committing herself to such a negative person as Frantic, but then: "I like you awful good, Mistuh Marshall."

"An'—an' you reckon, if I was to git that diamond fo' you, you might think about performin' matrimony with me?"

She blushed and giggled. "I—I reckon might, Frantic."

"Hallelujah!" He started forward impetuously, but she waved him away. "Not yet, Frantic. Wait 'til we has seen that diamond."

That was as far as Mr. Marshall could get. Yet when he stepped into the bitter night again there were wings upon his feet and a song on his lips. He was experiencing a beatitude of such exquisiteness that it was positive agony. He had loved Canary Gaunt for four long years . . . and never until the happy accident of this night had he ever considered that there might be the faintest chance for him to win her.

He was not a discriminating person. He didn't bother to analyze . . . it never occurred that she was probably a mercenary person who was willing to take him because she wanted a diamond. All he could see was that the gates of paradise were opening. He trod the clouds and tasted bliss.

Morning brought no diminution of his rapture. He was semi-engaged to Canary. He bought a newspaper and read every word of every classified advertisement from help wanted to second hand automobiles for sale. He hated his own honesty. If some one advertised for that pin, he'd have to return it. But if no one did . . .

For three days Frantic existed on hope and misery. He touched heights of delight and depths of despair. Canary Gaunt kept him dangling. Diamond first, she insisted; else how could she believe that he really loved her! And Frantic's honesty compelled him to watch the three daily papers while he hoped and prayed that no advertisement would be inserted.

Frantic

FATE smiled upon him . . . or at least so he thought. No one announced through the newspapers that a diamond pin had been lost. Had Frantic known more than he did it might have occurred than stolen property is not usually advertised for. But he had no idea except that this pin had been lost, and now—when no one claimed it—he felt that he had done even more than the average honest man was called upon to do. He gazed upon the pin and called it his. And that night he made his magniloquent presentation to the fair Canary.

She accepted the pin and the little man with complete enthusiasm. Until the moment of presentation she had doubted Frantic's ability to make good his promise. Now she questioned him, and he—with pardonable exaggeration—explained how long he had slaved to accumulate the money with which the pin had been bought. She looked upon him with new eyes. His meager head contained ideas which she had never suspected, and she saw herself accumulating jewelry as his wife.

And so she wore the pin with great gusto. She wore it for three days, and it adorned her gown the night Frantic Marshall escorted her to the big dance at the lodge rooms of the Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise.

The élite of dusky Birmingham were gathered that night. Dancing was rampant, to the itchy strains of Prof. Aleck Champagne's Jazzphony orchestra. It was an extremely large evening and Frantic was a-quiver with joy. For the first time in his life he faced the world as an engaged man. His narrow shoulders were thrown back with a pride he had never before known; his heart beat manfully; his eyes followed the luxurious Canary about the dance floor with proprietary interest not entirely untinctured by jealousy.

Every colored notable was present: Lawyer and Mrs. Evans Chew, Dr. and Mrs. Lijah Atcherson, Florian Slappey, Epic Peters, Director and Mrs. J. Caesar Clump, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fitz, Opus Randall, Welford Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Broughton, Semore Mashby, Dr. and Mrs. Brutus Herring.

And Mocha Williams!

MOCHA was struggling desperately to find happiness in single blessedness. But his beatitude was infected with bitter memory of the two hundred and ninety-five dollars he had paid on the diamond pin which was now lost somewhere in the streets of Birmingham. It had been his—then hers; then his again for the hectic moments of the chase down the alley. Now the pin was somewhere else. The only vestige of satisfaction for vindictive Mocha lay in the certain knowledge that Electra was not sporting that pin.

He danced languidly and without interest. He eyed all women with distaste. He considered himself a confirmed misogynist. But about ten-thirty something caught his eye: a glittering, gleaming, scintillating something which struck a chord of memory. He waited until the end of the dance and then presented himself before Miss Canary Gaunt.

"Who you dancin' the next one with, Canary?"

She smiled demurely. "You!"

"Hot dam! Ain't you tootin'?"

The music commenced. Canary slid into Mocha's arms and they hopped away over the polished floor. Mr. Williams, using excellent strategy, approached the subject casually.

"You sure do look swell tonight, Canary."

"O! Hush yo' mouf, Big Boy."

"I ain't kiddin'."

"Flatterment you make!"

"I'se se'ious. You is the best lookin'est gal in this whole ballroom."

She gazed into Mocha's eyes with new interest. He was a good looking chap; a man much more after her own heart than the insignificant little shrimp to whom she was pledged. She found herself wondering what manner of women Electra must be that she should have possessed this man and then have been willing to turn him loose.

"No?"

"Yeh."

"Where at did you git it?"

She frowned . . . then smiled brightly. "My fiansay gimme it."

"Yo' which?"

"My fiansay."

"Who he?"

She jerked her head toward a corner of the room, where the wistful figure of Frantic was almost concealed behind a small potted palm.

"That li'l half pint," she explained.

"Frantic Marshall?"

"Uh-huh."

"Great sufferin' tripe! How come a

Authority Writes Book on Baby Care for Tribune

Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, Internationally Known, Is Author of New Guide for Mothers

Miss Van Blarcom's book on baby care may be bought at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 50 cents. By mail the cost is 60 cents.

MISS CAROLYN CONANT VAN BLARCOM.

I HARDLY know where to begin today to tell you all that I want you to know about Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom. Miss Van Blarcom is the internationally known authority who has written the book on baby care for the readers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, of which we cannot help feeling extremely proud.

The reason why I hardly know where to begin to tell you about her is because there is so much to tell—so much that makes her preëminently fitted to write a book for mothers on the care of their babies—so much in her vast and varied experience, so much in the esteem in which she is held by her profession, so much in her achievement and so much in the passionate zeal with which she has worked in behalf of mothers and babies. So, instead of using more space for my enthusiasm I shall give [illegible] telling you something about the [illegible] career of Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom.

When I first knew Miss Van Blarcom some years ago she was in the midst of her tremendous campaign to save babies from blindness, acting as secretary of the New York state committee for the prevention of blindness—which afterwards became national in its scope and continued under her direction. How many thousands of boys and girls today owe their eyesight to her magnificent work we shall never know.

Before I met her she had been doing work of equal importance in other fields, and since then everything she has done has been marked not only by constructive radical vision, but by terrifically hard work against what often seemed like insurmountable opposition.

For instance, she conducted a lone fight to standardize midwifery in this country. When she found the almost unbelievably horrible conditions under which midwives carried on their work you might have thought she would immediately have waged war to abolish their existence. But she did not. She saw the demand for them among the foreign born population who had brought this with them among their old traditions—who had always turned to midwives in their mother country when babies were to be born. She saw the need for them and so she set to work to legalize and educate them.

Started Midwives' School.

She made an investigation here, studied midwifery abroad, and returned to establish a midwives' school in connection with Bellevue hospital, the first of its kind in the country and far reaching in its influence. This was not only to educate midwives, but Miss Van Blarcom felt that a course in it should have a place in a nurse's education as well as her regular training. And nurses who went into rural communities realized the value of the training this school could give them.

Miss Van Blarcom is one of the most widely known graduates of the Johns Hopkins hospital school for nurses, where she served as instructor and assistant superintendent and supervisor of nurses. During the world war Miss Van Blarcom was director of the bureau of nursing service of the Atlantic division of the American Red Cross.

In order to make this book on babies for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE readers the very last word in baby care, to give to them the most recent and the most authoritative findings, Miss Van Blarcom made a special trip this spring to Baltimore and spent some time in Johns Hopkins observing and conferring with those doctors and nurses who are constantly at work on the changes and improvements in the treatment and feeding and general care of babies.

Author of Note.

To go on with Miss Van Blarcom's record: In 1924 she addressed the third English speaking conference in infant welfare, in London, which was called by the order of the king and queen. She was six months preparing this paper.

She is the author of "Obstetrical Nursing," a book accepted as the standard treatise on obstetrical nursing in this country and widely used in England, Australia, and in practically every European country, as well as China and other oriental countries. It is used as a textbook in public health nursing in universities and in state departments of health.

More infomal and addressed to a more popular audience is her book "Getting Ready to Be a Mother." In his introduction to this book Dr. J. Clifton Edgar says: "If every expectant mother, no matter what her station or location, followed the simple, practical advice offered in this book countless mothers and babies to come would have life and health more abundantly." [Published by Macmillan, New York.]

Now in addition to all her technical writings for professional magazines, Miss Van Blarcom did a work of wide influence for a great woman's magazine. She was health editor of the Delineator, in charge of their baby department and child helping department. This provided her with a little different sort of experience and with innumerable contacts with mothers all over the country.

I could go on with a description of other work of Miss Van Blarcom's that has brought her international recognition, but I need not do so in order to show you how rarely fitted she is to write a book for mothers on the care of their babies. If I attempted to list any more of her accomplishments I should not have room to give you some of the ideas that she expressed when I saw her just before the manuscript for the baby book was completed—and those are no less important than her work.

Highest Tributes Are Paid.

You could not alk for five minutes with Miss Van Blarcom without feeling how deep is her concern with the welfare of mothers and babies and how passionately she feels the needlessness of either the loss of babies or their lack of perfect health through absence of proper care. In her teaching of nurses in Johns Hopkins she held before them an ideal—which indeed a young nurse must need in grilling years of her training.

Of the work of nurses with mothers and babies she says: "This service to mother and baby in the recurring romance of a new life is a participation in a miracle of breath taking beauty; a contact with an awesome and marvelous mystery that fires the fancy like a flaming, leaping touch of inspiration." Dr. Esther Loring Richards of Johns Hopkins hospital says of Miss Van Blarcom: "To her alone more than to any other single force in medical and nursing obstetrics in this country is due credit for an interpretation of the life of mother and child in the largest sense."

This Is Indeed a Tribute.

And in talking with Miss Van Blarcom you feel this attitude of hers. She wanted to write this baby book for THE TRIBUNE; she wanted to write a book embodying the best of all that has been learned to make healthy, happy babies.

But, interesting to note, Miss Van Blarcom, with all her technical knowledge, feels that this rearing of a healthy, happy child can be made a simple thing. No mother should feel overwhelmed at the care her baby will need. "Armed with intelligence and knowledge, it is a simple matter. In fact, the efforts of doctors are being directed toward the simplification of baby care, and this is the optimistic, the encouraging tone of her book.

Knowledge Is Stressed.

But Miss Van Blarcom does stress the need of knowing; she does not hold with this "trusting to instinct" idea; she says instinct alone has killed more babies than any one can imagine. She has an interesting theory, too, about the great mass of intelligent women who become mothers. She thinks that many of them feel that books on baby care apply always to some one else's baby, not theirs; that because they are educated they do not need directions to bring up their babies—that those are meant only for the ignorant.

In a word, she believes that the in-between classes—those between the rich and the poor—are in need of education in the care of babies. For, with babies, as with toddlers, as with children, as with adolescents, the same thing holds true—the baby's health lies with the mother's care, with her twenty-four hour day's duty; it is not assured by the occasional visit of the doctor or other adviser.

Their mother is the babies' staff of life, really. It all goes back to her, and she must make good if they are to make good—physically and mentally. Each part of her care of them—their food, their rest, their habits—is like a piece of a mosaic: each of them is necessary to make the pattern of health complete. Miss Van Blarcom has written a book on baby care which should be an invaluable guide to mothers.

Here's a Wonderful Opportunity for Boys and Girls to Get the Groundwork of Music.

THE following letter tells of a wonderful opportunity for girls and boys who like music and would like to learn to play the piano:

"Dear Miss Brown: This school gives a summer course for piano teachers from June 27 to Aug. 7. To demonstrate teaching, a small class of children, 4 to 7 years old, is used. The class meets downtown from 10 to 11 o'clock, three mornings a week. These children have, therefore, fifteen music lessons with no charge. There is, of course, no possible obligation about their future study. All we ask is regularity of attendance during the five weeks.

"We are wondering if among your readers there are not some who would care to have their children in this group. They must be beginners, having had no lessons, and must have a piano at home. Only fundamental work is accomplished in fifteen lessons, but it is an astonishingly good foundation. We desire to give the lessons to children who are really musical in tendencies.

"There will be a tryout held on Saturday, June 8, at the school. We feel this is a worth while thing, and are most appreciative of your cooperation and the use of your fine column. D. P."

Isn't that a splendid opportunity for some young girls and boys to get well started in music? If you know of any child who is willing to study and meet the requirements of the school, I'll be happy to have their names and to arrange for the tryout. Remember, they can't know anything about music—they just must want to learn!

Offers Canary Breeding Cage.

"I have a breeding cage I would like to give one of your readers. It is in good condition and any one who can make use of it may have it. "MRS. G. S."

If raising birds is your particular hobby you'll probably welcome this bit of extra equipment. Write me if you can make use of a breeding cage; please do not telephone.

Needs Baby Things.

"My first baby is coming to me soon and I am in need of a great many things which I cannot afford to buy—sheets, pillow cases, towels, and baby clothing. My husband is not strong and cannot do heavy labor, so his wages are small and we must do without a great many things. "MRS. L. C."

Can you help this mother prepare for the arrival of her first born by donating some of the articles she absolutely needs? The little garments your child is outgrowing would help her a great deal.

In Great Need.

"Mrs. C. is just 22 years of age. She is the mother of one boy, 15 months old, and is expecting another baby in about two weeks. Her husband is not working, she is not well, and sometimes I wonder how she can stand it at all. Many days they have nothing to eat and her entire wardrobe consists of one housedress. Can't your readers help her? Clothing for herself—she wears size 14—for the young son and for the expected baby would help her immensely. "MRS. B. C."

This poor, distracted mother with a burden greater than she can bear deserves all the assistance we can possibly give her. If you can provide her with the clothing she needs for herself and her babies, I am sure it will give her some of the courage she needs.

Activities of Women

Mrs. Dempsey West, aged 52 years, mother of nine, is jailer at Barbourville, Ky. She succeeds her husband, who was killed while searching for an escaped prisoner.

Women in Holland have a reputation as ideal housekeepers. They do not engage in business. Most of the Dutch women marry and then stay at home.

Riddles

1. Why would you say most girls are like certain pieces of furniture?
2. Why are actors so often hungry?
3. Why is money wet the first of the month?

How I Bleach My Skin White

"The camera is a merciless eye," says Miss Genevieve Barr, noted New York model, "and we girls who have to face it have a method of our own for keeping our skins white and flawless.

"We buy no ready-made preparations, but get three ounces of Orchard White at the drug store and add to this the juice of two lemons. This makes several weeks' supply of a very fine skin bleach which softens, refines and whitens the skin without any harm or irritation. And because you use it while it is still fresh, it is twice as effective as any ready-to-use preparation. I find it a dandy bleach for tan and freckles, too. Every girl who takes up posing in New York, sooner or later learns this studio secret. The bleach costs only a few cents to make."

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

That Cooked Lettuce Is Delicious Is Attested by the Fact That the French Have Over 150 Recipes for It.

By Jane Eddington.

THE thrifty French people cook lettuce because it is an abundant and inexpensive vegetable, and instinct taught them that it was a most wholesome one. If they had known all about the vitamins in the green leaf they could not have behaved with greater wisdom in the way they have used this edible leaf, and also in the intelligent way in which they have cooked it.

Once upon a time I translated 150 different recipes from the French for cooking this green. This collection of recipes appeared in number after number of a French cooking magazine published in Paris. I translated the recipes because I believed then, as I believe now, that no edible plant we have is so generally wasted and thrown away in such enormous quantities, and seemingly so uselessly, as is lettuce. Nevertheless, it makes a fine green which is more easily prepared than perhaps any other that we cook, and, as mentioned, it contains those valuable nutritive elements which do not count as makers of energy, yet by adding butter and other caloried elements a dish of lettuce is energy making, also.

Always Considered Healthful.

The French tell us that the plant has been cooked from times exceedingly remote. They also claim that it was one of the bitter herbs of the Jewish Passover, and that health giving properties were attributed to it in the remote past, just as they are today.

The English eat raw lettuces both at the beginning of a meal and at the end. At the end it is usually with an accompaniment of bread and cheese, and it is said that the Greeks did the same thing. The Romans, also, served it first and last at meals, and curiously enough seem to have believed that it had one sort of medical value if eaten first, and another when it was served as a finale to a meal. The classic language about lettuce is provocative, and I have gone through one six hundred page translation of an ancient Roman volume, myself, and found many a reference to lettuce which some of the ancients thought calmed and quieted people, or was soporific.

Lettuce Lore.

There is no end of little items from classic eras about this business of eating lettuce. The Emperor Domitian is said to have been cured of hypocondria by eating it, and so he ordered lettuce planted in every garden and served at every table. The Emperor Diocletian abdicated his throne and is said to have gone in for the culture of lettuce after that. If we wanted to be frankly physiological we could find the material for it in these Roman records of the past, for these ancients believed in its laxative properties, and evidently considered it a "stomach broom" long before spinach was given that name.

The ancient physician, Galen, was devoted to lettuce and believed in its hypnotic properties and that it would combat insomnia in old people, or an insomnia not resulting from fatigue or excessive work. We moderns know that if we eat too much lettuce for dinner, without sufficient bread and solids of a similar sort, we are likely to have insomnia. All these old notes on the subject are interesting, but perhaps not exceedingly valuable.

Vegetarian Ways.

Lettuce may be cooked in many vegetarian styles and be almost as savory as with meat and butter and cream. It is also used in crusts of pastry and in frying batters, or made up with other vegetables into croquettes and all the croquette family. Plain braised lettuce is hardly different from stewed lettuce and this is perhaps the favorite general preparation that the French use.

One definition of braised lettuce is lettuce which has been blanched, squeezed dry, and then put to cook in a meat stock with a slice of salt pork and some seasoning vegetables. It should be cooked in a small pan and over a tiny fire, and because the lettuce has been blanched the pan can be covered closely. With gentle cooking it keeps its green color, but if much heat is used it will turn yellow.

When fine sauces are to be used with lettuce, this is a good way to prepare it, and it also can be combined with vegetables like tomato and onion and carrot. In braising almost anything, we add a little bit of sugar.

Lettuce With Sauces.

In the French cooking in which the braised lettuce is the base of so many dishes, it is called, when served hot with hot melted butter poured over it, English lettuce; when it is served with white sauce it is German lettuce; and when served in a rich brown gravy so that it is almost equal to a hearty meat dish, it is Spanish lettuce. It is made more like a meat dish by stuffing and serving with egg. As for ourselves, we like a little plain hot cream with it, which may be modified variously. It can also be served with a fine Hollandaise, or with a Creole sauce.

Chiffonade Lettuce I.

The French give the name chiffonade to any vegetable cut up slaw-fashion, and they cut lettuce in this fashion many times in cooking it. If head lettuce is used, take two large cabbages of it, wash and rinse them thoroughly and then gather the leaves up in the hands and cut them like slaw. Put the cut up lettuce into a pan, pour boiling water over it, and generally it is best to pour this water off immediately and rinse the lettuce in cold water.

Then drain it and squeeze it dry and put it into a small sauce pan in which has been melted two tablespoons of butter, cook this gently in a covered pan for ten minutes, season it to suit with a sauce or plain butter or cream, and use it as a green or for a garnish.

Chiffonade Lettuce II.

Use the lettuce cut in a slaw fashion for this, but instead of pouring boiling water on the cut up lettuce, put it to cook in butter without that preparation, covering the pan quickly so that the lettuce will not wilt but will begin to steam at once when the heat is applied. When this method is used it is sometimes called melted lettuce. In this case you get the full benefit of the bitter principle in the lettuce.

When lettuce is blanched before it is cooked it should be a bright grass green when cooked. If it is not blanched it will be a dark olive.

Lettuce Soup.

There might be a difference of opinion, but perhaps in making a lettuce soup most people would like the lettuce cooked without blanching first. A cream soup may be made or the cooked lettuce may be added to a bean or pea soup. Uncooked lettuce blanched lightly is also added to bean and pea soup to give them a lively quality because it keeps its greenness, but in general the lettuce that is truly melted, whether it is blanched or not, is the best for soup.

Everybody knows how excellent is wilted lettuce, and when the green has been treated in either of the chiffonade methods it is as perfect as wilted lettuce. Or the melted lettuce may be used cold with the same boiled egg garnish that is frequently added to melted lettuce for a salad.

Lettuce on Toast.

To go back to the beginning preparation of the lettuce to be cooked, we might say to pick off the imperfect outer leaves of the heads of leaf lettuce, looking out for rust and other imperfections. Use the scissors to cut off weathered edges if necessary, then wash all the leaves, rinse them and drain them, place a number of leaves together and cut them chiffonade fashion. In the case of leaf lettuce, we may blanch it up to five minutes because it is somewhat coarse, and may be a trifle bitter.

The bitter is good for anybody, and some people like it, and there is all the better reason for eating it because it is not found in many foods. After the blanching, drain and rinse the whole with cold water and then cook it gently in only so much water as clings to it.

For serving on toast mash a little pimento in some melted butter, blend this with a little flour, and then stir the cooked lettuce into it, adding salt and a grating of nutmeg, and serve the whole on toast.

Ancient Cooking.

The French recipes we mentioned appeared in groups, each with introductory matter consisting mostly of entertaining historic facts, such as this: "The culinary methods of the Greeks and Romans have been transmitted to us with great imprecision." We think that is a nice way of saying that their recipes are imprecise. And another item mentioned was that Charlemagne's cook, who lived about 800 A. D. [note that it was not in 1800], used lettuce in soups, stews, and served it cooked as a vegetable.

It is interesting from the cooking standpoint to consider the varieties of lettuce, because some are so much better for cooking than others. There are 200 varieties at least, but different varieties belong to different seasons. At this season, with us, there is the leaf lettuce, which has been almost entirely replaced in the markets by the head lettuce through most of the year. For cooking it is much superior to the blanched head lettuce. It is also easily grown and abundant in the average home garden and, as we have mentioned, is the most easily prepared green for cooking.

Shall I Direct My Children's Reading?

Whether or Not to Control Their Choice of Books Is Discussed by Mrs. Bevans and the Answer Is Left to You

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

ONCE upon a time when housewives planned their meals in the winter they didn't have to agonize much over which vegetables to choose for dinner. There were a few sturdy affairs like turnips and potatoes and their cousins which would keep nicely in a cool cellar or travel without disintegration in a freight car.

But now we stand first on one foot and then on the other, while the snow blows in the market doors, and think, "The peas are full today—and the string beans look young—and the spinach is fresh and cheap . . . we had Romaine yesterday so I think we'd better have endive tonight, and let me see, will the budget stand a bunch of that green asparagus?"

We have such a wide choice, nowadays, in vegetables, even in midwinter. And it seems us though that width of choice extends itself to every aspect of life. For those of us who have children it complicates existence.

Take the matter of reading alone. Many mothers are writing me, troubled over the question of what magazines their boys and girls in their early teens may read. One mother states this situation.

Unwise Methods.

"My daughter has a friend of 15 whose mother allows her to read all these magazines that are on the newsstands now that are supposed to be true stories of life and marriage and love and the pitfalls laid for virtuous girls, etc. I buy a different kind of magazine for my daughter and I don't want her to read the others. Do you think I should forbid her to? Would it be wise? The other girl's mother says that such stories will protect her daughter from the sordid things of life."

About the last thing in the world a young daughter of 12 or 13 should read is magazines of that kind. If, when she's entirely grown up, she prefers that sort of reading matter, it's up to her. But never while she's growing. The contents of these magazines are usually presented as stories of life as it is. But as a matter of fact, they deal almost invariably with just one aspect of life—the relations between men and women and are deliberately highly colored. For an adolescent boy or girl this provides an unwholesome and distorted emphasis. Those stories may truly enough be life—but we certainly can't feel that that is excuse or reason for their reading them.

We're not trying to give our boys and girls a picture of raw life at that age. If we want them to have knowledge enough to protect themselves that is not the way for us to give it to them. This is only common sense—and incidentally, the soundest psychology.

Raising a Question.

If the child mentioned in the letter were my daughter I should not forbid her to read the magazines her friend reads but I should most certainly see that she didn't, by explaining things to her, and influencing her choice. I'd make her see that they're lurid and melodramatic and that people of good taste don't read them.

A question like this to settle really brings us to the whole matter of whether we are going to control our children's reading or not. It's one I've thought of a great deal. Since most things lead us back to our own experiences this led me back to mine, as it will undoubtedly lead you back to yours and give you a chance to estimate your early reading.

My own reading wasn't directed, that I can remember. I read what I pleased. But what was at hand was good and an older brother who loved Charles Reade and Kipling and Stevenson and Dickens and the best of the boys' books and some of the classics brought these home and I took my pick. So, as I look back, while nobody said 'read this' or 'don't read that,' I see now that my choice was decidedly influenced.

Unrestricted Reading.

Not long ago a well known novelist had an article in one of the magazines on books for boys and girls. In it she expressed the opinion that their reading should be unrestricted and went on to give a list of suggested books—which turned out to be merely her own early choices. In almost every case they were classics. She had had literary associations as a child, and the material from which she could choose was of the best.

Provided a growing boy or girl could do what is romantically described as "browse in a library full of rare volumes and the classics," I might agree with the idea of perfect freedom in choice of books by children. The very sight of fine books helps to fix the taste, and the feel and knowledge of rare ones help to develop the esthetic sense. Even if the books are too mature, the fact that they are all worth while would justify this sort of unrestricted reading.

But not many people nowadays have libraries to browse in. Instead, for most of us, our reading matter has to be chosen from masses of magazines on the newsstands and masses of books in the bookstores and public libraries. What growing boy or girl can be sure to wend his or her way wisely among them?

Of course, children need help in their early teens. A continued diet, for instance, of the crook stories, sex stories, mystery and murder stories, which are on every hand, would be sure to give them mental and moral indigestion and distort their taste.

Entertaining and Harmless.

The point to keep in mind in directing boys' and girls' reading is that there is lots of entertaining literature that is either fine or harmless. Unless they're unusual children they're not going to revel in the classics or poetry or history or biography. They'll want mostly fiction. They crave the thrills of adventure and romance. Then let them have it in the best form you can—in old books and new, and in the better periodicals.

There are many magazines for boys and girls and there are numbers of good books about boys and girls at school and college. There are adventures of other days like "Robin Hood" and "Otto of the Silver Hand" and other books of Howard Pyle's. There are animal stories like "Flash, the Lead Dog," "The Bar Sinister," and beautiful recent ones like "Bambi." There are modern adventure books like Byrd's and Lindbergh's and Beebe's and Martin Johnson's.

There are old and new historical novels and a great deal of adult fiction and many adult magazines they may read. Though I have been asked for it, I haven't tried as yet to make a comprehensive book list for these years. It's a big undertaking if one only suggests books that he knows every page of and if he tries to cover a variety of tastes in doing it.

While children are small the matter of books is a comparatively simple affair. But when they are older their tastes develop and they have more varied contacts with other boys and girls with different backgrounds from their own. Then it seems to me wise to guide their reading. Through the formative years we don't let them eat what they want and sleep when they please. We control these things for their good. So, in the matter of reading, I don't see why we should turn them completely loose there while their ideas and ideals and tastes are in the making.

We don't say "Do read this" and "Don't read that." But we'll know what's happening to them in this respect, as in all others. And if they're acquiring a taste for what's unwholesome we can talk it out with them, and if we know our job we can put it to them so they'll make the right decision. And then, to help them keep it, it's up to us to have something equally interesting, though different, to offer them in its place.

FAST AND CURIOUS - - By Octavus Roy Cohen

gorgeous gal like you to engage herse'f to a runt like him?"

"He gimme this pin," she explained defensively. "There's lots of fellers would'n't be so ginrous as that."

MOCHA was thinking fast. The coveted pin was near at hand. He was stanchly determined to acquire it. And there wasn't any mistaking which pin it was.

"Where did Frantic git that pin at?" he inquired.

"Bought it," she explained with some pride. "Fo' me."

"Hmm! He shuah ain't no piker."

"I'll say he ain't. Through all the years I has knowed him I never thought he 'mounted to much."

"Maybe you was right." The music stopped abruptly on a large blue note. Mocha bent his most seductive glance on Canary.

"Is you gwine lemme see you again some time, Miss Gaunt?"

"Shuh! 'Taint really bein' engaged when the man is Frantic Marshall."

"No . . . ? Well, then——"

"Some day soon?"

She looked up at him coyly out of the corners of her eyes.

"All right, Mistuh Williams."

He moved away, thinking heavily. And Canary Gaunt, utterly dazzled, found little of interest in her fiancé.

Canary had been impressed. What a pity that Frantic wasn't more like the large and positive Mocha. But then she heaved a vast sigh. Reckon a man couldn't have ev'ything; looks an' size an' diamonds, too. She saw Frantic approaching and favored him with a radiant smile which sent him scooting up to the very zenith of happiness. Canary was mercenary, perhaps, but she was not lacking in sportsmanship.

All through the balance of the evening Mocha Williams slouched in a corner and engaged in plain and fancy thinking. He never had thought so much in all his life. Of course, he knew just what had happened; Frantic had found the pin and presented it to Canary. Hmph! Not a bad sort—that Canary—though Mocha still believed he was through with women forever and then some.

Mocha made his exit shortly before the dance ended. He proceeded on foot to the neighborhood where Canary Gaunt lived and took up his post across the street, under a coldly leafless tree. And there he shivered for almost an hour. Frantic and Canary had stopped at the Gold Crown for some hot chocolate. Their good-bys were not briefly said. But when eventually she entered the house and Frantic's emaciated figure descended the porch steps to the street, Mocha detached himself from the shadows and fell into step beside him.

"Hello, Frantic," he said casually. "Goin' t'ords town?"

"Uh-huh." The little man eyed his companion doubtfully. "You—you is Electra Williams' husband, ain't you?"

"I was. I an' Electra is now divorced away fum each other. My name is Mocha."

"Much obliged to meet you, Brother Williams."

They walked on in silence. Mocha broke it. "How 'bout us goin' down to Bud Peaglar's fo' a barbecue san'wich, Frantic?"

Mr. Marshall was overjoyed. He wasn't used to receiving invitations. For the moment, he felt that Mocha was a very delightful person.

But after they had cemented their friendship over Bud's delicious barbecue and two cups of steaming coffee, Mocha drew the little man into a corner of the poolroom and touched firmly on the subject which was of greatest interest to him.

"You is kind of crazy 'bout Canary, ain't you, Frantic?"

"O! man! She is the fondest gal I is of."

"Where at did you git them swell pin you gave her?"

MR. MARSHALL immediately plunged into a description of the imaginary process by which the pin had been acquired. As he spoke, Mr. Williams' face grew stony, and when the speech was ended he transfixed Frantic with a baleful eye.

"I mean," he explained, "where did you really git the pin?"

Frantic was assailed by a premonition of calamity.

"S-s-s-says which, Mocha?"

"I crave to know where you got that pin—an' I crave to know the truth."

"I—I boughten it——"

"Liar what you is! You found that pin in the gutter on Seventeenth street."

Mocha knew! Frantic knew he knew! And all the stunned Mr. Marshall could do was shake his head and emit moaning sounds.

"Reason I know 'bout that pin, Mistuh Frantic Marshall, is 'cause I boughten it myownse'f with my own money."

"Y-y-you which?"

"I boughten it. I give it to my onetime wife, Mrs. Electra Williams."

Frantic was thoroughly frightened. "Then it's her pin, ain't it?"

"Sure it is," bluffed Mocha, "an' I crave to present it back to her."

Frightened as he was, Frantic was not entirely a fool.

"Hmph!" he said, "I don't hahdly b'lieve that."

"I don't give three durns what you believe. I boughten that pin an' I demand that you return it back to me."

"I cain't do it, Mocha. I done give that pin to Canary."

"'Twasn't your'n to give."

"I—I found it."

"Don't matter. That pin was mine an' Electra had just been wearin' it. It cost th'ee hund'ed dollars cash money."

"Gee manety! Th'ee hund'ed——"

"Dollars, tha's what. I want it, an' ain't gwine stan' fo' no foolishment."

Mr. Marshall looked one way and saw the deep sea. He glanced in the other direction and found himself confronted by the czar of hades. But, rising triumphant above all his grief, was the certainty that he could not—and would not—ruin himself in the eyes of the fair Canary.

"I——I cain't git it off my fiansay," he announced.

"I reckon you can. An' what's mo'—you will."

"Nossuh!" Frantic was quite positive. "I cain't—an' I won't."

Mocha shrugged. "All right. I'll call on you frequent when you gits to the penitential."

"Wh-when who gits to which?"

"When you gits to the state penitential."

"You says terrible words, Mocha, but they don't seem to make no sense."

"They make sense, all right enough. Now git this, Mistuh Frantic Marshall: That there pin was stole off Electra's shirtwaist while she was walkin' down Eighteenth street a few nights ago. The robber got away. Nobody knows who he was. But"—and Mocha's eyes blazed triumphantly, "but suppose Electra or somebody else was to reckernise that pin Canary is wearin' an' she was to tell 'em that you give it to her an' they was to check up how you lied 'bout buyin' it . . . I ask you then, Mistuh Marshall, how would you prove that you wasn't the man which stoled that pin off Mrs. Electra Williams?"

He Loved the Thunderer best of all, did Penny—orphaned Penny, of Miss Battle's Home, who lost his heart to the puffing engines that built the roads—white, glittering roads—over the mountains, across the valleys, by the side of the sea. A story with a heart throb by Norma Patterson next Sunday:

The Whoffing Gods

Frantic closed his eyes. He recognized disaster when he met it. Mocha started to speak, but Frantic put out a restraining hand.

"Hol' yo' breff just a minute, Brother Williams, while I finishes this agony. Ise thinkin'."

THE thoughts were terrible. On the one hand was prison and on the other the contempt of Canary Gaunt, than whom no colored lady was more delectable.

"It looks," vouchsafed Frantic, "that there ain't but two things I can do, an' bofe of 'em is wrong."

"Meanin' what?"

"I can tell Canary the truth an' she maybe tells other folks an' I go to jail. Or I let her go on keepin' the pin an' it gits recognized an' I does likewise. Any which way I is gwine lose the gal I is craziest about."

"Lucky!"

"Don't you go straducin' Miss Gaunt!" flared Frantic with unexpected spirit. "Ise engaged to commit ma'iage with her."

Mocha waved his hand. "That don't make no neverminds with me. I crave that diamond pin back, an' I ask you heah an' now—what is you gwine do 'bout it?"

Frantic indulged in thought. Finally he lifted his wizened face and was radiant with an idea.

"Ise gwine straight down to see Electra," he announced. "Ise gwine tell her I foun' the pin an' ask cain't I buy it off her on the installment plan."

Mocha's complexion became a pale lavendar. "You—you cain't do such!" he said quickly.

Frantic looked at him in surprise. "Ain't nothin' else I can do."

"There is!—You go to! You mustn't tell Electra—an' tha's positive."

"I reckon Ise gwine do what I wish an'——"

"Now, listen," Mocha was pleading. "Don't you go telling Electra, 'cause the minute you do, she gits that pin back an' you is plumb ruint. She ain't got no mo' heart than a snake."

"I reckon was I to offer her th'ee hundred dollars——"

PROSPECT of seeing the ex-Mrs. Williams enriched by three hundred dollars did not at all appeal to Mocha. And he knew that he was up against a stone wall. Frantic was scared enough, but not in the right way.

Mocha argued. He begged. He cajoled. Words rolled off Frantic's narrow shoulders like raindrops from a slate roof. And finally, in sheer desperation, Mocha told his entire story. He told of his miserable married life; of Electra's shrewishness; of her cold blooded scheming to get a three hundred dollar pin for five dollars. . . . and then leave him flat. He played for the sympathy which one man must accord another in such an affair, and by the time he finished Frantic was almost in tears.

"Golla!" he said. "Hard luck is the most thing you has had. 'Cept you was sure fortunate the law didn't catch you when you stoled that pin offen yo' wife."

"I know. . . . I know, Frantic. But cain't you see where I an' you stand now? You got to get that pin off Canary. Minute Electra sees it you is sunk. . . . 'cause even though you is my friend I would swear I never stoled it, an' they'd right away think it was you."

"Tha's reasonable," confessed Mr. Marshall. "An' I ain't cravin' to decorate no jail. But just the same, I don't see how I can git that pin off Canary."

"Borrow it," suggested Mocha eagerly. "Le's you an' me be partners. Way things stand now I ain't gwine git nothin' back fo' my two hun'ed and ninety-five dollars; so Ise willin' to split even with you."

"Wh-what would I want to borrow it for?"

"Tell her you want to have it made into a ring 'stead of a pin on account it looks mo' engaged. That stone is worth two hun'ed an' seventy-five dollars by itse'f, an' Electra wouldn't never recognise just the stone. It's the whole pin that's dangerous. Tha's one thing Ise tellin' you, Frantic—us has got to take the diamond out of that pin, no matter how we does it."

"Tha's right." Frantic was impressed. "But it seems like, Mocha, I was runnin' all the risk. I on'y found the pin, but you stoled it——"

"I paid fo' it first."

"Just the same, you stoled it. An' I don't see where you git off at if I do change the pin into a ring."

TRUTH to tell, neither did Mocha. The more complicated the affair became, the more apparent it was that he was again holding the bag. And Frantic's affection for Canary had imparted to that underdone gentleman a surprising strength. Mr. Marshall finally summed up the situation:

"I don't hahdly see where you figgers in this a tall, Mocha."

"How come not?"

"That pin is mine 'cause I found it, or either Electra's 'cause you gave it to her."

Mocha's face hardened. "Yeh! An' all I got to do to blast you is tell Electra where the pin is at, an' then where would you be?"

"Nowhere," admitted Frantic seriously. Then his face brightened. "I got an idea," he announced.

"What is it?"

"Suppose I buy out all yo' rights, titles an' interests to that there pin fo' fifty dollars cash money? An' that price includes yo' promise that you won't give Electra no clew 'bout who has got the pin."

Mocha was perturbed—but interested. The more he considered the matter, the more he became convinced that he would be wise to accept this offer. Certainly fifty dollars was a great deal better than no dollars at all.

The bargain was struck. The following morning they met in front of the Champion theater and Frantic Marshall paid over to Mocha Williams the sum of fifty dollars.

"Now you ain't got no rights in that pin whichsoever," Frantic reminded.

"You said it!"

"An' furthermo', you promise not to say nothin' to Electra, nor neither nobody else."

"I promise." Mocha was generous. "That pin is yourn' now, Frantic."

"Hot diggity dawg! It sho' is."

He minced down Eighteenth street and Mocha stared after him without enthusiasm. Frantic considered the affair at an end. Of course, he'd try to convert the pin into a ring so that Electra could not possibly recognize it. And equally of course, whether or not he did that, he'd see to it that the pin setting was destroyed by hook or crook.

MOCHA became more and more angry as he surveyed the situation. He developed a bitter resentment against Frantic. It never occurred to him that the pin was Electra's in the first place, or that Frantic was merely an innocent finder of the stolen and lost property.

The fact remained that what moral interest Mocha had in the pin had been sold to Frantic for fifty dollars—which came very close to being all the worldly capital the little man possessed.

Mocha knew that he should be satisfied. But he wasn't. All the harsh unpleasantness of his nature came to the surface. He was moody and ruthless. He determined grimly to double-cross Mr. Frantic Marshall.

Mocha had no compunctions about that or anything else. And he knew he had to work fast, because it was certain that the minute Frantic got his hands on that pin the setting would be destroyed and there would then be no chance in the world of recovering the stone.

Mr. Williams was no blind man where women were concerned. He harked back to the dance at the lodge rooms of the Sons and Daughters of I Will Arise and remembered the light of interest which had shone in the eyes of Miss Canary Gaunt. He also recalled the fair Canary with no particular distaste. By comparison with Electra, Canary was a dainty feminine morsel.

After all, single life wasn't all it was cracked up to be. Mocha had profited much by his matrimonial experience with Electra. He knew that if he ever again took unto himself a wife he'd grab the whip hand immediately after the ceremony and hold it until the end of time. Of course, the woman might object—it was even faintly possible that Canary would not be a casual objector—but Mocha was confident of his ability to subdue any new wife.

And so he decided to marry Canary Gaunt. Or, more specifically, he decided to marry Canary Gaunt's diamond pin. He plunged into a whirlwind courtship. He spent money with a lavish hand. He flattered and cavaliered. And he was not at all bothered by the fact that he was doing Frantic Marshall a very dirty trick.

There was the matter of the pin, of course. He had sold his interest to Frantic for fifty dollars and received payment in full. But Frantic had given the pin to Canary as an engagement present. Some men might have shrunk from circumventing that bargain in so crude a manner, but not Mocha.

He campaigned to acquire the pin by the matrimonial route. And in doing that he was to devastate Frantic's future—although, frankly, Mocha didn't think it would be such terrible devastation. Canary was just the sort of woman to assure years of misery for the meek and mild Mr. Marshall.

Canary Gaunt was dazzled. The more she saw of Mocha, the less favorably she regarded Frantic. That little man was running around in circles, utterly bewildered and colossally miserable. Canary was always out with Mocha. They were seen together at movies and dances and ice cream parlors. Two or three times Mocha even indulged in the extravagance of renting a driverless closed car and speeding about the gelid countryside with his lady fair.

AND then came the night when, under the cold glare of a winter moon, Mocha proposed marriage. Canary, radiant with happiness, accepted. They forgot the forlorn figure of Frantic Marshall. Canary only remembered that she was marrying a man whom she had learned to love, and Mocha knew that he was preparing to entangle himself with a diamond pin. He even had the grace to grin . . . he had paid three hundred dollars for the pin; had given it to his first wife, then sold his interest in it for fifty dollars, and now it was to come into his possession again.

"I git the pin back," he murmured happily, "an' in addition I git as profit the fifty dollars Frantic handed me an' also one new wife."

He urged haste. "When does us git ma'ied, honeybunch?"

"Pretty soon."

"When?"

"Nex' month?"

"O! shuh . . . I couldn't wait that long."

"Nex' week?"

"No, ma'am!" Mocha was thinking of Electra. It was a terrible thought. Suppose Electra should recognise the pin at the eleventh hour? Then he'd be obligated to make matrimony with Canary . . . and he wouldn't get the pin. It was up to him to marry her quickly and speedily convert the pin into a diamond ring . . . for himself.

"Now, listen, sugarfoots," he murmured persuasively, "all these years I has waited fo' you, an' I cain't wait no longer. I gits suggestive that us marries each other tomorrow afternoon an' no later."

"O! Mocha honey!"

"Says you will?"

"If—if you insisses."

And so it was decided. Mr. Mocha Williams was superlatively happy that night, although somehow he couldn't rid his mind of Electra. There was danger, of course, so long as that diamond remained in its original setting. But by the next night Mocha would be the boss of the family. Easy enough, in the first days of the honeymoon, to get that pin from his bride. The prospect caused him to smile, then to whistle—and finally to burst into song.

THE wedding day dawned clear and cold. Mocha bought a new necktie—distinctly crimson—and was ready for marriage. He was vastly elated—not so much with the prospect of marrying Canary Gaunt—as with himself. He had salvaged much from nothing. He had unattainable ends. He regarded himself as considerable of a genius.

Shortly after noon he called for the bride. She met him on the varanda—all enclosed in a new coat. Together they went to the courthouse where the marriage license was obtained. Then they proceeded to the residence of the Rev'end Plato Tubb and Canary became Mrs. Mocha Williams.

Immediately after the ceremony they journeyed to her house where they had decided to spend a honeymoon. Mocha was trembling with eagerness. Canary removed her coat and Mocha blinked.

Something was missing.

"Canary," he inquired. "Where's yo' pin?"

"Which pin?"

"That diamond one you has been wearin' all the time?"

Canary smiled pridefully. "Shuh! Mocha—I knowed you never would let me keep another man's present. So this morning I gave that pin back to Frantic Marshall."

BLOOD ROYAL by DORNFORD YATES

The Foregoing Installments:

WILLIAM CHANDOS and his friend, George Hanbury, attended by their servants, Bell and Rowley, all of England, are spending a summer on the continent. They rescue Duke Paul of Reichtenburg, heir to the throne of the dying Prince Nicholas, from a kidnaper, Maj. Grieg. Grieg is a henchman of Duke Johann, cousin of Paul, who covets the crown. The kidnaping had been engineered by Johann to clear the way for a coup d'état. The Englishmen take Paul to Anger, castle of the Grand Duchess Leonie, the duke's cousin. Leonie travels with them to Vigil, capital of Reichtenburg, to match wits with Johann. Their forces are strengthened there by the Countess Dresden of Salm and Baron Sully, lord president of the council. Chandos, who has fallen in love with Leonie, is surprised to find her betraying deep feeling for him. Chandos and Hanbury are lured by Grieg to "The Square of Carpet," a night resort. The lights go out. Hanbury, who has drunk drugged wine, grows drowsy. Chandos knocks senseless one of the assailants who, with Grieg, hunt them. Chandos and Hanbury seek a trap door in "Box Seventeen."

INSTALLMENT VII.

The Vials of Wrath.

HOPING very much that Grieg was not so sure of his bearings as to find suspicious the sudden advance of our torch, we hastened along the passage to Box Seventeen.

A glance at the filthy roof showed us the trap.

At the same instant, in the box directly opposed, we saw the flash of Grieg's torch. Any moment its beam might betray us, but in view of George's condition I dared not wait.

In an instant I had set the table beneath the trap, and, while George held the sorry block steady, I mounted and put up my hands.

I was able to touch the trap—with two inches to spare.

Now, the trap was neither hinged nor fastened, but only sunk into place, and I had it free in a moment and ready to come away; but I dared not cast it outward for fear of the clatter it might make, so I disengaged it carefully and lifted it clear and down.

"Here, George," I whispered, and gave it into his hands.

He received it, certainly, but the wood was heavy, and I had asked too much of my failing friend.

Somehow he let it go, and it fell with a hollow clatter that could have been heard in the street.

"O, my God," he said faintly; and Grieg called out sharply and I saw the eye of his torch.

I was down on the floor, with an arm about Hanbury's shoulders, holding him up.

"One more effort," I breathed. "On to the table, George, and I'll pull you up."

I felt him brace himself. Then he mounted the table and put up his arms.

"Ready?" said I, taking hold, and felt him nod.

I thrust with all my might, and I am a powerful man.

He was up, out—waist high out of the trap, when his body suddenly sagged.

The last effort had been too much, or—irony of ironies—the fresh air had abetted the drug.

"George!" I shouted. "George!"

I might have called upon the dead.

He hung there, between earth and heaven, with his arms spread without the building and me, below, like Atlas, holding him up.

And after a little, finding his weight too heavy, I let him slide back slowly into my arms.

Then I laid him down on the floor, took off my overcoat, and waited for Grieg.

I HAD now no weapon, for George had lost his bottle and there was none in the box; but my nerves were much more steady than they had been when I was waiting to fell Grieg's man. This may seem curious, for our plight was now more desperate than it had been before, but I have once or twice been a variance and have found the entrance to a quarrel more trying than the quarrel itself.

Had I had time, I could have carried George Hanbury into another box, for Grieg must have seen our endeavor to escape by the roof and, if he remembered the number, would make straight for Box Seventeen; but I dared not be caught in the passage with George in my arms, and as I dismissed the notion I heard the murmur of voices five or six paces away.

Grieg was bringing the men from the head of the stairs.

I cannot think why I had failed to foresee so obvious a move. But at least I could read its lesson—that three men armed to one whose hands are empty are odds which no one can face.

In a flash I was out of the box and wrenching at the handle of its door—the handle without, which a man must turn to come in. Happily the metal was base, for almost at once it snapped. I whipped back into the box and slammed the door.

As I did so, three men came running. I heard Grieg feel for the handle and let out a frightful curse. A moment later he flung his weight upon the door.

For this at least I was ready, for my back was braced against the opposite side, and so far from budging the woodwork, I think he but bruised himself, for he did not repeat his assault.

It now seemed clear that they would attempt to enter from one of the boxes which stood upon either side, but I did not envy them the venture and I do not think they liked it themselves, for they whispered a lot together before I saw the glow of a torch emerging from the box on the right.

I had turned to counter this maneuver in some confidence and was flat against the side of the box, awaiting the arm or the leg which must be thrown round the partition and over the balustrade, when a deafening roar on my left told me that Grieg had fired directly into the lock of the door.

This, however, did not fly open, and the fellow flung himself against it with a passionate oath.

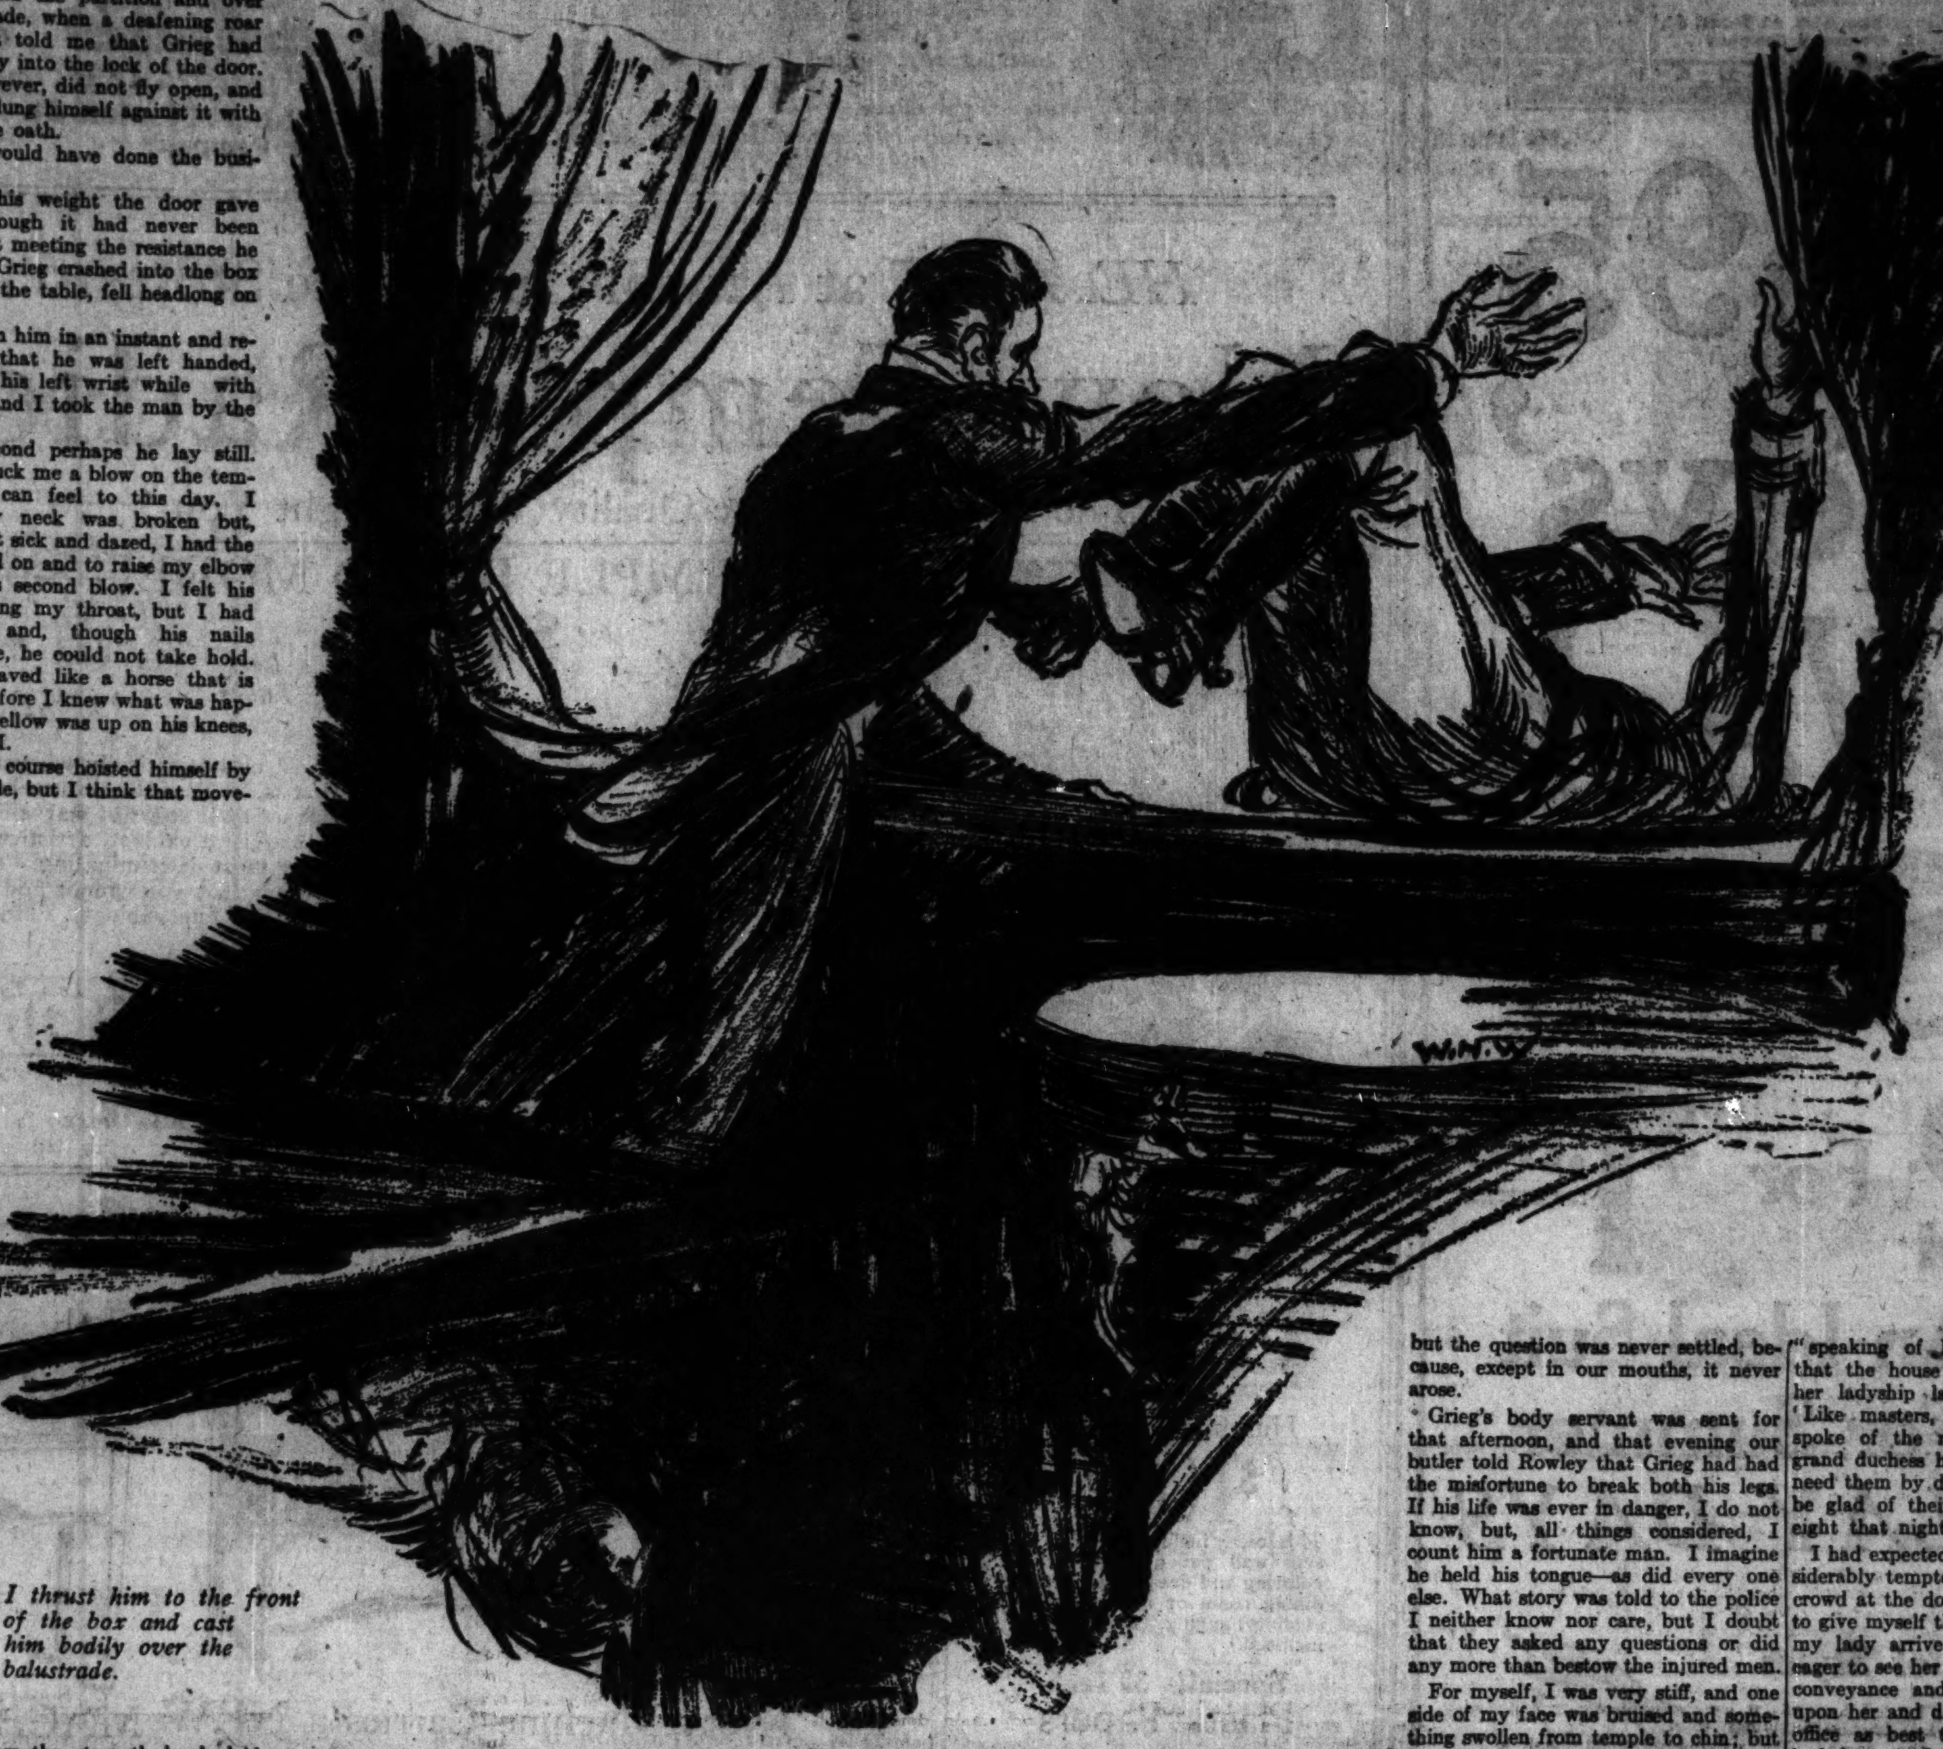
A kick would have done the business.

Beneath his weight the door gave way as though it had never been latched; not meeting the resistance he looked for, Grieg crashed into the box and fouling the table, fell headlong on to the floor.

I was upon him in an instant and remembering that he was left handed, had caught his left wrist while with my other hand I took the man by the throat.

For a second perhaps he lay still. Then he struck me a blow on the temple that I can feel to this day. I thought my neck was broken but, though I felt sick and dazed, I had the sense to hold on and to raise my elbow to parry his second blow. I felt his fingers seeking my throat, but I had the reach and, though his nails scratched me, he could not take hold. Then he heaved like a horse that is down and before I knew what was happening, the fellow was up on his knees, and so was I.

He had of course hoisted himself by the balustrade, but I think that movement will show the strength he had, for he had to lift both of us up, and I am a heavy man.



I thrust him to the front of the box and cast him bodily over the balustrade.

Again he sought my throat but I shook him off. And that I think was a feint, for an instant later he gave another heave and brought us up to our feet. As we came up he turned and before I could get my balance I was back to the balustrade.

I NOW saw that he meant if he could to break my back, and that each of his three great efforts had been made to that end. Then I had not foreseen; but now, by the grace of God, I foresaw the fourth.

As he flung himself forward I managed to writhe to one side, so that we both fell sideways on to the balustrade, and though he strove like a madman to roll me round, I was ready for this endeavor and brought it to nought.

By this time my strength was failing, and if one of the others had come to Grieg's assistance, I must at once have succumbed; but Grieg could not call upon them because I was gripping his throat, and though no doubt, they would have obeyed his orders, I fancy they were glad of an excuse for standing away from a pistol which might any moment go off. Yet, even without their aid, their leader was wearing me down.

It was only by the greatest endeavor that I could keep his pistol in check, and though I had a hold on his throat, my fingers were aching unbearably under the strain.

He struck me again savagely and I shook him with all my might; he flung back into the box and dashed me against the wall; he tried to trip me and slammed me over the heart; then he put up his hand and tore my trembling fingers away from his throat.

I confess he deserved this triumph, for though his lungs must have been bursting he had made all the running and had never once ceased to attack.

I could hear him striving to shout, but his voice was gone. Then he sought my throat again but I caught his wrist.

We were now both much exhausted and breathing hard, and only the thought of the pistol kept me from letting him go. Indeed I was desperate, for I had the feeling that he was nursing his strength and that after a moment or two he would break away.

All at once I became aware that trouble of some sort was brewing without the box, for I heard a gasp of protest and the fall of a heavy body upon the stone; but before I could think what this meant, Grieg made a mighty effort to shake me off.

I am ready to confess that he did with me as he pleased, except that he could not free his pistol arm. I might have been a man of straw, so lightly did he fling and buffet me this way and that. I had to release his right wrist, that my left hand might go to the help of my right, and so met a punishment that bade fair any moment to lay me low. Indeed I hung on blindly like a man in a trance.

Had he cared to drop the pistol I am sure that he could have killed me, for I should have let his wrist go without a thought; but we were both beyond tactics and even our instinct was failing beneath the strain.

Suddenly the box was illumined as bright as day.

The light came from behind me and fell on George Hanbury's face.

He was lying as I had laid him and the table had fallen across him with its legs in the air. And that is why, I suppose, we had not trampled upon him, for whenever we touched the table we had by one consent contrived to sheer off, for fear of becoming involved.

At this moment Grieg's wrist was up, but he swept it down with a ghastly croak of triumph and before I could grasp his meaning, fired full at George's face.

The horror of that action sent the blood to my head.

The fury of hatred possessed me as never before, and I think I was mad for a moment and was given a madman's strength.

He must have resisted my onslaught but I cannot remember that he did so, and he might have been a lay figure for all the opposition I knew.

I TORE the pistol from his fingers and hurled it down. Then I took him by the throat with both hands, thrust him to the front of the box and cast him bodily over the balustrade.

As I swung about, panting—

"Well done, sir," said Bell's voice.

The light of his torch blinded me, and I bade him throw the beam on to George and went down on my knees.

There was upon him no blood that I could see, but he, of course, was senseless and could not speak for himself. I therefore dragged off his coats and turned him about, but his shirt as far as his waist was nowhere stained. As I laid him back I noticed a graze on his chin which might have been made by a bullet that passed him by. Recalling as well as I could the angle at which the infamous shot had been fired, I ripped away the carpet at the edge of the box and there to my relief saw a bullet sunk in the wood.

"He missed him," I said unsteadily, and very near burst into tears.

Then I got to my feet and leaned back against the wall.

"Who have you got there?" I said.

"I don't know, sir," said Bell from the doorway. "There's one lying out in the passage, and this one put up his hands."

"Give me the torch," said I.

I saw a tall pock marked fellow with beady eyes, good enough I should say for a murder, but not very fond of a fight, for he looked the picture of terror, and feeling my eyes upon him he wrung out a sickly smile.

"D'you belong to this café?" I said.

He shook his head.

"Then why are you here?"

"I often come in the evenings."

"And sometimes you're wanted," said I, "for this sort of work."

He made me some shuffling answer I could not understand.

"Did you know the lights would go out?"

He nodded fearfully.

"Who told you?"

"The manager gave me a sign."

"What did you do then?"

"I went to the head of the stairs."

That was enough for me. The man was a common bully known to The Square of Carpet and always ready for hire.

"Listen," said I, "We shall both of us know you again. If you lie about tonight's work you can pray for your soul."

The manager was lying as we had laid him down, but his heart was beating strongly and the blood from the wound on his head was beginning to cake. By his side lay a loaded truncheon, caught by a thong to his wrist. I had missed it when I searched him, for his sleeve had fallen upon it when we laid the man down; and truly the sight of it shocked me, for I ought to have known that the man would never have sought us without a weapon of some kind and had I but looked till I found it, neither George nor I would have had so narrow an escape.

We returned to box seventeen.

The man that Bell had knocked senseless was now showing signs of life, and when he was fit to sit up I drove him on to his feet. Then I bade him and his comrade take up George Hanbury gently and carry him down to the door. Bell went before them and I, with Grieg's torch and pistol, followed behind.

WE were down at last and were standing in the sinister hall.

There Bell and I took George Hanbury, holding him up between us with his arms round our necks.

Then I addressed the two men.

"No doubt you'd like to clear out, but you won't do that. My friend was drugged. The manager went for me and I knocked him out. Major Grieg fired at my friend and I threw him out of the box. You're going to go to the police and tell them these facts. Excuse yourselves if you can; but tell half a li[illegible] I'll hunt you down [illegible] you deserve. And [illegible] to escape w[illegible] straight for the [illegible] policeman [illegible] us."

[illegible] into the street.

[illegible] policeman on duty pac[illegible] a nod [illegible] walked boldly [illegible] I had seen [illegible] Bell and I bore away. [illegible] we were beneath the [illegible] the church.

We found a sheltered corner and there I sat down, with Hanbury lying beside me and his head in my lap.

And while Bell ran for the car I fell asleep.

If I slept then I slept no more that night; but passed the hours in an infirmity of purpose of which I shall always be ashamed.

In the ordinary way I should have summoned a doctor for I had no means of telling whether George was in danger or no. Yet if there was trouble to come, my disclosure of George's condition would involve us up to the neck.

That trouble was coming seemed likely. That I had killed Grieg seemed certain, for he fell some sixteen feet and had uttered no sound. I found it hard to believe that if he were dead, no action would be taken to bring his assailant to book.

OF the ultimate result of such action I had no fear, but I greatly feared an inquest at which I should be cross-questioned and requested to furnish a reason for Grieg's attempt upon our lives.

It follows that unless one was needed, to call in a doctor was the last thing I wanted to do—yet if Hanbury's condition required one, the very first.

Between these two courses I hovered as a dog between two masters that are calling him different ways, with my hand upon George's pulse which I was forever locating and immediately losing again.

I was so much occupied with my dilemma that not until Bell was leaving to go to his bed did I remember to ask him how he happened to be in the background at the moment when I needed him most.

His tale was soon told.

"I knew you weren't armed, sir, and all of a sudden I wondered if it might be a trap; so I put the car away and walked back to see. Just as I got there people were coming away; but I didn't see you. When they were all of them gone I went inside. It was all in darkness and I was just turning away when I heard something fall with a crash. The next moment you called Mr. Hanbury. Of course I knew from your voice there was something amiss, but I had no torch of my own and I thought I should never reach you till I found the foot of the stairs."

"We owe you our lives," said I.

"O, no, sir," said Bell.

"Yes, we do. But for the light of your torch, Grieg wouldn't have seen Mr. Hanbury and wouldn't have fired. It was that that made me see red and throw him out."

This was the plain truth; and I am very certain that, if Bell had not had the wit to go to The Square of Carpet, neither George nor I would have ever been seen again. Indeed, I learned later on that the place was believed to be the grave of several strangers who, finding nowhere to sleep, had gone to The Square of Carpet to make a night of it and had been, poor fellows, so cordially abetted in this artless enterprise that they had been seen no more.

It was past midday when, to my great relief, George Hanbury opened his eyes. What was more, beyond a shocking headache and an astonishing thirst, he seemed not one penny the worse and was all agog in an instant to hear my tale.

That trouble might come of Grieg's death he would not allow, "because," he said, "who goes to The Square of Carpet goes to the wars; enter that den of thieves and you put yourself out of court." Though I agreed that we had now little to fear—for the only witnesses of our concern with the matter would, I was sure, respect my menaces—I could not help thinking that Vigil could scarce be so lawless that no hue and cry would be raised; but the question was never settled, because, except in our mouths, it never arose.

Grieg's body servant was sent for that afternoon, and that evening our butler told Rowley that Grieg had had the misfortune to break both his legs. If his life was ever in danger, I do not know, but, all things considered, I count him a fortunate man. I imagine he held his tongue—as did every one else. What story was told to the police I neither know nor care, but I doubt that they asked any questions or did any more than bestow the injured men.

For myself, I was very stiff, and one side of my face was bruised and something swollen from temple to chin; but the following day the swelling had disappeared and, since my eye was not black, no one, I think, would have known that I had suffered violence of any sort. This was as well, for the day after that was Wednesday, and the butler had procured us two stalls for the gala performance of "Tosca," which the grand duchess was to attend. Still, I was well content to fleet two days securely, passing much of my time in the loggia and generally taking my ease, for our hour at The Square of Carpet had shaken me, and whenever I see the word "death trap" I think of a row of boxes and a passage that has no end.

THOUGH we rested we did not waste time, but continually reviewed the position in the hope of perceiving some way of mating Johann.

George very soon came round to my way of thinking—namely: that command of the palace was as good as command of the throne; but, though we approached the pass from a hundred angles, we could see no feasible way of preventing or even of curing the mischief which the death of the prince would most surely unloose.

Morning and afternoon the grand duchess drove out with Duke Paul. If the papers may be believed, their visits afforded great pleasure wherever they went. How much of that emotion was inspired by the sight of Duke Paul I canont tell, but, though the reports made good reading and though I was sure that Johann must bear the grand duchess a grudge, I could not believe that he had just cause for alarm and I could not see Riechtenburg rising to pull him out of the saddle and set up Duke Paul.

We never questioned Bell or Rowley about their new work, relying upon them to tell us if anything happened of which we ought to be told. On Tuesday they came back radiant, because they had driven Sully, who had, it seemed, talked to them freely and had shaken them both by the hand. "And, if you please, sir," said Rowley, "speaking of Maintenance," he said that the house was well named, and her ladyship laughed and cried out, 'Like masters, like men.'" When I spoke of the morrow, they said the grand duchess had said she would not need them by day, but that she would be glad of their services at half past eight that night.

I had expected so much and was considerably tempted to make one of the crowd at the doors of the opera house, to give myself the pleasure of watching my lady arrive; for I was childishly eager to see her using our car as a state conveyance and our servants waiting upon her and discharging their elegant office as best they knew. But, if I had done so, I could not have been in my place in time to witness her entrance into the house and to miss that would have been foolish, for the occasion was extraordinary and Duke Paul's and her reception was sure to signify matter which I should be able to read.

Accordingly, Hanbury and I were in our seats in good time, with our eyes and our ears wide open and very well pleased with our stalls, which gave us an excellent view of the royal box.

The theater was not very large. Its less expensive parts were already full, the white linen clothing of the peasants contrasting strangely with their neighbors' attire. A constant stream was filling the rest of the house, and a better opportunity of observing the burghers of Vigil I cannot conceive.

THE women were mostly handsome and very smart, but few wore jewels of any value, and I do not remember one vulgar of copious display. The men, though courtly, were not very well turned out; but they were a shrewd looking lot, reserved, slow alike to laughter and wrath and not at all of the kind that is carried away. There were several officers present, all of them wearing full dress; quite a third of these were clad in the black and gold of the Black Hussars—a fact which mildly surprised me, for I had imagined that bodyguard duty permitted but little leave and that all the regiment was as good as confined to barracks until that duty was done.

This opinion was swiftly confirmed.

"Half the bodyguard's here," said a man who was seated behind me. "That comes of a colonel who has the ear of the prince."

"It's irregular," said his companion. "But Johann is a law to himself."

"He fears the prince," said the other.

"Soon he will have no one to fear," was the dark reply.

Here I missed a sentence or two, for George and I had to rise to allow some newcomers to pass.

As we sat down—

"He is not popular enough," said the man who had spoken first. "The people's darling can take his neighbor's wife, and the world will dance at his wedding, but any one else will have to change his café."

"My friend," said the other, "I think you employ seven clerks. Because there are fireworks at the palace, are you going to give them a holiday that they may go and throw stones?"

I could not hear the answer, but I could guess what it was.

"A hundred years ago," said the other, "the throne touched every shepherd that sleeps on the hills; but now a penny stamp costs three halfpence, no matter whose image it bears."

HERE the orchestra began to tune up, and a rustle of expectation ran through the house. Every one's face was turned to the royal box, and a little knot of people that had still taken their seats were held by an attendant in a doorway against its will.

I heard the conductor's baton strike on his music stand.

Then the footlights went up, the music burst out, and every one got to their feet.

The grand duchess was in all her glory.

As she came to her place the cheering broke out, but instead of bowing she turned at once to Duke Paul, who had followed her in. As he took his place she made him a reverence—this very slowly and with infinite grace, and I am glad to say that he bowed low in return. Then they turned to the house and bowed their thanks, she making it very clear that the homage rendered was his and falling back a little to point her argument.

The duke was in uniform and bore himself well enough.

In the midst of the scene, which was very cordial, a man stepped out of the background to stand between the duke and my lady in the front of the box.

It was Duke Johann—come to share a triumph he could not prevent.

I saw the grand duchess observe him and I saw her start of surprise. The next instant her little gold bag fell into the aisle below.

As a voice cried "Hurray for Johann," she addressed Johann and pointed, and I saw him look down.

With her hand still pointing to the gangway, she smiled and spoke again and looked him full in the face.

The gesture was unmistakable. She was requesting him to send some one to recover her bag.

I never saw her look so charming, so gracious, and so royal.

Johann was graveled.

Obey, and he was her servant; refuse, and he was no gentleman.

For a moment the fellow wavered. Then he turned to the back of the box.

As the cheering died suddenly down the grand duchess took her seat and the duke took his. An instant later the lights in the house were lowered and the overture was begun.

"And so to bed," murmured George. "I'll bet a ducat that Johann has sent for his car. And I don't envy his chauffeur—or his ox or his ass or anything that is his. I've seen styles cramped before, but that was a permanent wave."

2 Glasses Water Flush Kidneys!

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean by flushing them with water. This helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys clean and active.

Drink lots of good water—at least two glasses every morning about an hour before breakfast. Also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts and add a tablespoonful to one of the glasses. Try this for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try the morning glass of Jad Salts for a while and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

GOOD MORNING!

From the ranks of the altalkers sounds a new bugle note of triumph! An operetta, complete in song, dance, scene, and substance, has been successfully screened! "The Desert Song" contributes its laughing horn as answer to the prognosticator who sticks to his statement that there ain't no future for the talkie.

The silent picture developed slowly, if you compare its advance with the long strides taken by the altalker. Consider the short time the sound films have been with us—and what they were when we first met them. And what they are today. We used to pray for patience to endure them until they should have clattered themselves into innocuous desuetude. Didn't we? Today—well, of course some of them ARE terrible, BUT—we have had the great western outdoor picture, "In Old Arizona." We have seen the musical comedy, "Broadway Melody," competently screened in sound. "Hearts in Dixie," fine folk film, has come our way. We have laughed gaily through short comedies such as "The Melancholy Dame." AND been charmed by the first altalker operetta, "The Desert Song."

Much credit must be accorded the director of this production and the people who play in it. They have performed what must have been a difficult feat marvelously well.

It's an Achievement.

Not hard, perhaps, to have merely brought the operetta's music to the silver sheet. An achievement to have captured also the glamor of fine acting, spontaneous and convincing action, sets and scenery that delight the eye, and suspense enough to hold the interest for almost two hours!

No doubt about it, "The Desert Song" is too long, but it's difficult to see how it could have been much shortened without spoiling the harmony of the whole. Probably the film could have done with less of Louise Fazenda, who plays a silly rôle in too silly fashion. But Johnny Arthur, her co-worker in the comedy sequences, IS funny. He has to spill his lines to somebody, I suppose.

John Boles is the big surprise of this piece, even as Warner Baxter was of "Arizona." He was in musical comedy before coming to the screen, where—like Warner Baxter—he has registered as just another personable leading man.

It took the altalkers to make a personage of him. They said "Sing, John, sing!" And how John CAN sing! And act—in "The Desert Song!" He was never a whirlwind in anything else. But here, fired by opportunity, he makes good splendidly every minute he's on the screen.

Sings Like an Angel.

Carlotta King, playing opposite to him in the rôle Vivienne Segal had on the stage—playing opposite Robert Halliday—sings like an angel (said she recklessly, never having heard an angel sing), and, while no raving beauty, has much charm and appeal, besides being an able actress. Miss King was a concert singer. While performing for the radio one night she was heard by J. L. Warner.

"THERE!" said Mr. Warner, "If that girl's got any looks at all she's the one we want for Margot."

Hurrying feet sped for Miss King, who came, was seen—and signed up instanter.

Supporting rôles are excellently handled. Myrna Loy as a desert dancer and charmer is ravishing. Her work in this film will surely spell a successful future for her. If it doesn't, it should. The dances single and ensemble are fascinating and the choruses are thrillingly sung by folks who also conduct themselves admirably before the camera. The Riff song is magnificent. You'll leave the theater humming it. There are some gorgeous views and panoramic shots.

Story Goes Like This.

The story of this operetta tells of The Red Shadow, a mysterious Frenchman who heads a band of Arabs. You know him to be the supposedly goofy son of General Birbeau, French commandant of the Foreign Legion stationed in the desert and deeply in love with one Margot, who is there for reasons the picture shall show you. Margot is desired by Capt. Fontaine, who has been trifling with the affections of a dangerous desert maiden named Azuri. Also on the scene are a reporter (Johnny Arthur) and his secretary (Louise Fazenda).

If you saw the stage show you know what happens to all these people. If not—this is no time for you to know it.

If tempted to criticize the duties—and pleasures—of the Foreign Legion as depicted in this production—don't! "The Desert Song" lays no claim to veracity. It is operetta, pure and simple, transferred from stage to screen with singular success.

No. 6--Erdman Olson and the Murder of His Country Sweetheart. Did He Kill Her?

The Case That Has Perplexed All Wisconsin

By Philip Kinsley.

IN its prelude there is little to choose between the tragedy of Clara Olson and her lover, Erdman Olson, in Wisconsin of 1926 and that story of the middle ages which began when Kristin Lavransdatter met the young Erland and admitted him to her loft at night.

This thing called the life force which moves us humans about to its own sweet tune has little to offer in the way of new plots or stimuli for cellular action—only new scenes and actors on a timeless, universal stage.

In its denouement, however, in the way the principals, fathers, mothers, brothers, neighbors, react to the situation, the chivalry and social intelligence of the middle ages seem to shine by contrast. Kristin became a wife and the honored head of a family of many sons. Clara was killed and buried face downwards in a shallow grave near her lover's farm. Erland faced the consequences. Erdman has been a fugitive for two and a half years. The solution of this case seems simple, but there are points to it that make its very obviousness suspicious.

CLARA'S BEREAVED FAMILY

THE grief-stricken kin of the murdered girl as they awaited the solution of the mystery. In the rear are the other daughters: Emma, Igna, Alice, Cornelia, and Minna. In the front row: Mrs. Dina Olson, the mother; Christ Olson, the father, and J. S. Earll, then district attorney of Crawford county, Wisconsin. It was Christ Olson who had the strange dream about the location of his daughter's dead body.

A TESS OF THE DAIRY

The Olson murder case has for its scenes of action the Kickapoo valley in the Prairie du Chien country in western Wisconsin. This is historic ground of French exploration and battles between Indian tribes. The scene is partly laid in Gales college, Galesville, which the old circuit rider, Father Van Slyke, tried to prove was the Garden of Eden.

This is a pleasant countryside which the descendants of Erland and Kristin of Viking legend have taken from the Indians. It gives vistas of gentle hills, green valleys, and virgin woods. The farms look prosperous, the homes comfortable. Yet it is the scene of as cruel a murder as ever was committeed in dark city streets.

Upon one of these farms, three miles north of Seneca, Christ Olson and his family have lived for thirty years. Their white house with its broad verandas and windmill in the back has a commanding position over the valley.

Christ Olson is an old, white whiskered man who has worked hard in the soil all his life. His nine children were all grown and he had 370 acres of good land when this story opens. They all worked on the farm. Adolph was about 30, Bernard, 28, and Arthur younger. Alice, the oldest girl, who enters into this case, was about 26. Clara Dorothy, the victim, was 22. They all merge into one picture of the soil, with stories of Clara going to town occasionally, but with little social life. Not books but milking and housework were her lot, perhaps her choice. She was of joyous nature, another Tess of the dairy, in full bloom.

Her Collegiate Lover.

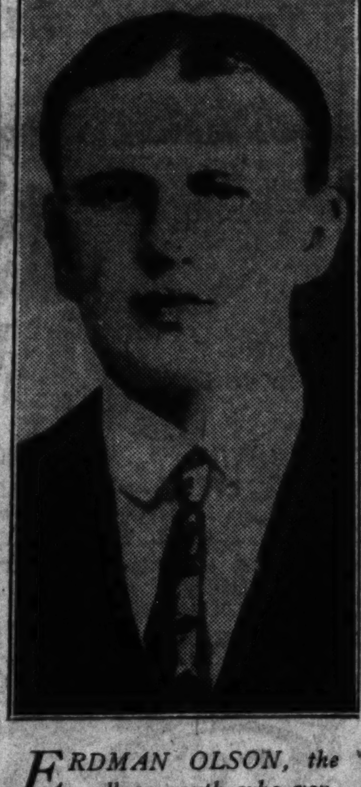
A few miles down the road, near Rising Sun, Albert Olson and his family have lived for forty years. He is a younger, harder, more progressive type of farmer, and had 280 acres and buildings valued at $75,000. His wife and two sons, Erdman Sanford, 18, and Arvid, 11, lived with him.

These two families are not related and had never met except at church or on the road until this catastrophe brought them together in sadness and bitterness.

Erdman was a student at Gale college, far beyond the social ken of the simple Clara, but he met her and they were drawn together. He did not take her to the country dances, but would call for her frequently during the summer of 1925 in his automobile and take her riding or to town. He waited outside until she was ready, and never entered the house of Christ Olson.

Erdman was not popular at college. He was expelled once for a prank, but taken back on probation. He tried for the basketball team, but failed. He had a good tenor voice and was a member of the glee club. In February of 1926 he took the part of "The Gypsy Rover" in a three act operetta. This was only a few months before he became a rover in earnest. He liked to dance and sing, had several girl friends with whom he corresponded. He was strong and heavy, with light brown hair, parted in the middle, blue eyes, a scar on the right side of his face. According to Sheriff Harry Sherwood, he had a mean disposition, but the sheriff may have been prejudiced.

ACCUSED



ERDMAN OLSON, the college youth who vanished after the disappearance of his sweetheart, Clara Olson. He denied at the time that he had anything to do with her difficulties—but after two and one-half years he is still among the missing.

IN SHALLOW GRAVE

CLARA DOROTHY OLSON, whose body was found buried under a few inches of turf in a timberland tract nearly three months after she had crept out into the night to meet her lover. Folded over her breast were two letters from Erdman Olson, and one of these contained instructions to join him, but warning her to destroy all his missives.

REVEALING HER SECRET

His record does not show anything abnormal, though his eyes at times were said to have a peculiar stare, and they were slightly crooked.

Erdman was at home during the Easter vacation of 1926 and on the following August 17 his father and mother received this letter, signed "I am Clara Olson."

> Dear Mr. and Mrs. Olson: I know you folks will be surprised to hear from me and what I have to say. Understand I am a good Friend to your son Erdman and sorrie to say we are in a pinch and have to get married, if God is willing and you folks are willing to help us.
> I wrote Erdman a letter some time ago, and told him I wanted to see him, but have not seen him come down. I saw him and you folks at West Prairie Missions Sunday but did not have a chance to talk with him. Tell Erdman to come down one day or night this week so I can talk this over with him and also let me hear a few words from you.
> I do not like to get Erdman into trouble so I hope you folks will help us before my folks find out what is coming. Please be good to Erdman. I know he never meant to leave me in this way. It is only four and a half months left now until I will be expecting so I hope Erdman and I can get married this month and make our life worth while. Will close with love and God's blessings.

That letter was a great effort for Clara, and it is the only one to tell her story. She waited, as Kristin waited long ago, but instead of her lover coming to her, "his face shining with gladness," to sweep her into his arms, Erdman came sulkily, doubting and defiant.

Strangely Unstirred.

Erdman did not seem surprised when his parents showed him this letter. They, too, were strangely unstirred by it. Albert Olson told his son to go and see the girl and demand a doctor's examination. He also sent word for the girl to come to see him. Erdman was frightened, and Clara was more than frightened. This gate of kindness was closed to her.

She would not go to a doctor. She knew. She would not go to see the Olsons, Erdman reported. He came back and told his parents that she had her "dates mixed," that he was "out of it," and that she had "dropped it." The elder Olsons comforted themselves and decided that the girl must be wrong, that Erdman could not be responsible, that this was a trap to force the son of a rich farmer into marriage. She was left alone with her secret. No move was made to help her. Erdman prepared to return to college.

On Sept. 9 Clara received a letter. This was an event, and her sister Alice asked her whom it was from.

"Erdman," said the girl as she secreted it in her dress and fled to her room.

Sister Minna also was curious and wanted to know who wrote it.

"Erdman, of course," said Clara.

Clara had spent the morning in the kitchen, baking cookies. After she had read the letter she hunted up a school geography and began to study it intently.

"What are you looking for?" asked her inquisitive sisters.

"O, a place," she said evasively.

THE DISAPPEARANCE

Then Clara went to her room and burned some letters. She left the envelopes in the room. They were from Erdman. There were two letters that she did not burn, and these may convict Erdman if he is ever caught. Alice saw her burning the letters.

Clara helped with the evening milking, but at supper her father noticed that she was pale and unusually silent.

That night, between 11 and 12 o'clock, Christ Olson arose and took a lantern and went out into the yard to see if he had fastened the cattle gate. He came back into the house and blew out the light. He noticed through the front window an automobile moving north along the highway sixty rods away. At the gate which leads to his private driveway the auto turned and the lights went out. Christ thought the farmer who lives opposite had come home late. He looked at the clock. It was 11:55. He went to bed again.

A few minutes later he heard some one coming downstairs, passing the sitting room next to his bedroom.

"Who is it?" he called.

"Clara."

She went outdoors through the dining room door. He thought she was going to the outside toilet. He spoke to his wife and tried to go to sleep, but was uneasy. A few minutes later he asked his wife:

"Clara didn't come back, did she?"

"Yes, I think she did," said the mother.

Aroused by a Dream.

Christ dozed and had a dream. He dreamed that his daughter's bed was empty. He awoke frightened and told his wife to go to Clara's room. She returned to say that the bed was empty. They went out of doors and found she was not there.

This was between 1 and 2 o'clock. Olson became alarmed. He awakened two of the boys, Adolph and Bernard, and told them their sister was gone, and of the auto he had seen, and asked them to look at the tracks of the car. They examined the tracks and reported they led south. Adolph suggested that he go to Albert Olsons and see Erdman. They recalled the letter that had come that day and what Alice had seen. They decided to wait until morning.

At 6 o'clock in the morning Bernard went over to the Albert Olsons. Mrs. Olson was getting breakfast. She said Erdman was asleep, but she called him.

"Well, good morning; pretty cold this morning," said Bernard.

"Yes, it is kind of cool."

"You were up pretty late—were you down at the dance at Seneca?" asked Bernard.

"Yes."

"You wrote a letter to Clara the other day?"

"Yes."

"Last night you came after her, and I came to know where she went."

Erdman studied awhile and looked out over the valley. Finally he said:

"I didn't come after her."

Bernard told him of the auto tracks that he had followed, and asked if one of Erdman's tires was an old one. He knew this was not so, he said later, but put the question as a trap. Erdman took him out and showed him the car he had used to go to the dance. The tires were all the same.

"Those were your tires, all right," said Bernard, and asked him again for his sister.

"It must have been somebody else," said Erdman, and took Bernard into the house. Mrs. Olson had Bernard look in all the rooms to make sure Clara was not there. Then he went home.

Her Little Surprise.

In the meantime a note from Clara had been found under the lamp in her room. It had been written the afternoon before. In it she told her parents she was going away and would be back in a week or two.

"I didn't know I was going until this afternoon," she had written, "but couldn't make up my mind until now, when I am leaving."

So this accounted for her paleness and her silence.

"Please don't take it seriously, as it will mean nothing, only a little surprise. I am taken good care of and will be back soon. Lovingly yours,
"CLARA."

They waited two weeks. They went over for a conference with the Albert Olsons. Erdman had gone back to college on Sept. 12. Christ and his wife said they were worried and frightened, but the Albert Olsons told them to have patience; that the girl would come back. They intimated then that she might be the mother of a fatherless baby, and that it might be about the first of the year before she would return. They thought she had gone away to have her baby and thought, from her letter, it would be about this time. They did not blame Erdman for it, as they had figured it out that Erdman had been home only in April and could not have been responsible.

Confronting the Accused.

Christ Olson finally went to see a lawyer in Viroqua, who told him the girl was probably dead. The following Sunday Christ took two friends, Andrew and Oliver Helgerson, and drove up to Gale college. He found Erdman and demanded to know what he had done with Clara. Erdman denied he had seen her that night.

"You gave that girl instructions to burn your letters, the letter she received then, and sometimes she miss the wrong one," said Christ.

At that time, so far as is known, he had not seen the letter, subsequently discovered, in which these instructions to burn were written, and the assumption here must be that he merely made a shrewd guess. At least, he frightened Erdman.

"Alice seen it," said the father. Erdman admitted he had written a letter, and walked away with a group of boys. The father followed him around and got him aside for another talk.

"You told her to meet you at the door at 12 o'clock, didn't you?" he demanded.

"Yes, I did. I took her," said Erdman, according to the father.

Christ took him to the Helgersons and made him repeat this. They asked

Amateur Actors Shine in Annual Tournament.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The amateur actors had everything their own way last week. They came from various parts of the country to take part in the seventh annual Little Theater tournament. Some of them brought scenery with them, more of them rented scenery in New York. But all of them had their makeup boxes and their enthusiasm and used both to advantage.

In five days' playing twenty different Little Theater groups presented twenty one act plays. Most of them were tragedies. The amateurs do love to suffer, in the drama. And most Little Theater audiences, I conclude, enjoy suffering with them.

Generally speaking, their work was good. There were no foreign entries this year, but there were American groups entered from as far west as Denver, several from the south, and the rest from the metropolitan district.

And to show you that, while New York may have a sort of monopoly when it comes to the production of professional plays, it has none in the amateur field; two of the prizes were won by out of town groups.

The first prize for the performance of an unpublished play went to the Anniston Little Theater of Anniston, Ala., and the second prize for the performance of a published play was won by the Guild Play Shop of Denver. The Anniston amateurs offered "The End of the Dance," by Hudson Strode, and the Denver players won with Dana Burnet's "Rain," which he wrote years before Jeanne Eagels played the longer play of the same title. The two "Rains" were similar only in title.

The first prize for the best performance of a published play was given to the Garden Players of Forest Hills, Long Island, who played Sir James M. Barrie's "Shall We Join the Ladies," and the second prize went to the players of the Sunnyside Playhouse of Sunnyside, Long Island, for their performance of "The Severed Cord," by Maxine Finsterwald.

The Belasco cup, which is the capital prize of the tournament, was given to the Garden Players of Forest Hills for their performance of "Shall We Join the Ladies?"

Movement Is Making Notable Strides.

The Little Theaters of America are playing each year an increasingly important part in the theater entertainment of the people. They have increased in number in the last ten years from 150 to an estimated 1,500 active groups. In many centers they have built their own playhouses and have made productions that have equaled when they did not excel those of the professional stage.

The most successful of them, organizations like that of the Pasadena Community theater in Pasadena and the Dallas Little Theater, have long since moved out of the one act experimental stage and have produced the best full length plays available. Thirteen productions were made last season in Pasadena, several of them the first performances to be given in America of the works chosen and many of them the first productions to be shown on the coast. The Dallas Little Theater staged eight full length plays, the Duluth Little Theater six, the Little Theater Guild of Nashville eight. At Stanford university 200 students entered for the competitive tryouts. In Bloomington, Ill., the Passion Play has become so famous an annual event that an increased number of performances are necessary each year.

Talkies Still a Bone of Contention.

The discussion as to what the talkies are going to do to the living theater goes on and grows more interesting as it spreads. In this connection two letters came last week, parts of which may interest you.

Writing from Los Angeles, Monroe Lathrop, drama critic of the Express, ventured this slightly pessimistic conclusion: "I hate to think of what the talkies are going to do to the stage. My first love, of course, is the stage; but only the dullest imagination can fail to vision the future commercializing of the theater into one vast business in control of what we call Wall street, taking its place beside United States Steel and General Motors."

And in the same mail this interesting report from a young actress who gave up playing the lead in one of the touring "Seventh Heaven" companies to become a play coach in a midwestern university:

"I thought it would interest you to know Decatur's reaction to a road show. The town is full of talking pictures, but when they heard Pauline Frederick was coming in 'The Scarlet Woman'—a real play—the town was thrilled. The theater man said he sold more tickets in the first hour and a half of the ticket sale than he did for the whole performance of the last show which came here—about a year and a half ago. The theater was crowded and loved the show. Decatur is only one of many, but it might be representative of a certain type of city and as such can indicate the keen enjoyment human beings will always have in flesh and blood actors."

Cites a Remarkable Coincidence.

I heard a little story the other day that is, I think, sufficiently dramatic to merit inclusion in this drama column. Dodd, Mead & Co., the book publishers, have just issued through the Literary guild, Commander Ellsberg's vivid account of raising the sunken submarine, the S-51, under the title of "On the Bottom."

It is the commander's first book, though the account of the submarine's

Royal Band of Belgium Comes for 2 Concerts

Symphony Group Here for Hospital Benefit.

By Edward Moore.

HAVING accomplished a peaceful penetration of the country as far west as Los Angeles, Pasadena, Santa Barbara, Portland, Vancouver, Seattle, and Tacoma and back through Laramie, Denver, Omaha, Sioux Falls, and other communities, the Royal Belgian Guards' Symphonic band, under the leadership of Capt. Arthur Prevost, comes for the first time to Chicago today for two concerts in the Auditorium, one at 3:30 in the afternoon and the other at 8:15 in the evening. Henrotin Policlinic hospital, which was named for a Belgian, Dr. Fernand Henrotin, will benefit from the proceeds.

The band is on a good will tour of America under the patronage of King Albert of Belgium. Its membership is composed of eighty of Belgium's best musicians. This is the first visit this historic organization has ever made to America, although concert tours of Europe have been made, notably at the close of wartime hostilities.

Belgian societies throughout the state are planning to attend the afternoon concert. The evening concert will be a social event of importance, with society sponsors occupying the famous diamond horseshoe of the old Auditorium. Mrs. Joseph B. Long, 1540 Lake Shore drive, is general chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Evensong Festival Sponsored.

For another kind of music the Chicago Diocesan Choir association, mixed choir division, will sponsor a festival choral evensong at St. Luke's church, Evanston, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Three visiting mixed choirs will join forces with that of St. Luke's, a total of about 150 singers.

The visiting choirs will be those of St. James' cathedral, Chicago, Leo Sowerby, organist and choirmaster; St. Chrysostom's, Chicago, Harold Simons, organist and choirmaster; and the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, Arthur Ranous, choirmaster, Alice McBride, organist. The service will be played by Herbert E. Hyde, organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's. Much a cappella music will be sung, also Franck's 150th Psalm, and there will be organ solos by Mr. Simonds and Mr. Sowerby.

The Sunday Evening club choir of 125, directed by Edgar Nelson, will sing tonight a program of compositions by Dr. J. Lewis Browne, organist and choirmaster of St. Patrick's church and head of the music department in the Chicago public schools. The numbers will be "Jesus, Our Glorious Saviour," "O, Blest Creator of the Light," and "Lullaby." Stanley Martin, organist, will play Dr. Browne's "Simplicity" and "Contrasts."

New Opera Training Schools.

Shortly before leaving for Europe, Herbert M. Johnson, business manager of the Chicago Civic Opera, made a speech over the radio. One point toward the end was touched on only lightly, but it had interesting possibilities. Speaking of the new opera house—by the way, its opening date is set for Monday, Nov. 4—he said:

"For the use of the opera company the building contains all the recital and rehearsal rooms and facilities necessary for the preparation of opera and for the education of vocal artists, dancers, and technicians. Thus in this new building Chicago will acquire not only a monument to the city's commercial leadership but also a complete and permanent home of the city's own opera company, where grand opera will be institutionalized on a scale never before achieved."

Which means, one would say, not only greatly improved rehearsal facilities, but training schools for chorus, ballet, what not, and even more. There would seem to be an excellent chance some time in the future of an experimental laboratory of opera, ballet, pantomime, whatever the future art of stage and music may bring out, with all the opportunity of analyzing it thoroughly and at leisure to see whether it is practicable, and if not, whether it can be made so. The value of a such a department is almost too great to be imagined.

The golden and silver throated songbirds of the organization are still pretty well on the wing. Rosa Raisa is on her way to South America after having given Naples a thrill with her Norma such as the city seems not to have had in years. And Claudia Muzio at the end of a highly successful season at the Royal theater in Rome was tendered a reception by the Association of the Calabresi, in which section of Italy she was born. And Eva Turner sang in guest performances in Copenhagen and at the San Carlo of Naples and La Scala of Milan and has now gone to Covent Garden, London, where Frida Leider, Maria Olszewska, Alexander Kipnis, Conductor Frank St. Leger, and Stage Director Charles Moor are also appearing. The London newspapers say that they are wonderful people and that they know their opera. And Rene Maison is about to start upon fifteen operatic performances of opera in Paris during June and July, and Cesare Formichi and Tito Schipa have been singing concerts abroad.

Music Notes.

The Musical Courier prints that some German musicians have been making an intensive study of what does and what does not go well on the radio, and the results of their observations have been published by the authorities of the Baden-Baden musical festival, which this year will devote its programs to "home and layman's music." What they have learned may be submitted to American radio composers:

1. The sphere of radio transmission, which aims to appeal, within their own walls, to hearers of various classes and grades of education must be considered in determining the character of the work.

2. Further to be considered are the mechanical peculiarities of the microphone as a communicating instrument. Concerning this it may be remarked:

CONDUCTOR

CAPT. ARTHUR PREVOST.

Having come to this country for the first time in its long history, the Symphonic band of the Royal Belgian Guard will play concerts at the Auditorium this afternoon under the direction of Capt. Prevost. The engagement has been made for the benefit of the Henrotin hospital.

Orchestral works must have a clear structure. Rustling, thick orchestration is not suitable. Chords that are too solidly or too closely scored must be avoided.

The tone color of the single instruments is differently reproduced by the microphone. String instruments transmit well. The only string chords to be avoided are thickly or closely scored ones in the middle and lower registers.

Wood-wind instruments without exception sound clear and distinct, without losing much of their tonal character. But the exaggerated prominence of the flute, especially in its higher register, is to be noted. In any case, the soloistic treatment of the wood-winds is to be preferred.

The horn must be treated with special care, as roughnesses and faulty playing are especially magnified by the microphone. Close harmony of several horns and fortissimos must be avoided.

The trumpet may be used in all registers, also with the mute.

The harp sounds well, especially in high registers.

Percussion must be handled carefully, and the bass drum must be avoided. The snare drum, too, takes on an entirely different tone color. No cymbals, if possible, or only in fortissimo passages for purposes of characterization, and then only in single beats.

Kettle drums are good only in single beats of rhythmic character. Kettle drum tremolos, in the tutti, are to be avoided.

Wooden percussion, such as xylophone and wooden drum, are very usable.

The Skalski orchestra, conducted by André Skalski, will give a final and somewhat elaborate program at Orchestra hall next Friday night. Schumann's Fourth Symphony will be the principal number, but, in addition, there will be three overtures, Weber's to "Der Freischütz," Smetana's to "The Bartered Bride," and Offenbach's to "Orpheus in the Underworld"; Hungarian dances by Brahms, Slavonic dances by Dvorak, and Jan Chiapusso and Lois Rogers Chiapusso, pianists, will join the orchestra in presenting Saint-Saëns' "The Carnival of Animals."

Some twenty or twenty-five high school bands will meet in Denver May 23-25 to compete in the sixth national contest of their organization. They will be divided into two classes, but each class will number about 100 players. They are the pick of about 650 bands representing not less than 40,000 student players of thirty-eight states, and all that are left after the elimination of state and district contests.

They are competing for the national trophy awarded by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, the grand trophy to be awarded to the winner of first place in class A. The judges will be Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, Will Earhart of Pittsburgh, Edward W. Morphy of Madison, Wis.; N. D. Rubertis, and Carl Busch of Kansas City, Capt. Charles O'Neill of Quebec, and Henry Sachs of Denver. In the procedure of the contest each band will play a warming up number not to be judged, a required number, and a number selected from a list of permissible choice. The required number for class A will be "A Chant from the Great Plains," by Carl Busch; for class B Burleigh's "Two Oriental Sketches."

Cathal O'Byrne, Irish singer and poet, will give a farewell recital of Irish folk songs and ballads, interspersed with Irish poetry and folk lore, in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building tonight. The program will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Mr. O'Byrne is returning to Ireland next month, where he will resume his research work and writing on Irish folk music which he left off three years ago to make a concert tour of America.

The Salzburg festival this year will be given between Aug. 4 and Aug. 30, and will enlist the services of Max Reinhardt, Fritz Busch, Clemens Krauss, Franz Schalk, and Lother Wallerstein, also the actors of the Reinhardt company, principals of the Vienna State opera, the Vienna Philharmonic society, and the choral union of the Vienna State opera. Hugo von Hofmannsthal's "Everyman" will be given on the cathedral square, Mozart's "Don Juan," Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," and Beethoven's "Fidelio" in the Festspielhaus. Among the other events in the cathedral, the Festspielhaus, and the Mozarthaus will be four cathedral concerts, three chamber concerts, four Mozart serenades, and eight orchestral concerts, with a ninth to be given under the direction of Paul Kerby of London.

Edwin Stanley Seder will play the dedicatory program on the new memorial pipe organ of the La Salle-Peru Township High school at La Salle this afternoon.

Eckstein Considers the Time Problem

HAVING considered the matter of artists and répertoire, Mr. Eckstein now has another annual question to settle, the time when performances can begin at Ravinia and when they must end.

"We have a problem up there," he writes. "Trains, distances both ways, coming and going. If you could know the many requests I get for beginning later so as to give Lake Forest a chance to dine and to give the Chicago people a chance to get there and get located, and then the requests I get for an early beginning and an earlier finish, you would think this was a madhouse. The people on the far south side want to get home early; the people on the near north side prefer to start later and finish later—they have only a few minutes to go—so altogether it is a problem. We try to figure in the picture for all people.

"I long ago learned that newspaper offices have what editors call the sweating process. This means that when a piece of copy is too long to print regardless of its news value, and that to trim it down by cutting out whole paragraphs at a time would spoil the meaning, or at least mar the style of its composition, it is placed in the hands of a skilled copy editor, who sweats it by eliminating all needless words and sentences. A column of matter can in this way be reduced by one-third, and it is likely that the author himself would not know that it had been shortened a particle. The meaning is there exactly as it was before, and its literary style is intact. It is just as good as it was when it was first written—better, perhaps, because it has gained the virtue of brevity.

Editing the Opera.

"That is exactly the way operas are shortened at Ravinia. A skilled cutter takes them in hand, eliminates certain passages, shortens others, doing away with a lot of recitative that means nothing even to those who follow it in the original language. The important parts are retained, the nonessential is culled.

"Americans like promptness. They make an effort to get to the opera house on time and they expect the performance to begin on time. Likewise, they want it to end at a fairly early hour. Ravinia performances begin at about twenty minutes after eight and they are over shortly before eleven. It is by making this possible that Ravinia has won the hearty thanks of its patrons."

Hospital to Hear Gordon.

Patients of the Chicago State hospital will hear a violin recital by Jacques Gordon, concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, tomorrow evening at the auditorium of the hospital. The concert is made possible through the good offices of Miss Bertha Ott, local manager, who is much interested in the musical experiments conducted at the hospital.

"The violin seems to have a greater appeal to the mentally sick than does any other musical instrument, and the program is specially prepared by Mr. Gordon in sympathy with effects sought on our patients," says Dr. Alex S. Hershfield, state alienist, who is conducting this series of concerts to determine the value of music in the treatment of the insane.

"We are playing for rhythmic effects rather than melodic reactions, for we know that rhythm speeds up the coördination processes of the mentally retarded; moreover, the energy that music produces offers an added chance of improvement to such patients as have an ear for melody. The experiments so far have been very salutary."

Plays and Such of Ten Years Ago in Chicago Theaters

SUBJOINED are news of and comment on plays and shows printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of May 18, 1919—the date most nearly corresponding to today. The excerpts are verbatim, and not rewrites or summarizations.

Stuart Walker began his third stock season in Indianapolis two weeks ago, and, as usual, will essay a number of productions somewhat out of the beaten stock path. George Gaul, Margaret Mower, and McKay Morris are at present of his company; and Gregory Kelly, J. M. Kerrigan, Lillian Ross, Ruth Gordon, Judith Lowry, and Beatrice Maude will join the organization next month. Still others in the troupe are Edgar Stehli, Aldrich Bowker, and Elizabeth Patterson. Mr. Walker's most ambitious productions will be "Kismet," "The Darling of the Gods," and "Peter Ibbetson"; and it is likely that he will also try out at least a pair of new plays.

Owing to his having had his Portmanteau Theater here for a time and to the Chicago success of "Seventeen," the doings of Mr. Walker were held in 1919 to be of news-interest to playgoing readers of THE TRIBUNE.

Speaking of Gregory Kelly, that young actor has spent two seasons as the William Sylvanus Baxter of "Seventeen," and will next season be rewarded with a new character. Mr. Walker's Indianapolis announcement makes no mention of the play among the stock potentialities; but it would not be surprising if it found production there nevertheless. Mr. Kelly will be seen as Wallace Irwin's Japanese creation, Hashimura Togo, of blessed magazine memory.

Speaking of Gregory Kelly, that young actor found a place for himself before he died. But it is not recalled that he had exciting adventures as Hashimura Togo.

Just as they do in the play, Sam Bernard and Louis Mann, of "Friendly Enemies," at the Hudson Theater, broke off their long association last evening, Mr. Bernard retiring from the cast to rest his German dialect. He will be succeeded by Charles Winninger.

What few persons knew was that Mr. Bernard was one of the owners of the play—or, rather, of the venture with the play. Mr. Winninger was one of numerous actors who took part as one or the other of the quarreling Germans while the awful tripe was at the top of its foolish vogue.

"I Love You!" a new farce-comedy by William LeBaron, played by a company especially organized for the engagement and including Otto Kruger, Albert Brown, Ruth Towle, Jean Robertson, Margaret Williams, and Helen Spring, opens at the Cort tonight. The play is about a bet made by two young men, one of whom wagers that he can cause any couple to become engaged to be married if he can give them the proper environment. C. G. Anderson ["Broncho Billy"] is the producer.

"I Love You!" was none too successful; but it had a second incarnation, in 1924, as "Moonlight," with songs and dances to relieve its flat quality as a play.

Twenty Years Ago

GOING back through the files to twenty years ago, or to the corresponding Sunday of 1909, the interests of theater-goers were catered to in THE TRIBUNE of May 16 by the paragraphs that follow.

The Studebaker will reopen on May 28, when "Beverly of Graustark," a dramatization of the George Barr McCutcheon novel of the same name, will be brought forward with Miss Jessie Busley in stellar prominence. Richard Buhler, long the idol of the Chicago matinée-maids, will have the rôle of the prince. The play had its first production a few weeks ago, and it has had a successful road-tour. During the period of darkness, the stage of the Studebaker has been remodeled.

Miss Elsie Ferguson, at present through some seasons, although not in the high-price theaters of the larger cities. . . . Miss Busley, one of the best of American soubrettes, has not in a long time been in a play in Chicago.

"An Englishman's Home," the sensation of the year in London, will be presented at Powers' theater a week hence, at the conclusion of the engagement of Tim Murphy in "My Boy." The English play was written by Gerald Du Maurier, a British army officer and a son of the celebrated cartoonist and author of "Trilby." William Hawtrey and Miss Nellie Thorne will enact the leading rôles.

Miss Elsie Ferguson, at present appearing as Beth Elliott in "The Traveling Salesman" at the Illinois, is to be given the principal rôle in "Such a Little Queen!" a new play by Channing Pollock announced for production in the Fall. Miss Ferguson will appear as a girl-queen. The piece will go into rehearsal early in the Summer, and New-York theatergoers will have an opportunity to pass judgment on it in September.

Miss Ferguson in due time appeared as the star of "Such a Little Queen!"; and it may be remembered that her travels in the piece brought to Chicago for an engagement that was none too prosperous. The play, itself, was just a play.

"Broadway Nights" Coming.

Indicated for early exhibition in Chicago by the Messrs. Shubert is a new revue, "Broadway Nights," with the racy Doctor Rockwell at the head of the roster.

"Boom-Boom" to Move.

"Boom-Boom," a hit in the Apollo, will be transferred next Sunday to the Grand Opera House, where George White's Scandals will be withdrawn at the end of the week.

AMONG THE "BOOM-BOOM" BLONDES

PEGGY

SHE'S merely Peggy to theater-goers, who just now may indulge in the easy pastime of looking at her as she is whirled about the stage by Cortez, the Spanish danseur, in the course of the gay proceedings in the Apollo. And it is not within reason to suppose that patrons of this show or of any show wherein Cortez and Peggy do their dancing really care what her name may be when she isn't at work.

Three New Plays on New York Bills

NEW YORK, May 18.—[Special.]—Three openings and a special matinée of Tchekov's "Uncle Vanya" are on the local theatrical calendar for the coming week. "Uncle Vanya" will be staged in the Moscow theater on Friday afternoon by a cast including Hubert Druce, Morris Carnovsky, and Ada Gerald. The Tchekov play was previously made known here by the Moscow Art theater.

The three openings will present:

"Stepping Out," a comedy by Elmer Harris, who wrote one called "The Great Necker," which was exhibited here a season or so ago. In the cast will be Hale Hamilton, Grace Le Rue, Jobyna Howland, Herbert Corthell, and Walter Connelly.

"Chinese O'Neill," a melodrama of the South China coast by one who has been there, Captain Cushing Donnell. The cast will include William Harrigan, Helen Chippendale, Annette Margules and Hugh Buckler.

"A Night in Venice," the latest of the Shubert song and dance travelogues. The amusing Ted Healy will be in the cast, to say nothing of Ann Seymour, the Dodge twins, the McCarthy sisters, Frank Gaby, Stanley Rogers, and many more.

Baffled.

There seems to be no way of telling, this season, just which plays are going to make a stab at running and which are going to give right up without a struggle. Out of three entries which seem to have no chance in the world of getting even beyond the first turn, two will actually drop out, and the third, possibly the weakest of the lot, will stagger along for weeks, moving from theater to theater as the rent comes due, sustained by some mysterious life-force which has nothing to do with popular approval. It makes it very difficult to know which one to review. Need we say that, as a general policy, we pick the wrong ones?—Robert Benchley in Life.

TWO-A-DAY

HEADLINING the Palace theater bill for the week commencing with today's matinee is Miss Sophie Tucker. She is just back from the job of making two singing and talking pictures in Hollywood; and she is to make still a third picture of the same sort in New York after her brief stop here. Miss Tucker's chaste billing for her current assignment describes her as "the last of the Red Hot Mamas"; and that should tell prospective patrons just what they may expect of her.

THE ARMCHAIR PLAYGOER

IN NEW YORK.

"The Jade God," a mystery play from the book by Ala Sullivan, had its debut this week. The drama is written by William E. Barry.

FRANCIS BRETT YOUNG.
Caricature by Eva Herrmann.

We wish to correct an error made last Sunday in this column about "The Golem," a play given at the Goodman theater. Although its name is identical with that of the book by Gustav Meyrink and although both drama and novel are taken from the same Prague legend, there the similarity ends. "The Golem," as presented by the Goodman players is not at all "The Golem" in book form.

PUBLISHED.

Francis Brett Young, who was born in Worcestershire, England, has written a play about that industrial district. His co-author is William Armstrong and the name of the four act drama is "The Furnace." It tells the story of the Willis family and especially of young Edward Willis, son of the owner of Mawne, a huge iron smelter. The history and fortune of the Willises are wrapped up in the "works," and much depends on the introduction of a new element in their produce—a certain kind of steel discovered by one Stafford, an employé.

Edward becomes infatuated with Stafford's wife, a mercenary woman who demands not only the bread and butter, but the jam of life. She finally runs away with him. The rest of the play shows the result of this escapade, and at the close the world war starts—the war that is to "bring back" the mill at the expense of the lives of youth.

"The Furnace" is extremely readable and interesting.

Odds and Ends of Stage News

JANE MURFIN, who collaborated with Jane Cowl in the writing of several plays, including "Lilac Time" and "Daybreak," has turned out one unassisted, and the Shuberts are about to bring it to the New York stage on June 24. It is called "The Eternal Quest"; Lionel Atwill will be in it. The play is described as a "smart comedy on the style of 'The Last of Mrs. Cheyney,' with a Park avenue locale instead of an English one."

Guy Bates Post, who once planned to revive "A Message from Mars" in this town, acted that play in St. Paul recently with a local stock organization.

Marjorie Rambeau may return to the Broadway stage in the autumn in "What a Woman Wants," a play by De Witt Newing. She recently opened it in Oakland, Cal.

Henry Duffy, who operates theaters and maintains companies up and down the Pacific coast, is conducting a play contest, offering a $1,000 prize for "the best wholesome, humorous play not hitherto produced." The idea is to show the winner both in the Duffy theaters and in New York. The contest will close on Oct. 1 and the award will be made a month later.

There is in the offing an ambitious summer stock project for Philadelphia. Known as the "Play of the Week" company, it is under the direction of Sanford E. Stanton, and will get under way at the Garrick theater on June 17, with Madge Kennedy as the guest star of a production of Paris Bound," which comedy thoughtlessly skipped Philadelphia in making the rounds.

The, so the announcements have it, Miss Kennedy, and perhaps John Cumberland, will revive "Fair and Warmer." There is also talk of Katharine Cornell in "The Royal Family," Grant Mitchell in "A Tailor-Made Man" and "The Champion," and Fay Bainter in "East Is West" and "The Willow Tree."

Beatrice Herford, of the monologues, will have one of the leading rôles in "See Naples and Die," Elmer Rice's comedy, which he will direct for Lewis E. Gensler, the erstwhile musical comedy composer, who now seems to have turned producer in what used to be known as a big way. "See Naples and Die" is due in New York in October, and Mr. Gensler says that on the day it opens he will put his second production in rehearsal. That will be Martin Flavin's "Grist to the Mill."

James Barton, one hears, will head the cast of "Murray Anderson's Almanac," due in New York in five or six weeks. Daphne Hollard may also be in the revue. The tunes will be by Milton Ager, who supplied them for "What's in a Name?" a Murray Anderson venture of nine or ten years ago.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, who has just returned to the London stage in a dramatization of G. B. Stern's novel "The Matriarch," probably will act the play here next season.

A variety of new plays will be launched this week in such widely-separated places as Greenwich, Conn., and Grand Rapids, Mich. In Greenwich Mr. Brown's stock company will test for Mr. Woods the play from the German called "Hokus Pokus." In New York's Bronx a play known as "The Tired Business Man," which is en route to the Waldorf Theater, will be displayed. It is said to reveal certain aspects of newspaper work.

Mr. Woods will have another première this week, his production of "Frankie and Johnny," which will be shown on Wednesday in New Rochelle. In Mamaroneck on Saturday John Golden will present "Salt Water" before it goes to Atlantic City. The Grand Rapids opening, on Thursday, will be Mr. Tyler's production of "Your Uncle Dudley," with Raymond Hitchcock in the star rôle. Both "Frankie and Johnny" and "Your Uncle Dudley" are bound for Chicago.

Last night's departing drama in New York included "Man's Estate," which the Guild presented through its subscription period, and "The Sea Gull," the Tchekov play sponsored on a coöperative basis by a group of actors. "Mima" and its elaborate machinery also ceased to function at the Belasco, and they say Mr. Gest will send that mechanized spectacle on tour next season.

Closing this week in New York will be three successes, "Caprice," "Strange Interlude," and "The Age of Innocence." The first named will end its engagement on Friday, so that the actors can make a Saturday boat for London. "Strange Interlude" will have given 414 performances in this town when it closes, and, as the Guild points out, no nine act play ever ran longer.

Don Totheroh's "Wild Birds," which received some favorable notices when it was produced at the Cherry Lane Theater in 1925, will soon be revived in more or less revised form by Henry B. Forbes, who was involved in the presentation last fall of a melodrama called "Tin Pan Alley." "Wild Birds" will be given several weeks of trial performances, beginning June 17 in Brooklyn, and may be brought to Broadway in August.

Captain Cushing Donnell, whose play "Chinese O'Neill" will be shown in New York tomorrow night, has written another, "The Legionnaire," which will be tried out next month by a Lancaster (Pa.) stock company. It is a story of Morocco and the Foreign Legion.

"South of Siam" wound up its road tour in Philadelphia last night. It will be in New York next season.

"Broadway Nights," the next Shubert revue, will open in Cleveland on June 9. They liked "A Night in Venice" in that town last week.

Mr. Brady has reserved the Apollo Theater in Atlantic City for the week of July 17 to see if he has another success in "Scalps."

After touring the country for some five months, "This Thing Called Love" will declare it a season on June 1 in Brooklyn.

It is reported that Will Rogers, who will conclude his pinch hitting services for Fred Stone in Pittsburgh June 1, will absent himself from the stage for the next two years in favor of the talking pictures.

"Courtesan," Irving Kaye Davis' one-character play, will be put on in New York next week with Elsa Shelley serving as the entire cast. Miss Shelley, who at one stage of her career was known as Bertha Broad, appeared in two previous Davis offerings on Broadway.

A play by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, "Dr. Harmer's Holiday," is now visiting eastern managerial offices. It is said to have been written in 1924, and to deal with a Jekyll-Hyde fellow. One of Pinero's stipulations is that he must approve the actor portraying the leading character, and that is reported to be delaying the production in America.

Little Theater Groups Display Growing Talent

By Burns Mantle.

raising was originally published in the Saturday Evening Post. Being his first book, the commander was quite naturally anxious that it should be a good looking book and spent much time with the publishers selecting the cover stock, the type, etc.

When it came to the shade of blue to be used for the covers, Commander Elsberg insisted that it should not only be blue but that it should be a true navy blue.

The publishers provided samples of all the silk cloth available for the binding and the commander, taking each sample in turn, matched it with the color of his uniform. Finally, after trying many samples, he selected a shade that matched perfectly.

Thereupon the publishers brought out the binders' catalogues and turned to the color selected. It was numbered "S-51"—"S" for silk and "51" the designation of quality.

Bolshevist "Romance" Is Stupid.

With plenty of New York theaters to be had this time of year, weak little plays continue to drift in to be tried out by obscure producers. One this week was called "The First Law" and came heralded as the first work of literary merit to be produced by a citizen of the soviet government of Russia. It may be the first work, but its literary merit is subject to question, though I have no doubt the original is better than the translation.

"The First Law" told of a bolshevist romance that reached its culmination in a hut in the Siberian forests. An aristocrat and his fiancée, escaping from the revolutionists, were pursued by wolves and took refuge in the hut.

They barely had time to light a fire with their last match when a bolshevist engineer also stumbled in. He had food in his pack and the aristocrats had none. He was willing to share with them if they had anything to give in return, but nothing for nothing, he announced, was the new rule of Russia.

The aristocrat gave the bolshevist a swig of cognac for half a loaf of bread and ate the bread. His fiancée was sleeping and he did not bother to waken her. This, naturally, made the fiancée terribly angry. When she did awaken, she was starving, too.

Thereafter her interest in the bolshevist grew apace, and the jealousy o' her man something awful. A few days later it became a question of the survival of the fittest; the men fought it out in the snows, winner to take all, and the aristocrat was killed.

Then the [illegible] reasserted itself. The girl weakened. The more she thought of soap and clean linen the less fascinated she was with the bolshevist's beard. So she went back to her class.

Dazzling Leaps Mark Life of Bob Hutchins

Penniless Freshman to Prexy in Decade.

This article is written by a man who knows Robert M. Hutchins, knows his life at Yale, knows his background, and knows his friends. It has been prepared with great care, and is authoritative in every particular.

By JAMES L. SHUTE.

ROBERT MAYNARD HUTCHINS, until recently head of the Yale law school, and now, at the age of 30, president elect of the University of Chicago, is no respecter of bromides. Most people believe that the boys who are big men in college seldom are any great shakes in after years.

The football captain who makes the front page, will, it is thought, find considerable difficulty in filling the position of a drygoods clerk, while the inconspicuous lad whose place was on the sidelines rises to fame and fortune. Similarly, many good folk believe the intellectual giant who won a Phi Beta Kappa key in college will find his niche in playing glorified office boy to the man who, as a student, learned all he knows about Shakespeare from reading about Tunney.

Like most bromides, this one is wrong, and Bob Hutchins proves that it is wrong.

Success Forecast Early.

Bob Hutchins was a big man in college. His success was forecast in his undergraduate days at Yale, and his prominence as a student has been reflected with added luster in his subsequent prominence as an alumnus.

At the age of 30, this extraordinary young man has risen to great prominence in a series of dizzying leaps.

A year and a half after graduation, at 23, he was secretary of his alma mater; a few years later, when only 28, he was dean of one of its graduate schools, and within ten years from the time he received his diploma he will have become president of one of the country's greatest universities.

A little less than a decade ago, Robert Hutchins appeared at Yale, a slim, good looking youth, a little carelessly dressed, with dark hair and intense eyes. He had spent two years at Oberlin college, and two years more in the ambulance service in Italy, where he had been decorated for bravery, and proposed to finish his education at Yale.

Wins Scholastic Honors.

He hadn't a cent, and at the moment of his appearance, no visible means of making a cent, but this in no way diminished his enthusiasm or his quiet confidence that he would be able to get through the rather expensive process of acquiring a Yale education.

He applied at the undergraduate bureau of appointments for a job—any job—he was not in the least exacting. He was given the opportunity of waiting on table in return for his meals, and he took it gratefully. This accounted for his food; he was assured of at least three meals a day. For his other expenses he did anything that came along, keeping books, sweeping floors; having a try at any work, physical or mental, that would mean cash.

The man who works his way through Yale is at a marked disadvantage scholastically and, to a certain extent, socially.

His chance of achieving recognition and popularity on the campus is slight, and his chance of maintaining a good scholastic standing is rather slenderer.

Nevertheless Bob Hutchins managed to do both. When the junior fraternity elections came around he was elected to Alpha Delta Phi, one of the leading fraternities.

He kept his marks notably high, walked off with several scholarships—which lightened his labors perceptibly—and in his senior year was elected to a senior society, Wolf's Head.

In the annual class vote he was designated as the man out of the class most likely to succeed, which is practically the only known instance where the class votes have shown a trace of discernment.

He was also awarded Phi Beta Kappa Key.

Meets Disappointment.

One of his great schemes for making money, unfortunately, came to grief. He was instrumental in developing a plan for a Students' Coöperative Tutoring agency, designed to help some of the students whose talents lay rather in the direction of the social life than the intellectual.

Working with marked executive ability he built up a first rate organization, and was just on the point of deciding in what bank to put his surplus cash, when the authorities of Yale college intervened, announced that they did not approve of tutoring, and refused to allow the college buildings to be used for the purpose. This was a bitter disappointment, as the proposed agency promised to solve all his financial problems.

In his senior year, the New Haven alumni wanted an undergraduate to speak at their annual dinner, Hutchins was recommended.

Name Made Through Speech.

On the night of the dinner a large gathering of alumni appeared, and President James Rowland Angell and President Emeritus Arthur Twining Hadley graced the board with their presence. Every one was set for a big Yale evening, and the senior members of the association adjusted their pince-nez, cleared their throats, and sat back to listen to the speakers, with a warm glow of anticipation.

Young Hutchins rose from his place and began his speech. Shortly after this the senior members ceased to sit back. With penetration and frankness the young undergraduate was pointing out precisely what was wrong with Yale, quite disregarding which should have been the awe inspiring presence of Mr. Angell and Mr. Hadley.

When he had finished, his name was made. Some of the elders looked as if they had just been sandbagged; some of the youngsters were obviously delighted. On every face there were expressions of wrath, of approbation, of indignation, or of pleasure, but of ennui there was no trace.

From that time on, whenever the name of Hutchins was spoken in Yale circles it got attention.

Marries a Sculptress.

He was graduated from the college, with high rank, having been duly voted the man most likely to succeed. It was then time for him to look about for work.

At this point the bureau of appointments decided to do something handsome for the young man. Those in charge of it knew his ability, knew his persistence, knew his resourcefulness. The bureau secured for him a position as teacher at the Lake Placid school at an excellent salary.

By teaching he was able to study at the Yale law school in the summer time.

In September, 1921, three months after graduation, he married Maude McVeigh, a girl of striking appearance and intelligence, who was fostering a by no means negligible gift for sculpturing.

Elected Yale's Secretary.

For all of that year Mr. Hutchins went on with his teaching, and Mrs. Hutchins with her modelling, and in the summer they returned to New Haven for the law school summer session.

Meantime, Anson Phelps Stokes was retiring as secretary to Yale university, leaving vacant this important post. The Yale corporation got together to select a new man, and the name of Hutchins was brought up. This appeared, of course, manifestly preposterous, as that young man had only been out of college a year. Nevertheless he was elected in December, 1922.

Once more the law books and sculpturing tools were packed, for a reentry into New Haven which was considerably more impressive than had been the departure. In his own brisk way the new secretary took up the reins of his office, proceeded to cut through red tape, to discard superfluities, and to do his job thoroughly, efficiently, and sensibly.

There can be little doubt that his régime was eminently successful, but its administration brought several of the more conservative members of the university several degrees nearer to an apoplectic stroke than was quite comfortable.

During the earlier years of his secretaryship, he was also taking lecture courses at the law school, and devoting his summers to law study. In 1925 he was appointed a lecturer in the law school, some time before he received his law degree, and had no sooner got his diploma in his hands than he launched out on a lecture course which remains a classic to this day.

His courses in the law school have attained extraordinary popularity, and his classes are notable for solid information, crackling wit, and piquant inspiration.

Becomes Dean of Law School.

For two years he was simultaneously lecturer in the law school and university secretary, then, in 1927, he withdrew as secretary, and became a professor and acting dean of the law school. Here was his great opportunity. If he made good at the job he would in all probability be made dean.

In February, 1928, he was appointed dean.

During his two years as acting and actual dean of the school, his influence was marked. His pronounced ideas on education came into play, and within a short time he had the educational level of the school raised to a height it had never enjoyed before. Incompetents were ruthlessly weeded out; education was extended to the students as a rare and fascinating privilege.

In his own classes he is inclined to draw knowledge out of his students rather than to cram it into them.

The law, as a cold and abstract science, means little to Dean Hutchins. To his mind it is an integral part of our civilization. Merely one figure in the infinitely complex design that makes the pattern of modern society. It is intense and vital science, all the more interesting because of its imperfections, and for these all the more closely to be studied.

Organizes Research Institute.

Only recently Yale has announced the foundation of a great institute of human relations, which is to do research into all branches of human life, and is to attempt so to synthesize and coördinate the discoveries of science in its different branches as to apply them concretely to the betterment of humanity.

This institute is in a large measure the brain child of Dean Hutchins and Dean Milton C. Winternitz of the medical school, and each was to have had a large share in the working of it. However, Hutchins' departure to the University of Chicago will remove him from the field.

Perhaps the most striking qualities possessed by Hutchins are his freedom from sham and hampering tradition, his sincerity, and his analytical perception. In the face of every discouragement he will uphold what he knows to be right, adhering to the essential truth and shearing away all superfluities.

A Great Wit.

His wit, too, does much to make life harder for those who disapprove of him.

It is said that he was once a guest and speaker at a formal dinner in Washington, which was attended by a number of distinguished jurists and other legal lights. After dinner one of the most eminent of the judges came up to him and in an affable but faintly patronizing manner said, "Well, Mr. Hutchins, I suppose you tell the boys in your school that we older people don't know much about law."

"No," replied the dean, with a disarming smile, "I don't. I let them find it out for themselves."

Soon the Enfant Terrible of Yale takes up his duties as president of the University of Chicago, the sixth largest university in the country, and there will be written the next chapter in his amazing career.

SATURDAY'S CHILDREN

The Voice of the Movie Fan

He Sees 'Em First Elsewhere.

Dear Miss Tinée: After reading your review of "The Letter" I am wondering if perhaps it is not the woman in you, rather than the critic speaking, when you express such horror at the fight between the mongoose and the snake.

Is there so much difference between watching an animal kill a deadly reptile and a man kill another man, or a woman kill a man? This happens in almost every movie one sees, nowadays. If the actual killing is not shown, at least enough is portrayed so that the audience knows exactly what is happening.

To me the sight of a woman shooting her lover in the back and then pouring shot after shot into his prostrate body is far more revolting than a fight between the mongoose and the snake. In the latter both had an even break and it was a fair fight.

Incidentally, Miss Tinée, you must have forgotten your Kipling or you would never have mistaken a cobra for a python, even though you had never seen either.

What puzzles me most about this picture is this: Why should a relatively small house in Cleveland show it (uncensored, by the way) the week of April 22, a house in New York City the week of April 29, and yet it doesn't reach here until May 11?

I am on the road a good deal and the main difficulty I have on returning here is to find films I have not seen in another city from one to four weeks previous to their appearance in Chicago. Why the delay?

I am not signing this letter, as I have no hope or desire of seeing it in print. It's simply an expression of opinion from one of the many readers of your column who places a lot of faith in your judgment as to whether or not a picture is worth seeing.

Sincerely yours,
TRAVELING MAN.

Editor's note: Yes, it MUST have been a cobra! Thanks for writing—and you see you are beholding your letter in print. [The delays puzzle more than you, sir.]

Talk in the Park.

My Dear Miss Tinée: I could shake John C. Cox by the hand and hug you for printing his letter.

Just why people who love to talk go to the theater is beyond me. It would be less expensive if they took their conversation to a park bench. This should include the pest who brings candy to the theater, paper rattlers, etc.

For the benefit of music lovers I would suggest that theaters add to their silence flash—

"Those who do not appreciate real music kindly refrain from disturbing those who do." Sincerely,

EDNA M. STEARNS.

Menjou Takes to French and Songs in Latest Role

By Rosalind Shaffer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 18.—[Special Correspondence.]—Adolphe Menjou is giving his film fans in his talkie a rôle as sophisticated and fascinating as his original "Woman of Paris." Again he plays the Frenchman, this time with the additional charm of a French accent full or rolled "r's," and best of all the new features he sings. Menjou plays a composer with much temperament and a penchant for making love to the pretty wife of another man.

Victor Schertzinger, the director, who is well known as a musician and composer of "Marcheta" and other numbers, has written two numbers, "Delphine," which Menjou sings, and "I'll Always Believe in You," sung by Fay Compton, red headed British star, who plays opposite Menjou.

Schertzinger and Menjou rehearse the song and make up lines of music as they go along in the day's work with carpenters hammering, electricians shouting and folks asking questions during the process.

Sound shooting, then playing back in the next room follow, then they are at it again. Menjou has a pleasing voice. His accent should drive 'em wild, for it fits his slick screen personality something grand. John Miljan is the other man whose wife Menjou woos, and blonde Vivienne Segal from the New York and London stage is the wife whom Menjou forgets and finally has to win back.

Premiere for Show Boat.

Flowering orange groves and fruit orchards in Hollywood's back yards, balmy spring nights with the mocking birds singing love songs to a luminous moon, and rose trellises heavy with fragrant blooms brought Hollywood society in summer fashions at two openings held this week. The premiere of "Show Boat" attracted celebrities in droves. Laure La Plante, the "Magnolia" of the picture, appeared in her favorite color, coral. Gown of chiffon was cut in a low U shape, and bouffant skirt. The wrap was of coral transparent velvet.

Alma Rubens, "Julie" of the piece, was not sufficiently recovered from her recent vicissitudes to appear, but when Alma made her screen entry the audience broke into clapping and cheers.

Fannie Hurst, in a crimson satin oriental cloak with Chinese collar and her hair smoothly drawn back into a bun on her neck, was accompanied by her breakfast-on-Sundays husband, Jack Danielson.

Hollywood snoopers say that the pair still preserve separate ménages.

Elinor Boardman, in a long curled bob, was in white lace with baby blue velvet wrap.

Billie Dove in Velvet.

Myrna Loy in Lace Gown.

Another notable opening was that of "The Black Watch," Victor MacLaglen's new talking film. Myrna Loy, feminine lead in the story, took her bow from the stage in a rose lace gown and wrap of rose chiffon. In the audience Claire Windsor was smartly garbed in the fashionable baby blue in satin with a silver sequin shawl.

Sue Carol, with her fiancé, Nick Stuart, was lovely in mustard colored taffeta, with a wrap of green and gold brocaded chiffon.

Betty Compson provided a sensation with a silver wig, half wig and half turban, which she wore covering her own hair, and wore a yellow chiffon gown with a short train.

Nursery for Fay Wray.

Florence Vidor has completed her contract at Paramount. Those that busy themselves with such things say that Fay Wray and John Monk Saunders are meditating building a nursery on the house sometime this fall. They bought Florence Vidor's house.

After she has finished her rôle in "Magnolia," June Collier will play her second rôle away from Fox pictures on the Paramount lot. It will be in "Illusion," with Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll.

Mabel Normand is now on the road to recovery from her long illness. Her husband, Lew Cody, is sufficiently improved following his breakdown to visit Mabel in her rooms a couple of times a week, although each continues under medical treatment in a different quarter of the city.

MICHAEL BOHNEN of Metropolitan grand opera, has been hauled off to Hollywood by his friend, Mr. Warner, to act—as well as sing in the movies. He was a star with UFA in Berlin for ten years, though this fact is not generally known. He will spend the time from May to December working for Warner Brothers. At the height of each season he will flit back to New York and resume stellar rôles with the Metropolitan Opera company.

SAM TAYLOR, director, has this to say about Mary Pickford, according to report: "Her bob has changed her. She is no longer shy or retiring. Neither has she the dignity she acquired as Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, hostess to royalty. She is a beautiful woman who can win any man she cares to vamp, and, naturally, she is enjoying her power."

(I don't believe he said it, and if he did one doubts if those words would especially delight "Little Mary.")

CLIPPED THIS from Photoplay:

John Barrymore, an actor, dropped into a Hollywood haberdashery a few days ago for a couple of clean shirts.

He selected a couple of nobby patterns, and the clerk asked his name.

"Barrymore," said the star.

"Eh?" said the clerk. "Will you spell it?"

John would, and did.

"What's the first name?"

Barrymore gave the minion a look that would freeze Clara Bow.

"Ethel!" he said, and walked out.

See you tomorrow.

No. 6—The Erdman Olson Case in Wisconsin.

By Philip Kinsley.

him where the girl was, and he said she was in St. Paul. The father told him to bring her back. Erdman promised to get the girl in three days. Christ said that if he did not he would send the sheriff after him. He told Erdman he would help them get married, give them fifteen acres, two cows, and help build a house.

Erdman Vanishes.

On Sept. 27, the day after this visit, Erdman disappeared from college. He went to La Crosse for a nasal operation, and from there stepped out of the picture as neatly as Willie Tascott did forty years ago. He has been reported found in a dozen places and police of the country have been on the hunt for him ever since, with a reward of $200 out.

The prevailing theory is, of course, that he fled because he was guilty, but his parents and friends think he fled because Christ Olson frightened him, and that he was frightened into making the admission that he had taken the girl.

Erdman had written regularly to his parents after returning to college about such things as his laundry, his basketball shoes, and his chances of getting into the college quartet as tenor. He had entered into the student life again, and only a few nights before he left had been at a party, singing happily around the piano with boys and girls. He did not act as though he had a great burden, although his roommate reported he heard him crying during the night. He had asked his mother once if "that party that made a disappearance had come back yet." He now wrote his parents:

> I am leaving tonight for some place where no one knows. I shall not even tell you folks, though God knows how I feel. I have thought of finishing everything, but life is sweet and hard to part with. I say this that I would rather take death than captivity. . . . Some time I may write to you, but I can't say you will ever see me again unless it may be a coffin. . . . These people cannot prove anything definite, although they will try. Please try to bear this with bravery and forget me, as I am not worthy of your memory. Goodbye and God bless you all. You have not failed as parents but I have as a son.

To Christ Olson he wrote:

> Just a few lines to let you know that I will no longer be at Gale after tonight. I am going to make myself scarce enough, so you cannot find me or Clara from now on as far as I am concerned. Just where she is is my business at present, and after the bunch of lip I got from you Sunday I'm not caring a great deal either. I believe she is all right in health and such, but where she is I cannot say. I might be a lier when I said she was in St. Paul, but I can't prove she is right now, but it wouldn't hurt to find out by going up there. I am leaving because I don't like the idea of the sheriff coming up here if I couldn't find her. I'll be back when she comes back.

CLARA'S GRAVE

After this the idea of murder was accepted generally, and a county-wide search for the body began. Albert Olson hired an attorney and a detective and prepared to defend his son. Christ Olson said he would spend $10,000 if necessary to avenge his daughter's death. L. M. Shearer, a Madison detective, came into the case for Albert Olson. Even now, in the light of subsequent developments, he is not convinced that Erdman is guilty.

Before the body of Clara was found, the story of Christ Olson's dream was current in the county, according to Shearer. He says Olson told him and others that he had dreamed that his girl was dead, that she had been beaten to death, that she was buried in a shallow grave face downwards, and that this grave was near the Albert Olson farm. Later, when all this proved true, Christ Olson denied it. It was a peculiar dream, and people were talking about it. It was too close to reality. Christ said some newspaper man had improved on his dream, which really was that he had seen his daughter lying dead in a gutter near Viroqua. That would be a natural thought.

On Dec. 2 Charles Bown, leading a group of ex-service men on a search through the woods near the Albert Olson place, found the body. He had not heard of the dream, he says. He is something of a woodsman, and he was scouting in a patch of timber known as Hogback ridge, about half a mile by road from the Olson place, but much nearer by crosscut. This is a fine trysting place for young couples in the summertime, and it is thought that Erdman and Clara used to meet here.

Snow had fallen since the lovers sat there, and the bare branches of the oaks creaked with frost. Bown first noticed a piece of yellow clay on a fallen branch. This clay, he knew, was subsoil and not natural on top of a limb. The weeds and brambles were bent and looked as though they had been disturbed. He next saw a piece of turf that had been turned over. He poked around with a stick and struck the heel of a woman's shoe a few inches below the surface.

He had found Clara's grave.

Struck from Behind.

Shrubs, weeds, and turf had been replaced over the grave carefully. The feet were only four inches under the surface. The head was lower, about 8 inches, and turned face down, with the hands folded under her breast. The turf had been cut with a spade, the black top soil removed and then replaced over the body. The extra dirt, the clay, had been piled near by and covered with turf and weeds. In the spring the new life of the earth would have covered and disguised this grave forever. The bones might have been found some day, but bones are common in this old ridge where Chief Blackhawk made his last stand against the whites one hundred years ago.

Bown thought the grave could have been dug in about twenty minutes, but that it would have taken an hour at least to fix the body and the earth and the turf in the careful way in which it was found.

Clara was fully clothed, even to rubbers. She had on a brown woolen coat, a red sweater, and her best silk dress, a dark green one with lace yoke and short sleeves. She had dressed in her best for her secret wedding. Her string of imitation pearls was broken, and she wore a breastpin and a ring of gold on her right hand. Her purse was empty, but folded tight over her breast were two letters from Erdman. One she had received the day she left home. The other was blurred, but it was probably an earlier love letter, one that she could not bear to destroy as he had directed.

The examination of physicians showed she had been killed by blows, probably by one blow on the head, struck from behind with a blunt instrument. Another had been struck when she was down. Her skull was fractured. A peculiar feature is that her body was drained of blood. Another life went out with hers, that of a female baby between five and six months old, under her mother's heart. There was no injury to the child. A little bottle of perfume had dropped from Clara's pocket into her grave.

The Telltale Letter.

The letter which was found there is the basis of the verdict by the coroner's jury that she had come to her death by the hand of Erdman Olson.

In this letter Erdman told her that the "time is ripe to show action," and had given her definite instructions to meet him on the night of Sept. 9. He told her to go to the Seneca dance hall between 9 and 10 o'clock, leave there, and walk up the street to meet him. Then they would go to Hendrum, Minn. This was the place she was looking up in her geography and where he had relatives. He told her to write a note for her parents telling them not to worry, but not to mention his name. He wrote:

> If you can't come to the dance, sneak out of the house about 11:30 and come toward the road. If I'm not there, keep on going until I meet you. Don't let any one see you. Please destroy this letter and all my other letters and act hard toward me to your folks.
> Do as I have asked you to do, and everything will be O. K. If you don't, your chance might be shot and I might make a scarce hubby. So, if you wish to avoid disgrace, do as I say and keep mum. See you tonight. As ever, as usual. Remember to do as I say and destroy all my letters.

If Clara had not told her sister that she had a letter from Erdman, and if she had destroyed all the letters as directed, there would not be much of a case against Erdman.

Time Element Figures.

The defense of Erdman is chiefly the time element. Undoubtedly he went to the Seneca dance hall that night. Marie Anderson testified to this. She tried to fox trot with him, and they could not keep step. This was some time before midnight. Others saw him there, although he lurked in the background. He did not dance much. He was waiting for Clara, and she did not come.

From there he probably drove up the road to the Christ Olson gate. The car which Christ Olson saw was that of his neighbor, but his neighbor in turning into his lane saw another car parked by the side of the road opposite Christ's house.

It was after 12 o'clock when Clara left the house. Did she meet Erdman, get into the car with him, go to the old trysting place, get out and meet death at his hands?

If so, the work at the grave must have been prepared in advance, and the work of covering up all signs of the grave must have been done the next day or later, for there was no time that night. Erdman came home at 1:15 o'clock, his mother testified. His car showed no signs of mud or blood or struggle. His clothes were clean. He came into the kitchen, had a bite of lunch, and turned on the radio before going to bed.

Clara's Family Cleared.

His family testified that the next day he worked all day in the tobacco harvest with his father and the hired man, also on the 11th. On the 12th he returned to college.

Search was made for a possible accomplice. It was reported that Erdman had driven away from the dance hall late at night with another boy who wore glasses. This was never verified.

The case dragged on with no developments. The Albert Olsons pressed the governor for investigation, and Joseph Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, was assigned to the case a year later. He came to the conclusion, which was concurred in by Attorney General Reynolds, that "not a single circumstance in the case raises a doubt in my mind as to the guilt of Erdman." He added in his report that "it is unbelievable that any one in the Christ Olson family could be implicated in any way," and said the killing and the burial could have been done without an accomplice.

The time element, the youth and character of Erdman, the behavior of the elder brothers and the parents, and Christ Olson's dreams leave room for deeper explanations.

His Dream Symbolic?

Dreams had a great significance in ancient days, when dream interpreters were called in on all important occasions. Pseudo-scientific analyses of dreams have become popular since Freud announced the result of his studies. In the Freudian view all dreams are symbolic. The dream censor disguises and distorts the material that rises from the subconscious mind. Such a dream as this of Olson's would not be a true dream at all in this light. It would be a revelation of something that he knew or guessed. He might have known that his daughter had met Erdman in these woods. But a true dream of death would have been disguised in some way, such as seeing his daughter on a journey in a strange country.

It seems certain that Erdman left the dance hall on the night of Sept. 9 and drove to the Olson farm to meet Clara. Whether he actually met her, whether some one else killed her, or, if he was the slayer, some one else helped him, remain unanswered questions.

The Best Movie I Ever Saw

If you will tell us what movie, in your opinion, rates above all the others you've seen, and why this particular movie is deserving of praise, we'll pay $1 for your letter if we print it. Address Best Movies, Chicago Tribune.

Full of Suspense.

Until I saw "Ned McCobb's Daughter," I thought that that lifegiving ingredient, suspense, was being eliminated from pictures. But here is a story of contemporary life packed with dynamic action that keeps you guessing to the last stirring incident.

I can't remember when I was as "het up" as I was at that basement scene where Carrie is innocently filling up the bag of apples from the heap, and I knowing the gruesome thing that was beneath it. And when the wagon with its death load started out over the bridge I unthinkingly grabbed by neighbor's arm.

This picture isn't cluttered with closeups; there is no attempt to play on our emotions. Rather is there a gratifying appeal to our intelligence.

I never particularly cared for Miss Rich, but for once it didn't matter who the players were as, undoubtedly, "The play's the thing."

I think this is Miss Rich's best vehicle, though, and she gave a wonderful rendition of the part. A. C.

It seems an overwhelming task for an actor to bring to us in understandable terms, a character of which most of us really have little knowledge; to win sympathy and a kind of affection from us for a madman who loved to see the red of peasants' blood on snow, who trusted no man but one, who giggled gleefully as hundreds of his subjects were shot to earth at his command.

And yet Emil Jannings has, in my estimation, done just that in his picture "The Patriot." We can not, of course, really know what emotions or thoughts pass through the mind of a lunatic, but Mr. Jannings certainly portrayed with striking realism the emotions we at least imagine must abide in such a person.

His rôle was subordinate to that of the patriot, but for me his rôle was the picture. Moreover, Florence Vidor and Mr. Stone offered him such excellent support, the direction was so faultless, and the photography executed wih such skill, that I have no moment's hesitation in placing this movie foremost among those which I have really enjoyed. E. W. F.

"The Godless Girl."

Leave it to Cecil B. De Mille to put the picture over! He has done it again in "The Godless Girl," a wonderful picturization of life in a reformatory. Besides this he has shown in this superb production, how the godless one brought ruination upon others and their reward.

Though some of the scenes may seem horrible, yet it should be a lesson to youth, which is sometimes easily misled. Lina Basquette has given her greatest performance since "The Noose," and the rest of the reformatory gang portrayed their rôles wonderfully. F. R.

My Most Embarrassing Moment

Descent From the Sublime.

I lived in a beautiful mountain country and was being courted by the young man who later became my husband. A fine large hammock was strung between two large trees on the bank of a small mountain stream.

One beautiful afternoon, my young man and I sat in the hammock, exchanging love-talk and forgetting all else save love. But of a sudden there was a tearing sound, the rope parted at one tree and we both sprawled to the ground, down the bank and into the stream. Bedraggled, wet and exceedingly embarrassed, we came back to earth and to realities, crawled out of the water, and went into the house.

The laughter that greeted us said plainly that some one had slipped up and cut into the rope slightly so that our weight did the rest. It also occurred to me that it was April Fool's day, and I still become red when my hubby reminds me of the "spring bath" we took that afternoon. J. W.

Hardly the Word to Use.

I have only been in this country one and a half years, as my home was originally in Paris, and I have been trying to enlarge my vocabulary by using large descriptive words.

One day, a week after my birthday, I put on a new green dress and went to an afternoon party at a club meeting.

One woman graciously remarked: "Hasn't Mrs. P. a becoming dress, ladies?"

"Yes," was the reply, admiringly.

"O, yes," said I. "Mme. La V., my dressmaker, says it makes me look bilious."

Imagine my embarrassment when I looked the word up in the dictionary! P. D. P.

Gotham's Musical Public Ready for Outdoor Programs

By Joan King.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—[Special.]—New York's musical public is turning its attention toward prospective summer entertainment. There are two organizations which have for some time been providing fine out of door programs here during the warm season. These are the New York Philharmonic at the Lewisohn stadium, and the Goldman band on the Central Park mall and the New York university campus.

The stadium concerts this year will commence July 5, continuing throughout August, marking the twelfth season of open air orchestral offerings here. Willem Van Hoogstraten, who has been the regular conductor of the series for the last seven years, will again be in authority. It is his work that is considered largely responsible for the success of this open air experiment.

Last season his final concert was attended by an enthusiastic audience of more than 13,000 persons. This season he will be relieved by Albert Coates from July 16 to Aug. 1 and from Aug. 2 to 15 by Bernardino Molinari.

Although a detailed list of works to be performed this summer has not yet been announced it has been promised that there will be a large number of novelties. The type of programs given in other years by Ruth St. Denis, the Fokines and others will be featured. There will also be choral evenings and soloists. Ernest Bloch's prize winning symphony, "America," which Van Hoogstraten performed this year with his own orchestra in Portland, will be among the novelties.

Twelfth Season for Goldman's.

This will be the twelfth season for the Goldman band series of free concerts also. There will be seventy given altogether, all again the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Guggenheim, who have underwritten these out of door series for five years. No other organization has achieved such a high record for summer concerts under one conductor.

There will be forty concerts held on the Mall, Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Sunday nights, and thirty on the campus, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings. June 10 will see the opening program in the park. The concerts will continue until Aug. 18, when the band will go to Toronto for a three weeks' season.

Patricia O'Connell, soprano of the Chicago Opera company, and Cora Frye, also soprano, will be new soloists with the band this year. There will be a cornet soloist, Del Staigers, as well. The personnel of the band will consist of 60 men as heretofore, under the Edwin Franko Goldman baton.

A Variety of Programs.

Special evenings are to be devoted to Wagner, Tschaikowski, Schubert, Beethoven, Verdi, Mendelssohn, Johann Strauss, Victor Herbert, Gilbert and Sullivan; grand opera, comic opera; American, French, Russian, Italian, Irish-Scotch, English; old music, symphonic; children's popular, request music, etc.

One of the features will be the music memory contest. There will be a number of new compositions introduced, and in addition several new instruments. Each open air concert will be announced by the ringing of chimes, which will also play a prominent part in many of the compositions given. A special set of chimes, said to be largest of their kind, has been provided by Mr. Goldman for this summer.

My Greatest Thrill

Write and tell us about the greatest thrill you ever experienced, and if we print your letter we'll pay you $1. Make your letter short and snappy. Address them to "Greatest Thrill" Editor, The Chicago Tribune.

Moments of Suspense.

High in the Sierra mountains in Las Plumas National forest we were traveling in a car on a narrow road. Our greatest danger was in meeting cars at points where we could not pass and the islands seemed very far apart.

Going down, we met a drove of about twenty cattle—yearlings and cows. Looking over the side of the car was not unlike gazing into the Grand cañon, except occasionally there was a jutting rock covered with brush. The cattle snorted and stood stock still. Our driver would ordinarily have taken the rim as we were on that side, but he knew his cows and his mountains, so we clung to the hill side.

After much whip cracking the driver got them started, but not singly as they should. They all gave a mighty lunge. The car creaked and we all thought our time had come. The poor beasts bellowed in fear and two got pushed over. One must have gone to kingdom come. The other fortunately landed on its back in the scraggy manzanita bushes. He righted himself and seemed to swim on that tough shrub up on to the road again.

M. L.

A Terrible Shock.

I was superintendent of a factory in the middle west, and my parents lived in the east. I had just finished reading a letter from my mother, thanking me for the Christmas box I sent her, when the telephone at the office rang and it was a telegram for me, which was read to me, "Mother died last night. Signed Father."

I was terribly shocked. I wired back that I would come at once. When I entered the village in New York state where they lived it was after 9, and the depot was closed, so I walked home at once, and gently rapped on the door.

I could hear steps and when the door was opened, who should it be but my mother, who took me in her arms, and if that was not a thrill I don't know what would be. It seems that my father went to the depot agent, an old friend of the family, and told him to send the message to me that "Mother died last night," meaning his own mother, an elderly lady.

Society Returns to Gotham for Belmont Season

New Casino to Prove Rallying Place.

By Nancy Randolph.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, May 18.—[Special.]—We have been having quite a busy time of it all week. The opening of Belmont park on Friday was naturally a reason for many notables returning to town. Indeed, compared to last year, there are few important folk abroad at present. Several went over for the festivities attendant upon the English courts, but the illness of King George has thrown quite a damper upon international entertaining, resulting in the wholesale cancellation of parties scheduled for earlier in the month. The continental season will find New York's elect flocking as usual to the favorite haunts, but just at present most every one is in town.

There has been quite an exodus to the park all week to take a peek at the casino which is to open on June 4. Tony Biddle Jr. is all fussed up about the famous old inn, set in the middle of Central park. With Joseph Urban doing his utmost to transform the inside of the casino into a palace, parties are already being planned for the opening. Motors have been driving up all week, and Fifth and Park avenues habitues getting out for an advance peek. According to Tony's hopes, the Casino should prove the greatest rallying place for society that town has seen since—well, 'before the war."

Twins for James M. Becks Jr.

It's rather funny that just when Lord Tennyson startles New York and London society by getting engaged to a London shop girl his ex-wife, now Mrs. James M. Beck Jr., becomes the mother of twins. Mr. Beck departed in post haste on the Majestic in the hopes of arriving before the stork, but the long-legged biped paid his visit while the son of the former solicitor general of the United States was well in mid-ocean. However, congratulations have been flooding not only the cables, but the air-paths all week.

An international celebrity home for a visit is Anthony J. Drexel Sr., who arrived this week on the Olympic. For years and years the sartorially resplendid Tony has been an expatriate, living on the continent and being quite happy in the the fact that it wasn't a tall necessary for him to come to this country to meet his friends, since they all went to Europe and saw him. For the last couple of years, however, Mr. Drexel has begun to look with a more kindly eye upon the land of his birth.

At present there will be little gayety for the senior Tony, since he is in mourning for his sister, the late Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer. The junior Drexels, Tony Jr., and his wife, who was Marjorie Gould, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, are settled for the summer in their villa at Biarritz. Mr. Drexels' daughter, the countess of Winchelsea and Nottingham, is in England, where she will be little interested in social matters due to the passing of her aunt.

Washington Society Turns to Riding, Races and Shows

By Maxine Davis.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—A newcomer to the capital might easily mistake a recently popular song for the national anthem these days.

The burden of the social lyric is entirely of horses!

From the smallest ambitious equestrian to the oldest tottering one, riding, races, and horse shows have been foremost in the thoughts and conversation of society here.

The youngsters had their innings last week. The oldsters took the spotlight this week. Both events were sufficiently smart to rejoice the heart of any hostess.

Titles and Bridles.

Titles were almost as much in evidence as bridles at the juvenile horse show at the Preece Riding school when the riding generation swung into the saddle, with heads erect, hands just so, and eyes very, very serious, to show the world that horsemanship is not a lost art!

Diminutive counts and countesses, barons and scions of official American families took part in this picturesque annual event, while diplomats, cabinet officers, senators and congressmen watched.

One of the most colorful of the afternoon classes was the "family class," where parent rode proudly with his or her child.

Young Bazie McCormick, small daughter of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, had looked forward to taking saddle with her mother. But when the Illinois representative's big horse stood beside her tiny pony, Bazie's apparently innate sense of proportion overcame her ambition and she agreed not to ride. Mrs. McCormick took her to see the morning classes, however, and presented a cup to Miss Alice Davis, daughter of former Secretary of War Dwight Davis.

Paulina Longworth, subdeb daughter of the speaker and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, had been anticipating this event, but got the sniffles at the last moment, and hard hearted parents kept her at home!

Count Rides with Daughter.

Events Given for Charity on Week's Program

By Mildred Jaklon.

EVEN while the thoughts of the élite, or perhaps we should say élite thoughts, are focusing on summer time occupations such as gardening, golfing, and dancing at country clubs, opening country places, departing for seaside or mountain resorts, and sailing for Europe, the round of social events in town goes on at a fairly lively pace.

This week's calendar includes the concerts this afternoon and evening of the Royal Belgian Guards' Symphonic band at the Auditorium. Mrs. Joseph B. Long is chairman of the group of women that has been working faithfully for many weeks to sell the tickets and boxes for the benefit of the Henrotin Policlinic hospital.

To Aid Arden Shore Camp.

Count de Streel, first secretary of the Belgian embassy at Washington, D. C., was to arrive yesterday and was to be the guest of Chauncey McCormick during his week-end stay.

The Arden Shore committee is arranging a sale tomorrow for the benefit of the Arden Shore camp, to be held in the nursery room at the Illinois Women's Athletic club. The wares that have been obtained for the sale are said to be most lovely, and the committee says they are to sell them at "ridiculously low" prices.

Wednesday Will Be Busy.

On Tuesday there is to be a reception, operating the new Passavant Memorial hospital, and from advance reports of the loveliness of the building's interior it should be well attended by those healthy souls who don't anticipate an enforced stay there, as well as those who may be prospective patients. The Friendly Aid society, which gives its funds to twenty different charities, is giving the annual card party by means of which it raises its stipend on Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Stevens. Mrs. William Colin Robinson of 5116 Woodlawn avenue is chairman.

Wednesday is to be a rather full day, with the tea Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair are to give for their guests, M. and Mme. Paul Richard of France, who are to visit them for a fortnight, and the dinner dance Robert F. Carr is to give for his guests, Miss Maria Gesels Shaw and Alejandro Shaw of Buenos Aires, South America. Miss Sarah Brewster's wedding to Duncan Hodges is also on Wednesday, at the Lake Forest place of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster.

The last of the many teas the Arts club has given this season is to take place on Friday afternoon, to open the sixth annual exhibit of the Chicago Architectural league. Wives of architect members of the club are to pour.

Chicago Couple Among Arrivals at Hot Springs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 18.—[Special.]—Many arrivals have been noted at the Homestead. Mrs. William Jay, who has been an annual visitor for many years, made her spring appearance early in the week. Also arriving were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Savage, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Thompson of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins of Lake Forest, Ill.

Dinners have been many this week. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whitehouse were hosts at a large party.

Lake Forest Is Mecca for a Gay Throng

And Famous Flower Show Is in the Offing.

By Mme. X.

THE clans are gathering in the nearby countryside rather earlier than usual. Out in Lake Forest many large houses are already open and running. The Robert G. McGanns have been at home in their charming Georgian mansion a month or more. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson opened Havenwood, her beautiful estate, several weeks ago, and already her famous flower garden is putting forth its blossoms. No one has more taste in designing the succession of summer's blooming than she.

Mrs. Leverett Thompson is another experienced gardener. For the first time in years she and her daughter, Miss Laura Thompson, find themselves in their lovely house and garden in Lake Forest. One of the most enchanting floral effects anywhere along the north shore is their primrose path. Along both sides of a meandering pathway primroses of every color, shape and fashion are growing in a thick and delicious abundance. Perhaps in an English garden one might find a similar display, but nowhere in this country have I ever seen the like of this crop of primroses. Mrs. Thompson says there are ten thousand of them, and it seems no exaggeration. She brought them from England, Scotland and France. Picking them industriously seems to have no effect on that mass of glowing colors. They are due for a six weeks' season, which is another good reason for cultivating this friendly, gay blossom.

Odell's in Hoyt House.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Odell have moved bag and baggage to Lake Forest, and are well intrenched in Mrs. Hoyt's house next the Winter club. They have given up their town apartment and intend to make their permanent home in Lake Forest. Their only son, William R. Odell Jr., and his wife and child are also established there, which makes the country move especially worth while.

Albert N. Day and his son-in-law and daughter, the Tiffany Blakes, are intrenched in the Day mansion on the edge of the bluff there. Mrs. Blake spent last week in Washington as the guest of Mrs. Medill McCormick, but is at home again.

Looking Ahead.

It looks very much as if Mrs. McCormick would be a senatorial candidate in the next election. Aside from the fact that she is a brilliant woman and would make an excellent senator, it would be interesting, not to say dramatic, to see her a member of that august body, for old times' sake. Her father was, in his day, one of the most conspicuous figures in the senate, and her husband, a decade ago, was also a powerful force there. He probably had as much to do as any other one man in keeping this country from joining the league of nations, at a time when it seemed to be the almost inevitable path for us to follow at the end of the world war. His untimely dealth removed a striking personality from the senate.

With this background, it would complete a remarkable picture for the daughter of one senator and the widow of another to be elected a member of this powerful body of legislators. Here is hoping that she gets it, and it is up to her fellow women to see that she does. But perhaps this is looking too far ahead.

Overlooks the Valley.

To return to summer folk: The Morris L. Johnstons have taken Mrs. Dorr Bradley's attractive house on Lake Forest's western edge. It is set in a lovely garden and overlooks the sunset across the Skokie, unhindered by other habitation. Their daughter, Miss Angela Johnston, who has been working with a group of archeologists at Corinth, in Greece, will join them soon at Lake Forest.

Still other well known Chicagoites to be there this coming summer will be the John Paul Wellings, who will occupy Mrs. Aimé Millet's house on the edge of that delectable ravine that lies between Walden, the Cyrus H. McCormick place, and Francis C. Farwell's. One can get delicious views of the lake through the trees that grow around the house. It is a remote and tranquil spot. Once the X family spent a summer in the small cottage that was pulled down to make way for the Millet house, so the charms of the locality are familiar to the writer.

Beg Your Pardon.

While on the subject of Lake Forest, here's a needed "Beg your pardon." Last Sunday, in a state of misty mental aphasia, the lady whose name must never be mentioned in this col. was described as living on Westminster avenue, Lake Forest, when, as a matter of fact, she dwells on Oakwood avenue in the same conspicuous suburb. It was probably because the humble hut of the X family fronts on the first mentioned thoroughfare that the name slipped through both proof page and ultimate publication.

Our street, with the famous name, though it is rural in outer aspect and has the air of a quiet country lane, is in reality, to judge by the noise of the passing traffic, a close rival to State and Madison streets. It is what is known as a "through street"; that is, motors entering it from north or south have to wait on the east and west going cars. These latter delight to speed along with a roaring, arrogant clamor that would wake the dead, if any such were there. A sufferer from this din wonders whether a gentler, kinder race of human beings might not be evolved if the law obliged the motorists to install musical horns, sirens with soothing or pleasing voices to warn the rest of the world of the approach of the death

Fancy the air filled with the mellifluous notes of such a set of wind instruments, each contributing to a melodious diapason of sound. It might make even the moment of sudden death or disastrous injury a pleasant adventure. This will probably become the custom in a later, more civilized era, when the possible warning to living and those about to die shall have been made more of a high art than it is at present.

This is just a suggestion tossed off to inspire some thoughtful inventor. As a matter of fact, there are a few such musical horns to be noted in today's raucous street orchestra. Let us hope they will become more frequent and all pervading.

From the Argentine.

One of the chief social functions immediately ahead of Chicago's gay set is the dinner dance to which Robert Franklin Carr is inviting his friends next Wednesday at the Casino. It is in honor of visitors from the Argentine, Alejandro E. Shaw and Miss Marie Gesele Shaw. Mr. Shaw is described as the J. P. Morgan of that part of the world, being high in the finances of southern South America, and also associated with many other aspects of the country.

He is, as his name indicates, of English or Scotch origin, though he is, I believe, third in descent from the first Shaw to migrate to that rich land. He entertained Mr. Carr during a recent tour the latter made in South America.

While in Buenos Aires Mr. Carr was invited to deliver the principal address before the local association of commerce. In the course of this speech he endeavored to give a picture of Chicago that would counteract our world-wide reputation for being the hotbed of crime. He dwelt, therefore, on our great institutions such as our universities, Field museum, Art institute, grand opera, Symphony orchestra, great park system, and so on, and found that most of his hearers were astonished at this aspect. Everywhere he went he noted that the name of our city was synonymous with crime and violence. How long, O, Lord, how long?

Horse and Dog Show.

In the world of sport the third annual dog show of the Hinsdale Kennel club and the Hinsdale horse show are announced for June 1 and 2 at Mayslake farm, the country estate of the late F. Stuyvesant Peabody. The canines will be on view from 10 o'clock in the morning to 8 in the evening, while the horses will be paraded from 2 o'clock until 5 in the afternoons. The proceeds of this affair will go to the Hinsdale Nursing Relief society. The judges of the exhibits will be accepted and widely renowned experts and the affair promises to be interesting and especially worth while to lovers of dogs and horses.

The Lake Forest horse show is set for June 21, and will be held, as usual, in the Onwentsia club's picturesque arena. Its financial proceeds will go to the Alice Home, Lake Forest's fine hospital. But more of this at a later date. I merely mention it as being on the summer's horizon.

Flower Show in June.

Before it claims public attention will be held the annual flower show of the Lake Forest Garden club, the date for which is June 15 and 16. This will have various novel features, one of which will be an exhibit of garden gates. Visitors will be shown all the possibilities of making this rustic or classic feature an attractive adornment.

Another promising stunt will be a competition between vases of flowers arranged in the Victorian manner and those adorned in modernistic fashion. This should be both instructive and entertaining. Also, there will be exhibitors who will show the visitors how not to arrange flowers. They will have combinations of the same flowers in various ways, using both old fashioned and modern vases and other holders. Central adornments in flowers and fruit for luncheon and dinner tables will be on view, while becoming floral trimmings for breakfast tables and garden teas will also be shown.

Children will be among the exhibitors, and the regulation features of a flower show, such as fine blossoms, garden designs, and aids to gardening will be included in the affair, which will be held in that most ornamental and spacious background, the main courtyard of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's Lake Forest estate, Villa Turicum.

Visitors from Far and Wide.

From all over the countryside visitors assemble each year to attend this famous flower show, attracted partly by the affair and its delightful exhibits, and partly by the social renown of the women who get it up, but even more drawn to it by the opportunity to see this lovely estate under especially attractive circumstances. There is about it a glamour, a mystery, a charm not to be defined or described. Perhaps it is due to the fact that it has not been occupied for many years, but has been left alone, a haven for birds and butterflies.

It is fenced in completely, even along the sandy beach which is its east frontage, a high, barbed wire girdle with an upper slanting piece stretching in capable manner to insure complete isolation. Within this spacious domain everything is kept up as if its owner were about to take possession of it. It is well guarded by its English superintendent, Mr. Dunsford, who permits no one to enter without a written permit from the owner, backed up by a telephonic confirmation of the permit. To visit that stately, utterly classic place is like entering an enchanted garden, a garden where perhaps a long haired, blue eyed princess lies under a spell, waiting for the prince to awaken her in the way princes in fairy stories always do—with a kiss.

Altogether, there isn't any other garden anywhere else in this country half so strangely romantic as that of Villa Turicum. So the public delights to flock there when it gets an opportunity.

What you can't see is always so much more alluring and intriguing than anything that is easy to see. That is why the scant clothing women wear today is not half so dangerous as moralists think it. Temptation and desire are all in the eye and mind of the beholder and are stimulated by what is not on view. The hoopskirts and voluminous garb of the dames of the Victorian era left so much to the imagination that they kept the men of that time "all in a twitter" as they would have expressed it.

A New Achievement.

Apropos of attire, our modern architects are prone to suggest it in some of their skyscrapers. Take the Medinah temple on Michigan avenue, the fine and imposing structure which dominates that great thoroughfare as one approaches it from the north. It's a stunning building and its various features such as its Assyrian bas reliefs part way up and its imposing entrance vestibule which suggests Zoroaster Assyrian necromancers, and their ilk, are most effective, but just why the architects added atop of it all what looks more like a moslem hat than anything else, a moslem hat with a feather on one side, I can't understand. Perhaps it has a significance unknown to any except members of this secret society.

I am told the interior decorations and details are the finest of their kind in any similar building and that the great swimming tank, 75 by 70 feet is up fifteen stories above ground, while the gymnasium is vast and perfectly equipped. The entire building is dedicated to the pleasure of the members of this Masonic order.

Another bit of architecture that suggests modern attire to the profane pedestrian on his or her way southward toward the Boulevard Link bridge on Michigan avenue is that handsome skyscraper at 333 North Michigan avenue. The architects adequately solved their difficult problem of putting this soaring building on that narrow, unevenly shaped lot. It has one of the most conspicuous sites in all Chicago, being exposed to the gaze of every one going riverward from the waterworks tower, so why was it not possible to put those filmy fire escapes either entirely inside the building or on another outside wall?

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Townsend Munson of 834 West Marquette road announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Lorraine, to Seth Elmer Hough, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hampton H. Hough of 6410 Stewart avenue. Miss Munson is a graduate of Castellaja school of Palo Alto, Cal., and attended the University of Illinois. Mr. Hough is a graduate of Allegheny college and Harvard law school and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. The wedding will take place on June 29.

Where it is now to the irreverent and unawed it suggests a lace frill down the side seam of a pair of neat, well pressed pantaloons. It is an unfortunate item in the otherwise impressive outlook down what will in time be one of the most beautiful boulevards in the world. But it will not be flawless as long as that frivolous frill loops in a well regulated flounce down the seam of those stone pants.

Book by Former Chicagoan.

Have you read two recent and really remarkable books? Both are novels or romances, written, one by a quite young and inexperienced author and the other by an old and, as far as I know, equally inexperienced writer. The first named is David Hamilton, whose work has the intriguing title, "Pale Warriors." The other debutante writer is a former Chicagoan, a member of one of Chicago's oldest and most distinguished families, Alfred Bishop Mason, son of the late Roswell Mason, who was mayor of Chicago at the time of the Chicago fire in 1871.

Far back in the '70s and '80s of the last century Alfred Mason and his clever wife, Minnie Murdoch Mason, were prominent members of Chicago society. Witty and gay, they were a delightful couple, having many ideas that would now be considered sedately conventional, but which were then held to be almost subversive of the established order. They left Chicago more than four decades ago. Mrs. Mason died and Mr. Mason married again.

He and his second wife now live in Florence, Italy, that refuge for octogenarians, for such he is now, though one would never guess it from the vivid force and bold manner in which his first piece of writing, "A Duchess and Her Daughter," is conceived and put forth. It is a tale of Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, and its characters are real people who lived there more than 300 years ago; that is, they are presented in such an animated fashion that they seem real as they glow from the pages, and the vision of them stays with the reader long after the book is laid away or returned, as my copy is, to Arthur Aldis, who lent it to me. It is an amazing piece of work for a man of any age to accomplish, but especially so for a first book by a man of more than four score years.

A Portrait of a Siren.

David Hamilton's story, "Pale Warriors," is in its way as remarkable a work for a young man to achieve as is Mr. Mason's for a man of his years. Mr. Hamilton is not a Chicagoan, though, since the death of his wife, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, he lives here with his children in the home of his wife's parents. He is by calling an artist, which may perhaps account for a certain subtle, colorful quality in his narrative.

It is an extremely clever delineation of what might be called a modern, twentieth century, unmitigated "vamp," a woman utterly absorbed in and consumed by herself. She is so cleverly described that she seems quite plausible and almost excusable until her final escapade, which would throw even the most tolerant reader into a rage.

It is a singular tale to be told by so young and new a writer. One wonders if Mr. Hamilton met her ilk in the years he and his late wife spent in Italy. The scene is laid in that country and the story is instinct with that unreal, useless life lived by expatriate Americans. It is a clever piece of work, with an apparent fidelity to truth and to high standards of writing that is refreshing and unusual in American writers. Both of these novels steer clear of the happy ending in ideal matrimony which is the phantasmic goal of most of our novelists.

In Search of Material.

Young Arthur Meeker (and that "young" is no slight on his father), who sailed for Europe two or three weeks ago, said when he departed that he would not return until he had accomplished a second novel, a companion to his "American Beauty." I wish that he had not felt it necessary to seek his material on the other side of the Atlantic. What with Henry James, Mary Borden, Edith Wharton, and various other writers of American fiction who take their characters from that unattractive lot of trans-Atlantic Americans, we American stay at home readers are getting a bit "fed up" with narratives dealing solely with these human hybrids.

Is there no material over here, no daily life drama, to be recorded for their fellow man living on this great continent? Galsworthy, Bennett, Barrie, Shaw, Locke, Huxley, find among their countrymen worthy subjects for their clever pens. Their pictures of contemporary life in and about England are brilliant and interesting, and give the highest kind of pleasure to their readers without leaving that disagreeable after taste so apt to be left by tales dealing with the folk treated by many American writers.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, whose novels have brought her more than national fame, and who writes most delightfully about Americans living in America, is now at work on a fourth book of fiction. She is noted for the ease with which she writes with one hand and, with the other, at the same time carries on one of the busiest existences I know of—a life in which charity, politics, society and domesticity are all conducted with an expert ability that would test the strength of any other mortal—and she has low blood pressure! What wouldn't she do if she had it high?

Tomorrow is the formal opening of the new and beautiful Passavant Memorial hospital on East Chicago avenue. It is a proud day for Russell Tyson, president of the men's board, and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, head of the Women's Aid society, their aids and all the hospital staff. Be sure to go if you were invited.

Americans by Thousands Throng to Longchamps Races

By May Birkhead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 18.—[Special.]—Society may be seen during this lucrative spring season in full sway here, not only because it is the month of May but for several other reasons as well, the first being that the famous Longchamps race course last Sunday attracted hundreds of thousands of persons, of whom 30,000 must have been Americans.

The second reason is that those several thousand Parisian women who contribute so largely to the French capital's reputation for chic have returned to town and may be seen strolling down the Rue de la Paix or along the fashionable Avenue du Bois de Boulogne attired in new spring clothes.

Exhibition at Grand Palais.

Aside from all this, the spring salons are drawing thousands daily. Although the professionals are apt to shake their heads over this annual exhibition at the Grand Palais, nevertheless it is extremely interesting.

Perhaps there are no works of outstanding genius to be seen and doubtless there will be few for future ages to compare with the world's great masterpieces. Yet there are many canvases of interest, beauty, and charm, and the visitor is struck by a certain vitality exhibited, to say nothing of the variety of subject matter and the ingenuity of treatment.

The tremendous exposition with its thousands of paintings is worth more than one visit. In a first rapid survey one is apt to be most impressed by the lavish diversity of color, excellence of drawing, and the fact that most of the spectators seem to be enjoying themselves. This is, of course, to be expected from Paris' two traditional salons, but the crowds are alert and have a sense and good taste which makes their reactions significant.

Chicagoans at Exhibitions.

Among the Chicagoans who are visiting the spring exhibitions, as well as being much entertained, are Mrs. Walter Dillingham, now of Honolulu and formerly Louise Gaylord of Chicago; Mrs. Waller Borden, and Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee. The last two were guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Fairbank at their apartment in the Rue de Varenne, one of the historic streets of old Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter were also seen among the visitors to the salons, and will remain here several weeks before proceeding to Aix les Bains to take the cure.

Camps for Needy Children Are Ready

Sunset Service Takes 44 Girls to Channel Lake

League Gives Aid to Heart Disease Victims.

By Roberta Nangle.

THE camps and recreation centers maintained by women's clubs for the benefit of needy women and children are being made ready for their annual summer guests. The 1929 season at Sunset camp opened last Wednesday, when forty-four girls with heart disease, referred by the various cardiac clinics throughout the city, arrived at the camp for six weeks convalescent care in the country. This care is provided by the Sunset Camp Service league, which maintains its camp near Antioch, Ill., on a bluff overlooking Channel lake.

Organized in 1915 by a group of subscribers and contributors for the purpose of establishing and conducting a vacation center in the country for school and working girls, in 1923 the league extended its activities by making its facilities available for convalescent care of children with heart disease. This expansion was stimulated by the need for such convalescent facilities emphasized by the Chicago Heart association, and the work of the league in developing a cardiac convalescent center at Sunset camp has been carried on under the steady encouragement and the invaluable technical guidance of the Chicago Heart association.

Enabled to Enjoy Outing.

Every year, during the summer vacation season of July and August, two hundred and fifty underprivileged school and working girls, in groups of fifty at a time, are enabled to enjoy a two weeks' outing at a camp which stresses attractive surroundings, healthful activities, wholesome associations, and rest and relaxation from hectic city routine. These girls are sent generally through local social agencies.

During the spring season of May and June and the fall season of September and October, camp is conducted for children with heart disease, a group of approximately 40 girls in the spring and 40 boys in the fall. These children are sent to Sunset camp for convalescent care by various cardiac clinics. The policy of careful selection of the type of heart patient capable of benefit through camp convalescent care, has been evolved under the expert advice of cardiologists who serve as a medical advisory committee to the league, and through the experience and findings of the medical staffs at camp.

Strive for Normal Life.

It is the aim of Miss Ann Stansbury, director of the camp, to have the cardiac children lead as nearly a normal camp life as their limitations will permit. The board of education sends two teachers to conduct school so that the children may not fall behind in their grades. Suitably modified forms of athletics are part of the program. The resident physician for the present season is Dr. Benjamin Blum of Michael Reese hospital. Three nurses will be in attendance.

During the last year a most valuable service has been offered and given by the Visiting Nurse association, which has undertaken the follow up work and home supervision of cardiac children who have been at camp for the convalescent care. This continuity of care is a vital factor in the ultimate improvement of the children.

Miss Madeleine Foreman is president of Sunset Camp Service league, Mrs. Stanton A. Friedberg, first vice president; Miss Mary Black, second vice president; Mrs. Melvin Straus, secretary, and Mrs. Melville Keim, treasurer. There are twenty-three other directors.

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans.

DURING the courses at the spring luncheon the club members at one of the tables began discussing movies and talkies.

"I saw 'The Singing Fool' yesterday," said the young member. "It was fine. I wept all through it."

"I get enough of that sort of thing in real life," declared the long time member. "When I go to a play I want to be amused—the funnier, the better."

"A sign of old age," commented the past president. "I like that kind, too."

"Sometimes I like the funny ones," put in the young member, "but mostly I like the weepy ones—the weepier, the better."

"Perhaps you'd enjoy hearing about my visit to one of our charter members, yesterday," suggested the long time member. "She's outlived all her relatives and is in a nice, private home selected by the lawyer who has charge of her estate. Lately, she's living more and more in the past."

"You're talking about Mrs. Lyons," guessed the ex-president. "I've been to see her several times, but not lately. When I came into the club she was the outstanding figure. She had a brilliant mind and wonderful executive ability."

"She's in her second childhood now, if there is such a thing," continued the long time member. "I was told to go right up to her room when I called. She was standing before her dresser mirror talking to her reflection and didn't notice my coming. 'Mother, mother,' she was saying, 'come out from behind there. Don't hide from me. Don't you love me any more—your own little girl?'"

The tears welled up in the young member's eyes. "How sweet and pathetic," she said. "She really thought she was her own mother! But maybe she isn't unhappy. Childhood is considered the happiest time in life. You know the poem, 'Make me a child again.'"

"Yes, but you'll remember the request was just for a night," replied the ex-president.

"Anyway, I think it's beautiful of you to go and see her," insisted the young member. "She must be a darling. I'd love to see her myself."

"All right, I'll take you," offered the ex-president, "some time when you feel like having a nice weepy time."

Question.

"Has the president the right to say when a by-law shall go into effect?

Reply.

No; if the club does not specify the time, an amendment goes into effect as soon as it is adopted.

Newport's Villas in Readiness for June Contingent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEWPORT, R. I., May 18.—[Special.]—For several years Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly and her daughter, Miss Ruth Twombly, have occupied Vinland, their Ochre Point home, during alternate summers only. This year, however, they plan to return to Vinland, even though they were in residence last year. They will arrive shortly and, after several weeks' stay, will leave for Europe.

Le Roy T. Harkness has returned to New York. He came to Newport early last week to probate the will of his sister, the late Mrs. Violet Harkness Tangeman, long a noted Newport figure, together with her husband, Cornelius Tangeman.

Social activity has been light this week. The cottages and villas are being put into readiness for the arrival of owners, and the beginning of June will find the season well under way. The naval contingent has been active, however.

Rear Admiral Charles L. Hussey, U. S. N., retired, and Mrs. Hussey, who were visiting Capt. and Mrs. Thomas C. Hart, have returned to Washington. Mrs. Hussey and Mrs. Hart are daughters of Admiral and Mrs. Willard H. Brownson of Washington.

Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, who have been cruising in the Aloha, are now in New York and are expected to return to Beacon Hill house late in the month. Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster and Miss Amy Varnum returned from Philadelphia and New York this week.

Among those who returned to New York after spending several days here are Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. McCrae, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Waterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Fraser, Mrs. Beverly Bogert, Miss Evelyn Byrd Burden, and J. Lorimer Worden.

MANDEL BROTHERS
STATE AT MADISON

Presbyterians to Hold Conference in St. Paul, Minn.

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

THE general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the U. S. A. will meet at St. Paul, Minn., in annual session beginning Thursday and continuing until June 1. The presbyteries throughout the denomination have elected an equal number of ministers and elders commissioners, which make up the body of the assembly. Chicago presbytery has elected twelve ministers and twelve elders, and Dr. Cleland B. McAfee of the Presbyterian Theological seminary is being sent with the unanimous indorsement that he be nominated for moderator of the assembly. The first item of business and of interest is the election of the moderator.

Commissioners to the assembly this year will face a serious responsibility in acting on the several reports concerning Princeton Theological seminary. The "blue book" is in the hands of the commissioners for their study, and in it there are four reports on the Princeton controversy, all different. This is one of the questions which has appeared again and again before committees, boards, and presbyteries, and will be before the assembly for solution.

Another question which will be brought before the commissioners is that of the status of the women in the Presbyterian church. A proposal has been adopted by the Presbyterian general council, recently in session in Philadelphia, to give women equal rights in the Presbyterian church of the U. S. A. The Methodist Episcopal church ordains women as local deacons and elders, but does not admit them to what is still called the itinerant membership of the annual conference and the right to continuous appointment as pastors.

Forty-three of the leading Protestant denominations in the United States, according to a carefully compiled report, called "Women and the Ministry," published recently by Doubleday, Doran & Co., grant the right of ordination to women.

The report of the Presbyterian and Methodist joint conference of Jan. 30 on the proposed union of the denominations will also be brought before the assembly and will receive careful attention. Mergers and unions are at present the subjects of almost universal consideration. The missionaries will be zealous that the great issue concerning carrying the gospel to all lands and a closer union of efforts may be brought into prominence.

These are the four prominent questions, but many related and of minor importance will be discussed and planned for.

The Rev. Isidore Dwyer, C. P., and the Rev. Sylvester Cichanski, C. P., leader of the mission band of Norwood Park, will open a two weeks' session in Old St. John's Catholic church, 18th and Clark streets, this morning. Eight different languages will be used during the services. Father Dwyer will have charge of the English and German sections and Father Cichanski of the Polish, Bohemian, and Slav languages. The missionaries will be assisted by the Extension Fathers; Dr. E. Melchior Guinness specializes in any Oriental tongue, Dr. Rowan in the Italian, and Father St. John in the French. The services will continue every evening until June 2.

Pastors and delegates representing 601 English and Norwegian language Lutheran congregations, of which 377 are located in Wisconsin and the remaining in Illinois and other states east, will meet in Our Savior's Lutheran church, Beloit, Wis., on Friday morning at the biennial convention of the eastern district of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, the Rt. Rev. O. J. H. Preus of Chicago, presiding. The convention will continue until Tuesday afternoon next. The Rev. M. W. Halverson is the pastor of the church in Beloit entertaining the convention.

One of the interesting features in connection with the work of this district is the rapid progress which is taking place in the transition into the use of the English language and the organization of a large number of exclusive English congregations. Among the speakers from Chicago are the following: The Rev. R. A. Harrisville, the Rev. G. M. Rundhaug, the Rev. Alfred Forness, the Rev. Omar Brenne, and the Rt. Rev. O. J. H. Preus. All the discussions in the convention will be carried on in the English language, though any delegate or pastor who prefers the Norse will be free to use it.

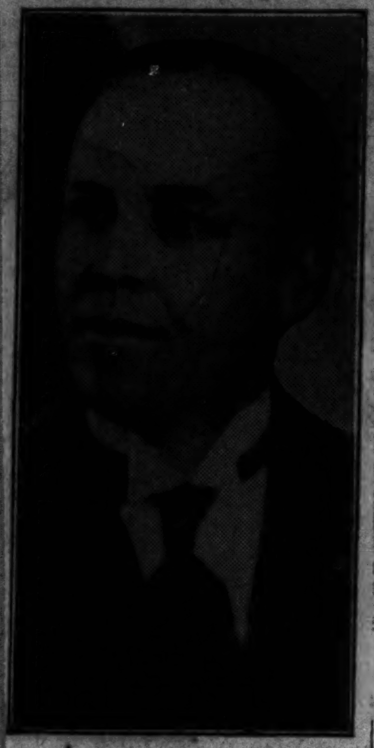
His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, will be the celebrant at the solemn pontifical mass at 11 o'clock today, the feast of Pentecost, at the cathedral of the Holy Name, Superior and North State streets. The cardinal will be assisted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. A. Purcell, D. D., and the Rt. Rev. Herman F. Wolf and the Very Rev. Msgr. J. J. Horsburgh will be assistant deacons. The sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. Robert M. Kelley, S. J., president of Loyola university. At the end of the mass his eminence will impart the papal blessing which carries with it a plenary indulgence for all those who are properly disposed.

The Episcopal diocese of Chicago, the Western Theological seminary, and the Church of the Epiphany, 201 South Ashland avenue, will receive bequests from the estate of the late Mary L. Banks. Bishop C. P. Anderson has been appointed executor of the estate and about $50,000 is expected to come to these organizations.

The Sanctuary society of St. Jerome's Catholic church, Rogers Park, the Rev. Thomas F. Farrell, pastor, will give its annual May party on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Edgewater Beach hotel. St. Jerome's was the first Catholic church in Rogers Park and this will be made the occasion of a homecoming of old friends and neighbors. Miss Elizabeth Phillips is chairman of the prize committee.

Episcopal young people of the middle west will meet at Taylor hall, Racine, Wis., from Friday to Sunday next at the call of Bishop Campbell Gray of northern Indiana, president of the midwest synod, to consider common problems of youth. Dr. Frederick C. Grant, president of the Western Theological seminary, Evanston; E. E. Piper, Detroit, Mich.; Harold C. Barlow, Milwaukee, Wis., and John Young, Ohio, president of the young people's commission of the midwest, are among the speakers on the program.

NEWS OF CHURCHES



THE REV. ORLANDO INGVOLDSTAD.

The Rev. Orlando Ingvoldstad, succeeding the Rev. Simun Peter Long, D. D., will be installed as the pastor of the Wicker Park Lutheran church, Hoyne and Le Moyne avenues, this morning at 10:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. Allen Leas. He comes from the United Lutheran church of Grand Forks, N. D., where it has been necessary to hold services in the large city auditorium on account of the lack of seating capacity in the church.

The Rev. Mr. Ingvoldstad was born in Decorah, Ia., and received his education at St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn. He spent a year abroad in study at the University of Oslo, Norway, and then received his candidate of theology diploma at the United Church seminary, St. Paul, Minn. Two more years were spent in graduate study at the University of Minnesota and the Biblical seminary, New York City, after which he was given his B. D. degree at the Chicago Lutheran Theological seminary.

Mr. Ingvoldstad founded the Chicago Lutheran Bible school, now at 2720 West Washington boulevard, in 1917, and the Long Lake Bible conference in 1919. He remained head of these institutions until 1927. The Lutheran Ministers' Association of Chicago will hold a meeting in June at the Rev. Mr. Ingvoldstad's summer home at Pickerel Point, Long Lake.

The convention of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church will be held at the Woodlawn Immanuel Lutheran church, 64th street and Kenwood avenue, the Rev. Clarence E. Paulus, pastor, beginning on Tuesday and closing on Friday. Preceding the meeting of the synod the synodical brotherhood banquet will be given tomorrow evening. The Rev. C. H. Hightower, president of the northern conference, will preach the opening sermon on Tuesday evening. Special features will be the recognition of the 400th anniversary of the publication of Luther's catechism, "The Little Book," and the ordination of a number of young men on Thursday evening when the Rev. I. W. Bingaman, D. D., of Quincy, Ill., will preach the ordination sermon.

Several churches in the city will observe Pentecost today as a special celebration. At the Woodlawn Baptist church, University avenue and East 62d street, it marks the closing of a seven weeks' series of special services. The Rev. Melbourne P. Boynton, D. D., will preach and administer the communion. He will also give the right hand of fellowship to new members who have been gathered during the last seven weeks.

The soloist at the 4 o'clock organ recital and vesper service at the Fourth Presbyterian church, Delaware place and North Michigan boulevard, this afternoon will be Louise Carlton and she will sing "Thou Wilt Keep Him," by Patton. Eric DeLamarter at the organ will have an unusual program and the preacher will be Dr. Alfred H. Barr.

Dedication services of the new Onward Neighborhood House will be held at 608 North Leavitt street this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. This institution is operated under the joint cooperation of both the Congregational and Presbyterian boards.

Dr. Hugh Black, well known Scotch preacher and a member of the faculty of the Union Theological seminary, New York City, will speak on the subject, "Faith in Man," at Orchestra hall before the Sunday Evening club this evening at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Clifford L. LeDuc and Richard C. Hall will have a part in the program and Clifford W. Barnes will give the Bible talk at 7 o'clock. Compositions by Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of music in the Chicago public schools, will form the musical program of anthems and organ numbers.

The Methodist Men's club of Glen Ellyn will give its last program and entertainment for the season on Tuesday evening in the church parlors and it is varied and interesting. The unique feature will be a talk by the Rev. Rudolph Malek, companion of Theodore Roosevelt, neighbor to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, during a part of the time they were filming "Simba," companion of Ogden Stewart White, and nine years a missionary to Africa. His subject is "Africana." Ladies' Aid society also will present "Ye Olde Fashioned Tea of Ye Olden Days," a drama of forty years ago.

The Baptist Ministers' conference will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Northern Baptist Theological seminary, 3040 West Washington boulevard. The speakers are the Rev. John R. Sampey and the Rev. Bruce Kinney. The president's reception will follow the conference.

This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock a memorial service will be held for Dr. John A. Earl, editor of the Baptist, who died at St. Paul, Minn., May 4 and was buried here. The service will be held at the Oak Park Baptist church, where Dr. Earl made his church home while residing in Oak Park.

Salon Reveals Camera as Superb Art Tool

Photographs at Institute Show Rival Etchings

Some Even Approach Delicacy of Water Color.

By Eleanor Jewett.

BEFORE too many weeks have slipped away it is as well to go for a second visit to the Art institute and examine with greater care the unusual prints offered by the First Chicago International Photographic salon. The pictures have been hung in the last of the east wing galleries, in the long hall, and on both sides of the great stairs.

The strides that photography has made are amazing. The camera has become in the hands of an expert almost as much of an art tool as the chisel or the knife. A number of these photographs can be compared favorably with etchings, with engravings or lithographs. A few approach the delicacy of a water color.

From All Over World.

The prints come from all over the world. England is represented. Poland, Italy, Australia, Czecho-Slovakia, Scotland, Canada, Russia, Java, Roumania, Belgium, Germany, and Egypt—all of these as well as the United States are listed among the contributors. With the wealth of the world from which to choose, one need not wonder too greatly at the brilliance of the result.

Miss Dorothy Wilding, England, offers two important portraits—George Bernard Shaw and Miss Helen Wills—and a charming nude, "The Silver Turban." "Reverie," by Gilbert B. Seehausen, is another exquisite nude. There are several delightful studies of children. One is "Toni," by Douglas, and a second is "Nancy," by Joseph D. Toloff. Leonard Misonne, the Belgian, offers four beautiful landscapes. "Paturage" and "Nuees" are two of the loveliest.

It is almost impossible to go through the rooms and pick out the best work. So many things come into account. For example, there is a splendid piece of drama in the captive man pulling against his chains, a slave, evidently, under the lash against idling; there are studies of flowers, of street scenes, of pastoral scenes, of clouds, of pools, of people. Personal taste plays a great part in finding qualities to admire. It is much more comprehensive to say that the exhibit is very fine and then each one can select his own particular favorites.

Many Chicagoans Contribute.

At the Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue, there is an excellent show. It is the seventh semi-annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture by the artist members of the association. All the galleries are hung with the exhibit. In the first room, over the desk, hangs the beautifully composed flower painting by Josephine L. Reichman. It is called "Hydrangea," and it is one of the finest canvases in the exhibit.

Gerald Frank shows a characteristic poetic painting in this room, "Fisherman's Dream," and in a further room he shows a gorgeous still life, "Floral Arrangement." Stark Davis contributes two stunning decorative panels. One is in brilliant color, "Decoration Number 2," a tropical bird of gay plumage; the second, "Decoration Number 1," is one a more quiet plane and is built up from a sea gull theme.

Alice L. Bidwell shows a colorful flower study in her still life of fragrant pink flowers and a fascinating blue jar. Claude Buck is represented by a charming canvas "A Story," in which an old lady is reading to two entranced children. One criticism might be suggested. Are not the poses of the children, particularly that of the little girl, too dramatic, too much emphasized—that exaggerated quiet—and is not the texture of the skin too waxen? It struck me so.

A Charming Nude.

Randolph Coats has swerved from the straight portrait and offers us a charming nude, a young girl against a beautifully painted background, but there is something not quite pleasing in her pose—the painting loses by the awkward position of her legs and the odd twist of her body at the waist.

Charles W. Dahlgreen is responsible for "Between Showers," a landscape made of a luscious wet road and soft succulent greens. Jessie Arms Botke has a "Flower Panel" of exquisite workmanship. The detail in it is marvelous and a continual delight to the eye. The poised butterfly, the pert birds, the tangle of blossoms—it is one of the choice paintings of the exhibit.

Edgar Forkner's "Old Green Boat" has a vast swing to it. The rush of color and stroke sweeps your attention to a breaking point. There is something very satisfying in this type of abrupt painting. Edward T. Grigware shows a summer landscape made up of hills and trees and water—"Gay Garments." Emily Groom's "Clouds" is in complete contrast. Her sad, melancholy countryside, plunged fathoms deep in rain and mist, is extremely well done, however.

Resembles Hals, Steen.

Lucie Hartrath shows "Autumn Pageant," a wide sweep of glorious country, and "Oaks." Oscar Gross is responsible for another one of the finest pictures in the show. His "Chess" is as meticulously painted as was ever one of the canvases of Hals or Jan Steen. It is a splendid group of three men, two playing and the third looking on, with every detail so wonderfully exact and complete and finished that it has a deathless charm. Besides, it is a livable picture. One could imagine enjoying many years of companionship with it and familiarity would never dull the edge of your pleasure.

Adolph Heinze brings recollections of his superb one-man show last year in the beauty of his present contribution, "Glacier Park Flowers." Charles P. Killgore brings mountain scenery into the exhibit, too, with his particularly lovely "The Sierras in Spring" and takes us a little farther afield in "Cuernavaca, Mexico," another beautiful, warmly colored picture. Pauline Palmer shows a study of two children "In the Doorway," that is attractive, but more charming is her characteristic "The Village Street," a delightful study in color and sentiment.

Marques E. Reitzel shows a decorative landscape in "Autumn Day." It is brilliant and harsh, a bold pattern of line, shape and color, masterfully and daringly handled. The great strength back of the color makes it reasonable. The knowledge and practice back of the structure makes that reasonable. And in spite of all its reasonableness there still remains the flair for modernity which gives it the vigor and difference that permit us to call it fine.

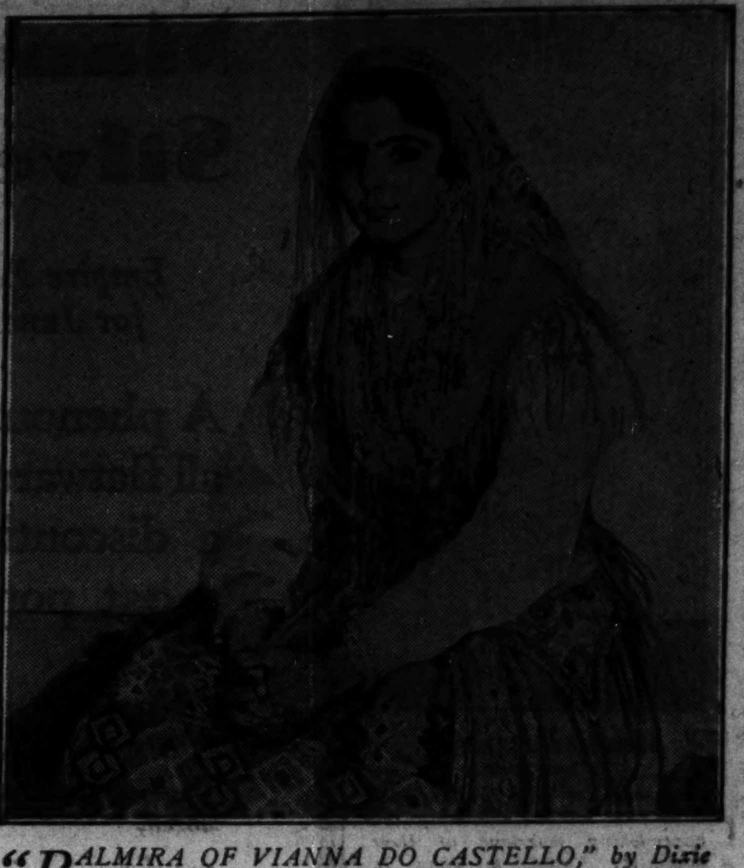
Charming Flower Work Shown.

John A. Spelman offers a stunning study of night in a country of beauty. "Northern Moonlight" is a gorgeous canvas. Anna Lee Stacey shows a high keyed, charming flower painting, "Phlox." John F. Stacey has a large canvas, beautifully handled, "Golden October Afternoon." Frederic Tellander is represented by an unusual painting of a river in a snow storm, a capital performance, "Bennington Creek" and by a more characteristic landscape, "Vermont Hills."

James Topping has succeeded in "Toilers of the Sky" in touching his always wonderful sky paintings with a hint of mysticism. Paul Trebilcock has seldom done more delicate painting than in the lovely portrait "Isabella R. Warner." Agnes Potter van Ryn has done something exceptional, too, in portraiture with her painting of a young girl. There is very clever painting in the background and the composition is unusually satisfying.



"PALMIRA OF VIANNA DO CASTELLO," by Dixie Selden, in the current exhibit at the Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue. This portrait, with its Portuguese costume, is possibly the most striking figure study in the exhibition. Miss Selden has achieved a dangerous feat. She has left the white canvas unpainted to serve as a background for her brilliant figure. The exhibition will continue to June 9.

Charles A. Willimovsky has a [illegible] vating, romantic fantasy in "[illegible] Horses," the cloud horses [illegible] the sunset sky to the yearning [illegible] of an Indian and his pinto wh[illegible] motionless, watching the free [illegible] run in splendor.

Edgar Alwin Payne is enjoying a one-man show of his recent paintings in oil and color at the Allerton hotel. The exhibit opened May 11 and will continue to May 25.

There opened last Friday, with a talk of "Modern Art" by [illegible] Robinson, an exhibit of modern paintings by Mater Dominica [illegible] of Salzburg. The exhibit is unusual and well worth a visit. It is hung in the "Petit Gourmet," 615 North Michigan avenue.

The South Side Art association opened their annual spring salon last week in the Stevens hotel. The exhibition is very fine and it will continue another week.

James H. Winn, one of the greatest silver craftsmen Chicago has ever boasted, is leaving shortly to live in California. Mr. Winn has worked in jewelry in Chicago for the last forty-five years. He is a past-master of the art. In the opinion of Ralph Clarkson, one of Chicago's most important and most brilliant portrait painters, Mr. Winn is the ablest craftsman we have ever had here. He is a member of the Cliff Dwellers; he has been the instructor in jewelry technique at the Art institute; he is a member of the Artists Professional League, Art Institute Alumni, and of the Association of Arts and Industries. Mr. Winn plans to open a studio in southern California, probably in Pasadena.

M. Knoedler and company announce the opening of an exhibit of paintings by Henri Eugene Le Sidaner to continue through June 5.

The American Academy of Arts is having an exhibition of the work of their students from May 18 to May 31 in their studios at 1125 Kimball Hall, 306 South Wabash avenue. Harry L. Timmins and Frank H. Young are the directors of the school.

Sulphur Springs Host to Bankers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 18.—[Special.]—This resort has played host to investment bankers from all over the country who arrived this week for the meeting of the board of governors. Among them was T. P. Chapman of Chicago, Robert O. Lord of Detroit, and Thomas J. Wall and Thomas J. Gates of Chicago.

Most everything this week has been centered about the three hundred members of the board of the Investment Bankers' association. Golf matches, riding parties, luncheons, and dinners have been gotten up for the visiting notables and their wives and families. The calm of the resort has been quite broken by the influx of financial men.

Many of the visitors who have been here during the early weeks of the spring have gone north. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche left early in the week after a stopover here on their way to New York from Palm Beach. With them went Col. James A. Blair Jr., who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roche here. Mrs. Edward Crozer, Mrs. Augustus F. Kountze and Mr. and Mrs. John M. L. Rutherford have also returned to the north. Mr. Charles Fair and Mrs. Yale Dolan have returned to Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Cady of Chicago are now at the Greenbrier, and others arriving included Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pocock, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver D. Weld, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. MacWithey.

Capital's Society Turns to Riding, Races and Shows

ister of Hungary, rode with his small daughter, Sylvia, a flaxen haired miss whose flying locks were held by a black velvet riding hat. She rode intently, unsmiling, proud, chin up over a necktie exactly like her father's!

They won the blue ribbon, defeating even Countess Szechenyi, formerly Gladys Vanderbilt and Sylvia's older sister, the Countess Cornelia. Mrs. Robert L. Bacon and her daughter, Alexandra, won second place, and Dora Gwynn, with her father, A. C. Gwynn, annexed the third ribbon.

Excitement was added when three of the contestants took spills. But they all seized upon the occasion as a chance to show carefully drilled sportsmanship.

"I didn't feel it a bit," asserted Nandine, another of the Szechenyi clan, bobbing up smiling after a tumble from her pony.

Elizabeth Martin was even more debonair after a really hard fall from a horse much too big for her. "That's nothing in my young life," she boasted climbing promptly back into the saddle.

Society at Bradley Farms.

The mature members of Washington society hastened to the annual spring meet of the national capital horse show at picturesque Bradley farms, which occurred the end of this week.

This is always a brilliant event. Every one turns out in what is usually one of the most colorful events of the year. A number of racing enthusiasts were absent, however, passing up the horse show for the Kentucky Derby. These racing events always lure many from the capital. The Preakness was a magnet to Washingtonians.

The Vice President and his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, had a box. They accompanied Gov. Ritchie of Maryland to the track. Undersecretary of the treasury and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Lawrence Richey, secretary of President Hoover, and Mrs. Ritchey, the Breckenridge Longs, and Rear Admiral Cary T. Garyson were among those who watched this historic event.

Congressional Club Comes of Age.

The Congressional club came of age this week. This club, composed of the wives and daughters of members of the house and senate, celebrated its twenty-first birthday on Wednesday night. It had a party; a dinner, and a program, and dancing afterward. It had an elegant birthday cake with twenty-one candles, which Mrs. Porter Dale, its lovely white haired, youthful eyed president, cut.

The only flaw in the party was the absence of Mrs. John B. Henderson, Washington's "grand old lady," gave the club the ground upon which its handsome clubhouse stands, and was to have been the guest of honor. She is ill in Battle Creek, Mich., and was unable to come.

Because of the length of the extra session, the club will remain open for a few weeks longer, and sponsor several more parties. This institution is the godsend of new and socially obscure wives of congressmen who come to the capital without acquaintances or friends. It takes them in, arranges parties for them and provides a roof under which they may meet, mingle, and form their own circles.

Letter from Mrs. Coolidge.

On the contrary, the ladies of the senate decided to discontinue their Tuesday meetings at their luncheon this week. Many of the senatorial women have gone, and others seem to be departing by every train.

At the last meeting Tuesday, Mrs. George Moses, president, read a letter from Mrs. Coolidge, a charming, chatty letter, full of humor and good will for her former associates.

Judging from the letter, however, the former first lady is cut off from Washington happenings, and quite content to have it so. She wrote that she "doesn't know anything that is going on in Washington now." But she does enjoy her simple life.

Mrs. Coolidge spends hours each morning attending to her correspondence, she told her friends; in the afternoon goes to see her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, who has been in a hospital for more than a year, and spends time at simple amusements with neighbors.

Mrs. McCormick to Speak.

An interesting meeting will take place here next week. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick will make a speech at a breakfast of the Political Study club at noon of May 25. And Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has accepted an invitation to be guest of honor. Every one hereabouts is intrigued by the notion of this organization. It expects a huge gathering and has hired the ball room of the Mayflower hotel for the event.

Mrs. John Francis Amherst Cecil—better known as the former Cornelia Vanderbilt—is suffering a democratic spring trial. She is house hunting in Washington. Although she and her husband have spent most of their time at Biltmore house, their estate in North Carolina, which Mrs. Cecil inherited from her father, the late George Vanderbilt, they have always maintained an apartment here—indeed, they have a lease on it until next October.

But they have usually stayed with Mrs. Cecil's mother, Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry, and are at her home here now.

Mrs. Cecil had decided to buy a house and came to town cuddling this notion. She scoured the city, like any anxious wife and mother. After considering the Villa Rosa, far out on Massachusetts avenue, she discussed the possibility of buying the town house of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Rinehart, with the idea that the Cecils would move into the Rinehart house, and the authoress and her husband would move into the Villa Rosa.

When that plan failed, Mrs. Cecil decided just to rent a home!

ham Bay park, which is neither Westchester nor New York, but a point, socially speaking, on the road between town and Connecticut.

On Tuesday the annual May garden party of the International Garden club was held at the old Bartow mansion in the park, with tea being served in the clubhouse and the lawns quite deserted due to the fact that the weather began to be it bit reminiscent of April. Indeed, it frankly poured during the afternoon, sending every one inside, or to their cars and the homeward route.

Among the members present were Mrs. Herbert Satterlee, Mrs. Henry Clinton Backus, Mrs. J. Horace Harding, Mrs. Elihu Root Jr., Mrs. Philip A. S. Franklin, Mrs. William Hamlin Childs, Mrs. Henry A. Ingraham, and Hamilton Fish Kean.

Society at Bronx Party.

On Thursday society went quite as far uptown but somewhat more to the north to attend the annual garden party of the New York Zoölogical society in Bronx park.

The weather was a lot nicer and indeed, we have always had a weakness for the garden parties at the Bronx zoo. The tulips are all abloom at present and the park, which so few of us ever get to see, is perfectly lovely.

Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn presided, and among other notables present were Mrs. George F. Baker Jr., Mrs. William Woodward, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn Jr., Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Percy R. Pyne, Mrs. George Whitney, Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford, Mrs. Morgan Hamilton, Mrs. Arthur A. Flower, Mrs. W. V. S. Thorne, Mrs. R. Gordon McKay, Mrs. Edward Mitchell Townsend, Mrs. Reginald Fincke, Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, and Mrs. Henry Reese Hoyt.

Few Weddings of Importance.

Of weddings there have been quite a few, but not many of importance. Church weddings are not in favor just this month and it is still a bit early for those lovely garden ceremonies at the suburban estates. However, Tuesday saw a notable wedding when Margaret Schniewind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schniewind became the bride of Julian Carr Stanley in the chapel of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Margaret's only attendants were her three sisters, Mrs. James Jackson Lee, the formerly Emily D. Schniewind; Mrs. Warren Pond, who was Helen Schniewind, and Ethel Schniewind, who is to marry H. Edward Manville Jr., on June 11.

ENGAGED

MISS ALICE McGINNIS.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Stone of 8412 Drexel avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice McGinnis, to Franklin M. Kindig Jr. of 5000 East End avenue. The wedding will take place on June 1.

BOSTON OYSTER HOUSE, MORRISON HOTEL

HARRY C. MOIR
PRES. & GEN. MGR.

The new Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel—46 stories high, with 3,400 rooms.

AS the warmer season advances, and appetites demand more delicate and tempting fare, the long experience of the Morrison chefs is plainly revealed in the singularly inviting character of their menus.

The "Dine-and-Dance" Terrace Garden

The vivacious environment of the Terrace Garden has an especial lure at this time of year—also the picturesque Boston Oyster House, whose historic "atmosphere" has long been associated with exceptionally "popular" prices for fixed-price meals:

BREAKFAST, 35c to $1. LUNCHEON, 80c. DINNER, $1.25

Rooms, $2.50 Up. Why Rates Are Low

The central location of the Morrison has developed subrental revenues that pay all the ground rent, and the guests enjoy the saving. Rooms are rented at $2.50 to $5 that would cost $5 to $8 at any other hotel of high recognition.

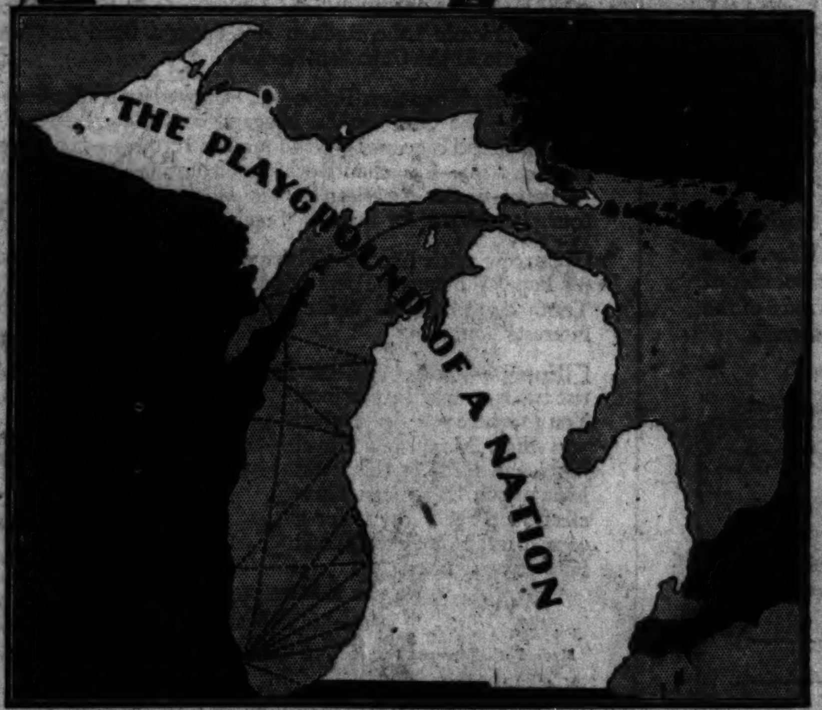
There's No Other Summerland in the World Like

Michigan



GET your family away from the dust, heat and roar of the city. Give them the happiest, most exhilarating summer they have ever known. Plan now for a vacation in Michigan.

Michigan has the most delightful summertime climate in all America. Here the pine-scented air is washed clean and clear by the waters of three Great Lakes. Ultra-violet rays—so beneficial in renewing health and energy—exert their full effect in this pure air. Here, too, the children have more outdoor play hours because a sandy subsoil dries the ground quickly after a rain.

And what a place for fun! You can plunge in the rolling surf of the big lakes, loll on the white sands of broad beaches, or swim in sheltered inland waters. More than 5,000 lakes and streams assure you superb fishing for bass, trout and muskellunge. There are sporty golf courses everywhere; also flower-fringed woodland trails for hiking or horseback riding.

Think of it! Michigan's 2,016-mile shore line is longer than the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Florida. Picturesque Indian villages, old Dutch settlements, enchanting shore drives and majestic forests make this a sight-seers' paradise. More than 21,000 miles of improved roads connect all points of interest. Fine hotels and a friendly greeting await you everywhere.

Best of all, Michigan is close at hand. All resort centers are easily reached by special summer through railroad service and by fast daily steamships. Just a few hours and you are in this scenic summerland of happy, sunshiny days and cool, keen-aired nights.

Thousands own cottages in this healthful region where every courtesy is extended and taxes on property owned and occupied by nonresidents are almost negligible. Many, too, who were attracted to West Michigan by its vacation delights now live here the year 'round. They combine business and pleasure by living on a revenue-producing fruit-growing or dairy farm.

Any of the bureaus listed below will gladly send you Michigan Vacation Books, together with impartial information about sports, points of interest, hotels, rates, etc., in every section. Mail the coupon today.

LOW RATES during May and June

Principal steamship and rail lines offer round trip fares during May and June at decided reductions over regular season tourist tickets. Many hotels and resorts also provide attractive low rates during these delightful months. Lower rates for golf and other diversions.

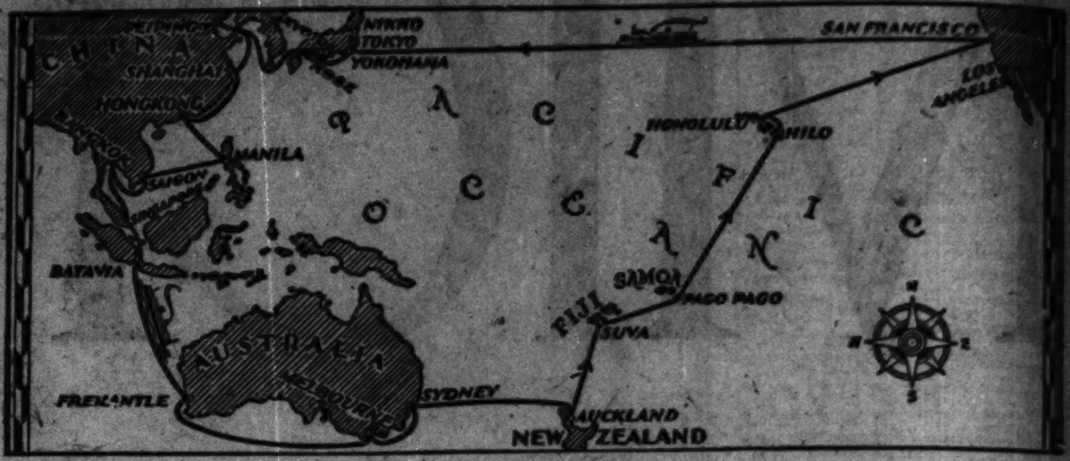
Around Pacific Cruise



On September 21st the magnificent 22,000-ton liner "MALOLO" of the Matson Line will sail from San Francisco on a glorious cruise which circles the Pacific Ocean. Reaching Japan in chrysanthemum time—then to the age-old cities of China—the Philippines—Saigon, the Paris of the Orient—the Temple of the Emerald Buddha in Siam—visiting a thousand-year old shrine in Java—mighty Singapore; down the old seaway to Australia and around to Melbourne and Sydney. Across to New Zealand—to Fiji and Samoa, gorgeous isles resting in the sea like jewels—northwards to delectable Hawaii, returning to San Francisco December 20th. Fourteen countries, twenty-eight cities—a leisurely pageant of colorful lands like maps come alive.

This memorable cruise is under the auspices of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and the business men of America and their families are cordially invited to participate. In many respects the cruise carries out in the Pacific, the objects of the President's recent trip to South America, and those forming this unique gathering will be looked upon as ambassadors of international good-will.

Never before has it been possible to take such a cruise without a change of steamer. The entire arrangements are under the expert management of the American Express. Rates as low as $1,500 according to accommodations selected.

MORE precious than fabled chests of Spanish gold are the rest and romance of the Caribbean...rich, unburied treasure of lands cooled by the faithful trade winds.

Havana will make you gay. Panama Canal will make you wonder. Jamaica, Costa Rica, Colombia, Guatemala, and Honduras will make you dream ...of ancient races...of swaggering buccaneers and pieces of eight.

And for such a treasure quest, the Great White Fleet is peculiarly fitted ...the only ships in the world built exclusively for Caribbean cruising.

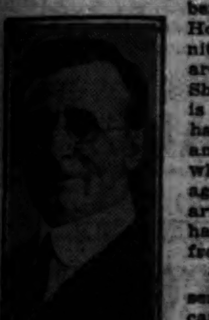
HOWARDCHURCH GIVES DISTRICT RELIGIOUS UNITY

14 Denominations in Perfect Accord.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Although fourteen different denominations are represented in the membership of the Howard Community church, Howard street and Sheridan road, it is said that there has never been an occasion where any disagreement has arisen over what has been spoken from the pulpit.



THE REV. C. J. MORGAN.

"Which would serve to indicate," says the pastor, the Rev. Caradoc J. Morgan, "that church unity is, perhaps, nearer at hand than we have been led to think."

The Rev. Mr. Morgan completed his third year as pastor of the new church organization last Sunday. As a mark of appreciation of the minister and of the man 150 church members and friends met recently at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Williams, 7602 Sheridan road, and presented Mr. and Mrs. Morgan with a handsome silver set, a library table, and library lamp.

Church Seven Years Old.

The Howard Community church is now about seven years old. Like the community itself, it has little past but challenges the future. Dr. John Cole was the first pastor. He was followed by the Rev. Chester Dunham. The Rev. Mr. Morgan came to the pastorate from Oregon City, Ore., where he had been in charge of the oldest Congregational church west of the Rocky mountains.

Born in Wales, the Rev. Mr. Morgan took his classic course in the old college at Carmarthen, his arts course at Fargo, N. D., and his divinity course at the Chicago Theological seminary and the divinity school of the University of Chicago. He was ordained in the Congregational ministry. Three of his brothers are preachers in America.

The Rev. Mr. Morgan is an enthusiast about the church for which it was felt there was a need in the fast growing Howard district. The Chicago Federation of Churches has a ruling that in a new community only one church can be designated by the decision of the committee on comity, preferring one strong Protestant church to several, thus eliminating denominational competition and duplication.

Stress Young People's Work.

Prominence is given in the Howard Community church to young people's work. There is a strong and active Sunday school and such organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boy Rangers, Camp Fire Girls, and glee clubs. Sunday school meets at 9:45 a. m., preaching at 11 a. m., Junior Endeavor at 3 p. m., and Intermediate Endeavor at 4:30 p. m. There are activities every day in the week, which makes it a community church in name and nature. In its appeal there is always a community response.

The pulpit message of the church is the application of a modern knowledge to the old faith. A recent series of sermons had for its topic "Present Problems and Possible Solutions," which involved the subjects of crime, home, youth, and the voice of the church in civic affairs.

"Rarely," says the pastor, "is there such an opportunity and challenge for a progressive church as this one in the Howard district. Growing with the district and endeavoring to care for the social and religious needs of its people, the need of such a church will always be recognized."

Board of Trustees.

Members of the board of trustees of the Howard Community church are Paul McCurda, H. G. Shallenberger, W. O. Willison, J. J. Miller, J. H. Turner, E. A. Stavrum, Dr. J. G. Williams, H. F. McDermott, and L. L. Spalding.

Board of deacons—George McGaw, E. T. Macdonald, A. H. Hogan, J. P. McDonald, Norman Tolson, and J. C. Benson.

Board of deaconesses—Mrs. J. J. Miller, Mrs. Paul McCurda, Mrs. Norman Tolson, Mrs. H. H. Macdonald, Mrs. R. J. Fischer, Mrs. J. P. Macdonald, and Mrs. George McGaw.

Religious education committee—Howard Blodgett, George McGaw, A. H. Hogan, Mrs. E. A. Stavrum, Mrs. Norman Tolson, and the Rev. C. J. Morgan.

Membership committee—J. J. Miller, Mrs. H. F. McDermott, Mrs. C. W. Ferguson, A. L. Busse, Mrs. H. C. Shallenberger, Mrs. Andrew Greenman, and Miss Margaret Ann Lewis.

Lake View Operetta Is Given Again Downtown

A repeat performance of the "Bohemian Girl" by the music department of Lake View High school under the direction of Mrs. D. G. Smith was given last night in the Eighteenth Street theater. The operetta was first presented several weeks ago in the school auditorium but was received well enough to warrant its production in a downtown theater. Among those taking part in it were Kenneth Stevens, Reginald Tranter, Charles Holmes, Miss Ilse Ohl, Miss Dolly Laws, James Zach, Howard Bloch, and Miss La Donna Patier.

Auxiliary Election Tomorrow.

St. George auxiliary will hold its annual election at St. George High school, 400 Sherman street, Evanston, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Tea will be served.

GIRLS REGISTER IN RAVENSWOOD FETE CONTEST

Shoppers to Pick Most Popular Entrant.

Numerous candidates for the title of "Miss Ravenswood" have registered in the contest which is being held in connection with the annual spring festival of merchants in the Robey street-Lawrence avenue district, M. T. Loftus, chairman, announced yesterday. The contest to select the most popular young woman in the Ravenswood community is open to every young woman, married or unmarried, living in the territory bounded by Ashland, Montrose and Foster avenues and Leavitt street.

The winner, who will be selected by the shoppers visiting the community during the three weeks' fair, will be announced June 1.

These Girls Entered.

Among the candidates already entered are: Miss Jewell Ehrhard, Miss Minnie Riddiford, Miss Elaine Thorson, Miss Helen Hedrick, Miss Helen Bergquist, Miss Lois Campbell, Miss Elsie Zimmerman, Miss Eleanor Zickgraff, Miss Frances Jones, Miss Elizabeth Meinke, Miss Dorothy Meader, Miss Ruth Marsh, and Miss Ruth McKay.

The Ravenswood festival is sponsored by the Robey-Lawrence Business Men's association, of which Dr. R. A. Reilley is president. Assisting Mr. Loftus are: A. J. Lindblad, E. B. Millar, A. J. Learned, P. N. Molsen, O. O. Miksch, and P. R. Wageman.

Streets Decked with Flags.

The streets in the district have been decorated with flags and banners and numerous prizes are being awarded each week by the members of the association. A grand prize, donated by the association, will be given to the winner of the popularity contest and other awards will be presented to each entrant in the contest, Mr. Loftus said.

NEAR NORTH SIDE SCHOOL CHILDREN GET HEALTH TEST

More than 3,000 children of the near north side have been examined this year in an organized health drive being conducted in that district by the department of health, Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel announced yesterday, and at least 1,500 more will be told what they need to become physically sound before the semester ends.

The drive, conducted in one particular section for the first time in the history of Chicago, has uncovered some interesting facts about the health of school children, the commissioner said, and is expected to lead to a city-wide system of examinations within a few years. It is planned eventually to divide the city into 40 districts and have a corps of doctors, nurses, and dentists assigned to each.

The plan has proved so successful in its first trial among north side children, according to Dr. Kegel, that it is planned to request an appropriation in the 1930 budget for the department solely for the purpose of employing examiners to work in other sections.

BUSINESS MEN DEMAND BRIDGE REOPEN JULY 1

Clark Street Feels Loss of Trade.

Declaring that due to the closing of the North Clark street bridge business on North Clark street and vicinity is being greatly reduced, store vacancies are already occurring, and many merchants are faced with possible failure, an appeal has been made by a group of property owners and business men in the community to Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, that work on the new bridge now under construction be speeded up in order that it may be partly opened to traffic by July 1.

In a letter addressed to Commissioner Wolfe the petitioners request that authority be asked at once from the city council for an additional expense not to exceed $125,000 to pay for overtime and other items necessary to place the new bridge in service for street cars and pedestrians by July 1 and for general team traffic approximately four weeks thereafter.

Signed by Business Leaders.

Among the property owners and business men signing the petition are: Benjamin Blumenthal, chairman of the board, Central North Clark Street Improvement association; William C. Calvert, executive secretary of the North Central association; Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club; Karl Eitel, president of the La Salle Street Property Owners' association; Robert H. Nau, assistant general manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce; H. C. Kelly, James H. Ireland, Harry J. Weiner, A. A. Sprague, Thomas H. Gould, Joseph R. Fine, George F. Werner, and L. E. Wilson.

The signatures of three city engineers who support the movement are also on the letter. They are: Loren D. Gayton, city engineer; Paul Schioler, city bridge engineer, and Thomas G. Pihlfeldt, in charge of bridges and viaducts.

Due to Be Ready in Three Months.

The Clark street bridge was damaged when struck by the Sandmaster, a sand sucker, on April 30. As it had been planned to dismantle the bridge about July 1 to start work on the new bridge the city council decided not to attempt the repair of the old span. Under the present schedule it is planned to complete the new bridge in three months.

The business men and property owners north of the river demand that work on the new bridge be forced by working overtime during all daylight hours, including Saturday afternoons and Sundays. They also point out that the closing of the bridge has created intolerable traffic congestion in the loop.

STREET REPAIR PLAN EXPLAINED TO CIVIC BODIES

What the property owners may expect in the matter of resurfacing streets by special assessment according to the plan of Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe was outlined in a message sent to some fifty improvement clubs of the north side Wednesday.

The commissioner's letter was sent to the groups to acquaint them with the provisions in bill pending before the state legislature which would enable the public works department to levy special assessments to resurface streets, using its own paving gangs rather than letting the jobs to contractors.

The plan was devised for use in cases where old street foundations are in good condition and repavement would be wasteful or where property owners do not desire to pay the cost of an entirely new street.

In a recent hearing held by the board of local improvements on paving projects throughout the city many property owners indicated that they would file petitions to have the streets resurfaced and not repaved as is planned by the board.

3,000 EVANSTON BOYS TO SEEK HOBBY PRIZES

Close to three thousand Evanston boys will take part in the exhibitions of hobbies, collections, and handicraft sponsored by the Evanston bureau of recreation, Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A., and public schools to be held in connection with boys' week at the Evanston Elks headquarters, Chicago avenue and Greenwood boulevard.

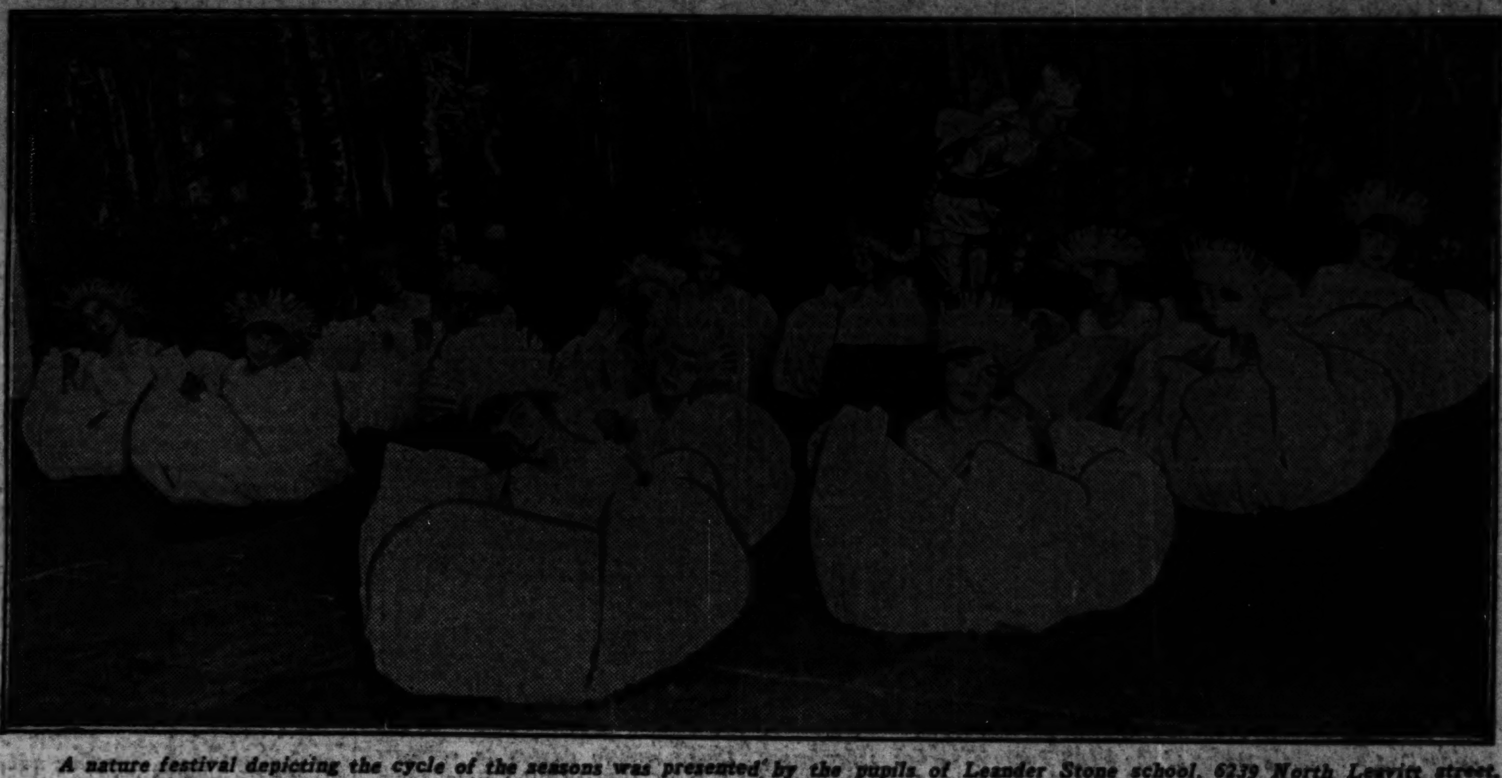
Any boy living or working in Evanston is eligible to enter the exhibit and win one of the 192 ribbons to be awarded for first, second, and third places in each of the 32 classes in the junior and senior divisions.

Judging will occur next Thursday and ribbons will be awarded at that time but the displays will be opened to the public on Friday also. Sidney Geal of the Y. M. C. A., is in general charge, Don Boulton of the Boy Scouts is handling publicity, and C. T. Byrnes of the recreation bureau and Clarence Moser of the Y. M. C. A. are in charge of the classification, prizes, and exhibits. J. Roy Skiles, superintendent of district 75, and D. E. Walker, assistant superintendent of district 76, are representing the schools.

Sewer Is Being Urged for Magnolia Street

Approval of the installation of a sewer and the opening of a north side street will be sought by the board of local improvements at a public hearing to be held in the city hall next Friday morning, officials of the board announced yesterday. It is desired to install a sewer in Magnolia avenue, between Lawrence avenue and Argyle street, and to open Rockwell street between Foster and Carmen avenues.

Cycle of Seasons Presented in Stone School Pageant



A nature festival depicting the cycle of the seasons was presented by the pupils of Leander Stone school, 6239 North Leavitt street, at the meeting of Stone Parent-Teacher association Tuesday evening, in the auditorium of the school building. Mrs. Jane M. Gandia, assistant principal, was the director of the festival. The picture includes Harriet Blevins, Ruth Lay, Audrey Bergstrand, Lois Larson, Dolores Blosten, Betty Boyce, Vernette McGinty, Marilyn McCormick, Shirley Weiman, Jeanette Hoffman, Geraldine Levitus, Phyllis Fuener, Marjorie Haum, and Sonia Henius.

MRS. S. W. GIBSON IS NEW PRESIDENT OF DISTRICT CLUBS

Installation of officers for the Tenth district of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs took place last week in connection with the state covention at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. S. W. Gibson, 7350 Ridge boulevard, was installed as president.

MRS. S. W. GIBSON.

Other officers are: Vice president, Mrs. Graham Munch, Lake Bluff; second vice president, Mrs. Frederic W. Masters, Chicago; recording secretary, Mrs. James G. Weart, Libertyville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. K. Farley, Kenilworth; treasurer, Mrs. Earl Stafford, Fox Lake; chairman of finance, Mrs. Henry W. Price, Evanston; chairman of revisions, Mrs. Reginald Ford, Chicago.

Forty-two clubs and ten junior clubs are in the district, the Tenth congressional district, comprising the north side and the north shore.

CORNER STONE OF EVANSTON Y TO BE LAID TOMORROW

Corner stone laying ceremonies for the new $800,000 Y. M. C. A. building at Maple avenue and Grove street, Evanston, will be tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. Charles N. Stevens, president of the Evanston Y. M. C. A., will preside.

The building will be, according to statements from the national Y. M. C. A. building bureau, the most complete of its kind in the country. It will rise six stories in college Gothic style of architecture and all exposed walls will be of stone.

Interior plans call for a 75 by 37 foot swimming tank with its ceiling two floors high, special arrangements for employed boys, and a department specially planned for business men.

Howard G. Gey, oldest living member of the board of directors, and John E. Wilder, oldest living president of the Evanston Y. M. C. A., will officiate in laying the corner stone. Edwin Sherman, chairman of the building committee, will make an address in connection with the box to be deposited in the stone.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

BILL DIGGETT, our patent law expert, is back from Florida with a remarkable story. He did not catch a tarpon; he did not make a hole-in-one-club, and he did not let a single drink pass his lips. Not one. Bill did go deep sea fishing and lost the biggest whale he ever saw. As he fired the harpoon the catacean went into reverse gear instead of high speed forward, as is its wont, and the weapon missed its mark by well nigh a furlong. Bill figures the whale slipped its clutch.

Dr. John G. M. Luttenberger, the genial Scotsman, is among those who have removed their penates and lares from the Tacoma building, this town's towering skyscraper of the nineties—it towered thirteen stories. He had been there twenty-two years and remembers when he could stand on the roof and view the whole loop, smoke pall permitting.

"C. A. Beach, who loops the loop and flies upside down at Waukesha July 3 and 4." It is a program of a homecoming celebration at Put Haight's home town way back in 1916, and the folks probably considered Pilot Beach a reckless daredevil indeed. How tempus fugits.

JACK FRANKNECHT, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Franknecht of 6439 North Maplewood avenue, who is 18 and a graduate of Senn High school, has joined the navy and for the next four years expects to be busy seeking the whereabouts of those world sights described by Uncle Sam in the pretty recruiting posters. Drop us a postcard, Jack.

A fat envelope with 6 cents worth of stamps on it, reached us, and we opened it, as we always do when there is 6 cents worth of stamps. It contained a copy of the High Line, publication of the employés of the Chicago Rapid Transit company and a notation to "See page 23." Reprinted was an item we published March 10 about a young lady ticket agent at Wilmette with the cheery smile and the sweet "Thank you" for one and all, and underneath it: "Blessings on you, Fred Pasley. Brightened by your little word of encouragement many another smile and "Thank you" has come from behind that Wilmette wicket; many another ticket agent has been inspired to smile a friendly and grateful smile. Your magic word has traveled far, Fred Pasley, and we thank you for it." It is pleasant to reflect upon the happiness one paragraph will bring. We wish to add we only reported what we saw, and if other agents have been inspired it is the young lady at Wilmette they have to thank, not us.

AUGUST KNOBLOCH, our iceman, was delivering fifty pounds and had left his bay mare, Maggie, out in front, as he most always does. A neighbor had seeded his lawn and there was now a luxuriant crop of grass. August was detained in a discussion of the early spring we are having and wry and Margaret was left alone. Well, friends, if that nag didn't suddenly bend her forelegs and go down on her knees and munch about about $3 worth of Vaughan's best fancy blue grass before she was stopped we hope to be a member of the Anti-Saloon league. Even the dumb animals in Wilmette are smart.

Howard B. Wadick, the realty broker of 508 Deming place, is still driving his small last year's Lincoln. Although the left front spark plug is fouled, which leaves but three working, Howard says he isn't worried, as he could throw all four away and it would run as long as the gas and oil lasted.

THE editor joins with Rogers Park in tendering the keys of the city and a joyous welcome to its newest resident, Master Bobby Lee Balmes. We hasten to explain that Bobby's father, Mr. Frank Balmes, is not passing the cigars. "The cigar," same, "isn't made that's good enough to celebrate that boy's arrival." It's unanimous, Frank.

TRIBUNE HOLDS MODEL PLANE TOURNEY TODAY

Public Invited to Attend Contest.

Boys Due at 9:45

Event 1—Outdoor twin pusher duration.

Event 2—Outdoor R. O. G. duration.

Place—Washington park—the big meadow in the center of the park.

Time—The events start at 10 o'clock this morning. Contestants must present their models for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock.

Admission—Free. The public is invited.

How to get there—South side elevated lines to 55th street station, then walk east. Cottage Grove avenue street cars.

The day has arrived:

At 10 o'clock this morning the hundreds of Chicago boys who have been working for weeks in preparing their entries for the second annual model airplane meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will have the opportunity of putting their creations to the test.

The weather permitting, the sky above the big meadow in Washington park will receive throughout the day an assortment of miniature white winged planes, each a bit different from its companions and each vying for Chicago championship honors.

The entry list contains many names made familiar at last year's meet. Along with the veterans will be a host of new mechanics who have worked painstakingly with their craft and who feel their chances at the medals and trophies, to say nothing of the trip to Detroit, are as good as anybody's. And so they are. It is a thrilling new game in which new tricks are being learned every day and some absolutely hitherto unknown may have fashioned the plane that will today outfly all its fellows.

Answers Propeller Question.

Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the Airplane Model League of America, who for many weeks past has, through these columns, advised readers on model airplane construction in leading up to the local and national contests, wishes at this time to set at rest a worry that has arisen in the minds of many builders as to the best length for propellers.

Mr. Hamburg said there isn't any "best length."

"Expert model makers," said Mr. Hamburg, "have found that different lengths and different types of propellers simply enable their models to do different things. A short, slim-bladed propeller is whirled by the twisted rubber motor at high speed, and consequently draws the plane rapidly. It isn't good for duration, naturally.

"On the other hand, long propellers move more slowly, they strike more air resistance and so retard the unwinding of the motor. There is a point, of course, at which the added length becomes a disadvantage rather than an advantage. Too long a prop will whirl so slowly that it won't pull the plane.

"A number of the members of the league are working on the so-called 'butter-paddle' propellers. These props are unconventional in design; they flare sharply from the hub, and have very broad, untapered blades. Their great surface causes them to move slowly. Others, however, favor the long bladed, slim propeller. Every expert has his own favorite, and only his own experiments will tell him how to get best results from it."

Everybody Learns Something.

There will be disappointments today, but it was discovered last year that disappointment is only temporary with those who build planes. Also, there will be unexpected successes. One thing is certain: Every boy who has entered the contest and who is serious in his efforts will leave the field wiser about model making.

A week from today come the indoor events to be held at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. There will be two events at that time—indoor R. O. G. duration; indoor traction duration. With these events THE TRIBUNE contest will be brought to a close. The forty-eight medals and two trophies will be awarded, and it will be decided which two Chicago boys will represent their city at the national contest in Detroit, June 20-22.

All expenses of the two trips to Detroit will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Contestants will be wise in being on hand early this morning, for, under the rules, all contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock. Many of the same judges who had charge at last year's meet again will officiate.

LANE STUDENTS HEAR LECTURES ON VOCATIONS

The semi-annual vocational guidance convention of Lane Technical High school was held last week at the school building. More than 1,300 students attended the lectures given on various subjects by speakers invited to the convention by the faculty.

The convention at Lane Tech is held only on one day each semester and is different in that respect to the vocational guidance conference at other high schools in Chicago. The conferences were open to all juniors and seniors, who made their selection of the subjects in which they were interested.

The conferences include lectures on architecture, engineering, business, art, aviation, chemistry, journalism, salesmanship, agriculture, printing, dentistry, accounting, advertising, banking and forestry.

RARE BIRDS PUT ON DISPLAY AT PARK MUSEUM

Specimens of rare birds from far within the arctic circle have been placed on exhibition at the Chicago Academy of Sciences free museum in Lincoln park at Clark and Center streets, James H. Colbert announced yesterday. The specimens are part of a collection obtained by the museum's Eskimo collector, Nagosruk, and they were carried 2,000 miles by dog sled from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Fairbanks for shipment to this country.

The exhibit contains specimens of the very rare Ross and Ivory gulls, found only on the ice packs, Mr. Colbert said. They are the most valuable of arctic gulls. Another species is the Sabine gull, noted for its annual migration of thousands of miles.

C. E. TAYLOR.

Patients at THE TRIBUNE Forty and Eight convalescent camp in Orland Park have paid a tribute to their comrade, C. E. Taylor, of Stock Yards post, No. 333, whose friends have nominated him for chef de gare. "G-2," the bulletin printed in the interest of the patients, has this to say:

"One of our most loyal supporters is Elmer Taylor. Rain or shine he comes out from the yards with Frank Kee, Johnnie Waters, Milt Noble or some of the other comrades from that splendid Legion unit, Stock Yards post, No. 333. He's a bluff old caballero, is Taylor. He has a hearty handshake and a broad grin and he certainly makes sick soldats forget their troubles.

"Taylor was commander of Square post in 1921, which, you remember, was a tough year in the Legion. He ran the membership up from 100 to beyond 500 and imparted a splendid impetus to that fine organization. In the drab days following the war Taylor personally conducted funerals for more than fifty comrades. With Frank Kee, Taylor started Stock Yards post and every one knows what a rip-snorting outfit that is. Taylor has been adjutant ever since the post was started and the set of books he keeps is famous throughout the Legion.

"Taylor is standard by breeding and performance. He is one of the pioneer members of the Forty and Eight and time and again he has proven his interest in its welfare."

ANSWERS

Quotation—What's the constitution between friends?

Answer—This was said by Tim Campbell to Grover Cleveland in 1883. Timothy J. Campbell, a Democrat, represented a lower east side New York district in the state senate. When Cleveland became governor of New York state in 1883 Campbell made a request for the appointment of several ward heelers to offices. When Cleveland pointed out to him that to make the appointments would be to violate the state constitution, Tim replied: "What's the constitution between friends?"—Charles Simon, 1900 Estes avenue, Chicago.

Quotation—Much may be made of a Scotchman if he be caught young.

Answer—This was said by Dr. Samuel Johnson [1709-1784], English lexicographer. I found the quotation in James Boswell's "Life of Johnson." In the chapter concerned with the year 1772 Boswell writes: "He [Dr. Johnson] would not allow Scotland to derive any credit from Lord Mansfield; for he was educated in England. 'Much,' said he, 'may be made of a Scotchman, if he be caught young.'" William Murray, first earl of Mansfield [1705-1793], was an English judge, the son of David Murray, a Scottish politician. — E. Shannon Adams, 3712 South Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, Ill.

Answer—This saying is credited to a drummer boy in Napoleon's army at the battle of Marengo, Italy, on June 14, 1800. Napoleon reached the field to find his advance corps beaten by the Austrians and in full retreat. Just as the day appeared lost for the French, young Gen. Desaix arrived on the field with his cavalry and halted near the place where Napoleon stood. There was in the corps a drummer boy whom Desaix had picked up on the streets of Paris. As the line halted, so the story goes, Napoleon shouted to the drummer boy, "Beat a retreat!" The boy did not stir. Again the commander shouted, "Gamin, beat a retreat!" The boy stepped forward, grasped his drumsticks, and said, "Sire, I have not learned to beat a retreat. But I can beat a charge that will make the very dead fall into line. May I beat it here?"

A moment later the corps swept down on the Austrians. Desaix was slain, but his men won the battle for Napoleon.—René Sherwin, 546 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

METHODISTS OF EVANSTON PLAN TO MOVE CHURCH

Site Near Northwestern Is Proposed.

Plans for the transplanting of Evanston's oldest church, the First Methodist, from its present site at Church street and Hinman avenue to one at Sheridan road, Noyes and Dartmouth streets will be put before the congregation at a meeting called for next Wednesday.

Under the proposed plan, building work on additions to the old church will be stopped and an entirely new church plant constructed, at an estimated cost of $1,250,000, at the proposed site opposite Northwestern university and close to the ecclesiastical row comprising Garrett Biblical school and Western Theological seminary, now under construction.

Favored by Church Board.

The church board, headed by the Rev. Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, has voted 50 to 1 in favor of the proposition, but will not attempt to go ahead with the project unless a large majority of the congregation gives its approval.

The reason for the move, according to board members, is primarily the changing aspect of the neighborhood surrounding the old church. It is rapidly becoming a center for large stores and towering apartment buildings. The land value has increased enormously and, too, the residence center of the church's congregation has moved north.

$265,000 Offered for Move.

Financially the move will not be a drain on the congregation. An anonymous donor has offered $265,000 if the move is made; leasing or selling of the present church properties will bring in a large sum of money, and more than $500,000 was realized in a campaign last year.

The new plant will provide for a large main auditorium, a smaller chapel, and a community house retaining the features of the one proposed in connection with the old building.

William A. Dyche, business manager of Northwestern university, is chairman of the building committee.

W. S. MILLER TO BE NEW SECRETARY OF LARRABEE "Y"

W. S. Miller, for seven years membership secretary of the Central Y. M. C. A., one of the three largest Y. M. C. A.'s in the world, is taking over the duties of executive secretary of the Larrabee-North avenue Y. M. C. A. as a result of a promotion to the executive group of the Chicago Y. M. C. A.

During Mr. Miller's service the Central Y. M. C. A. has grown to an average membership of 7,000, a figure equaled by only two other Y. M. C. A.'s. He was responsible for a number of "Y" innovations and directed Pinewoods, the Central "Y" summer camp in Michigan. He will continue to direct Pinewoods this summer.

The Larrabee-North Avenue Y. M. C. A. is in an industrial district and recently has been rehabilitated at a cost of $50,000. It has full Y. M. C. A. service to serve the community and has a dormitory of 171 rooms. All the rooms and lobbies have been refurnished and a grand piano added.

D. A. R. Group to Observe Anniversary

Plans for the thirty-fifth anniversary celebration of the Fort Dearborn chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, tomorrow in the Orrington hotel, Evanston, will be somewhat clouded by the announcement that the chapter's war memorial gift to the city will not be ready for dedication on Memorial Day according to expectations.

However, it is expected that Mrs. Frank L. Richardson, on the D. A. R.'s committee for the memorial, will announce tomorrow plans for the unveiling on Flag Day, June 14, instead.

They include: for regent, Mrs. Gair Tourtellot; second vice regent, Mrs. Norris; treasurer, Mrs. Marquis J. Newell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William A. Thomas; registrar, Mrs. John Briggs; directors, Mrs. William Gale, Mrs. C. Ernest Guyton, Mrs. Preston Williams.

APPROVE PAVING OF TWO STRIPS IN ROGERS PARK

Two Water Main Projects Assured for N. Side.

Ordinances permitting the board of local improvements to pave two north side streets were ordered published and deferred by the city council Wednesday and are expected to be passed at the next meeting. These paving jobs were approved at a public hearing May 10.

Property owners on Jarvis avenue between Western and Campbell avenues approved the paving of that street at a cost of $16,000, and residents of Hermitage avenue between Schrieber and Devon avenues agreed to an expenditure of $8,500 to pave their street. These projects must be paid for by special assessment.

Two Water Mains Approved.

Installation of two water supply pipes was also approved by north side residents. One is planned in Sherwin avenue between Western avenue and Rockwell street, and another in the same street between Clark and Paulina streets, costing $3,938 and $3,517, respectively.

A project to pave Pratt avenue from Ravenswood avenue to Ridge road and Hilldale avenue between Pratt avenue and a line 20 feet north was ordered deferred because property owners did not feel able to bear the assessment now. This project would cost $36,500.

Defer Wayne, Waveland Jobs.

A similar project to pave Wayne avenue from Devon avenue to Granville avenue and one on Waveland avenue between Western and Campbell avenues, were ordered deferred at the request of Christian C. Paschen and Ald. John J. Hoellen [47th]. The Wayne avenue improvement would cost $29,000, and the Waveland paving $18,000.

Pavement of the alley bounded by Montrose, Pensacola, and Campbell avenues and the north branch of the river was ordered abandoned at Ald. Hoellen's request, since property owners have already contracted to have the improvement made by a private concern.

PICK ADONISES AT LOYOLA U. DENTAL SCHOOL

Four young men from the north side and Wilmette have been named winners in the best looking, most active, most popular and best fellow contests sponsored by the Dentos, yearbook of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery of Loyola university. Paul A. Topel, 705 North Fourth avenue, Maywood, is editor of the Dentos. Three men were chosen in each competition. In the best looking Le Roy J. Weber, 4871 North Ashland avenue, was one of the three winners. The good fellow contest resulted in the selection of Robert Hasterlik, 1638 Spencer avenue, Wilmette. In the most active men competition Harold Hillenbrana, 1844 Hammond street, and William P. Schoen, 6548 Greenview avenue, were chosen.

The assembly is only one of the high lights of the program prepared for Friday. A spectacle and demonstration at Soldiers' field, beginning at 12:45 o'clock, in which more than 50,000 boys and girls from the schools are expected to take part, will provide the first part of this day's activities. There will be a parade with appropriate floats representing every school, park, and many boys' clubs and other organizations of boys. There will be drills by the R. O. T. C. bands of the various schools, which will play in unison, athletic events, and demonstrations by other high school boys' groups.

The Chicago fire department will be present at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to stage a real fire, showing the modern methods of fighting conflagration. Ancient apparatus from hand operated pumps to horse drawn engines, as well as the modern motor equipment, will be exhibited and put into action. Following this, a music festival has been planned to take place at the Studebaker theater, in which high school bands, orchestras, and glee clubs will have a part.

5,000 LANE BOYS IN TRAINING FOR FIELD SPECTACLE

Biennial Show to Be Held at Soldiers' Field.

Preliminary plans for the biennial field day to be held by students of Lane Technical High school June 18 at Soldiers' field were announced last week by Max Strass, director of physical education and general supervisor of the athletic festival. The field day this year will be the largest ever given by the school, with more than 5,000 students taking part in the drills and track events.

The field day, which is given once every two years, is the only demonstration of its kind offered to the public by high school students. The event was formerly held at Wrigley field, but was changed to Soldiers' field in 1927 because of the need for more space.

Students of the several branches of Lane Tech will join with the boys in the main school building in presenting the exhibition. Gymnasium classes have been drilling for fifteen weeks in preparation for the spectacle, and with the warm weather of the last few weeks classes have been combined and the rehearsals are now being held at Seward park, Elm and Sedgwick streets.

Whole Gym Staff Busy.

Mr. Strass' assistants at Lane Tech and the gymnasium instructors at the various branches are aiding the director in arranging the exhibits. Included among the instructors are K. W. Abell, C. R. Barnikol, Otto Kahle, Ernest Klafs, Earl B. Koch, Percy Moore, Joseph Paupa, Robert Pegel, Charles Siebert, R. R. Umbright, A. B. Diete, George S. Larrance, and Theodore Shepin.

The program will include all running events, such as sprints, hurdle races and distance races, field events, wand drills, Indian club drills, boxing, fencing and other athletic competitions. Medals are to be presented to the winners in all competitive events. All of the 5,000 students will participate in the drills.

The business end of the festival is being handled by the student council, of which Wilfred Davies is president, Sam Sourika is vice president of the governing body, Jack Petrula is secretary, and Mr. Strass, Grant Beebe, principal, and L. J. Schloerb comprise the faculty advisory board. A contest between the north side of the building and the south half is being held in the ticket sale campaign. A prize will be awarded to the winning side.

Junior High Track Finals.

In connection with the field day, the finals of the junior high schools track competition will be held. Several bands are to be engaged to assist the Lane band in providing the music for the drills. A group of clowns will also perform on the field.

Matrix Dinner Bids Are Sent N.U. Girl Stars

More than 100 women who have achieved success in business and professional fields or in undergraduate activities will be the guests Tuesday of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalistic society of Northwestern university, at the fifth annual Matrix banquet in the Orrington hotel roof ballroom.

KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.
(Moffett Photo.)

No mere man will be allowed to invade the conclave, which will be devoted entirely to women and women's success in a more or less man made world. While the gathering is modeled somewhat after the traditional Gridiron banquets for men, none of the ramings that occur at these assemblages will enter into the spirit of this occasion.

Eunice Tietjens to Preside.

Eunice Tietjens, Chicago poetess, will be toastmistress and Jessica Nelson North will read from her own poetry. Among the Chicago newspaper women who will address the group are Miss Kathleen McLaughlin of THE TRIBUNE and Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck.

Other women prominent on the north shore who have been invited to attend are Dorothy Aldis, Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Louise Ayres Garnett, Mrs. Harry F. Harrington, Mrs. James A. Patten, Lucy Fitch Perkins and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott.

Members of Committee.

Miss Louise Stephenson, president of Alpha Beta, Northwestern chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, and Miss Edythe Dixon are in charge of arrangements for the dinner, assisted by Miss Esther Stein, Miss Carol Carey and Miss Betty Bloom.

Invitations were sent out last week, the list of university women being kept secret until the bids were mailed. There is always keen rivalry among the students for what is considered an accolade of honor, invitation to the Matrix banquet.

N. U. SECRET OF MAY QUEEN WILL END THURSDAY

Choice of Co-eds to Reign at Fete.

Almost a score of Northwestern university co-eds are disproving the theory that women cannot keep a secret. At least that many of them know just who has been chosen queen of the May, but they're not telling.

Her identity will be divulged at the annual May day festivities to be held next Thursday on the campus when, according to tradition, she is made known to her subjects and crowned by last year's queen, who this time is Miss Jane Olson, daughter of Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court.

Candidates who were voted on two weeks ago are Miss Muriel Onsrud, Miss Gertrude Eberhardt, Miss Virginia Berggren and Miss Nathalie McChesney. You have three chances out of four to be wrong on who's it.

Candidates for Attendants.

Candidates for her attendants picked but not announced at the same time are Miss Charlotte Cornell, Miss Katherine Heberling, Miss Mildred Parker, Miss Mildred German, Miss Olive Roper, Miss Avis Lewis, Miss Dee Vogel, Miss Mary Allen, and Miss Geraldine Burke.

The day, a busy one for the co-eds, will open with a May pole dance by the sophomore girls, headed by the president of the class lantern organization, Miss Ruth Maxwell. Then all four class lantern organizations will sing their particular songs.

Next comes the event of the day, the coronation of Miss Unknown May Queen 1929 by Miss 1928. Following these ceremonies will be a dance pageant by freshman girls in the school of speech, under the direction of Mrs. Gret Kranz, planned specially to honor the queen. And the afternoon section will be closed with the announcement of Mortar Board members and other junior and senior honors.

A beach supper, Lantern swingout, intersorority sing and announcements of pledgings to Shi Ai, intersorority group, will close the day.

Miss Harlan in Charge.

The Women's Self-Government association of Northwestern has charge of the entire proceedings. Miss Mary Louise Harlan is the retiring president and Miss Katherine Heberling next year's executive. Miss Margaret McBroom is chairman of arrangements and her committee includes Miss Naomi MacDowell, Miss Merle Ammon, Miss Evelyn Johnson, and Miss Lorraine Anderson.

Miss Olson's attendants in last year's ceremony will attend her this year, which is contrary to the usual ceremony. They are Miss Lucille Copeland, Miss Marion Sprenger, Miss Martha Rathje, Miss Martha Osgood, Miss Elizabeth Sargent and Miss Jean Dalmar.

WILMETTE BOARD TO NAME POLICE CHIEF TUESDAY

Appointment of department heads will occupy the Wilmette village board when it meets Tuesday night in the village hall. Standing committee appointments made by President Earl E. Orner were approved by the board at its May 7 meeting, but no appointees have been announced as yet for the positions of chief of police, village attorney, collector, or fire marshal.

Since the resignation of the former chief, Charles H. Leggett, one time chief of Evanston, effective May 1, Wilmette has been without a regular police executive for the first time since 1897. It was expected that his successor would be named at the last meeting, but President Orner said the choice would be delayed because of the number of applicants.

It is generally conceded that the other positions will remain under control of those now in office. However, Mr. Orner declares none has been settled as yet.

Capt. Henry Brautigan, now in charge of the police force, is considered the most likely candidate for chief. From reliable sources it is learned that he will be given the appointment. Other men who have applied for the position are Bohumil Krejcik, former chief of the Des Plaines department, and Sergt. William Hazekamp, for the last 23 years a member of the Chicago department.

Name Standing Committees.

Standing committees appointed at the last meeting include: Judiciary, Stanton Van Inwagen, Gordon Wilson, and Hans von Reinsperg; streets and alleys, Ernest C. Casel, Von Reinsperg, and C. Miles McDonald; public service, Von Reinsperg, Casel, Wilson; fire, Wilson, A. L. Grinnell, and Van Inwagen; finance, Grinnell, Van Inwagen, and McDonald; sewer and water, McDonald, Grinnell, and Casel.

Robert Stoddard, whose term as a member of the zoning board of appeals expired in February, was reappointed for a five year term. Other members are L. C. Ayres, J. D. Roth, F. C. Huffman, and F. J. Newey. The most important case to be brought before the board in the near future is the petition to rezone from class A residential to class B commercial the Dempsey property north of Elmwood avenue on Main street.

NEW EVANSTON GARDEN CLUB HAS ITS QUOTA FILLED

Evanston's newest garden club, just two weeks old and boasting a membership of twenty-five, its present quota, with almost that many already on the waiting list is the Lincolnwood Garden club of North Evanston.

Mrs. E. H. Gardner has been elected president and Mrs. William P. Turner Jr., one of the organizing members, was named program chairman. Other officers include: vice president, Mrs. P. J. Kean; recording secretary, Mrs. E. W. Marcellus; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Waddington; treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Brannan.

The next meeting will be in June at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Kean, 1020 Colfax street. At this month's meeting Mrs. Benjamin Sage talked on "Rock Gardens."

THREE DILL PICKLES FOR ONE.

Chicago, May 13.—One day last week my mother sent me to the grocery store to buy a jar of dill pickles. On the way I passed a store that was advertising its fiftieth aniversary sale. Among many articles greatly reduced in price which I saw displayed in the window were jars of the same kind of dill pickles that mother had sent me for. I brought her back three jars of them for the same price we had been paying for one.

RARE FASHION PLATES.

Chicago, May 13.—Recently, while browsing in a north side, second hand book shop, I found an old coverless 1849 volume of Godey's Lady Book. It contained, intact, twelve colored fashion plates for the twelve months of the year. I purchased the book for $3.50, mounted the plates on cardboard, and sold the collection to an art dealer for $12.

$20 GOLF CLUBS FOR $3.50.

Chicago, May 14.—Early last summer I bought four good golf clubs at a north Broadway second hand store for $3.50. They were a little rusty but even at that the dealer evidently did not realize their worth. With sand and water I shined them up and have four clubs valued at $20.

THREE STATIONS SEEK BANDS FOR WORLD PROGRAMS

Ready to Spend Millions for Broadcasts.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three projects for broadcasting from the United States to the rest of the world were outlined recently to the federal radio commission by those seeking short-wave channels for this purpose. The most ambitious of these was by the interests which recently bought Station WRNY in New York.

Chester W. Cuthell, president of the station, seeking six transoceanic short wave channels told the commission that the group which he represents proposes to embark upon an international plan of world-wide good will broadcasting. He said they had already expended $150,000 and are prepared to spend $2,000,000 or more in furtherance of the gigantic plan to sell the United States to the world.

Mr. Cuthell said that "much prejudice against America is being evidenced in trade circles in South America, China, and other countries" and that "Great Britain and Germany are making great inroads on this trade."

Others Want Channels.

Authority to establish transoceanic radio stations for the rebroadcasting and interchange of programs with foreign countries by means of short waves was also requested by Dr. Leon Levy, president of the Universal Broadcasting company, operating Station WCAU, in Philadelphia, and secretary-treasurer of the Columbia system, and G. W. Alexander, executive manager of the Pacific Western Broadcasting federation of Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Levy told the commission that his station was to be used for the transoceanic transmission primarily of WCAU programs originating in Philadelphia, the transmitter to be located 18 miles from the center of the city.

He said that last year preliminary negotiations were undertaken with broadcasting stations in France and Germany. If the application for the four short wave channels is granted, the Philadelphia station would be ready to begin operation with six months.

Ready to Spend Millions.

Mr. Alexander said the Pacific Western federation plans a radio project, both broadcasting and short-wave rebroadcasting, which will involve an expenditure of $3,500,000 with the equipment alone to cost $185,000. Work already has begun on KPWF, at Los Angeles, the 50,000 watt broadcasting station, which, under the construction permit granted by the commission, must be completed by Dec. 31. Mr. Alexander said the arrangements now are being made with "119 different countries and provinces in connection with relay broadcasting and services and for continental rebroadcasting of the programs of Station KPWF." China, Japan and other countries in the Pacific would be the special objectives.

Mr. Alexander stated the federation, is made up of civic, social, cultural, educational and religious organizations of California, Arizona and Nevada, and is a non-profit making benevolent organization. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, he said, is vice president of the corporation, and W. Bertram Stevens, bishop of Los Angeles diocese of the Episcopal church, is president.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

It is the Fourth of July, in 1923, about five o'clock in the afternoon. From outside your window come the pop and roar of firecrackers and the shouts of small boys—and from your loud speaker comes the announcement that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight is now going to be broadcast from Shelby, Montana.

ANNOUNCER — Hello, ladies and gentlemen. We've come out here to the end of the world, today, you and I, to see what promises to be a great scrap, even though all the odds favor the champion, Jack Dempsey. It will be a miracle if Tommy Gibbons, his St. Paul challenger, can stand the gaff for the full fifteen rounds.

Referee Dougherty has the men in the center of the ring now giving them their instructions. Now they're going back to their corners. Jack Kearns is patting Dempsey on the back, and Eddie Kane is whispering words of counsel in Tommy's ear.

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring! Thirty seconds to go now, and the fight will start. Shelby's holiday is almost complete!

There's the gong! Round one is starting! Both men are coming out of their corners speedily. They've reached the center of the ring and—Dempsey is tearing in! Wow! Dempsey drove a left hook into Tom's ribs. Gibbons is dancing away, with Jack moving after him. No, they've clinched, with Gibbons doing the grabbing. Referee Daugherty has broken them up, and Jack is up on his toes showing just as much speed as Tommy. O, O! There's a pair of lefts, plunk, plunk, into Gibbons' ribs, and Gibbons backs up—no! he's coming back and—Zowie! He plants a long, rangy right hander square on Dempsey's mouth. Now look at the champion! He's tearing in and hurling rights and lefts at the challenger's body, with Gibbons moving his arms up and down to protect himself. Oooohh! Wow! Dempsey smacked Gibbons three times with lefts to the body. He's hitting him! Gibbons is taking it! Now they're sparring cautiously—Gibbons is watching that left hand of the champion's, and now—One! Two! Gibbons cracks Dempsey twice on the mouth with lefts. Jack is right back with a hard left to Gibbons' jaw.

Jack is getting in a lot of punishment with that left. O! Gibbons sent a hard right to Dempsey's wind and now they're clinching, with Dempsey wrestling Gibbons all over the ring. Now they're breaking, sparring. Ummhh! Gibbons sends that left again at the champion's mouth, and now a right—a hard one—to Jack's ear. Dempsey is coming back with an avalanche of gloves. He's fighting like a fiend! Gibbons is holding on again—they're in a clinch, and again Dempsey is wrestling Gibbons around the ring. Now they're apart and—Ow! Gibbons gets that left over again, this time to Dempsey's chin. Clinch again! Dempsey is working on Tommy's body during the clinches! Now they're breaking up, and sparring. Dempsey just missed a hard right hander to the heart. Now—Gong!

That's the end of round one, ladies and gentlemen. The first round, if we have to render a decision, goes to the champion by a wide margin.

Shelby is liking its first fight. The crowd was on its feet during most of the first round, yelling and screaming like any eastern fight audience. There's the whistle for the start of the second. The seconds are scampering out of the ring. (Gong!)

Round two! Jack and Tommy got to the middle of the ring in a hurry this time again. O! Gibbons missed a left to Jack's head, and he goes into a clinch. They're pushing and pulling in the clinch, and Gibbons sneaks over two rights to Jack's head. Now they've broken—they're sparring—and again Gibbons goes into a clinch to avoid Jack's infighting. Dempsey is tearing in, in the usual fashion, working on Gibbons' body.

Gibbons is backing away from those body punches! They hurt! Uppp! Tommy cracked Jack with a sharp left to the face. Ummmh! Gibbons landed again, this time to the champion's wind—Ohh! Jack comes right back and socks Gibbons with a hard right on the ear. They've rushed into a clinch again. Gibbons is holding on—and—Ohhh! Dempsey drove an awful right to Tommy's heart and the challenger's face twisted. Now a left hook! But Tommy's taking it and he's coming back for more! Zowie! Gibbons landed a left to the chin, and Jack felt it! It dropped him back on his heels.

They're fighting now, and both men missed with lefts. Ow! Ohhhh! Gibbons staggered him that time. He drove a left to the chin that had Jack wobbly for a minute—now they've rushed into a clinch and—Ohh! Dempsey drives in two hard right handers to the heart! Gibbons is holding on again, and Dempsey is beating him about the body with lefts and rights. Jack's got all the better of the clinches—(Gong!)

Interlude. Eleven more rounds have gone by, but Gibbons is still on his feet. Dempsey, despairing, punches, pounds, and pummels in vain. Gibbons will not go down. And into the fourteenth round they go . . . and once more we hear the story of our announcer.

Dempsey still has plenty of pep as he comes up to scratch for the fourteenth round. He rushed out across the ring and drew Gibbons into a clinch, and is beating him with rights and lefts around the body. Gibbons is only too glad to hold on. Dempsey has given Tommy nearly everything he has in the way of body punishment, but the challenger is still holding on grimly. He seems determined to last out the full fifteen rounds. Daugherty can't get 'em apart. Dempsey is keeping up his fusillade of blows. There's no stopping him. Gibbons is punched out, it seems, and he is taking everything the champion gives him without a murmur. Wuuup! Gibbons stuck out a left to Jack's face, and Jack comes back with more body blows. Clinch again!

Now Jack is rushing Tommy against the ropes and pouring them into him, rights and lefts, rights and lefts to the body, to the head, anywhere he can land 'em. But Tommy stays on his feet. The Dempsey punches cannot put him down! Ow! Jack drives a hard right hander to Gibbons' wind, and the crowd hoots—they think it's low. Zowie! Tommy tries with a left to the ear and lands, and they've clinched again! Jim Daugherty can't break 'em apart. Dempsey is beating Gibbons around the kidneys. They've clinched again and—Ow! Jack lands a hard right on Gibbons' face—and another!—and another! Clinch again! It's Tommy who's pushing this time—he's backing Dempsey into a neutral corner, but Jack—Ow! Jack drives him back with that right hand—one, two, three! Three right handers to Gibbons' head. Now Tommy is hanging on again! Ummh! Gibbons lands a left on Dempsey's head, and—Ohh! So does Dempsey—a smashing left to Gibbons' face. They—[Gong!]

There's the bell. I'll open the door now and let you hear that crowd. They're cheering Gibbons, cheering him for the game stand he's making against Dempsey. Cushions are flying all about the arena, and everybody's on their feet. There's only one more round, and it looks as if Gibbons will last it out. This gang's amazed. Here's the only man that lasted this way against the champion. Gibbons is pretty badly mussed up over there in his corner—his cheeks and mouth are swollen. Dempsey is bleeding from two cuts around the eyes, but is otherwise O. K. Both men are badly winded, but Gibbons is in the worst shape. Nevertheless, he has more endurance and stamina than any fighter the champion has ever faced!

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring for the last time. The fifteenth and last round of the fight is about to start! [Gong!]

Round fifteen! Dempsey is driving Gibbons around the ring with rights and lefts. He's determined to end it with a punch! Gibbons is clinching! Now they're broken, and Dempsey is chasing Gibbons, trying with lefts to the head. He's short. Now Dempsey has worked him to the ropes, and—Oh! Dempsey drives home rights and lefts to the body, to the head!—Tommy is wobbling. He's tying up the champions arms in a clinch. Gibbons is holding on, and Dempsey can't get his arms free for a good punch. Now Daugherty pulls them apart, but Gibbons goes right back into another clinch. They're breaking—Wow! Dempsey just missed an awful right to the face—Gibbons bobbed his head and saved himself. They're clinching again—come on, break 'em apart. Ow! Dempsey is beating Tommy about the head with both hands. Gibbons is staggering around the ring with Dempsey after him. Gibbons is going to stick it out! Ohhh! Dempsey tries a right to the face and—another right to the face!—and again! Gibbons is still on his feet. He's walking into another clinch. There's only a few seconds left. Tommy has not landed a blow this round! He's just going to stick it out! Whee! Jack drives home a left to Gibbons' face. Now they're sparring—[Gong!]

JANET FAIRBANK SPEAKS TUESDAY IN W-G-N SERIES

Janet Fairbank, young Chicago novelist, will speak from W-G-N on the Tribune station's Women's club program next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the series of addresses by Chicago authors which THE TRIBUNE is offering its listeners.

The series is intended to awaken in Chicago's reading public the realization that the city is a literary center. Today, artists are capably continuing the tradition established by George Ade, George Barr McCutcheon, and Eugene Field, and more recently followed by Ring Lardner, Ben Hecht, and Carl Sandburg.

Arthur Meeker Jr., Mary Synon, and Marion Strobel are among those who have already been on the air over W-G-N. Mr. Meeker's recent novel "American Beauty," a treatment of Chicago society life, has achieved wide popularity, and Marion Stroebel has leaped into the top ranks of American poets with her "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Lost City." Mary Synon is the author of "The Good Red Bricks" and a prominent short story writer.

WAGNER . . . . . .

THE final radio concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra is to be completely a Wagnerian hour. The Love Scene, taken from Act II. and the Introduction to Tristan's Vision from Act III. of "Tristan and Isolde," has been arranged for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra by Dr. Frederick Stock. These famous musicians will play in addition to Dr. Stock's arrangement, The Bacchanale and Finale, from the Overture to "Tannhauser," and Brunhilde's Immolation from "The Twilight of the Gods." Before the concert you will hear a few words from Dr. Stock himself, who will conduct his famous orchestra for the season's last radio performance. 6 o'clock.

BASEBALL . . .

QUIN RYAN will be at Cubs Park this afternoon with a snappy report of a snappy ball game. The Bruins open their series with the boys from the Smoky City at 3 o'clock. Quin will be on the air to give you the lineups and batting order. You'll get a bird's-eye view of the game, hear the bats cracking out the long ones, the mob thundering with enthusiasm, all for the listening to radio's best sports reporter.

Jean GOLDKETTE

THE master of the blue note, if that wild thing can be said to have a master, is Jean Goldkette. He and his young and expert orchestra will thrill you as they play the New Music. Grotesque dissonances, odd rhythmic patterns, the warmth of something alive, all these things that make themselves felt in the New Music are completely understood. Nat Natalie spatters a melody with toneful trumpet notes chipped out in quick succession . . . Paul Mertz turns the piano into a dancing, sparkling instrument . . . each man plays hard to make the New Music what it is. 2:25, 10:45, 11:35.

FAME, FORTUNE AWAIT INVENTOR OF MINE RADIO

Would Be Invaluable in Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A place in radio's hall of fame and probably a fortune await the man who will design wireless apparatus that can be used successfully in mine rescue work.

While the use of radio on land, at sea and in the clouds has advanced with amazing swiftness, its underground utilization has baffled engineers who have spent years in trying to devise a practical means of communicating with entombed miners.

Experts who have been conducting experiments for the bureau of mines since 1922 have reached the conclusion that radio as developed today does not solve the underground message problem.

Temporarily Abandon Efforts.

The bureau temporarily has abandoned its efforts to develop radio for this work and is concentrating on the improvement of the mine telephone and geophone as offering greater immediate usefulness.

However, if a small set capable of receiving and sending signals which penetrate the earth could be developed, the radio method would be superior to the other two, bureau officials say.

There are two obstacles to the feasibility of underground radio—penetration of the earth by the waves and designing a set which, while light, will be powerful enough to receive the feeble signals after penetration.

Although signals have been received at some depth in mines in the eastern part of the country, it was suspected they were carried into the mine through open shafts and over the wiring and piping systems. Actual penetration of strata was thus drowned out by signals received from shaft and metallic conductors.

Penetration is Slight.

In Colorado and other western states, however, there was considerable evidence of actual penetration of the earth. The states in which this occurred have an arid climate which means a dry overburden and constant increase in radio penetration, engineers say.

But it is believed the penetration is not strong enough to permit the use of sufficiently simple and light receivers to allow even one way communication in rescue work where speed and portability are essential.

The engineers also found that the apparatus required for transmitting messages out of the mine would be so cumbersome that it would be virtually useless in rescue work.

Victorians to Repeat Musical Comedy Friday

The Victorians, young people's society of Our Lady of Sorrows church, will present "Miss Cherry Blossoms" in the church auditorium, 3121 West Jackson boulevard, next Friday evening for the benefit of St. Margaret's home, 2501 West Monroe street. Miss Gertrude Kane and Miss Henrietta Murphy are directing. The musical comedy was presented two weeks ago and is being regiven because of its success. St. Philip's High school orchestra will furnish the music for the production.

Lane Tech Honor Students Attend Dinner Wednesday

The annual banquet of the Lane Technical High school chapter of the National Honor society will be given Wednesday evening at the Parkway hotel, 2100 Lincoln Park West. The program has been arranged in honor of the fathers of the honor students. Wilfred Davies is chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet. Officers of the chapter are: President, James Bently; vice president, Spencer Boos, and secretary, Harold Bannasch.

H. E. Baker Named Chase Park Sport Director

Hermon E. Baker, formerly of the American College of Physical Education, was appointed physical education instructor at Chase park, Leland and Ashland avenues, by the commissioners of Lincoln park at their last meeting.

INDIAN CHIEF TO HEAD SOUSA'S BAND ON RADIO

Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow of the Star Blanket band of Cree Indians from File Hills reservation, near Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, will be at the conductor's desk when John Philip Sousa's internationally known band plays its third radio concert tomorrow night.

The name of the conductor in the Cree language means "The Great Music Chief." The average follower of Sousa band concerts, which have been part of the musical education of the American people for more than fifty years, will probably exclaim at the similarity of technique between the great Indian chief and John Philip Sousa himself. In fact, if any of Sousa's acquaintances should happen in the studio they might insist that the director was not an Indian at all but Lieut. Com. Sousa himself. And, technically, they would be correct—for John Philip Sousa is likewise "Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow" and has been for a number of years.

Mme. Aida Doninelli, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will make her radio debut as a soloist with the band in the Cadillac concert. A native of Italy but a resident of Chicago for many years, Mme. Doninelli is a newcomer to the Metropolitan ranks, having made her debut there last fall with great success.

ORCHESTRA AND SOLOISTS FROM W-G-N TONIGHT

Sprightly, brilliant orchestral music and ballads of love and tenderness will form the program to be heard tonight at 8:15 o'clock over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The music will be furnished by an orchestra under Josef Pasternack's direction, while Max Bloch, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be the soloist.

This concert, the second of the new summer series, was especially prepared to be in tune with the rare days and evenings of which the poets sing. The soloist, Max Bloch, is one of the younger and more lyric of the Metropolitan Opera tenors and his contributions to the evening will be of a romantic type.

Three dashing concert compositions in dance form, or rather of the type known as concert dance numbers, since they are not intended for dancing but to give the sprightliness and dash and brilliance of dance form to the composition, will be included in the orchestra program.

The citizen's committee of Rogers Park will give a dinner in honor of the three new commissioners of the North Shore park district, Wednesday evening at the Edgewater Athletic club, Sherwin avenue and the lake. The new commissioners were supported during the campaign by the committee, of which Patrick C. Winn is chairman. The new commissioners are Howard P. Savage, Hyman Kinzelberg, and Frederick H. Chetlain.

Mr. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, will also be honored at a dinner to be given Saturday evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel by the 49th ward division of the Illinois Service Men's league. Several prominent city and state officials, including Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, have accepted invitations to the banquet. Tables by service men's organizations in many wards of the city, Joseph F. Novotny, chairman of the committee in charge, has announced. Other members of the committee are: Percy Owens, William G. Knox, Everett H. Allison, George Sugarman, L. T. SENN HIGH BAND OFF WEDNESDAY TO U. S. CONTEST

Their $10,000 goal oversubscribed, members of the Nicholas Senn High School band, champions of Illinois, will entrain for Denver next Wednesday with high hopes of carrying off the national trophy in competition next Friday and Saturday.

The quota was reached last week when Ald. E. I. Frankhauser [49th] brought in $1,500 donated by three loop business men who prefer that their names be withheld, and assured the 120 boys who make up the band of transportation to the national meet.

The drive for money started early in the spring before Senn had even won the Chicago public school crown under the auspices of the parents group who were sure of ultimate victory for their boys.

Waters Parent-Teachers to Give Play Friday

A play, "Sophronia's Wedding," will be presented by the Waters School Parent-Teacher association Friday evening at the Luther Memorial church, Wilson and Campbell avenues.

CLARK, BELMONT BUSINESS GROUPS TO JOIN FORCES

At a recent meeting of the North Clark Street Business Men's Improvement association at the Idrott café, 3266 Wilson avenue, held in conjunction with the regular meeting of the Belmont Business Men's association, plans were made for the affiliation of the two organizations, Walter Petelle announced last week. The merger of all business and improvement associations in the Lake View district has been agitated by club leaders for several years, and this is the first step taken toward completion of the plan.

Committees were appointed by the heads of each organization to draw up tentative plans for the consolidation. The group will meet next week. Members of the North Clark Street association's committee are C. D. Hedstrom, Fred Ehrlich, George Kappes, Carl M. Wolfe, and Mr. Petelle.

The ultimate idea is to include not only the two larger associations in the combine but every business men's organization in the district. Members of the associations have expressed the opinion that the consolidation will result in advertising the district to a greater extent.

CHURCH LEADERS WILL HELP LAY CORNER STONE

Plans for the corner stone laying ceremony of the Northminster Presbyterian church in Evanston, announced for June 2 by the Rev. Wallace Harper Carver, pastor, include addresses by six religious leaders in the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Roy E. Vale, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park, will give the main address at the outdoor ceremony. Dr. Raymond M. Huston, president of the Evanston Ministerial association and pastor of the Second Presbyterian church; the Rev. Robert L. Sawyier, former pastor of Northminister; representatives of the presbytery and extension board, and the Rev. Mr. Carver will complete the list.

The congregation, which is drawn from the Lincolnwood section of Evanston, has been meeting for the seven years of its existence in school halls.

Auxiliary Meets Tomorrow.

The North Shore auxiliary of the Marks Nathan home will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home, 1550 South Albany avenue. Mrs. H. R. Schiff is president of the auxiliary.

TINY AIRCRAFT COMPETE TODAY FOR TROPHIES

Tribune Holds Outdoor Tourney.

Boys Due at 9:45

Event 1—Outdoor twin pusher duration.

Event 2—Outdoor R. O. G. duration.

Place—Washington park—the big meadow in the center of the park.

Time—The events start at 10 o'clock this morning. Contestants must present their models for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock.

Admission—Free. The public is invited.

How to get there—South side elevated lines to 55th street station, then walk east. Cottage Grove avenue street cars.

The day has arrived:

At 10 o'clock this morning the hundreds of Chicago boys who have been working for weeks in preparing their entries for the second annual model airplane meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will have the opportunity of putting their creations to the test.

The weather permitting, the sky above the big meadow in Washington park will receive throughout the day an assortment of miniature white winged planes, each a bit different from its companions and each vying for Chicago championship honors.

The entry list contains many names made familiar at last year's meet. Along with the veterans will be a host of new mechanics who have worked painstakingly with their craft and who feel their chances at the medals and trophies, to say nothing of the trip to Detroit, are as good as anybody's. And so they are. It is a thrilling new game in which new tricks are being learned every day and some absolutely hitherto unknown may have fashioned the plane that will today outfly all its fellows.

Answers Propeller Question.

Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the Airplane Model League of America, who for many weeks past has, through these columns, advised readers on model airplane construction in leading up to the local and national contests, wishes at this time to set at rest a worry that has arisen in the minds of many builders as to the best length for propellers.

Mr. Hamburg said there isn't any "best length."

"Expert model makers," said Mr. Hamburg, "have found that different lengths and different types of propellers simply enable their models to do different things. A short, slim-bladed propeller is whirled by the twisted rubber motor at high speed, and consequently draws the plane rapidly. It isn't good for duration, naturally.

"On the other hand, long propellers move more slowly, they strike more air resistance and so retard the unwinding of the motor. There is a point, of course, at which the added length becomes a disadvantage rather than an advantage. Too long a prop will whirl so slowly that it won't pull the plane.

"A number of the members of the league are working on the so-called 'butter-paddle' propellers. These props are unconventional in design; they flare sharply from the hub, and have very broad, untapered blades. Their great surface causes them to move slowly. Others, however, favor the long bladed, slim propeller. Every expert has his own favorite, and only his own experiments will tell him how to get best results from it."

Everybody Learns Something.

There will be disappointments today, but it was discovered last year that disappointment is only temporary with those who build planes. Also, there will be unexpected successes. One thing is certain: Every boy who has entered the contest and who is serious in his efforts will leave the field wiser about model making.

A week from today come the indoor events to be held at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. There will be two events at that time—indoor R. O. G. duration; indoor traction duration. With these events THE TRIBUNE contest will be brought to a close. The forty-eight medals and two trophies will be awarded, and it will be decided which two Chicago boys will represent their city at the national contest in Detroit, June 20-22.

All expenses of the two trips to Detroit will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Contestants will be wise in being on hand early this morning, for under the rules, all contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock. Many of the same judges who had charge at last year's meet again will officiate.

Milwaukee Av. to Strut Out in a New Suit

A drive to improve the appearance of Milwaukee avenue is now in progress under the auspices of the Milwaukee, Armitage, Western Business association, Stewart Van Berschot, secretary, announced yesterday. By encouraging large business establishments to settle in the community, by aiding in renting vacant stores and by getting rid of rickety structures along the street, officials of the association hope to effect a distinct amelioration in the aspect of the community as well as improve business. Past efforts along these lines have been decidedly successful, according to Mr. Van Berschot.

Other propositions in which the association is interested are the improvement of the paving along Milwaukee avenue, the elimination of car switching at Milwaukee and Armitage avenues, adequate traffic control at busy street intersections of the neighborhood, and an improved lighting system along Milwaukee avenue from California to Western avenues.

Loop Banker Speaks.

Frederick Heuchling, vice president of the Foreign National bank, addressed members of the association at a meeting held last Monday in the American Bank and Trust company building, 1939 Milwaukee avenue. Mr. Heuchling spoke on "Relations Between Banks and Business Men." This was the first meeting held in the assembly room in the bank building. Other speeches were made and a discussion followed.

The final report of the chairman of the special transportation committee, Manuel Goldberger, was given. Mr. Goldberger outlined the views of the association on the feeder bus question. Some months ago he appeared before the Illinois commerce commission at which time he urged feeder buses as a measure of temporary relief and requested that no third party be allowed to install coaches with an extra fare. The association wants additional transportation furnished by the surface lines with no extra fare. It is also the contention of the association that the motor coach lines as now routed do not serve the Milwaukee, Armitage and Western avenues district.

Officers of Association.

The officers are: President, Charles E. Stevens; vice president, Bert Hamburg; treasurer, Bert Gunderlock; and secretary, Stewart Van Berschot. Mr. Stevens is now serving his sixth term as president. The members of the board of managers are William J. Kolacek, Joseph Grossman, William H. Habeger, Henry F. Anspach, John Freislinger, William Lambrecht Jr., Nicholas Colsberger and the secretary of the association. Meetings are held once a month. The board, however, assembles every week.

The association was organized about twenty years ago. Otto Hartwig was the first president, and succeeding heads of the organization were John S. Edwards, William Kolacek, William Lambrecht Jr., Martin Graue, and Mr. Stevens, the present incumbent.

An outing sponsored by the association is being planned for July. It will be held at Shermerville, Ill., and about 100 people are expected to attend. Not only members of the association, but also their friends and other business men of the community will be present.

Choir to Sing Takeoff on Miles Standish's Courtship

The choir of Glen Ellyn Methodist Episcopal church will present a comic opera, "The Captain of Plymouth," next Thursday evening in Glenbard High school and auditorium. Mrs. Inez Hubbard Hicks is directing the performance. The operetta is a takeoff on Longfellow's "The Courtship of Miles Standish." Roy Drew will sing the role of Capt. Standish, with a chorus of twelve soldiers. P. M. Black will take the part of John Alden, and Miss Vera Pastor will sing Priscilla. The picture shows some of the singers. Left to right: Mrs. Avice Rideout, Mrs. Kathryn Baxter, Mrs. Ida Bullock, Walter Greenhold, Mrs. Edna Canfield, Charles Jorgeson, Miss Doris Hole, Charles Rideout and Miss Louise Koeck.

Girls' Failings Revealed in Health Week

Twenty-nine per cent of the girls at Oak Park and River Forest township high school use makeup excessively. Twenty-five per cent chew gum habitually. Fifteen per cent have the nail biting habit.

Out of 682 girls who underwent tests, only 125 eat well balanced lunches. Examination revealed that 103 of the girls have distorted feet.

These census figures of the school were compiled in connection with the annual "health week." Girls in the gymnasium classes were urged to take immediate steps to improve this record.

Young Girls Chief Offenders.

Of the girls using excessive makeup, Mrs. F. G. Martin, head of the gym department, estimated that about three-fourths are freshmen and sophomores.

As a climax to "health week," there was a "play day" celebration at Oak Park High school yesterday. Nine schools participated.

The students came from Hinsdale, La Grange, Morton, Proviso, Riverside, Maine, Waukegan, Deerfield and Oak Park High schools.

Play Just for Fun.

Each school sent sixteen girls. Instead of holding interscholastic events, the day was spent in playing just for the fun of playing.

The teams indulged in relay races, tennis, horseshoes, archery and baseball.

Following luncheon the finals were held in the various matches. The day wound up with a party in the gym.

Mrs. George E. Ulvestad, 938 Clinton place, River Forest, was dramatic director of "The Gypsy Rover," presented by the Dorcas guild of the United Lutheran church, Oak Park, at the Logan Square Masonic temple last Wednesday and Thursday.

New Shrine Not Ready.

Owing to the fact that the new shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes is not completed the ceremony will not be held there as originally planned. The shrine is located on the northwest corner of the campus. Funds for its erection were raised by the junior class under the chairmanship of Miss Helen Fitzsimons. The grotto is of Lannon stone, the gift of Edward Vanderboom of Lannon, Wis. It is 5 feet high, 50 feet deep, and 75 feet wide.

List Names of Donors.

Hundreds of shrubs and plants will make the place the most attractive spot on the grounds. The names of people whose generosity aided in the building of the shrine will be perpetuated by means of a tablet imbedded in the façade of the grotto. Notable gifts were received from the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitzsimons, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Burke of Oak Park, E. L. Archibald, Miss Teresa Sloan, John B. Noelle, Miss Gladys Ford, Mrs. Malcolm Johnson in memory of her parents, Thomas and Mrs. Mary Cusack, G. Wilde, and the Rev. T. E. O'Shea.

HONORED

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

TRULY, culture is but a veneer. Stephen Stepanski, cough medicine vendor, has a family of highly educated fleas — Romeo and Juliet, the parents, and Henry and Ophelia, offspring. Every advantage has been theirs—refined surroundings, private tutoring, tender care. Recently, in their luxuriously upholstered cigar box theater, they have been uplifting the cause of Thespis, Terpsichore and mucous membrane at Milwaukee and Sawyer avenues, Logan square. It was during a matinée performance last week. Art was at its height. A common collie belonging to Mrs. Max Aronowitz of 3305 Milwaukee avenue happened along, and with a unanimous atavistic impulse they hopped out of the shrine of culture onto the beast's waging tail.

Bill Diggett, our patent law expert, is back from Florida with a remarkable story. He did not catch a tarpon; he did not make a hole in one club; and he did not let a single drink pass his lips—not one. Bill did go deep sea fishing and lost the biggest whale he ever saw. As he fired the harpoon the cetacean went into reverse gear instead of high speed forward, as is its wont, and the weapon missed its mark by fully a furlong. Bill figures the whale slipped its clutch.

MICHAEL, NEE MIKE, J. SENNA, proprietor of the Senna barber shop at 4253 West Madison street, is celebrating his twentieth year of service at the chair at that location, and needless to say is receiving the congratulations of his countless friends. We understand Mark Fisher even got a special hair-trim. Mike says he has no fear of the talkies cutting into the barber business as long as the weather holds out.

Thomas A. Jackson, the genial storage and van man and impresario of the four horsemen of piano movers, interests us mightily with a contribution on the vernacular of that craft. Pianos generally are called "fiddles"; grand pianos are "babies"; the different floors of apartments are "shelves"; all stairways are "ladders," sometimes "flights"; the carrier with a roller is a "dolly" or a "buggy"; a heavy piano is "soggy" or "nailed to the floor"; the man that carries the front end of the piano upstairs is the "topman"; the one that carries the back "the heavy corner man," and the one in front the "keyboard man."

ONE difference between the modern girl and the old fashioned girl is that the o. f. girl always looked under the bed before retiring, says Miss Florence Mahneke of the 7A grade, Nathaniel Hawthorne school, Oak Park, comparing the two. They've certainly changed, Florence. Why, we know from personal observation that the modern girl can jump faster and higher than grandmamma ever dreamed of at sight of a mouse.

Jack Franknecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Franknecht of 6439 North Maplewood avenue, who is 18 and a graduate of Senn high school, has joined the navy and for the next four years expects to be busy seeking the whereabouts of those world sights described by Uncle Sam in the pretty recruiting posters. Drop us a postcard, Jack. Drop two.

Prelate Talks Against Prohibition Before Club

The Rt. Rev. Frederic E. J. Lloyd, primate of the American Catholic church, discussed prohibition before members of the Austin Lions club at the Austin Y. M. C. A., Central avenue and Race street, last Wednesday noon. The Rev. Mr. Lloyd, one time member of the Illinois legislature, has been speaking throughout the country against prohibition during the last few years. His contention is that the law is a curtailment of human liberty and should be repealed. He believes firmly, however, in temperance, and would never recomemnd the return of the saloon, he says.

W. SIDERS O. K. IMPROVEMENTS OF $4,500,000

Fight to Continue Against Some.

Ordinances for nine west side improvements, costing a total of more than $4,500,000, were ordered published and deferred by the city council on Wednesday, and will be passed at the next meeting, according to the usual procedure. These nine projects were approved at a hearing held by the board of local improvements on May 10.

Although objections of property owners were overruled by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board, in a number of cases and the projects went on record as approved, it was indicated that trouble will be encountered before the improvements are made and some probably will have to be deferred or abandoned by the board. Two were ordered abandoned at the hearing and three were deferred for one year.

The proposed $2,566,000 Monroe street sewer system for the near west side was approved despite vigorous opposition by Ald. George M. Maypole [28], Guy Cramer, executive secretary of the West Central association, and property owners of the district. They sought to have the project deferred for a year, but their objections were not heeded by Mr. Faherty. He challenged them to bring in a petition signed by a majority of the property owners.

Cite Plan to Widen Monroe.

Ald. Maypole asked for the delay on the ground that his constituents were already burdened too heavily with taxes and special assessments for the still uncompleted Western avenue widening to pay for another project. Furthermore, he pointed out, if Monroe street is widened as is contemplated, the street would again have to be torn up, and property owners would suffer a double inconvenience.

Mr. Cramer likewise asserted that he could not see how the board could wish to put $2,500,000 worth of work into the street when its improvement within the near future was almost a certainty.

The Devon avenue sewer system to serve the newly annexed northern portion of the 41st ward was approved without dissent. Engineer C. D. Hill told the board that there is a unanimous desire for the improvement in the district to be served by it. The project will cost $733,000.

Residents of Addison Heights, newly annexed territory in the 39th and 41st wards, attended the hearing in a body of more than 75, bringing banners and signs demanding a sewer. The board, contrary to the usual procedure, was greeted with cheers when it declared the project approved. The improvement will cost $1,032,000.

A small sewer in Sunnyside avenue between Long and Central avenues was approved without opposition. The project will cost $4,200.

Two Paving Projects Dropped.

Two northwest side paving projects were ordered abandoned. Improvement of Keystone avenue between Avondale and Grace street was abandoned at the request of Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th]. This is a street one block long, he told the board, and does not need paving.

Paving of Lawrence avenue between Austin avenue and Narragansett avenue was abandoned at the request of Ald. Thomas J. Bowler [41st], on the ground that the paving was unnecessary because the street has not been opened yet. If it is not opened to the east it cannot be paved, he said.

Ald. Frank R. Ringa [39th], succeeded in having the board defer the improvement of the alley bounded by Cornelia, Newport, Lavergne, and Laramie avenues until property owners have had an opportunity to decide definitely whether they want the improvement.

Also deferred were projects to pave Grace street from Richmond avenue to Kedzie avenue; and Barry avenue between Narragansett avenue and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

Paving Jobs Approved.

Pacing projects approved are:

Linder avenue between Belmont avenue and Addison street, at a cost of $67,500.

Major avenue between Newport and Belmont avenues; and sections of Melrose, Henderson, and Roscoe streets between Central and Menard avenues. This project will cost $124,500.

Although the board voted to approve this improvement, Ald. Ringa announced that his constituents desired a concrete pavement and not asphalt, as the board planned. Property owners present declared that their wishes had been entirely disregarded by the board.

Mr. Faherty replied that if a petition signed by a majority of the property owners on the street is submitted the board will amend the order.

Installation of water supply pipes in Central avenue between Gettysburg street and a line 167 feet north was approved. The improvement will cost $735.

Approval of property owners was given for proceedings for the opening of Leland avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues. Ald. Bowler said there were no objectors to this improvement.

Proviso High French Club Will Meet on Thursday

Announcement has been made that the next meeting of the French club of the Proviso Township High school, Maywood, will be held next Thursday. The officers recently elected for the school year 1929-'30 are president, Irving Braun; vice president, Miss Margaret Jones; secretary, Miss Frances Sortino, and treasurer, Henry Kracalik.

NORTHWEST SIDE LEADERS FAVOR GENERAL C. OF C.

Cite Greater Power of Bigger Organization.

To ascertain sentiment on the proposed formation of a central chamber of commerce on the northwest side a reporter of THE TRIBUNE interviewed three representative northwest side men last week. The idea has been discussed over a long period, but no definite steps toward organization of such a body have been taken. Sentiment is for the most part favorable towards the proposition. Now it remains for some individual or organization to instigate action.

One of the prominent northwest side men who was asked to give an opinion was Ralph F. Kopperschmidt, president of the Empire Trust and Saving bank, Crawford avenue at Milwaukee avenue, and head of the Milwaukee, Crawford and Belmont Business association. It is Mr. Kopperschmidt's belief that there are numerous leaders in business on the northwest side capable of getting such an organization started. He advocates the establishment of headquarters and the selection of a secretary on salary to handle the affairs of the chamber.

Cites Power in Unity.

"I like the idea both in theory and execution," he said. "It would represent a large majority of the people and would get consideration for its various projects where a smaller organization wouldn't get to first base. I like the pattern of the West Town chamber of commerce. Members of that organization have accomplished a great deal. Of course a centralized chamber here would need publicity. I don't believe in its having any sectional name, such as our own organization, the Crawford, Milwaukee and Belmont Business association, has. This part of the city is growing right along, now having such large concerns as the Olsen Rug company, the Hall Printing company and the Florsheim Shoe company."

The proposed chamber, according to Harry G. Weimer, member of the board of directors of the Central Northwest Business association, should serve the territory bounded by North avenue on the south, Western avenue on the east, Lawrence avenue on the north, and Narragansett avenue on the west. He pointed out that there are now 56 business men's associations and civic groups in the 39th ward and adjacent territory.

Discussed by Several Groups.

"If all these organizations would consolidate, they would stand a much better chance of attaining their objectives. The proposed chamber should be similar to the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce. Committees representing such organizations as the Logan Square Business Men's association, the Avondale Chamber of Commerce, and the Fullerton Avenue Business Men's association have discussed the idea. Unfortunately they could never get together on a suitable name. The approximate center of the territory which the chamber would serve would be Milwaukee avenue and Crawford avenue, and there are plenty of available meeting places in that neighborhood."

Alfred A. Mueller, secretary of the Kimbell Trust and Savings bank, 3600 Fullerton avenue, and president of the Fullerton Avenue Business Men's association, also voiced his approval of the suggested chamber. Like Mr. Kopperschmidt, he pointed out the added power such an organization would have in contrast to the limited influence the smaller clubs and associations now possess.

"We're all interested in constructive work," Mr. Mueller said. "But sometimes we haven't the power to get things done. I am very much in favor of the idea."

FULLERTON BUSINESS ASSOCIATION HONORS ITS PAST PRESIDENTS

ALFRED A. MUELLER.
[Stafford Photo.]

Past presidents' night was held Wednesday by the Fullerton Avenue Business Men's association. The meeting was held at Blackhawk park, Lavergne and Belden avenues, for the seven former presidents of the organization. Alfred A. Mueller is head of the association. The past presidents honored at the meeting were Raymond G. Kimbell, Paul M. Sommer, John W. Wiehn, Eric V. Tavs, John Krogman, Stephen Janicke, and Henry Haff.

According to Mr. Mueller, the association is working for the paving of Fullerton avenue. It is also interested in getting stop and go lights for the intersection of Fullerton and Central Park avenues. Steps have been taken to induce the surface lines to restore the large cars formerly in use on the Fullerton avenue line in lieu of the small cars now in operation.

The association is planning a picnic to be held at the forest preserve at Glenview, Ill., some time in August. It is expected that about 1,500 persons will attend.

The association was organized in 1914. Meetings are held once a month. The officers besides the president are: Vice president, Thomas McKean Jr.; secretary, Milton Darr, and treasurer, Paul Sommer. The territory served by the association is Fullerton avenue between Kedzie and Crawford avenues.

Some 350 Christian Endeavorers from Oak Park and Austin will gather in Elmhurst tomorrow to revive an old annual event known as "Lilac Time in Elmhurst." The Christian Endeavor society of the First Evangelical church is entertaining. This rally is always the biggest event of the year and is returning to the city of elms after a four year absence. A banquet which is held first will be followed by a big rally in the church auditorium. The special guests of the evening will be the Chicago union president, Harry Saulnier, together with each member of his cabinet.

ANSWERS

Quotation—What's the constitution between friends?

Answer—This was said by Tim Campbell to Grover Cleveland in 1883. Timothy J. Campbell, a Democrat, represented a lower east side New York district in the state senate. When Cleveland became governor of New York state in 1883 Campbell made a request for the appointment of several ward heelers to offices. When Cleveland pointed out to him that to make the appointments would be to violate the state constitution, Tim replied: "What's the constitution between friends?"—Charles Simon, 1900 Estes avenue, Chicago.

Quotation—Much may be made of a Scotchman if he be caught young.

Answer—This was said by Dr. Samuel Johnson [1709-1784], English lexicographer. I found the quotation in James Boswell's "Life of Johnson." In the chapter concerned with the year 1772 Boswell writes: "He [Dr. Johnson] would not allow Scotland to derive any credit from Lord Mansfield; for he was educated in England. 'Much,' said he, 'may be made of a Scotchman, if he be caught young.'"

William Murray, first earl of Mansfield [1705-1793], was an English judge, the son of David Murray, a Scottish politician.—E. Shannon Adams, 3712 South Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, Ill.

Answer—This saying is credited to a drummer boy in Napoleon's army at the battle of Marengo, Italy, on June 14, 1800. Napoleon reached the field to find his advance corps beaten by the Austrians and in full retreat. Just as the day appeared lost for the French, young Gen. Desaix arrived on the field with his cavalry and halted near the place where Napoleon stood. There was in the corps a drummer boy whom Desaix had picked up on the streets of Paris. As the line halted, so the story goes, Napoleon shouted to the drummer boy, "Beat a retreat!" The boy did not stir. Again the commander shouted, "Gamin, beat a retreat!" The boy stepped forward, grasped his drumsticks, and said, "Sire, I have not learned to beat a retreat. But I can beat a charge that will make the very dead fall into line. May I beat it here?"

A moment later the corps swept down on the Austrians. Desaix was slain, but his men won the battle for Napoleon.—René Sherwin, 846 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

Schurz Students Inspect Airplane, Auto Factories

Four members of the Aviation club of Schurz High school, Emil Saline, Robert Beaudette, Leo Mountain, and Dan Harper, recently made a trip to Detroit to inspect the Ford airplane and automobile plants. Among the many objects of interest viewed was the Josephine Ford, the plane in which Commander Richard E. Byrd flew over the north pole.

BUSINESS BODY ASKS POLICE STATION AT CRAWFORD, SUNNYSIDE

A new police station at Crawford and Sunnyside avenues is one of the leading projects sponsored by the Milwaukee, Crawford, and Belmont Business association, according to Ralph F. Kopperschmidt, president. The suggested site is city owned property.

Members of the association will hold their next meeting on Thursday. The enrollment now numbers about 100. Officers of the association, besides Mr. Kopperschmidt, are: Vice president, John R. O'Reilley; treasurer, F. J. Kimbell, and secretary, Harry L. O'Connor. Chairmen of committees are: Membership, H. Magnusson; publicity, Harry Chernin; civics, John J. Urban; street lights, A. Schultz; new industries, F. J. Kimbell; promotional, Saul Meltzer; transportation, H. R. New, and grievance, Dr. Arthur H. Hauber.

The association was founded about a year and a half ago. It has been instrumental in the improvement of street lighting along Crawford, Belmont, and Milwaukee avenues and is still engaged in this work. The territory for which it operates is bounded by Fullerton avenue, Central Park avenue, Irving Park boulevard, and Kilbourn avenue.

The play, written by Barry Conners, is a three act comedy of American family life. Miss Margaret Campbell is coaching the players.

Members of the cast are Miss Ruth Aldrich, Robert Bruce, Miss Irene Primrose, Miss Doris Greenwood, Russell Koenitzer, Hugh Duffield, and Ralph Daniels. Chairmen of committees are as follows: Nathaniel Adams, Percy Terwillinger, Miss Ethel Kelso, Miss Marguerite Primrose, Leonard Sherman, and C. Depuy.

A tag dance will follow the Friday night performance. Proceeds will go toward a building fund for an addition to the church.

FIVE WEST SIDE PUBLIC PROJECTS UP FOR HEARING

Public hearings will be held on five west side projects by the board of local improvements at the city hall next Friday morning, officials of the board announced yesterday.

It is desired to install water supply pipes in Bloomingdale avenue between Mansfield and Central avenues; in Avers avenue between Belmont avenue and School street; Central avenue between Goodman street and Avondale avenue, and Gettysburg avenue between Central and Milwaukee avenues.

The board will also seek approval of the paving with asphalt of Dakin street between Oak Park and Normandy avenues.

Business Men to Present Coats to 300 Patrol Boys

Business men and manufacturers of the Fullerton and Crawford avenue district will present more than 300 patrol boys of public and parochial schools with raincoats and caps next Thursday afternoon at Blackhawk park, Lavergne and Belden avenues, as an expression of their appreciation for the work done by the boys. The Quadrangle Lions club took the initiative in the presentation and pledged a large portion of the requisite money themselves. The public has been invited to attend.

CIVIC ASSEMBLY TO BE CLIMAX OF BOYS' WEEK

Medals to Be Presented to Young Leaders.

The climax of Boys' week, which begins in Chicago today, will occur Friday night when community leaders in business, industrial and professional life will gather at the Auditorium theater for a massive civic assembly where high school boys already giving promise of becoming civic leaders in Chicago will be given public recognition.

The various west side community centers of the Austin, Garfield park, Albany park, Wicker park, Norwood park, Logan square, Jefferson park, and other communities all will send leaders in their associations as delegates to the assembly. These representatives will meet at the nearest school building in order to attend the assembly in a body, and the representatives of each community will sit beneath a banner announcing their home district.

Each district will have a boy representative chosen by members of the community center in conference with school officials. The boy will be taken from the high school or junior high school in the district, and in some cases two boys have been selected from one school where one school district includes several communities.

Rosenwald to Present Medals.

Medals will be awarded the boys and pinned on their breasts by Julius Rosenwald in behalf of the civic spirited people of Chicago. Scholarships in political and social science are also to be publicly presented to the three high school senior boys who top the list of all the other representatives selected, and other honors will be accorded the prospective civic leaders of the future.

This civic assembly, the second held this year, is part of the program planned by the Boys' week committee in recognition of the boy in school and citizenship, which is the subject which has been designated for that day of Boys' week. At the assembly Miss Jane Addams will speak on "The Public School: the Safeguard to Democracy."

Distinguished citizens of the present as well as those of the future will be recognized publicly at the assembly. Among those who will receive this honor are: Col. A. A. Sprague, Mr. Rosenwald, Michael Zimmer, warden of the Cook county hospital; Judges Albert B. George and Francis B. Allegretti of the Municipal court, and Burridge Butler, chairman of the Union League club foundation for boys and publisher of the Prairie Farmer.

Pageant to Be Presented.

A civic pageant arranged and directed by Miss Johanna Doniat of Senn High school will also be presented as part of the program.

The assembly is only one of the high lights of the program prepared for Friday. A spectacle and demonstration at Soldiers' field, beginning at 12:45 o'clock, in which more than 50,000 boys and girls from the schools are expected to take part, will provide the first part of this day's activities. There will be a parade, with floats representing every school, park, and many boys' clubs and other organizations of boys. There will be drills by the R. O. T. C. bands, which will play in unison; athletic events, and demonstrations by other high school boys' groups.

The fire department, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, will stage a real fire, showing the modern methods of fighting conflagration. Ancient apparatus from hand operated pumps to horse drawn engines, as well as the modern motor equipment, will be exhibited and put into action. Following this a music festival, in which high school bands, orchestras, and glee clubs will have a part, will be held at the Studebaker theater.

ANTI-MOSQUITO WAR DECLARED IN SUBDIVISIONS

Des Plaines Valley to Wipe Out Breeding Places.

The "subdivision mosquito" must go if the outlying districts of Chicago are to be rid of the insect tribe which is now preparing for its annual invasion. This edict was set forth by J. Lyell Clarke, sanitary engineer, at the recent meeting of the board of trustees of the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district, organized under a state law a year ago.

"Heretofore," says Mr. Clarke, "we have considered the nuisance as being entirely due to the Des Plaines river and Salt creek, but our findings last year show conclusively that negligence on the part of real estate subdividers is the principal cause of mosquito breeding in the populated territories."

Lists Breeding Ground.

Among the prolific breeding places of the subdivision mosquitoes cited by Mr. Clarke were the following tracts: South of La Grange, between Brainard and East avenues.

North of Brookfield, between the Indiana Harbor Belt line and Maple avenue.

East of the Riverside Golf club, between First avenue and Maple avenue on both sides of Twenty-second street.

On both sides of North avenue in River Forest and Oak Park.

The facts procured from investigations have been placed before the various subdividers, said Mr. Clarke, and coöperation has been promised which will bring about drainage from the interior of the tracts to corner catch basins.

Increases with Population.

"The mosquito as a nuisance has increased with the increase of population," explains Mr. Clarke, "for without a 'blood meal' he cannot reproduce. We have pictured him as being due to the river and the steam because all the disease carrying type deposit their eggs on a water surface. We have been rid of the malarial mosquito in the Chicago vicinity for some ten years back. We still have the river mosquito to contend with after long dry spells, but the chief breeding places are now elsewhere.

"The river mosquito has been imported from the tropics. He is the house entering type. He thrives in polluted water because the fish—his enemy—have been killed.

"The subdivision mosquito goes after the gardener and the golfer. Water that stands for a week in a grassy area is enough for this mosquito to accomplish mass production. That she deposits her eggs in depressions—we know; perhaps she deposits them all over the ground. The eggs, we have found, may lie dormant for a year and hatch during the warm rains of the following year. When those rains come, the eggs hatch all at once and within an hour. And the average life of Mr. Subdivision Mosquito is thirty days.

300 Acres Oiled Last Year.

"After a rain has filled the depressions of a subdivision, the eggs will hatch within seven to ten days if the territory is not oiled. That is why this mosquito is such a burden. Eleven hundred acres of grassy territory were flooded in the district last year and—within the period allowed to combat the menace—we could oil only 300 of the acres.

"Aside from the subdivision problem, there are, of course, numberless wet lots between houses. It is difficult to take care of the individual wet lot situation, but the subdivision problem is something that permits of advantageous coöperation.

"There are probably 135 species of mosquitoes in the United States," adds the engineer. "There are about 35 species in Illinois. There are about 18 different species in the Chicago area. Perhaps of the 18 species, but six give trouble.

Mass Production.

"The mosquito of the polluted streams winters in sheltered places. The female lays from 150 to 300 eggs. The batch will emerge within 12 days under proper conditions. That batch will pyramid. The peak of production is reached about the middle of July.

"It is not an easy battle. The mosquito was here early and, as I have said before, has increased with the increase in population. The past year, however, has given us an opportunity to learn the habits and ways of the various species that infest the district, and this knowledge gives us the chance to combat their ways. If we can do away with the breeding grounds of the subdivisions we will, I feel, have taken, a big step toward ultimate victory."

The official campaign to abate the mosquito nuisance for the benefit of citizens in the Des Plaines valley has been undertaken by a duly appointed board composed of the following: Dr. S. S. Fuller of Riverside, president; Ben H. Badenoch, River Forest, secretary; Otto McFeely, Oak Park, treasurer; Walter P. Saunders, La Grange; Dr. Robert L. Reynolds, Maywood; J. Lyell Clarke, Riverside, engineer; Thurlow G. Essington, Chicago, attorney.

Covers Large Area.

The Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district includes an area of 74.5 square miles, and has a population of 200,000 people. Its topography for the most part is flat with some hilly sections. The Des Plaines river—a polluted stream—flows south through its entire length, while Salt creek—also a polluted stream—comes down from the northwest and joins the Des Plaines river near the center of the district.

There are twenty-two villages in the district. A laboratory is maintained at district headquarters in Riverside, where all experiments are carried on.

The streams of the district were flushed often last year. Breeding in the Des Plaines river was controlled. A severe test, however, was placed upon those engaged in house-to-house inspection. A summary of this inspection disclosed that of the 97 lily ponds not stocked with fish, 73 per cent were found to contain larvae at some time during the season, in the majority of cases early in the spring. Larvae were found in 55 per cent of all barrels, 50 per cent of all pools and 37 per cent of all receptacles.

GRACE CHURCH TO CELEBRATE 25TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

REV. J. ALFRED NANSEN.
STAFFORD PHOTO

Today marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Grace Evangelical Community church, Wrightwood and Kimball avenues. Festivities will open with a morning service preached by Dr. G. B. Kimmel, president of the Evangelical Theological seminary, whose subject is "The Church a Vital Factor in Community Life." Supper will be served at 6 o'clock by the ladies Aid society to members and friends of the church and a male quartet, "Old Timers," will sing several numbers, followed by informal discussion of the early days.

The Rev. J. Alfred Nansen, pastor of the church for the last seven years, will be the speaker at the evening service. The church orchestra, under the direction of W. H. Wilton, assisted by the quartet, will give a special musical program.

The entire church has been renovated for the occasion with a new paneled ceiling, rebuilt choir and pulpit loft and the auditorium redecorated. Mrs. J. J. Hoffman, one of the charter members, is expected to read at the morning service, a history of the church from its beginnings with but nine members and no church building to the present day.

CHRYSLER LAUDS PLAN FOR W. SIDE SPEED HIGHWAY

Oak Park President Sees Boom in Business.

Speaking both as a manufacturer located on the west side and as president of the village of Oak Park, Charles H. Chrysler said yesterday that the proposed elevated boulevard of the West Park board is "a progressive step in the development of the west side, is essential, and should be constructed."

"The highway would serve to relieve present traffic conditions and would increase business and the growth of the west side." He added, "I am in favor of it no matter which of the routes contemplated is finally selected."

Road to Cost $20,000,000.

The west park commissioners plan to construct an elevated roadway at a cost of $20,000,000, the money to be raised by a bond issue. The highway would run from Austin boulevard to Canal street on an east and west street between Roosevelt road and Austin avenue to be selected by the Chicago plan commission.

Mr. Chrysler was asked if he thought the highway would carry business out of the west side rather than bring in business. He said the project would not carry away prosperity but would create still greater trading centers throughout the west side.

Would Attract Business.

"The point has been raised that the highway would benefit the loop rather than the district west of Canal street because traffic could reach the loop more easily than under present conditions. This very accessibility of the loop to the west side would, I believe, be the very thing to attract business to the west section.

"Under present conditions, for example, a factory located west of Crawford avenue is not easily accessible to the loop, either by automobile or public conveyance.

Mr. Chrysler did not believe himself qualified to discuss the method of paying for the improvement. He said, however, that if the assessment is spread fairly, their should be no complaint whatsoever and no objections to the project.

Effect on Suburbs.

At a meeting of the Lake-Marion-Wisconsin Business Men's association held at the Carlton hotel, Oak Park, last Monday noon, Mr. Chrysler gave his opinion of the highway as it affects Oak Park and the western suburbs.

"If the superhighway is construced by the west park board up to Austin boulevard," he said, "it should be continued through Oak Park and perhaps farther west. Coming down to grade at Austin boulevard, it would dump a large flow of traffic on Oak Park streets, and the village would be confronted with the problem of coping with additional congestion caused by cross town traffic.

"I realize the highway must be considered for Oak Park as well as the west side of Chicago, but I am not prepared to say what route should be selected or what course should be taken in obtaining the improvement.

Wants State to Aid.

"It would be advantageous," he continued, "if the state could finance the improvement through Oak Park and further west.

"There has been a cry for elevation of the electric and steam railroads through the village. It is equally important for automobile traffic to be carried on a superhighway.

"Another cry has been raised for grade separation at intersecting highways.

"If these grade separations are desirable, the superhighway is, by the same token, even more desirable because it is simply a separation of grades at 76 cross streets from Canal street to Austin boulevard, and would provide similar grade separations if continued through Oak Park.

MRS. L. A. M'KENZIE RENOMINATED TO HEAD ITASCA CLUB

The annual election of officers of the Itasca Woman's club is to take place next Tuesday. The nominating committee, headed by Mrs. Russell Paulson, has announce the following candidates: President, Mrs. L. A. McKenzie; vice president, Mrs. Henry Brockmeier; secretary, Mrs. Carl von Gunten; and treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Ginsberg. Mrs. McKenzie, the president, has served in that office for five years.

Members of the club are especially interested in the Itasca Public library, which was organized in 1927 and established in 1928. At the present time, Mrs. McKenzie, who is librarian as well as president of the club, is training four high school students in library science with a supplementary course in indexing and filing. The library is connected with the American Library association and the Illinois Library association. At a meeting of the club recently it was voted to gather a fund of $250 for the library this year.

BISHOP QUARTER SCHOOL FOR BOYS OPENS ADDITION

The recently completed addition to the Bishop Quarter Boarding School for Boys, 605 Lake street, Oak Park, was opened last week. The new building adjoins the school on the west and contains a gymnasium, class rooms, a library, a sun room, a manual training room and a roller skating rink. It is two stories high. The architect was Gerald Barry and building operations were handled by the Duval Construction company.

The new building is the second addition to the school within the last half year. About five months ago an infirmary was completed, containing four private rooms and a ward. The four rooms were furnished through the generosity of Mrs. J. B. Victor, Mrs. F. Moles, Mrs. Walter Hull, and Mrs. William Hoch, all of Oak Park.

The Bishop Quarter school was opened in 1917. At the suggestion of Cardinal Mundelein it was named after Bishop William Quarter, first Catholic bishop of Chicago. When the school opened the enrollment was only 20. It is now 160. The student body is made up of boys between the ages of 6 and 14 years, most of them from Chicago and the suburbs, although there are pupils from New York, Mississippi, Canada and Kentucky. The Dominican Sisters, whose mother house is in Adrian, Mich., are in charge. During the summer months a camp is conducted at Petite lake, near Antioch, Ill., where pupils may spend their vacations.

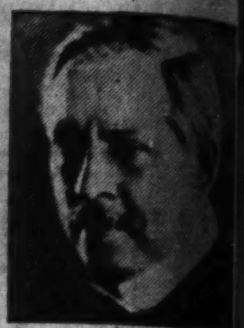
WAGNER . . . . . .



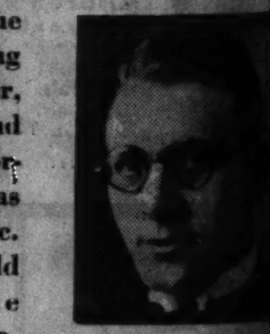
DR. STOCK

THE final radio concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra is to be completely a Wagnerian hour. The Love Scene, taken from Act II. and the Introduction to Tristan's Vision from Act III. of "Tristan and Isolde," has been arranged for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra by Dr. Frederick Stock. These famous musicians will play in addition to Dr. Stock's arrangement, The Bacchanale and Finale, from the Overture to "Tannhauser," and Brunhilde's Immolation from "The Twilight of the Gods." Before the concert you will hear a few words from Dr. Stock himself, who will conduct his famous orchestra for the season's last radio performance. 6 o'clock.

BASEBALL . . .

QUIN RYAN will be at Cubs Park this afternoon with a snappy report of a snappy ball game. The Bruins open their series with the boys from the Smoky City at 3 o'clock. Quin will be on the air to give you the lineups and batting order. You'll get a bird's-eye view of the game, hear the bats cracking out the long ones, the mob thundering with enthusiasm, all for the listening to radio's best sports reporter.

Jean GOLDKETTE



JEAN GOLDKETTE

THE master of the blue note, if that wild thing can be said to have a master, is Jean Goldkette. He and his young and expert orchestra will thrill you as they play the New Music. Grotesque dissonances, odd rhythmic patterns, the warmth of something alive, all these things that make themselves felt in the New Music are completely understood. Nat Natoli spatters a melody with toneful trumpet notes chipped out in quick succession . . . Paul Mertz turns the piano into a dancing, sparkling instrument . . . each man plays hard to make the New Music what it is. 2:25, 10:45, 11:35.

RIVER FOREST SUNDAY CLUB WINS SUCCESS

Has Balance in Treasury; Plans for Second Year.

The River Forest Sunday Evening club, which has just closed its season, has grown, within one year, to be one of the largest organizations in River Forest.

The club, founded last fall largely through the efforts of Max A. Berns, has for its purpose the providing of inspiring and nonsectarian programs for "all people of all faiths." Speakers and musicians of note appearing each Sunday night on the programs have attracted audiences that often overtaxed the capacity of the largest auditorium in River Forest and necessitated overflow meetings. The club has more than 500 paid up members. It closed its first year with all bills paid and a balance in the treasury.

"The success of the new enterprise," said Mr. Berns, "can be credited chiefly to the ready coöperation extended by individuals and by every other organization in the village. The variety and excellence of the programs, of course, have appealed to the people, but behind the movement and largely responsible for its success is the coöperation that persons and groups have been quick to give."

Nonsectarian Idea Popular.

This coöperation from every element of the community has been more readily extended, it is said, because the club from its start has been nonsectarian in its organization and programs. Men from every church in the village and from other organizations are on its board of directors. Pastors of the four local churches rotate in offering the invocation and benediction which form a part of each program. Although the meetings are held in a church because it has the largest auditorium in the village, the denominational name of the church is never mentioned. The location is designated simply as Jackson and Quick avenues.

Representatives of all faiths have appeared on the programs during the last year. In the Sunday Evening News, published each week during the club season and mailed to every home in River Forest, news of all local churches, schools, and of other community groups is featured.

Attendance Totals 14,300.

Attendance during the club's first season totaled 14,300, or an average of 530 a meeting. At two programs the attendance was more than 1,000 and demanded overflow meetings. In addition to the quality of the programs another reason for the popularity of the new organization is said to be the fact that it is the only place in the village where every one, both men and women, both old and young, and of whatever faith, can regularly meet on a common basis and together enjoy inspiring and educational programs.

River Forest has not other Sunday evening church services.

"Great care," said Mr. Berns, "was exercised by the program committee in obtaining only high grade talent and in making the programs not only interesting, but also inspiring and instructive. For example, we had such speakers as E. H. Sothern, Shakespearian interpreter; Count Felix von Luckner, noted for his humanitarian and spectacular record in the world war; Ruth Bryan Owen, who is now in congress; Commander Donald MacMillan and Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorers; Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Dr. John M. Vander Meulen, president of Louisville seminary, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, Dean Shailer Mathews, Dr. George Craig Stewart, and Carveth Wells, known for his explorations in Malaysia, Africa, and Lapland.

Occasional Evening of Music.

"As most people like music, we had an occasional evening devoted entirely to music and heard such groups as the Gordon string quartet, the Kedroff male quartet of Russia, the famous Apollo club in 'The Messiah,' and the Fisk University Glee club, with typical Negro music. The wide variety and high character of the programs appealed to the residents of every taste and made the meetings popular as well as helpful."

The meetings of the club were open to every one in the village. Annual subscriptions were $10 a year. Offerings were taken at the meetings.

Plans are now being made and talent is being engaged for next season, which begins Oct. 6. The newly elected board of directors consists of the following: Max A. Berns, president; Ben H. Badenoch and Albert E. Webster, vice presidents; John A. Kleesert, secretary-treasurer; B. W. Armstrong, J. R. Britton, Louis J. Cross, H. J. Doherty, W. S. Gerts, Dr. R. H. Good, Frank W. Hughes, Otto H. Luhman, Dr. L. B. Phelps, Walter C. Rattray, and F. J. Thielbar, directors.

LEADERS OF WICKER PARK

Dr. Nathan Ginsburg was re-elected president of the Wicker Park chamber of commerce at a meeting held recently. This is the fifth time Dr. Ginsburg has been chosen head of the organization. He is shown second from the left. Alex A. Bregenzer, vice president, is at his left. At the extreme right is Robert B. Albrecht, secretary, and at the left is Joseph Reich, treasurer.

BARGAIN IN FRYING PAN.

Chicago, May 16.—A neighborhood store had burned down and, while looking over articles that were put on sale, I found an iron frying pan marked $1.25. Water from the firemen's hose had rusted it. I bought it for 5 cents. The clerk gave me a piece of sandpaper with which to remove the rust. The pan has been in constant use, and we regard this as my best bargain.

BUYS $35 RUG FOR $10.

Cicero, Ill., May 14.—The best bargain I ever got in my neighborhood was a beautiful 9x12 ft. rug. It was a little faded, having been displayed in the shop window, but the design is such that this slight defect is almost indiscernible. My bargain rug cost me $10. I have seen the same kind of rugs in the same shop since for $35.

5 CENT CURTAINS LAST 8 YEARS.

Chicago, May 15.—My best neighborhood bargain was a remnant of yellow organdie four yards long for 5 cents. There was enough material for two lovely long curtains and a valance for the door and the transoms. We used the curtains for eight years before discarding them.

TELLS DETAILS OF NEW PLAN OF STREET REPAIRS

Wolfe Sends Letter to West Side Clubs.

What west side property owners may expect in the matter of resurfacing streets by special assessment, according to the plan of Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, was outlined in a message sent to more than 100 civic groups of the west side Wednesday.

"To relieve the property owners from the heavy expense of an entirely new street, the following plan is presented," the commissioner said:

"If the citizens owning property fronting on a macadam street desire to have the street resurfaced and will make application to the commissioner of public works for such resurfacing, indicating that they will pay the cost, the commissioner will cause a careful estimate of the cost of the resurfacing to be made.

"This estimate will be furnished the citizens, and if they will collect the funds and deposit the same with the city, a permit will be issued for the street so designated to be resurfaced.

"The asphaltic mixture will be sold to the citizens by the city asphalt plants at the price of $10 per ton delivered on the job.

"A certified statement will be prepared covering the weight of the mixture delivered and used, and the exact expense of labor in connection with the resurfacing work. If there is a balance due the citizens it will be refunded. There will be no charge for general supervision or use of equipment, and the citizens will secure a resurfaced street for the bare cost of materials and actual cost of labor.

"The cost of the work is approximately $2.30 per square yard of pavement laid. Depending on conditions, the cost per front foot to the property owner on each side of a 30 foot street will be from $4.10 to $5."

EDUCATOR SEEKS BIG CITY COLLEGE FOR WEST SIDE

Favors Holding Schools' Land in Austin.

The board of education holdings in Austin should not be sold to permit the building up of the district between Addison street, Roosevelt road adn Cicero and Laramie avenues, but should be held by the board and used as a site for a great municipal college. William J. Bartholf, president of Crane Junior college, made this statement before members of the West Side Kiwanis club at the Midwest Athletic club last Tuesday and asked the club to back a movement to get such a college for the west side.

"Residents of Austin are demanding the sale of the school land which has remained vacant for many years on the ground that it retards progress and keeps the community from being either a prosperous business center or desirable residence section," he said.

Would Boom Business.

"If a large municipal college were built on the land, it would mean more to the west side than the sale of the property for private use. A municipal college such as New York and other large cities have would bring more than 20,000 people a day into the west side," he continued. "This would certainly not block improvement, but would stimulate growth far better than would the sale of the land.

"A few million dollars spent for good educational buildings would be an expenditure of great benefit to the west side and would at the same time provide facilities for higher education now lacking in our city," Mr. Bartholf concluded.

Following Mr. Bartholf's informal message, the group was addressed by Christian C. Paschen, building commissioner. He continued in the same strain by saying that the west side was afforded at the present time its greatest opportunity to forge ahead over other sections of the city.

More than 200 hotels and large apartment buildings have sprung up on the west side in the last two years, he said, and residents of the district should do all in their power to make it still more desirable as a center of population.

Other Communities Overbuilt.

The north and south sides are already overbuilt, leaving the west side as the best prospective center of population and business in the future, he said.

When the new building code is completed and put into operation by his department, Mr. Paschen said, it will be possible to construct buildings of every type cheaper in Chicago than anywhere else in the country. This code will probably be completed by August, he added. At that time it will be submitted to local groups throughout the city for their approval, and suggestions from them will be welcome, according to Mr. Paschen.

THREE STATIONS SEEK BANDS FOR WORLD PROGRAMS

Ready to Spend Millions for Broadcasts.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three projects for broadcasting from the United States to the rest of the world were outlined recently to the federal radio commission by those seeking short-wave channels for this purpose. The most ambitious of these was by the interests which recently bought Station WRNY in New York.

Chester W. Cuthell, president of the station, seeking six transoceanic short wave channels told the commission that the group which he represents proposes to embark upon an international plan of world-wide good will broadcasting. He said they had already expended $150,000 and are prepared to spend $2,000,000 or more in furtherance of the gigantic plan to sell the United States to the world.

Mr. Cuthell said that "much prejudice against America is being evidenced in trade circles in South America, China, and other countries" and that "Great Britain and Germany are making great inroads on this trade."

Others Want Channels.

Authority to establish transoceanic radio stations for the rebroadcasting and interchange of programs with foreign countries by means of short waves was also requested by Dr. Leon Levy, president of the Universal Broadcasting company, operating Station WCAU, in Philadelphia, and secretary-treasurer of the Columbia system, and G. W. Alexander, executive manager of the Pacific Western Broadcasting federation of Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Levy told the commission that his station was to be used for the transoceanic transmission primarily of WCAU programs originating in Philadelphia, the transmitter to be located 18 miles from the center of the city.

He said that last year preliminary negotiations were undertaken with broadcasting stations in France and Germany. If the application for the four short wave channels is granted, the Philadelphia station would be ready to begin operation with six months.

Ready to Spend Millions.

Mr. Alexander said the Pacific Western federation plans a radio project, both broadcasting and short-wave rebroadcasting, which will involve an expenditure of $3,500,000 with the equipment alone to cost $185,000. Work already has begun on KPWF, at Los Angeles, the 50,000 watt broadcasting station, which, under the construction permit granted by the commission, must be completed by Dec. 31. Mr. Alexander said the arrangements now are being made with "119 different countries and provinces in connection with relay broadcasting and services and for continental rebroadcasting of the programs of Station KPWF." China, Japan and other countries in the Pacific would be the special objectives.

Mr. Alexander stated the federation is made up of civic, social, cultural, educational and religious organizations of California, Arizona and Nevada, and is a non-profit making benevolent organization. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, he said, is vice president of the corporation, and W. Bertram Stevens, bishop of Los Angeles diocese of the Episcopal church, is president.

Good Will Program.

Although dedicated primarily to the promoting of aviation, the new owners of Station WRNY, in New York, propose to make it the key station in one of the most pretentious projects yet undertaken of promoting good will between the United States and foreign countries. Despite the fact that the federal radio commission has had numerous international projects put before it, the presentation made by Mr. Cuthell, who is also general counsel for the Curtiss aviation interests, Walter S. Lemmon, general manager of Station WRNY, Capt. R. H. Marriott, radio engineer, and William H. White Jr., Washington associate of Mr. Cuthell, was unusual in many respects.

It unfolded to the commission, a world wide good will undertaking on the part of American business interests which a few years ago would doubtless have been considered visionary and fantastic in the extreme. Yet with the aid of short waves, the commission was assured by Capt. Marriott that the plan is today mechanically feasible, although admittedly in an experimental stage, and can be done if the radio control body will grant the use of the six short wave channels applied for by the New York group.

Briefly, the idea is through Station W2XAL, the short wave transmitter attached to Station WRNY, to broadcast programs simultaneously to Central and South America, to European countries, such as England, France, and Germany, and to countries as far away as Japan, China, and Australia. These programs would be made up of the best type of music and include our foremost public speakers.

It is just possible that they might be sponsored from time to time by large interests or advertisers just as are the chain programs we hear nightly in this country. A novel feature, however, would be a reciprocal arrangement for broadcasting programs from foreign countries to the United States. It takes no great amount of imagination to think of the interest which might be aroused in radio listeners if it were announced that tomorrow night we would hear a program originating in China.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

It is the Foutrh of July, in 1923, about five o'clock in the afternoon. From outside your window come the pop and roar of firecrackers and the shouts of small boys—and from your loud speaker comes the announcement that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight is now going to be broadcast from Shelby, Montana.

ANNOUNCER — Hello, ladies and gentlemen. We've come out here to the end of the world, today, you and I, to see what promises to be a great scrap, even though all the odds favor the champion, Jack Dempsey. It will be a miracle if Tommy Gibbons, his St. Paul challenger, can stand the gaff for the full fifteen rounds.

Referee Dougherty has the men in the center of the ring now giving them their instructions. Now they're going back to their corners. Jack Kearns is patting Dempsey on the back, and Eddie Kane is whispering words of counsel in Tommy's ear.

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring! Thirty seconds to go now, and the fight will start. Shelby's holiday is almost complete!

There's the gong! Round one is starting! Both men are coming out of their corners speedily. They've reached the center of the ring and—Dempsey is tearing in! Wow! Dempsey drove a left hook into Tom's ribs. Gibbons is dancing away, with Jack moving after him. No, they've clinched, with Gibbons doing the grabbing. Referee Daugherty has broken them up, and Jack is up on his toes showing just as much speed as Tommy. O, O! There's a pair of lefts, plunk, plunk, into Gibbons' ribs, and Gibbons backs up—no! he's coming back and—Zowie! He plants a long, rangy right hander square on Dempsey's mouth. Now look at the champion! He's tearing in and hurling rights and lefts at the challenger's body, with Gibbons moving his arms up and down to protect himself. Oooohh! Wow! Dempsey smacked Gibbons three times with lefts to the body. He's hitting him! Gibbons is taking it! Now they're sparring cautiously—Gibbons is watching that left hand of the champion's, and now—One! Two! Gibbons cracks Dempsey twice on the mouth with lefts. Jack is right back with a hard left to Gibbons' jaw.

Jack is getting in a lot of punishment with that left. O! Gibbons sent a hard right to Dempsey's wind and now they're clinching, with Dempsey wrestling Gibbons all over the ring. Now they're breaking, sparring. Ummhh! Gibbons sends that left again at the champion's mouth, and now a right—a hard one—to Jack's ear. Dempsey is coming back with an avalanche of gloves. He's fighting like a fiend! Gibbons is holding on again—they're in a clinch, and again Dempsey is wrestling Gibbons around the ring. Now they're apart and—Ow! Gibbons gets that left over again, this time to Dempsey's chin. Clinch again! Dempsey is working on Tommy's body during the clinches! Now they're breaking up, and sparring. Dempsey just missed a hard right hander to the heart. Now—Gong!

That's the end of round one, ladies and gentlemen. The first round, if we have to render a decision, goes to the champion by a wide margin.

Shelby is liking its first fight. The crowd was on its feet during most of the first round, yelling and screaming like any eastern fight audience. There's the whistle for the start of the second. The seconds are scampering out of the ring. (Gong!)

Round two! Jack and Tommy got to the middle of the ring in a hurry this time again. O! Gibbons missed a left to Jack's head, and he goes into a clinch. They're pushing and pulling in the clinch, and Gibbons sneaks over two rights to Jack's head. Now they've broken—they're sparring—and again Gibbons goes into a clinch to avoid Jack's infighting. Dempsey is tearing in, in the usual fashion, working on Gibbons' body.

Gibbons is backing away from those body punches! They hurt! Uppp! Tommy cracked Jack with a sharp left to the face. Ummmh! Gibbons landed again, this time to the champion's wind—Ohh! Jack comes right back and socks Gibbons with a hard right on the ear. They've rushed into a clinch again. Gibbons is holding on—and—Ohhh! Dempsey drove an awful right to Tommy's heart and the challenger's face twisted. Now a left hook! But Tommy's taking it and he's coming back for more! Zowie! Gibbons landed a left to the chin, and Jack felt it! It dropped him back on his heels.

They're fighting now, and both men missed with lefts. Ow! Ohhhh! Gibbons staggered him that time. He drove a left to the chin that had Jack wobbly for a minute—now they've rushed into a clinch and—Ohh! Dempsey drives in two hard right handers to the heart! Gibbons is holding on again, and Dempsey is beating him about the body with lefts and rights. Jack's got all the better of the clinches—(Gong!)

Interlude. Eleven more rounds have gone by, but Gibbons is still on his feet. Dempsey, despairing, punches, pounds, and pummels in vain. Gibbons will not go down. And into the fourteenth round they go . . . and once more we hear the story of our announcer.

Dempsey still has plenty of pep as he comes up to scratch for the fourteenth round. He rushed out across the ring and drew Gibbons into a clinch, and is beating him with rights and lefts around the body. Gibbons is only too glad to hold on. Dempsey has given Tommy nearly everything he has in the way of body punishment, but the challenger is still holding on grimly. He seems determined to last out the full fifteen rounds. Daugherty can't get 'em apart. Dempsey is keeping up his fusillade of blows. There's no stopping him. Gibbons is punched out, it seems, and he is taking everything the champion gives him without a murmur. Wuuup! Gibbons stuck out a left to Jack's face, and Jack comes back with more body blows. Clinch again!

Now Jack is rushing Tommy against the ropes and pouring them into him, rights and lefts, rights and lefts to the body, to the head, anywhere he can land 'em. But Tommy stays on his feet. The Dempsey punches cannot put him down! Ow! Jack drives a hard right hander to Gibbons' wind, and the crowd hoots—they think it's low. Zowie! Tommy tries with a left to the ear and lands, and they've clinched again! Jim Daugherty can't break 'em apart. Dempsey is beating Gibbons around the kidneys. They've clinched again and—Ow! Jack lands a hard right on Gibbons' face—and another!—and another! Clinch again! It's Tommy who's pushing this time—he's backing Dempsey into a neutral corner, but Jack—Ow! Jack drives him back with that right hand—one, two, three! Three right handers to Gibobns' head. Now Tommy is hanging on again! Ummh! Gibbons lands a left on Dempsey's head, and—Ohh! So does Dempsey—a smashing left to Gibbons' face. They—[Gong!]

There's the bell. I'll open the door now and let you hear that crowd. They're cheering Gibbons, cheering him for the game stand he's making against Dempsey. Cushions are flying all about the arena, and everybody's on their feet. There's only one more round, and it looks as if Gibbons will last it out. This gang's amazed. Here's the only man that lasted this way against the champion. Gibbons is pretty badly mussed up over there in his corner—his cheeks and mouth are swollen. Dempsey is bleeding from two cuts around the eyes, but is otherwise O. K. Both men are badly winded, but Gibbons is in the worst shape. Nevertheless, he has more endurance and stamina than any fighter the champion has ever faced!

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring for the last time. The fifteenth and last round of the fight is about to start! [Gong!]

Round fifteen! Dempsey is driving Gibbons around the ring with rights and lefts. He's determined to end it with a punch! Gibbons is clinching! Now they're broken, and Dempsey is chasing Gibbons, trying with lefts to the head. He's short. Now Dempsey has worked him to the ropes, and—Oh! Dempsey drives home rights and lefts to the body, to the head!—Tommy is wobbling. He's tying up the champions arms in a clinch. Gibbons is holding on, and Dempsey can't get his arms free for a good punch. Now Daugherty pulls them apart, but Gibbons goes right back into another clinch. They're breaking—Wow! Dempsey just missed an awful right to the face—Gibbons bobbed his head and saved himself. They're clinching again—come on, break 'em apart. Ow! Dempsey is beating Tommy about the head with both hands. Gibbons is staggering around the ring with Dempsey after him. Gibbons is going to stick it out! Ohhh! Dempsey tries a right to the face and—another right to the face!—and again! Gibbons is still on his feet. He's walking into another clinch. There's only a few seconds left. Tommy has not landed a blow this round! He's just going to stick it out! Whee! Jack drives home a left to Gibbons' face. Now they're sparring—[Gong!]

Sprightly, brilliant orchestral music and ballads of love and tenderness will form the program to be heard tonight at 8:15 o'clock over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The music will be furnished by an orchestra under Josef Pasternack's direction, while Max Bloch, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be the soloist.

This concert, the second of the new summer series, was especially prepared to be in tune with the rare days and evenings of which the poets sing. The soloist, Max Bloch, is one of the younger and more lyric of the Metropolitan Opera tenors and his contributions to the evening will be of a romantic type.

FAME, FORTUNE AWAIT INVENTOR OF MINE RADIO

Would Be Invaluable in Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A place in radio's hall of fame and probably a fortune await the man who will design wireless apparatus that can be used successfully in mine rescue work.

While the use of radio on land, at sea and in the clouds has advanced with amazing swiftness, its underground utilization has baffled engineers who have spent years in trying to devise a practical means of communicating with entombed miners.

Experts who have been conducting experiments for the bureau of mines since 1922 have reached the conclusion that radio as developed today does not solve the underground message problem.

Temporarily Abandon Efforts.

The bureau temporarily has abandoned its efforts to develop radio for this work and is concentrating on the improvement of the mine telephone and geophone as offering greater immediate usefulness.

However, if a small set capable of receiving and sending signals which penetrate the earth could be developed, the radio method would be superior to the other two, bureau officials say.

There are two obstacles to the feasibility of underground radio—penetration of the earth by the waves and designing a set which, while light, will be powerful enough to receive the feeble signals after penetration.

Although signals have been received at some depth in mines in the eastern part of the country, it was suspected they were carried into the mine through open shafts and over the wiring and piping systems. Actual penetration of strata was thus drowned out by signals received from shaft and metallic conductors.

Penetration is Slight.

In Colorado and other western states, however, there was considerable evidence of actual penetration of the earth. The states in which this occurred have an arid climate which means a dry overburden and constant increase in radio penetration, engineers say.

But it is believed the penetration is not strong enough to permit the use of sufficiently simple and light receivers to allow even one way communication in rescue work where speed and portability are essential.

The engineers also found that the apparatus required for transmitting messages out of the mine would be so cumbersome that it would be virtually useless in rescue work.

JANET FAIRBANK SPEAKS TUESDAY IN W-G-N SERIES

Janet Fairbank, young Chicago novelist, will speak from W-G-N on the Tribune station's Women's club program next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the series of addresses by Chicago authors which THE TRIBUNE is offering its listeners.

The series is intended to awaken in Chicago's reading public the realization that the city is a literary center. Today, artists are capably continuing the tradition established by George Ade, George Barr McCutcheon, and Eugene Field, and more recently followed by Ring Lardner, Ben Hecht, and Carl Sandburg.

Arthur Meeker Jr., Mary Synon, and Marion Strobel are among those who have already been on the air over W-G-N. Mr. Meeker's recent novel "American Beauty," a treatment of Chicago society life, has achieved wide popularity, and Marion Stroebel has leaped into the top ranks of American poets with her "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Lost City." Mary Synon is the author of "The Good Red Bricks" and a prominent short story writer.

The day has arrived:

At 10 o'clock this morning the hundreds of Chicago boys who have been working for weeks in preparing their entries for the second annual model airplane meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will have the opportunity of putting their creations to the test.

The weather permitting, the sky above the big meadow in Washington park will receive throughout the day an assortment of miniature white winged planes, each a bit different from its companions and each vying for Chicago championship honors.

The entry list contains many names made familiar at last year's meet. Along with the veterans will be a host of new mechanics who have worked painstakingly with their craft and who feel their chances at the medals and trophies, to say nothing of the trip to Detroit, are as good as anybody's. And so they are. It is a thrilling new game in which new tricks are being learned every day and some absolutely hitherto unknown may have fashioned the plane that will today outfly all its fellows.

Answers Propeller Question.

Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the Airplane Model League of America, who for many weeks past has, through these columns, advised readers on model airplane construction in leading up to the local and national contests, wishes at this time to set at rest a worry that has arisen in the minds of many builders as to the best length for propellers.

Mr. Hamburg said there isn't any "best length."

"Expert model makers," said Mr. Hamburg, "have found that different lengths and different types of propellers simply enable their models to do different things. A short, slim-bladed propeller is whirled by the twisted rubber motor at high speed, and consequently draws the plane rapidly. It isn't good for duration, naturally.

"On the other hand, long propellers move more slowly, they strike more air resistance and so retard the unwinding of the motor. There is a point, of course, at which the added length becomes a disadvantage rather than an advantage. Too long a prop will whirl so slowly that it won't pull the plane.

"A number of the members of the league are working on the so-called 'butter-paddle' propellers. These props are unconventional in design; they flare sharply from the hub, and have very broad, untapered blades. Their great surface causes them to move slowly. Others, however, favor the long bladed, slim propeller. Every expert has his own favorite, and only his own experiments will tell him how to get best results from it."

Everybody Learns Something.

There will be disappointments today, but is was discovered last year that disappointment is only temporary with those who build planes. Also, there will be unexpected successes. One thing is certain: Every boy who has entered the contest and who is serious in his efforts will leave the field wiser about model making.

A week from today come the indoor events to be held at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. There will be two events at that time—indoor R. O. G. duration; indoor traction duration. With these events THE TRIBUNE contest will be brought to a close. The forty-eight medals and two trophies will be awarded, and it will be decided which two Chicago boys will represent their city at the national contest in Detroit, June 20-22.

All expenses of the two trips to Detroit will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Contestants will be wise in being on hand early this morning, for, under the rules, all contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock. Many of the same judges who had charge at last year's meet again will officiate.

Milwaukee Av. to Strut Out in a New Suit

A drive to improve the appearance of Milwaukee avenue is now in progress under the auspices of the Milwaukee, Armitage, Western Business association, Stewart Van Berschot, secretary, announced yesterday. By encouraging large business establishments to settle in the community, by aiding in renting vacant stores and by getting rid of rickety structures along the street, officials of the association hope to effect a distinct amelioration in the aspect of the community as well as improve business. Past efforts along these lines have been decidedly successful, according to Mr. Van Berschot.

Other propositions in which the association is interested are the improvement of the paving along Milwaukee avenue, the elimination of car switching at Milwaukee and Armitage avenues, adequate traffic control at busy street intersections of the neighborhood, and an improved lighting system along Milwaukee avenue from California to Western avenues.

Loop Banker Speaks.

Frederick Heuchling, vice president of the Foreign National bank, addressed members of the association at a meeting held last Monday in the American Bank and Trust company building, 1939 Milwaukee avenue. Mr. Heuchling spoke on "Relations Between Banks and Business Men." This was the first meeting held in the assembly room in the bank building. Other speeches were made and a discussion followed.

The final report of the chairman of the special transportation committee, Manuel Goldberger, was given. Mr. Goldberger outlined the views of the association on the feeder bus question. Some months ago he appeared before the Illinois commerce commission at which time he urged feeder buses as a measure of temporary relief and requested that no third party be allowed to install coaches with an extra fare. The association wants additional transportation furnished by the surface lines with no extra fare. It is also the contention of the association that the motor coach lines as now routed do not serve the Milwaukee Armitage and Western avenues district.

Officers of Association.

The officers are: President, Charles E. Stevens; vice president, Bert Hamburg; treasurer, Bert Gunderlock; and secretary, Stewart Van Berschot. Mr. Stevens is now serving his sixth term as president. The members of the board of managers are William J. Kolacek, Joseph Grossman, William H. Habeger, Henry F. Anspach, John Freislinger, William Lambrecht Jr., Nicholas Colsberger and the secretary of the association. Meetings are held once a month. The board, however, assembles every week.

The association was organized about twenty years ago. Otto Hartwig was the first president, and succeeding heads of the organization were John S. Edwards, William Kolacek, William Lambrecht Jr., Martin Graue, and Mr. Stevens, the present incumbent.

An outing sponsored by the association is being planned for July. It will be held at Shermerville, Ill., and about 100 people are expected to attend. Not only members of the association, but also their friends and other business men of the community will be present.

Choir to Sing Takeoff on Miles Standish's Courtship

The choir of Glen Ellyn Methodist Episcopal church will present a comic opera, "The Captain of Plymouth," next Thursday evening in Glenbard High school and auditorium. Mrs. Inez Hubbard Hicks is directing the performance. The operetta is a takeoff on Longfellow's "The Courtship of Miles Standish." Roy Drew will sing the role of Capt. Standish, with a chorus of twelve soldiers. P. M. Black will take the part of John Alden, and Miss Vera Pastor will sing Priscilla. The picture shows some of the singers. Left to right: Mrs. Avice Rideout, Mrs. Kathryn Baxter, Mrs. Ida Bullock, Walter Greenhold, Mrs. Edna Canfield, Charles Jorgeson, Miss Doris Hole, Charles Rideout and Miss Louise Koeck.

Girls' Failings Revealed in Health Week

Twenty-nine per cent of the girls at Oak Park and River Forest township high school use makeup excessively. Twenty-five per cent chew gum habitually. Fifteen per cent have the nail biting habit.

Out of 682 girls who underwent tests, only 125 eat well balanced lunches. Examination revealed that 103 of the girls have distorted feet.

These census figures of the school were compiled in connection with the annual "health week." Girls in the gymnasium classes were urged to take immediate steps to improve this record.

Young Girls Chief Offenders.

Of the girls using excessive makeup, Mrs. F. G. Martin, head of the gym department, estimated that about three-fourths are freshmen and sophomores.

As a climax to "health week," there was a "play day" celebration at Oak Park High school yesterday. Nine schools participated.

The students came from Hinsdale, La Grange, Morton, Proviso, Riverside, Maine, Waukegan, Deerfield and Oak Park High schools.

Play Just for Fun.

Each school sent sixteen girls. Instead of holding interscholastic events, the day was spent in playing just for the fun of playing.

The teams indulged in relay races, tennis, horseshoes, archery and baseball.

Following luncheon the finals were held in the various matches. The day wound up with a party in the gym.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

TRULY, culture is but a veneer. Stephen Stepanski, cough medicine vendor, has a family of highly educated fleas — Romeo and Juliet, the parents, and Henry and Ophelia, offspring. Every advantage has been theirs—refined surroundings, private tutoring, tender care. Recently, in their luxuriously upholstered cigar box theater, they have been uplifting the cause of Thespis, Terpsichore and mucous membrane at Milwaukee and Sawyer avenues, Logan square. It was during a matinée performance last week. Art was at its height. A common collie belonging to Mrs. Max Aronowitz of 3205 Milwaukee avenue happened along, and with a unanimous atavistic impulse they hopped out of the shrine of culture onto the beast's waging tail.

Bill Diggetz, our patent law expert, is back from Florida with a remarkable story. He did not catch a tarpon; he did not make a hole in one club, and he did not let a single drink pass his lips—not one. Bill did go deep sea fishing and lost the biggest whale he ever saw. As he fired the harpoon the cetacean went into reverse gear instead of high speed forward, as is its wont, and the weapon missed its mark by fully a furlong. Bill figures the whale slipped its clutch.

MICHAEL, NEE MIKE, J. SENNA, proprietor of the Senna barber shop at 4253 West Madison street, is celebrating his twentieth year of service at the chair at that location, and needless to say is receiving the congratulations of his countless friends. We understand Mark Fisher even got a special hair-trim. Mike says he has no fear of the talkies cutting into the barber business as long as the weather holds out.

Thomas A. Jackson, the genial storage and van man and impresario of the four horsemen of piano movers, interests us mightily with a contribution on the vernacular of that craft. Pianos generally are called "fiddles"; grand pianos are "babies"; the different floors of apartments are "shelves"; all stairways are "ladders," sometimes "flights"; the carrier with a roller is a "dolly" or a "buggy"; a heavy piano is "soggy" or "nailed to the floor"; the man that carries the front end of the piano upstairs is the "topman"; the one that carries the back "the heavy corner man," and the one in front the "keyboard man."

ONE difference between the modern girl and the old fashioned girl is that the o. f. girl always looked under the bed before retiring, says Miss Florence Mahneke of the 7A grade, Nathaniel Hawthorne school, Oak Park, comparing the two. They've certainly changed, Florence. Why, we know from personal observation that the modern girl can jump faster and higher than grandmamma ever dreamed of at sight of a mouse.

Prelate Talks Against Prohibition Before Club

The Rt. Rev. Frederic E. J. Lloyd, primate of the American Catholic church, discussed prohibition before members of the Austin Lions club at the Austin Y. M. C. A., Central avenue and Race street, last Wednesday noon. The Rev. Mr. Lloyd, one time member of the Illinois legislature, has been speaking throughout the country against prohibition during the last few years. His contention is that the law is a curtailment of human liberty and should be repealed. He believes firmly, however, in temperance, and would never recomemnd the return of the saloon, he says.

W. SIDERS O. K. IMPROVEMENTS OF $4,500,000

Fight to Continue Against Some.

Ordinances for nine west side improvements, costing a total of more than $4,500,000, were ordered published and deferred by the city council on Wednesday, and will be passed at the next meeting, according to the usual procedure. These nine projects were approved at a hearing held by the board of local improvements on May 10.

Although objections of property owners were overruled by Michael J. Faherty president of the board, in a number of cases and the projects went on record as approved, it was indicated that trouble will be encountered before the improvements are made and some probably will have to be deferred or abandoned by the board. Two were ordered abandoned at the hearing and three were deferred for one year.

The proposed $2,566,000 Monroe street sewer system for the near west side was approved despite vigorous opposition by Ald. George M. Maypole [28], Guy Cramer, executive secretary of the West Central association, and property owners of the district. They sought to have the project deferred for a year, but their objections were not heeded by Mr. Faherty. He challenged them to bring in a petition signed by a majority of the property owners.

Cite Plan to Widen Monroe.

Ald. Maypole asked for the delay on the ground that his constituents were already burdened too heavily with taxes and special assessments for the still uncompleted Western avenue widening to pay for another project. Furthermore, he pointed out, if Monroe street is widened as is contemplated, the street would again have to be torn up, and property owners would suffer a double inconvenience.

Mr. Cramer likewise asserted that he could not see how the board could wish to put $2,500,000 worth of work into the street when its improvement within the near future was almost a certainty.

The Devon avenue sewer system to serve the newly annexed northern portion of the 41st ward was approved without dissent. Engineer C. D. Hill told the board that there is a unanimous desire for the improvement in the district to be served by it. The project will cost $733,000.

Residents of Addison Heights, newly annexed territory in the 39th and 41st wards, attended the hearing in a body of more than 75, bringing banners and signs demanding a sewer. The board, contrary to the usual procedure, was greeted with cheers when it declared the project approved. The improvement will cost $1,032,000.

A small sewer in Sunnyside avenue between Long and Central avenues was approved without opposition. The project will cost $4,200.

Two Paving Projects Dropped.

Two northwest side paving projects were ordered abandoned. Improvement of Keystone avenue between Avondale and Grace street was abandoned at the request of Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th]. This is a street one block long, he told the board, and does not need paving.

Paving of Lawrence avenue between Austin avenue and Narragansett avenue was abandoned at the request of Ald. Thomas J. Bowler [41st], on the ground that the paving was unnecessary because the street has not been opened yet. If it is not opened to the east it cannot be paved, he said.

Ald. Frank R. Ringa [39th], succeeded in having the board defer the improvement of the alley bounded by Cornelia, Newport, Lavergne, and Laramie avenues until property owners have had an opportunity to decide definitely whether they want the improvement.

Also deferred were projects to pave Grace street from Richmond avenue to Kedzie avenue; and Barry avenue between Narragansett avenue and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

Paving Jobs Approved.

Pacing projects approved are:

Linder avenue between Belmont avenue and Addison street, at a cost of $67,500.

Major avenue between Newport and Belmont avenues; and sections of Melrose, Henderson, and Roscoe streets between Central and Menard avenues. This project will cost $124,500.

Although the board voted to approve this improvement, Ald. Ringa announced that his constituents desired a concrete pavement and not asphalt, as the board planned. Property owners present declared that their wishes had been entirely disregarded by the board.

Mr. Faherty replied that if a petition signed by a majority of the property owners on the street is submitted the board will amend the order.

Installation of water supply pipes in Central avenue between Gettysburg street and a line 167 feet north was approved. The improvement will cost $735.

Approval of property owners was given for proceedings for the opening of Leland avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues. Ald. Bowler said there were no objectors to this improvement.

RIVER FOREST SUNDAY CLUB WINS SUCCESS

Has Balance in Treasury; Plans for Second Year.

The River Forest Sunday Evening club, which has just closed its season, has grown, within one year, to be one of the largest organizations in River Forest.

The club, founded last fall largely through the efforts of Max A. Berns, has for its purpose the providing of inspiring and nonsectarian programs for "all people of all faiths." Speakers and musicians of note appearing each Sunday night on the programs have attracted audiences that often overtaxed the capacity of the largest auditorium in River Forest and necessitated overflow meetings. The club has more than 500 paid up members. It closed its first year with all bills paid and a balance in the treasury.

"The success of the new enterprise," said Mr. Berns, "can be credited chiefly to the ready coöperation extended by individuals and by every other organization in the village. The variety and excellence of the programs, of course, have appealed to the people, but behind the movement and largely responsible for its success is the coöperation that persons and groups have been quick to give."

Nonsectarian Idea Popular.

This coöperation from every element of the community has been more readily extended, it is said, because the club from its start has been nonsectarian in its organization and programs. Men from every church in the village and from other organizations are on its board of directors. Pastors of the four local churches rotate in offering the invocation and benediction which form a part of each program. Although the meetings are held in a church because it has the largest auditorium in the village, the denominational name of the church is never mentioned. The location is designated simply as Jackson and Quick avenues.

Representatives of all faiths have appeared on the programs during the last year. In the Sunday Evening News, published each week during the club season and mailed to every home in River Forest, news of all local churches, schools, and of other community groups is featured.

Attendance Totals 14,300.

Attendance during the club's first season totaled 14,300, or an average of 550 a meeting. At two programs the attendance was more than 1,000 and demanded overflow meetings. In addition to the quality of the programs another reason for the popularity of the new organization is said to be the fact that it is the only place in the village where every one, both men and women, both old and young, and of whatever faith, can regularly meet on a common basis and together enjoy inspiring and educational programs.

River Forest has not other Sunday evening church services.

"Great care," said Mr. Berns, "was exercised by the program committee in obtaining only high grade talent and in making the programs not only interesting, but also inspiring and instructive. For example, we had such speakers as E. H. Sothern, Shakespearian interpreter; Count Felix von Luckner, noted for his humanitarian and spectacular record in the world war; Ruth Bryan Owen, who is now in congress; Commander Donald MacMillan and Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorers; Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Dr. John M. Vander Meulen, president of Louisville seminary, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, Dean Shaller Mathews, Dr. George Craig Stewart, and Carveth Wells, known for his explorations in Malaysia, Africa, and Lapland.

Occasional Evening of Music.

"As most people like music, we had an occasional evening devoted entirely to music and heard such groups as the Gordon string quartet, the Kedroff male quartet of Russia, the famous Apollo club in 'The Messiah,' and the Fisk University Glee club, with typical Negro music. The wide variety and high character of the programs appealed to the residents of every taste and made the meetings popular as well as helpful."

The meetings of the club were open to every one in the village. Annual subscriptions were $10 a year. Offerings were taken at the meetings.

Plans are now being made and talent is being engaged for next season, which begins Oct. 6. The newly elected board of directors consists of the following: Max A. Berns, president; Ben H. Badenoch and Albert E. Webster, vice presidents; John A. Klesert, secretary-treasurer; B. W. Armstrong, J. R. Britton, Louis J. Cross, H. J. Doherty, W. S. Gerts, Dr. R. H. Good, Frank W Hughes, Otto H. Luhman, Dr. L. B. Phelps, Walter C. Rattray, and F. J. Thielbar, directors.

St. Catherine Students Win Commercial Contests

St. Catherine's High school, Washington boulevard and Central avenue, was first in three events and second in the fourth in the recent elimination contest to pick eligibles for the Illinois state commercial contest. Violet Proteau won the individual first year single period typing contest, rating 47.5 words a minute for 15 minutes. Margaret Mattes was given first rating in shorthand with a grading of 97 per cent for 400 words dictation at 80 words per minute. The first year team of St. Catherine's won the typing contest and the shorthand team took second honors with a rating of 96.2 per cent.

Church Folks to Revive "Lilac Time in Elmhurst"

Some 250 Christian Endeavorers from Oak Park and Austin will gather in Elmhurst tomorrow to revive an old annual event known as "Lilac Time in Elmhurst." The Christian Endeavor society of the First Evangelical church is entertaining. This rally is always the biggest event of the year and is returning to the city of elms after a four year absence. A banquet which is held first will be followed by a big rally in the church auditorium. The special guests of the evening will be the Chicago union president, Harry Saminier, together with each member of his cabinet.

Assure Permanence of Sunday Evening Club

Permanence of the River Forest Sunday Evening club is regarded as assured after its first year. The officers and directors of the club are shown above. Seated, left to right: Max A. Berns, president; Ben H. Badenoch, vice president; John A. Klesert, secretary-treasurer; Albert E. Webster, vice president; J. R. Britton. Standing: W. S. Gerts, Walter C. Rattray, B. W. Armstrong, H. J. Doherty, Dr. L. B. Phelps, F. J. Thielbar, Dr. R. H. Good, and Otto H. Luhman.

Carts Cut Pavements, So Havana Bans Them

HAVANA.—(AP)—The narrow rimmed carts, long characteristic of Cuban roads, have been ruled off the new paved streets of this city because they cut up the surfaces faster than it can be relaid.

ANSWERS

Quotation—What's the constitution between friends?

Answer—This was said by Tim Campbell to Grover Cleveland in 1883. Timothy J. Campbell, a Democrat, represented a lower east side New York district in the state senate. When Cleveland became governor of New York state in 1883 Campbell made a request for the appointment of several ward heelers to offices. When Cleveland pointed out to him that to make the appointments would be to violate the state constitution, Tim replied: "What's the constitution between friends?"—Charles Simon, 1900 Estes avenue, Chicago.

Quotation—Much may be made of a Scotchman if he be caught young.

Answer—This was said by Dr. Samuel Johnson [1709-1784], English lexicographer. I found the quotation in James Boswell's "Life of Johnson." In the chapter concerned with the year 1772 Boswell writes: "He [Dr. Johnson] would not allow Scotland to derive any credit from Lord Mansfield; for he was educated in England. 'Much,' said he, 'may be made of a Scotchman, if he be caught young.'"

William Murray, first earl of Mansfield [1705-1793], was an English judge, the son of David Murray, a Scottish politician.—E. Shannon Adams, 3712 South Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, Ill.

Answer—This saying is credited to a drummer boy in Napoleon's army at the battle of Marengo, Italy, on June 14, 1800. Napoleon reached the field to find his advance corps beaten by the Austrians and in full retreat. Just as the day appeared lost for the French, young Gen. Desaix arrived on the field with his cavalry and halted near the place where Napoleon stood. There was in the corps a drummer boy whom Desaix had picked up on the streets of Paris. As the line halted, so the story goes, Napoleon shouted to the drummer boy, "Beat a retreat!" The boy did not stir. Again the commander shouted, "Gamin, beat a retreat!" The boy stepped forward, grasped his drumsticks, and said, "Sire, I have not learned to beat a retreat. But I can beat a charge that will make the very dead fall into line. May I beat it here?"

A moment later the corps swept down on the Austrians. Desaix was slain, but his men won the battle for Napoleon.—René Sherwin, 546 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

CIVIC ASSEMBLY TO BE CLIMAX OF BOYS' WEEK

Medals to Be Presented to Young Leaders.

The climax of Boys' week, which begins in Chicago today, will occur Friday night when community leaders in business, industrial and professional life will gather at the Auditorium theater for a massive civic assembly where high school boys already giving promise of becoming civic leaders in Chicago will be given public recognition.

The various west side community centers of the Austin, Garfield park, Albany park, Wicker park, Norwood park, Logan square, Jefferson park, and other communities all will send leaders in their associations as delegates to the assembly. These representatives will meet at the nearest school building in order to attend the assembly in a body, and the representatives of each community will sit beneath a banner announcing their home district.

Each district will have a boy representative chosen by members of the community center in conference with school officials. The boy will be taken from the high school or junior high school in the district, and in some cases two boys have been selected from one school where one school district includes several communities.

Rosenwald to Present Medals.

Medals will be awarded the boys and pinned on their breasts by Julius Rosenwald in behalf of the civic spirited people of Chicago. Scholarships in political and social science are also to be publicly presented to the three high school senior boys who top the list of all the other representatives selected, and other honors will be accorded the prospective civic leaders of the future.

This civic assembly, the second held this year, is part of the program planned by the Boys' week committee in recognition of the boy in school and citizenship, which is the subject which has been designated for that day of Boys' week. At the assembly Miss Jane Addams will speak on "The Public School: the Safeguard to Democracy."

Distinguished citizens of the present as well as those of the future will be recognized publicly at the assembly. Among those who will receive this honor are: Col. A. A. Sprague, Mr. Rosenwald, Michael Zimmer, warden of the Cook county hospital; Judges Albert B. George and Francis B. Allegretti of the Municipal court, and Burridge Butler, chairman of the Union League club foundation for boys and publisher of the Prairie Farmer.

Pageant to Be Presented.

A civic pageant arranged and directed by Miss Johanna Doniat of Senn High school will also be presented as part of the program.

The assembly is only one of the high lights of the program prepared for Friday. A spectacle and demonstration at Soldiers' field, beginning at 12:45 o'clock, in which more than 50,000 boys and girls from the schools are expected to take part, will provide the first part of this day's activities. There will be a parade, with floats representing every school, park, and many boys' clubs and other organizations of boys. There will be drills by the R. O. T. C. bands, which will play in unison; athletic events, and demonstrations by other high school boys' groups.

The fire department, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, will stage a real fire, showing the modern methods of fighting conflagration. Ancient apparatus from hand operated pumps to horse drawn engines, as well as the modern motor equipment, will be exhibited and put into action. Following this a music festival, in which high school bands, orchestras, and glee clubs will have a part, will be held at the Studebaker theater.

ANTI-MOSQUITO WAR DECLARED IN SUBDIVISIONS

Des Plaines Valley to Wipe Out Breeding Places.

The "subdivision mosquito" must go if the outlying districts of Chicago are to be rid of the insect tribe which is now preparing for its annual invasion. This edict was set forth by J. Lyell Clarke, sanitary engineer, at the recent meeting of the board of trustees of the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district, organized under a state law a year ago.

"Heretofore," says Mr. Clarke, "we have considered the nuisance as being entirely due to the Des Plaines river and Salt creek, but our findings last year show conclusively that negligence on the part of real estate subdividers is the principal cause of mosquito breeding in the populated territories."

Lists Breeding Ground.

Among the prolific breeding places of the subdivision mosquitoes cited by Mr. Clarke were the following tracts:

South of La Grange, between Brainard and East avenues.

North of Brookfield, between the Indiana Harbor Belt line and Maple avenue.

East of the Riverside Golf club, between First avenue and Maple avenue on both sides of Twenty-second street.

On both sides of North avenue in River Forest and Oak Park.

The facts procured from investigations have been placed before the various subdividers, said Mr. Clarke, and coöperation has been promised which will bring about drainage from the interior of the tracts to corner catch basins.

Increases with Population.

"The mosquito as a nuisance has increased with the increase of population," explains Mr. Clarke, "for without a 'blood meal' he cannot reproduce. We have pictured him as being due to the river and the steam because all the disease carrying type deposit their eggs on a water surface. We have been rid of the malarial mosquito in the Chicago vicinity for some ten years back. We still have the river mosquito to contend with after long dry spells, but the chief breeding places are now elsewhere.

"The river mosquito has been imported from the tropics. He is the house entering type. He thrives in polluted water because the fish—his enemy—have been killed.

"The subdivision mosquito goes after the gardener and the golfer. Water that stands for a week in a grassy area is enough for this mosquito to accomplish mass production. That she deposits her eggs in depressions—we know; perhaps she deposits them all over the ground. The eggs, we have found, may lie dormant for a year and hatch during the warm rains of the following year. When these rains come, the eggs hatch all at once and within an hour. And the average life of Mr. Subdivision Mosquito is thirty days.

300 Acres Oiled Last Year.

"After a rain has filled the depressions of a subdivision, the eggs will hatch within seven to ten days if the territory is not oiled. That is why this mosquito is such a burden. Eleven hundred acres of grassy territory were flooded in the district last year and—within the period allowed to combat the menace—we could oil only 300 of the acres.

"Aside from the subdivision problem, there are, of course, numberless wet lots between houses. It is difficult to take care of the individual wet lot situation, but the subdivision problem is something that permits of advantageous coöperation.

"There are probably 135 species of mosquitoes in the United States," adds the engineer. "There are about 35 species in Illinois. There are about 18 different species in the Chicago area. Perhaps of the 18 species, but six give trouble.

Mass Production.

"The mosquito of the polluted streams winters in sheltered places. The female lays from 150 to 300 eggs. The batch will emerge within 12 days under proper conditions. That batch will pyramid. The peak of production is reached about the middle of July.

"It is not an easy battle. The mosquito was here early and, as I have said before, has increased with the increase in population. The past year, however, has given us an opportunity to learn the habits and ways of the various species that infest the district, and this knowledge gives us the chance to combat their ways. If we can do away with the breeding grounds of the subdivisions we will, I feel, have taken, a big step toward ultimate victory."

The official campaign to abate the mosquito nuisance for the benefit of citizens in the Des Plaines valley has been undertaken by a duly appointed board composed of the following: Dr. S. S. Fuller of Riverside, president; Don H. Badenoch, River Forest, secretary; Otto McFeely, Oak Park, treasurer; Walter P. Saunders, La Grange; Dr. Robert L. Reynolds, Maywood; J. Lyell Clarke, Riverside, engineer; Thurlow G. Essington, Chicago, attorney.

Covers Large Area.

The Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district includes an area of 76.5 square miles, and has a population of 200,000 people. Its topography for the most part is flat with some hilly sections. The Des Plaines river—a polluted stream—flows south through its entire length, while Salt creek—also a polluted stream—comes down from the northwest and joins the Des Plaines river near the center of the district.

There are twenty-two villages in the district. A laboratory is maintained at district headquarters in Riverside, where all experiments are carried on.

The streams of the district were flushed often last year. Breeding in the Des Plaines river was controlled. A severe test, however, was placed upon those engaged in house-to-house inspection. A summary of this inspection disclosed that of the 97 lily ponds not stocked with fish, 73 per cent were found to contain larvae at some time during the season, in the majority of cases early in the spring. Larvae were found in 55 per cent of all barrels, 50 per cent of all pools and 30 per cent of all receptacles.

GRACE CHURCH TO CELEBRATE 25TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Today marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Grace Evangelical Community church, Wrightwood and Kimball avenues. Festivities will open with a morning service preached by Dr. G. B. Kimmel, president of the Evangelical Theological seminary, whose subject is "The Church a Vital Factor in Community Life." Supper will be served at 6 o'clock by the ladies Aid society to members and friends of the church and a male quartet, "Old Timers," will sing several numbers, followed by informal discussion of the early days.

The Rev. J. Alfred Nansen, pastor of the church for the last seven years, will be the speaker at the evening service. The church orchestra, under the direction of W. H. Wilton, assisted by the quartet, will give a special musical program.

The entire church has been renovated for the occasion with a new paneled ceiling, rebuilt choir and pulpit loft and the auditorium redecorated. Mrs. J. J. Hoffman, one of the charter members, is expected to read at the morning service, a history of the church from its beginnings with but nine members and no church building to the present day.

Favors Using School Land in Austin.

The board of education holdings in Austin should not be sold to permit the building up of the district between Addison street, Roosevelt road adn Cicero and Laramie avenues, but should be held by the board and used as a site for a great municipal college. William J. Bartholf, president of Crane Junior college, made this statement before members of the West Side Kiwanis club at the Midwest Athletic club last Tuesday and asked the club to back a movement to get such a college for the west side.

"Residents of Austin are demanding the sale of the school land which has remained vacant for many years on the ground that it retards progress and keeps the community from being either a prosperous business center or desirable residence section," he said.

Would Boom Business.

"If a large municipal college were built on the land, it would mean more to the west side than the sale of the property for private use. A municipal college such as New York and other large cities have would bring more than 20,000 people a day into the west side," he continued. "This would certainly not block improvement, but would stimulate growth far better than would the sale of the land.

"A few million dollars spent for good educational buildings would be an expenditure of great benefit to the west side and would at the same time provide facilities for higher education now lacking in our city," Mr. Bartholf concluded.

Following Mr. Bartholf's informal message, the group was addressed by Christian C. Paschen, building commissioner. He continued in the same strain by saying that the west side was afforded at the present time its greatest opportunity to forge ahead over other sections of the city.

More than 200 hotels and large apartment buildings have sprung up on the west side in the last two years, he said, and residents of the district should do all in their power to make it still more desirable as a center of population.

Other Communities Overbuilt.

The north and south sides are already overbuilt, leaving the west side as the best prospective center of population and business in the future, he said.

When the new building code is completed and put into operation by his department, Mr. Paschen said, it will be possible to construct buildings of every type cheaper in Chicago than anywhere else in the country. This code will probably be completed by August, he added. At that time it will be submitted to local groups throughout the city for their approval, and suggestions from them will be welcome, according to Mr. Paschen.

MOTHERS SEEK $1,000 TO SEND BAND TO DENVER

$5,000 Already in Fund for Harrison Boys' Trip.

Eighty-five mothers of players in the Harrison High school band are working on a last minute effort to complete a fund of $6,000 needed to send the band to Denver, Colo., next Tuesday morning to take part in the national high school band contest which will be held there Thursday.

With $5,000 already in the fund through the efforts of the women, students and local business men, a benefit day will be held at the Atlantic theater, 26th street and Crawford avenue, tomorrow to raise the remaining $1,000 necessary to pay for the trip. Tickets are being sold throughout the entire Lawndale district, and Schoenstead Brothers, owners of the theater, have given over the house for tomorrow's five performances.

Entire District Coöperates.

The money rasing campaign at the school last week, which netted the $5,000, included concerts by the band, a play, and an organized drive to obtain contributions from local business men.

The entire district is coöperating in the drive, according to Mrs. Joseph Jakes, president of the Harrison Band Mothers' club. Other women in the group active in the work are:

A committee on arrangements includes: Mrs. Jakes, Roderick A. Ginsburg, and Leonard Serdiuk of the Harrison Alumni association; Joseph Klicka, president of the southwest chamber of commerce; Ald. John Toman [24th] and Anton J. Cermak, president of the Cook county board.

Another committee working among students of the school in a separate campaign includes: Edward Bartik, Charles Bendler, Louis Copek, and Tony Rudnick of the student body, and Fred Bienkinsopp, dean of boys, representing the faculty.

Leave Tuesday Morning.

The band will lead a group of more than 1,000 students to the theater tomorrow afternoon, and if sufficient funds are raised, they will board a train for Denver Tuesday morning.

Harrison's musicians became eligible to enter the national competition for the first time recently when they placed second in the Chicago High school band contest. John H. Barabash is director of the group.

DEDICATE TODAY FIRST UNIT OF GARDEN CHURCH

Western Springs Plant to Be Finished This Year.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

THE REV. JOHN WELLS RAHILL.

This morning will be dedicated the church unit of the new First Congregational church of Western Springs. Dedication ceremonies will extend throughout the week.

The structure, handsome in design and with a landscaping plan expected to cause it to be called "A Church in the Garden," has been built at an approximate cost of $100,000 and fulfills what has been a dream of the congregation for a decade. According to plans, the total enterprise, which will include a second unit providing equipment for a church school and social activities, will be completed sometime this year.

Although Western Springs has seen great development recently, its charm has been carefully retained, and George T. Elmslie, architect of the building to be dedicated today, has considered the restful surroundings in working out an adaptation of the Gothic English village church. Eventually there is to be a set of chimes in the tower.

The new edifice, built of Lannon stone of cruciform shape, takes the place of the quaint wooden structure at Grant avenue and Chestnut street which has served for fifteen years. The new church is located on Chestnut street, between Woodland and Central avenues.

Noted Ministers to Speak.

The dedication services start this morning with a consecration service, the sermon to be preached by the Rev. Robert J. Locke, D. D., superintendent of the Congregational churches of Illinois. In the afternoon there will be a dedication address by the Rev. Ernest G. Guthrie, D. D., general director of the Chicago City Missionary and Extension society. This will be followed by the ritual of dedication by the people, chorus chair, and pastor, the Rev. John Wells Rahill.

Wednesday night at 8 o'clock will be held a community recognition service sponsored by the Pilgrim club. The address on this occasion will be given by the Rev. Vernon W. Cooke of Peoria, Ill. A reception in honor of the Rev. Mr. Cooke, a former pastor of the Western Springs church, will follow the address.

On Friday night the new organ will be dedicated when there will be a recital by William C. Barnes, and Eugene Dressler, tenor, will be heard in a group of songs. The $10,000 organ was made possible by the gift of the late Horace A. Stocker of Western Springs.

The Rev. W. E. Gilroy Next Sunday.

The address next Sunday morning will be given by the Rev. George L. Cady of New York City, and the afternoon service will be conducted by the Rev. William E. Gilroy of Boston, editor in chief of the Congregationalist. The Congregational churches of greater Chicago will be invited to send pastors and delegates to worship with the Western Springs folk on this occasion.

F. G. Carrel was general chairman of the building committee for the new church. Charles Graham was vice chairman. Other members were Charles Breed, planning; Fred Reeve, finance; the late Thomas A. Ford, building, and E. C. Patterson, campaign fund. As chairman of subcommittee for campaign funds Mr. Patterson raised the sum of $76,000 in pledges.

The original building fund consisted of a sum left in 1918 by the late Horace A. Stocker which has grown until it has reached $16,000.

Much credit is given the Lyonsville Congregational church and one of its pastors, the Rev. J. C. Armstrong, for the beginnings of the Western Springs church. The Lyonsville church early instituted preaching services in the village, usually on Sunday afternoon, in a school house on Chestnut street.

In 1883 an organization was formed, called the Western Spring Christian association, which soon included a number of religiously inclined, among them several Friends. John L. Atwater, J. S. Brockway and John C. McClelland were largely responsible for bringing about this organization. Lyonsville continued to send over its preachers and meetings were held with considerable regularity.

Church Organized in 1887.

In 1887, however, the Friends having built a church of their own, a meeting was called for the purpose of considering an organization of the Congregational form. Forty-six persons promised to unite with such a church. The council held to further the establishment of the church contained the names of the Rev. J. C. Armstrong, the Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, the Rev. Arthur Little, the Rev. W. B. Silence, the Rev. J. Montgomery, and Robert Vial.

In December, 1887, the Rev. P. W. Perry was called as pastor and services were held in the school house. When the trustees decided to move the school building and make room for the stone structure now standing at Grand avenue and Chestnut street, the organization found itself without a home. To meet the emergency, Mr. Atwater offered the use of a tent which was set up on his lawn. That was the celebrated locust year, and often in the summer Sunday evenings the din of myriads of insects was a queer accompaniment to the preaching and singing. Also as fall approached the chilly nights caused the worshipers to shiver.

The school house was finished by September, except for a large upper room to be used as a school hall. A fund raised for a new church was diverted to the purpose of finishing the hall, in return for which the church was given the use of the room without further charge.

First Building Erected in 1895.

When the time came that the school board desired to use part of the hall for a needed school room, thoughts of a new home began to take shape. A lot was donated, funds were generously given and in June, 1895, the church on Grand avenue was completed. A pulpit Bible, donated at this time by Mrs. Martha Wells, remained in use until 1926.

Following the Rev. Mr. Perry as pastor, the Rev. F. P. Jolley, a student in Chicago Theological seminary, served for a year. He was succeeded by the Rev. H. Jay Withington, who continued until 1903, the Rev. William S. Wescott served from 1904 until 1909. Then came the Rev. W. W. Schumaker of the Lyonsville church, who remained until 1916.

It was in 1916 that Dr. Perry, beloved pioneer pastor, died. The Ladies' Social circle asked that an organ fund then being raised, be made the nucleus of a memorial to Dr. Perry and this was favorably voted upon by the church.

Former Pastor Aided in War.

The Rev. Ralph Andre Harris became pastor in 1916. When the world war came, the Rev. Mr. Harris was given a leave of absence that he might work with the Y. M. C. A. in France. The church lost one of its staunch members—Harry G. Maxted—in battle, and it is after him that the local Legion post is named. The Rev. Mr. Harris, returning from the war, continued in his pastorate, being succeeded in 1920 by the Rev. Vernon W. Cooke.

It was during the Rev. Mr. Cook's pastorate, that steps were taken toward building a new church. The present pastor, the Rev. Mr. Rahill, has worked arduously for the culmination of the congregation's hopes and he has been aided by a group of enthusiastic and practical minded men.

The Rev. Mr. Rahill became pastor in September, 1926. Born in Cleveland, O., in 1889, he was graduated from Williams college in 1912 and from Yale in 1916. During the world war he was engaged in war service in Russia. Returning home, the Rev. Mr. Rahill, was called to the pastorate of Central Congregational church in Topeka, Kas., a church made famous by the ministry of Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps"—and during his pastorate in Topeka, the Charles M. Sheldon community house was built.

Today is a day of rejoicing for the energetic and able young pastor and for the congregation—some of whom recall the services held in the cramped seats of the schoolhouse and in the chilly tent.

"The Church in the Garden" is an achievement of which the entire village can be justly proud.

TELLS DETAILS OF NEW PLAN OF STREET REPAIR

Wolfe Addresses Letter to West Side Clubs.

What west side property owners may expect in the matter of resurfacing streets by special assessment, according to the plan of Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, was outlined in a message sent to more than 100 civic groups of the west side Wednesday.

"To relieve the property owners from the heavy expense of an entirely new street, the following plan is presented," the commissioner said:

"If the citizens owning property fronting on a macadam street desire to have the street resurfaced and will make application to the commissioner of public works for such resurfacing, indicating that they will pay the cost, the commissioner will cause a careful estimate of the cost of the resurfacing to be made.

"This estimate will be furnished the citizens, and if they will collect the funds and deposit the same with the city, a permit will be issued for the street so designated to be resurfaced.

"The asphaltic mixture will be sold to the citizens by the city asphalt plants at the price of $10 per ton delivered on the job.

"A certified statement will be prepared covering the weight of the mixture delivered and used, and the exact expense of labor in connection with the resurfacing work. If there is a balance due the citizens it will be refunded. There will be no charge for general supervision or use of equipment, and the citizens will secure a resurfaced street for the bare cost of materials and actual cost of labor.

"The cost of the work is approximately $2.30 per square yard of pavement laid. Depending on conditions, the cost per front foot to the property owner on each side of a 30 foot street will be from $4.10 to $5."

Cite Greater Power of Bigger Organization.

To ascertain sentiment on the proposed formation of a central chamber of commerce on the northwest side a reporter of THE TRIBUNE interviewed three representative northwest side men last week. The idea has been discussed over a long period, but no definite steps toward organization of such a body have been taken. Sentiment is for the most part favorable towards the proposition. Now it remains for some individual or organization to instigate action.

One of the prominent northwest side men who was asked to give an opinion was Ralph F. Kopperschmidt, president of the Empire Trust and Saving bank, Crawford avenue at Milwaukee avenue, and head of the Milwaukee, Crawford and Belmont Business association. It is Mr. Kopperschmidt's belief that there are numerous leaders in business on the northwest side capable of getting such an organization started. He advocates the establishment of headquarters and the selection of a secretary on salary to handle the affairs of the chamber.

Cites Power in Unity.

"I like the idea both in theory and execution," he said. "It would represent a large majority of the people and would get consideration for its various projects where a smaller organization wouldn't get to first base. I like the pattern of the West Town chamber of commerce. Members of that organization have accomplished a great deal. Of course a centralized chamber here would need publicity. I don't believe in its having any sectional name, such as our own organization, the Crawford, Milwaukee and Belmont Business association, has. This part of the city is growing right along, now having such large concerns as the Olsen Rug company, the Hall Printing company and the Florsheim Shoe company."

The proposed chamber, according to Harry G. Weimer, member of the board of directors of the Central Northwest Business association, should serve the territory bounded by North avenue on the south, Western avenue on the east, Lawrence avenue on the north, and Narragansett avenue on the west. He pointed out that there are now 56 business men's associations and civic groups in the [illegible]th ward and adjacent territory.

Discussed by Several Groups.

"If all these organizations would consolidate, they would stand a much better chance of attaining their objectives. The proposed chamber should be similar to the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce. Committees representing such organizations as the Logan Square Business Men's association, the Avondale Chamber of Commerce, and the Fullerton Avenue Business Men's association have discussed the idea. Unfortunately they could never get together on a suitable name. The approximate center of the territory which the chamber would serve would be Milwaukee avenue and Crawford avenue, and there are plenty of available meeting places in that neighborhood."

Alfred A. Mueller, secretary of the Kimbell Trust and Savings bank, [illegible] Fullerton avenue, and president of the Fullerton Avenue Business Men's association, also voiced his approval of the suggested chamber. Like Mr. Kopperschmidt, he pointed out the added power such an organization would have in contrast to the limited influence the smaller clubs and associations now possess.

"We're all interested in constructive work," Mr. Mueller said. "But sometimes we haven't the power to get things done. I am very much in favor of the idea."

W. S. MILLER TO BE NEW SECRETARY OF LARRABEE "Y"

W. S. Miller, for seven years membership secretary of the Central Y. M. C. A., one of the three largest Y. M. C. A.'s in the world, is taking over the duties of executive secretary of the Larrabee-North avenue Y. M. C. A. as a result of a promotion to the executive group of the Chicago Y. M. C. A.

During Mr. Miller's service, the Central Y. M. C. A. has grown to an average membership of 7,000, a figure equaled by only two other Y. M. C. A.'s. He was responsible for a number of "Y" innovations and directed Pinewoods, the Central "Y" summer camp in Michigan. He will continue to direct Pinewoods this summer.

The Larrabee-North Avenue Y. M. C. A. is in an industrial district and recently has been rehabilitated at a cost of $50,000. It has full Y. M. C. A. service to serve the community and has a dormitory of 171 rooms. All the rooms and lobbies have been refurnished and a grand piano added.

BERWYN C. OF C. STARTS MEMBER DRIVE THIS WEEK

Goal Is 300 Names on Its Roll.

The membership drive recently announced by the Berwyn Chamber of Commerce is expected to get under way during the coming week, according to Arthur A. R. Nelson, chairman of the committee named to handle arrangements. With a total of more than 300 members as a goal, the committee will appeal to every merchant in the town. At the present time the enrollment is about 150, which is the greatest in the history of the organization.

"We expect to make a thorough canvass of all business men in Berwyn," Mr. Nelson said yesterday. "We're going to show them the advantages of coming into the chamber. An organization such as this is of no particular benefit unless all the merchants belong. I believe that the advantages are of exceptional value to the smaller merchant.

Location Is Advantage.

"Berwyn is in a very strategic position at the present time because of its location. Until now there has been no special effort to push the town such as has been the case in other communities. First of all, we want to make the people of Berwyn appreciate the availability of the town as a residential community. Then we'll convince others. As in so many other undertakings, we must educate our own people first."

Practically every large business institution in Berwyn will take part in the drive. The committee appointed to work with Mr. Nelson is made up of J. F. Martinek, James Klicman, George Byron and Harold Anderson.

Mayor Honorary Member.

Mayor Byron C. Thorpe has been selected as the 1929 honorary member of the chamber. Each year this distinction goes to some citizen chosen by the chamber.

Three petitions are being circulated among residents of Berwyn by the chamber. The first of these is a request for a new station at Berwyn on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. The second asks for a 24 hour watchman at the Berwyn crossings of the Chicago Rapid Transit company. The third requests the Berwyn city council to remove the "dust nuisance" from 22d street. According to officials of the chamber, hundreds of names have been signed to the three petitions.

McKinley High Gives 9th Annual Spring Festival

The ninth annual spring festival of McKinley High school was held at the school assembly hall last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Representatives of all classes took part. Several unusual drills and dances were presented. The accompanists for the acts were Miss Edith Olivierio, Miss Augusta Bucaletti, Miss Vera Knight and Joseph Topel.

BUSINESS MEN IN RIVER FOREST LAUNCH PROJECTS

Seek Markers for Night Flyers.

Several projects of interest to residents of River Forest and Oak Park are now under consideration by the River Forest Commercial association, accordin gto an announcement made yesterday by Albert E. Webster, secretary. These include air markers for night flyers, elimination of the one man street cars in River Forest, an independent postoffice for the village, and the cutting away of part of the lawn in front of business establishments in order to provide additional parking space. This last proposition has already been put into effect by the River Forest State bank.

The association is also planning to promote an extensive publicity campaign through the medium of the radio and direct mail advertising.

Rossman Is President.

Officers of the association are: President, George A. Rossman; vice president, Louis J. Cross; secretary, Albert E. Webster, treasurer, Hope E. Macniven, and attorney, Charles P. Molthrop. The directors are Gus Frederickson, George Gibson, Gus Swanson, George Carolan, Arthur S. Hatch, and Otto Luhman. The committee chairmen are: Membership, Arthur S. Hatch; publicity, Albert E. Webster; entertainment, W. W. Meyer; and community chest, Charles P. Molthrop.

Sponsors Shooting Range.

The pistol shooting range at Ashland avenue and Lake street, scene of the present shooting tournament for policemen, was one of the projects sponsored by the association. Other recent accomplishments which were promoted by the association are a new house numbering system which was adopted by the village; a putting green which has been built in Keystone field; and improved street car service on Lake street.

BARGAINS! BARGAINS! IN RUGS, PICKLES, AND CURTAIN MATERIAL

The Tribune will pay $5 for each story of a best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store printed in the Metropolitan Section. Address Bargains, Metropolitan Section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper and printing your name and address plainly.

BARGAIN IN FRYING PAN.

Chicago, May 16.—A neighborhood store had burned down and, while looking over articles that were put on sale, I found an iron frying pan marked $1.25. Water from the firemen's hose had rusted it. I bought it for 5 cents. The clerk gave me a piece of sandpaper with which to remove the rust. The pan has been in constant use, and we regard this as my best bargain.

MRS. MARTHA PEDERSEN,
6200 West Gregory street.

BUYS $35 RUG FOR $10.

Cicero, Ill., May 14.—The best bargain I ever got in my neighborhood was a beautiful 9x12 ft. rug. It was a little faded, having been displayed in the shop window, but the design is such that this slight defect is almost indiscernible. My bargain rug cost me $10. I have seen the same kind of rugs in the same shop since for $35.

MRS. E. FAITH,
1607 South 49th avenue, Cicero.

5 CENT CURTAINS LAST 8 YEARS.

Chicago, May 15.—My best neighborhood bargain was a remnant of yellow organdie four yards long for 5 cents. There was enough material for two lovely long curtains and a valance for the door and the transoms. We used the curtains for eight years before discarding them.

MRS. AMELIA CLYMAN,
1850 North Fairfield avenue.

Oak Park President Sees Boom in Business.

Speaking both as a manufacturer located on the west side and as president of the village of Oak Park, Charles H. Chrysler said yesterday that the proposed elevated boulevard of the West Park board is "a progressive step in the development of the west side, is essential, and should be constructed."

"The highway would serve to relieve present traffic conditions and would increase business and the growth of the west side." He added, "I am in favor of it no matter which of the routes contemplated is finally selected."

Road to Cost $20,000,000.

The west park commissioners plan to construct an elevated roadway at a cost of $20,000,000, the money to be raised by a bond issue. The highway would run from Austin boulevard to Canal street on an east and west street between Roosevelt road and Austin avenue to be selected by the Chicago plan commission.

A bill which would enable the board to hold a referendum on the bond issue is pending before the legislature and while it is meeting with some opposition, west side civic grpups are confident of its passage.

Mr. Chrysler was asked if he thought the highway would carry business out of the west side rather than bring in business. He said the project would not carry away prosperity but would create still greater trading centers throughout the west side.

Would Attract Business.

"The point has been raised that the highway would benefit the loop rather than the district west of Canal street because traffic could reach the loop more easily than under present conditions. This very accessibility of the loop to the west side would, I believe, be the very thing to attract business to the west section.

"Under present conditions, for example, a factory located west of Crawford avenue is not easily accessible to the loop, either by automobile or public conveyance. That being the case, a manufacturer who must be reached by customers stopping at loop hotels, and who must transact a goodly part of his business in the loop would hesitate before locating a few miles west.

"But what about the retailer, one might ask? Many of them take the stand that if downtown stores are so easily reached their business will suffer. I don't believe this would prove true.

"The present trend of business is away from the loop into the outlying sections because the loop is too congested.

"Another point is the fact that residents of Chicago are becoming educated to trade in their own districts.

Mr. Chrysler did not believe himself qualified to discuss the method of paying for the improvement. He said, however, that if the assessment is spread fairly, their should be no complaint whatsoever and no objections to the project.

Effect on Suburbs.

At a meeting of the Lake-Marion-Wisconsin Business Men's association held at the Carlton hotel, Oak Park, last Monday noon, Mr. Chrysler gave his opinion of the highway as it affects Oak Park and the western suburbs.

"If the superhighway is construced by the west park board up to Austin boulevard," he said, "it should be continued through Oak Park and perhaps farther west. Coming down to grade at Austin boulevard, it would dump a large flow of traffic on Oak Park streets, and the village would be confronted with the problem of coping with additional congestion caused by cross town traffic. If the highway terminated at Austin boulevard, it would serve to contribute to the congestion, and hence to additional accidents.

"I realize the highway must be considered for Oak Park as well as the west side of Chicago, but I am not prepared to say what route should be selected or what course should be taken in obtaining the improvement. These must be determined by analysis. How it could be financed would likewise need careful consideration. I do know, however, that at present Oak Park is not in a position to pay for such a project.

Wants State to Aid.

"It would be advantageous," he continued, "if the state could finance the improvement through Oak Park and further west.

"There has been a cry for elevation of the electric and steam railroads through the village. It is equally important for automobile traffic to be carried on a superhighway.

"Another cry has been raised for grade separation at intersecting highways.

"If these grade separations are desirable, the superhighway is, by the same token, even more desirable because it is simply a separation of grades at 76 cross streets from Canal street to Austin boulevard, and would provide similar grade separations if continued through Oak Park.

ADVISORY GROUP OF WEST TOWN PLANS ITS WORK

Forms Link Between Schools, Public.

The first meeting of the West Town Advisory council was held at McKinley High school, 2040 West Adams street, last Tuesday. The council, which is made up largely of principals of schools in the McKinley High school district, was formed to inform the public about the service which the schools are rendering to the community and to built up a closer relationship between the schools and civic, labor, business, and social organizations. Several similar councils have recently been organized throughout the city.

The immediate purpose of the meeting last Tuesday was to discuss and plan for representation at the Central Civic assembly to be held at the Auditorium theater next Friday. A public school graduate from the McKinley school community is to be chosen for outstanding civic achievement or for some contribution to the city. This delegate will compete with representatives of other schools for three scholarships to the University of Chicago, made possible through the philanthropy of Julius Rosenwald.

Those Who Attended.

The members of the advisory council who attended the meeting last Tuesday included William Schuessler, Miss Margaret M. Pierce, Karl Borsers, R. P. Bowdon, George N. Carman, John M. Duggan, Miss Cora E. Lewis, Maurice C. Lipman, Miss Josephine Mack, M. S. McDaniel, Miss Marguerite McManemin, James A. Murphy, Miss Marguerite L. O'Brien, William J. Page, Frederick E. Price, J. H. Rink, Herman Ritow, Miss Eva O. Schley, Miss Manda Selliken, Miss Edna W. Simmons, Dr. Vito A. D. Taglia, Miss Mae Weller, and C. Woodhouse.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Schuessler, chairman of the civics committee of McKinley High school. Each member present was then called upon to introduce himself and tell what organization or school he represented. Suggestions for the work to be done by the council were received from several of those present.

Preliminary Work Done.

Much of the preliminary work of organizing the council has been in the hands of the civics committee of McKinley High school. The members besides Mr. Schuessler, chairman, are Miss Manda Selliken, James A. Murphy, Miss Margaret M. Pierce, Miss Josephine Mack, Miss Eva O. Schley, and William J. Page.

To coöperate with this committee an executive committee was appointed at the meeting. The personnel is Maurice C. Lipman, R. P. Bowdon, Dr. Vito A. D. Taglia, George N. Carman, and Miss Marguerite McManemin. Mr. Carman asked to be excused from membership on the committee, whereupon it was decided to give him the right to appoint another member in his stead.

BISHOP QUARTER SCHOOL FOR BOYS OPENS ADDITION

The recently completed addition to the Bishop Quarter Boarding School for Boys, 605 Lake street, Oak Park, was opened last week. The new building adjoins the school on the west and contains a gymnasium, class rooms, a library, a sun room, a manual training room and a roller skating rink. It is two stories high. The architect was Gerald Barry and building operations were handled by the Duval Construction company.

The new building is the second addition to the school within the last half year. About five months ago an infirmary was completed, containing four private rooms and a ward. The four rooms were furnished through the generosity of Mrs. J. B. Victor, Mrs. F. Moles, Mrs. Walter Hull, and Mrs. William Hoch, all of Oak Park.

The Bishop Quarter school was opened in 1917. At the suggestion of Cardinal Mundelein it was named after Bishop William Quarter, first Catholic bishop of Chicago. When the school opened the enrollment was only 20. It is now 160. The student body is made up of boys between the ages of 6 and 14 years, most of them from Chicago and the suburbs, although there are pupils from New York, Mississippi, Canada and Kentucky. The Dominican Sisters, whose mother house is in Adrian, Mich., are in charge. During the summer months a camp is conducted at Petite lake, near Antioch, Ill., where pupils may spend their vacations.

Details were not disclosed by Maurice Goldblatt, member of the firm, who hinted that a fifth store was contemplated.

THREE STATIONS SEEK BANDS FOR WORLD PROGRAMS

Ready to Spend Millions for Broadcasts.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three projects for broadcasting from the United States to the rest of the world were outlined recently to the federal radio commission by those seeking short-wave channels for this purpose. The most ambitious of these was by the interests which recently bought Station WRNY in New York.

Chester W. Cuthell, president of the station, seeking six transoceanic short wave channels told the commission that the group which he represents proposes to embark upon an international plan of world-wide good will broadcasting. He said they had already expended $150,000 and are prepared to spend $2,000,000 or more in furtherance of the gigantic plan to sell the United States to the world.

Mr. Cuthell said that "much prejudice against America is being evidenced in trade circles in South America, China, and other countries" and that "Great Britain and Germany are making great inroads on this trade."

Others Want Channels.

Authority to establish transoceanic radio stations for the rebroadcasting and interchange of programs with foreign countries by means of short waves was also requested by Dr. Leon Levy, president of the Universal Broadcasting company, operating Station WCAU, in Philadelphia, and secretary-treasurer of the Columbia system, and G. W. Alexander, executive manager of the Pacific Western Broadcasting federation of Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Levy told the commission that his station was to be used for the transoceanic transmission primarily of WCAU programs originating in Philadelphia, the transmitter to be located 18 miles from the center of the city.

He said that last year preliminary negotiations were undertaken with broadcasting stations in France and Germany. If the application for the four short wave channels is granted, the Philadelphia station would be ready to begin operation with six months.

Ready to Spend Millions.

Mr. Alexander said the Pacific Western federation plans a radio project, both broadcasting and short-wave rebroadcasting, which will involve an expenditure of $3,500,000 with the equipment alone to cost $185,000. Work already has begun on KPWF, at Los Angeles, the 50,000 watt broadcasting station, which, under the construction permit granted by the commission, must be completed by Dec. 31. Mr. Alexander said the arrangements now are being made with "119 different countries and provinces in connection with relay broadcasting and services and for continental rebroadcasting of the programs of Station KPWF." China, Japan and other countries in the Pacific would be the special objectives.

Mr. Alexander stated the federation is made up of civic, social, cultural, educational and religious organizations of California, Arizona and Nevada, and is a non-profit making benevolent organization. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, he said, is vice president of the corporation, and W. Bertram Stevens, bishop of Los Angeles diocese of the Episcopal church, is president.

Good Will Program.

Although dedicated primarily to the promoting of aviation, the new owners of Station WRNY, in New York, propose to make it the key station in one of the most pretentious projects yet undertaken of promoting good will between the United States and foreign countries. Despite the fact that the federal radio commission has had numerous international projects put before it, the presentation made by Mr. Cuthell, who is also general counsel for the Curtiss aviation interests, Walter S. Lemmon, general manager of Station WRNY, Capt. R. H. Marriott, radio engineer, and William H. White Jr., Washington associate of Mr. Cuthell, was unusual in many respects.

It unfolded to the commission, a world wide good will undertaking on the part of American business interests which a few years ago would doubtless have been considered visionary and fantastic in the extreme. Yet with the aid of short waves, the commission was assured by Capt. Marriott that the plan is today mechanically feasible, although admittedly in an experimental stage, and can be done if the radio control body will grant the use of the six short wave channels applied for by the New York group.

Briefly, the idea is through Station W2XAL, the short wave transmitter attached to Station WRNY, to broadcast programs simultaneously to Central and South America, to European countries, such as England, France, and Germany, and to countries as far away as Japan, China, and Australia. These programs would be made up of the best type of music and include our foremost public speakers.

It is just possible that they might be sponsored from time to time by large interests or advertisers just as are the chain programs we hear nightly in this country. A novel feature, however, would be a reciprocal arrangement for broadcasting programs from foreign countries to the United States. It takes no great amount of imagination to think of the interest which might be aroused in radio listeners if it were announced that tomorrow night we would hear a program originating in China.

Maywood Garden Club Gives Mothers' Program

A Member's day meeting of the Maywood Garden club was held last Monday at the home of Mrs. George F. Stahmer, 704 North 4th avenue, Maywood. Papers were read by Mrs. Cornelius Adams, Mrs. Frederick Lancaster, Mrs. John M. Wessling, and Mrs. Robert J. Pabodie. A round table discussion was also held with Mrs. Pabodie in charge. A feature of the meeting was the display of pictures of old English gardens in the possession of Mrs. Stahmer. The next meeting will be held on June 10 at the home of Mrs. Pabodie. Mrs. Maud Jacobs of the west park board will be the principal speaker.

Revised Lists of Radio Stations Has Been Delayed

The revised radio call lists which were to have been distributed by the federal radio commission on May 1, will not be compiled for some time yet, according to a commission announcement. The delay is mainly due to the lack of organization of the commission. Further announcement will be made when the list is available.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

It is the Fourth of July, in 1923, about five o'clock in the afternoon. From outside your window come the pop and roar of firecrackers and the shouts of small boys—and from your loud speaker comes the announcement that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight is now going to be broadcast from Shelby, Montana.

ANNOUNCER — Hello, ladies and gentlemen. We've come out here to the end of the world, today, you and I, to see what promises to be a great scrap, even though all the odds favor the champion, Jack Dempsey. It will be a miracle if Tommy Gibbons, his St. Paul challenger, can stand the gaff for the full fifteen rounds.

Referee Dougherty has the men in the center of the ring now giving them their instructions. Now they're going back to their corners. Jack Kearns is patting Dempsey on the back, and Eddie Kane is whispering words of counsel in Tommy's ear.

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring! Thirty seconds to go now, and the fight will start. Shelby's holiday is almost complete!

There's the gong! Round one is starting! Both men are coming out of their corners speedily. They've reached the center of the ring and—Dempsey is tearing in! Wow! Dempsey drove a left hook into Tom's ribs. Gibbons is dancing away, with Jack moving after him. No, they've clinched, with Gibbons doing the grabbing. Referee Daugherty has broken them up, and Jack is up on his toes showing just as much speed as Tommy. O, O! There's a pair of lefts, plunk, plunk, into Gibbons' ribs, and Gibbons backs up—no! he's coming back and—Zowie! He plants a long, rangy right hander square on Dempsey's mouth. Now look at the champion! He's tearing in and hurling rights and lefts at the challenger's body, with Gibbons moving his arms up and down to protect himself. Oooohh! Wow! Dempsey smacked Gibbons three times with lefts to the body. He's hitting him! Gibbons is taking it! Now they're sparring cautiously—Gibbons is watching that left hand of the champion's, and now—One! Two! Gibbons cracks Dempsey twice on the mouth with lefts. Jack is right back with a hard left to Gibbons' jaw.

Jack is getting in a lot of punishment with that left. O! Gibbons sent a hard right to Dempsey's wind and now they're clinching, with Dempsey wrestling Gibbons all over the ring. Now they're breaking, sparring. Ummhh! Gibbons sends that left again at the champion's mouth, and now a right—a hard one—to Jack's ear. Dempsey is coming back with an avalanche of gloves. He's fighting like a fiend! Gibbons is holding on again—they're in a clinch, and again Dempsey is wrestling Gibbons around the ring. Now they're apart and—Ow! Gibbons gets that left over again, this time to Dempsey's chin. Clinch again! Dempsey is working on Tommy's body during the clinches! Now they're breaking up, and sparring. Dempsey just missed a hard right hander to the heart. Now—Gong!

That's the end of round one, ladies and gentlemen. The first round, if we have to render a decision, goes to the champion by a wide margin.

Shelby is liking its first fight. The crowd was on its feet during most of the first round, yelling and screaming like any eastern fight audience. There's the whistle for the start of the second. The seconds are scampering out of the ring. (Gong!)

Round two! Jack and Tommy got to the middle of the ring in a hurry this time again. O! Gibbons missed a left to Jack's head, and he goes into a clinch. They're pushing and pulling in the clinch, and Gibbons sneaks over two rights to Jack's head. Now they've broken—they're sparring—and again Gibbons goes into a clinch to avoid Jack's infighting. Dempsey is tearing in, in the usual fashion, working on Gibbons' body.

Gibbons is backing away from those body punches! They hurt! Upp! Tommy cracked Jack with a sharp left to the face. Ummmh! Gibbons landed again, this time to the champion's wind—Ohh! Jack comes right back and socks Gibbons with a hard right on the ear. They've rushed into a clinch again. Gibbons is holding on—and—Ohhh! Dempsey drove an awful right to Tommy's heart and the challenger's face twisted. Now a left hook! But Tommy's taking it and he's coming back for more! Zowie! Gibbons landed a left to the chin, and Jack felt it! It dropped him back on his heels.

They're fighting now, and both men missed with lefts. Ow! Ohhhh! Gibbons staggered him that time. He drove a left to the chin that had Jack wobbly for a minute—now they've rushed into a clinch and—Ohh! Dempsey drives in two hard right handers to the heart! Gibbons is holding on again, and Dempsey is beating him about the body with lefts and rights. Jack's got all the better of the clinches—(Gong!)

Interlude. Eleven more rounds have gone by, but Gibbons is still on his feet. Dempsey, despairing, punches, pounds, and pummels in vain. Gibbons will not go down. And into the fourteenth round they go . . . and once more we hear the story of our announcer.

Dempsey still has plenty of pep as he comes up to scratch for the fourteenth round. He rushed out across the ring and drew Gibbons into a clinch, and is beating him with rights and lefts around the body. Gibbons is only too glad to hold on. Dempsey has given Tommy nearly everything he has in the way of body punishment, but the challenger is still holding on grimly. He seems determined to last out the full fifteen rounds. Daugherty can't get 'em apart. Dempsey is keeping up his fusillade of blows. There's no stopping him. Gibbons is punched out, it seems, and he is taking everything the champion gives him without a murmur. Wuuup! Gibbons stuck out a left to Jack's face, and Jack comes back with more body blows. Clinch again!

Now Jack is rushing Tommy against the ropes and pouring them into him, rights and lefts, rights and lefts to the body, to the head, anywhere he can land 'em. But Tommy stays on his feet. The Dempsey punches cannot put him down! Ow! Jack drives a hard right hander to Gibbons' wind, and the crowd hoots—they think it's low. Zowie! Tommy tries with a left to the ear and lands, and they've clinched again! Jim Daugherty can't break 'em apart. Dempsey is beating Gibbons around the kidneys. They've clinched again and—Ow! Jack lands a hard right on Gibbons' face—and another!—and another! Clinch again! It's Tommy who's pushing this time—he's backing Dempsey into a neutral corner, but Jack—Ow! Jack drives him back with that right hand—one, two, three! Three right handers to Gibobns' head. Now Tommy is hanging on again! Ummh! Gibbons lands a left on Dempsey's head, and—Ohh! So does Dempsey—a smashing left to Gibbons' face. They—[Gong!]

There's the bell. I'll open the door now and let you hear that crowd. They're cheering Gibbons, cheering him for the game stand he's making against Dempsey. Cushions are flying all about the arena, and everybody's on their feet. There's only one more round, and it looks as if Gibbons will last it out. This gang's amazed. Here's the only man that lasted this way against the champion. Gibbons is pretty badly mussed up over there in his corner—his cheeks and mouth are swollen. Dempsey is bleeding from two cuts around the eyes, but is otherwise O. K. Both men are badly winded, but Gibbons is in the worst shape. Nevertheless, he has more endurance and stamina than any fighter the champion has ever faced!

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring for the last time. The fifteenth and last round of the fight is about to start! [Gong!]

Round fifteen! Dempsey is driving Gibbons around the ring with rights and lefts. He's determined to end it with a punch! Gibbons is clinching! Now they're broken, and Dempsey is chasing Gibbons, trying with lefts to the head. He's short. Now Dempsey has worked him to the ropes, and—Oh! Dempsey drives home rights and lefts to the body, to the head!—Tommy is wobbling. He's tying up the champions arms in a clinch. Gibbons is holding on, and Dempsey can't get his arms free for a good punch. Now Daugherty pulls them apart, but Gibbons goes right back into another clinch. They're breaking—Wow! Dempsey just missed an awful right to the face—Gibbons bobbed his head and saved himself. They're clinching again—come on, break 'em apart. Ow! Dempsey is beating Tommy about the head with both hands. Gibbons is staggering around the ring with Dempsey after him. Gibbons is going to stick it out! Ohhh! Dempsey tries a right to the face and—another right to the face!—and again! Gibbons is still on his feet. He's walking into another clinch. There's only a few seconds left. Tommy has not landed a blow this round! He's just going to stick it out! Whee! Jack drives home a left to Gibbons' face. Now they're sparring—[Gong!]

Janet Fairbank, young Chicago novelist, will speak from W-G-N on the Tribune station's Women's club program next Tuesday afternoon at 2:20 o'clock in the series of addresses by Chicago authors which THE TRIBUNE is offering its listeners.

The series is intended to awaken in Chicago's reading public the realization that the city is a literary center. Today, artists are capably continuing the tradition established by George Ade, George Barr McCutcheon, and Eugene Field, and more recently followed by Ring Lardner, Ben Hecht, and Carl Sandburg.

Arthur Meeker Jr., Mary Synon, and Marion Strobel are among those who have already been on the air over W-G-N. Mr. Meeker's recent novel "American Beauty," a treatment of Chicago society life, has achieved wide popularity, and Marion Stroebel has leaped into the top ranks of American poets with her "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Lost City." Mary Synon is the author of "The Good Red Bricks" and a prominent short story writer.

JEAN GOLDKETTE

THE master of the blue note, if that wild thing can be said to have a master, is Jean Goldkette. He and his young and expert orchestra will thrill you as they play the New Music. Grotesque dissonances, odd rhythmic patterns, the warmth of something alive, all these things that make themselves felt in the New Music are completely understood. Nat Natalie spatters a melody with toneful trumpet notes chipped out in quick succession . . . Paul Mertz turns the piano into a dancing, sparkling instrument . . . each man plays hard to make the New Music what it is. 2:25, 10:45, 11:35.

FAME, FORTUNE AWAIT INVENTOR OF MINE RADIO

Would Be Invaluable in Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A place in radio's hall of fame and probably a fortune await the man who will devise wireless apparatus that can be used successfully in mine rescue work.

While the use of radio on land, at sea and in the clouds has advanced with amazing swiftness, its underground utilization has baffled engineers who have spent years in trying to devise a practical means of communicating with entombed miners.

Experts who have been conducting experiments for the bureau of mines since 1922 have reached the conclusion that radio as developed today does not solve the underground message problem.

Temporarily Abandon Efforts.

The bureau temporarily has abandoned its efforts to develop radio for this work and is concentrating on the improvement of the mine telephone and geophone as offering greater immediate usefulness.

However, if a small set capable of receiving and sending signals which penetrate the earth could be developed, the radio method would be superior to the other two, bureau officials say.

There are two obstacles to the feasibility of underground radio—penetration of the earth by the waves and designing a set which, while light, will be powerful enough to receive the feeble signals after penetration.

Although signals have been received at some depth in mines in the eastern part of the country, it was suspected they were carried into the mine through open shafts and over the wiring and piping systems. Actual penetration of strata was thus drowned out by signals received from shaft and metallic conductors.

Penetration is Slight.

In Colorado and other western states, however, there was considerable evidence of actual penetration of the earth. The states in which this occurred have an arid climate which means a dry overburden and constant increase in radio penetration, engineers say.

But it is believed the penetration is not strong enough to permit the use of sufficiently simple and light receivers to allow even one way communication in rescue work where speed and portability are essential.

The engineers also found that the apparatus required for transmitting messages out of the mine would be so cumbersome that it would be virtually useless in rescue work.

Balgemann Takes Oath as Mayor of Elmhurst

Miller, treasurer; W. J. Hillard, police magistrate; B. A. Schumaker, alderman first ward; J. H. Cronin, alderman second ward; Bert Simmons, alderman third ward; George L. INDIAN CHIEF TO HEAD SOUSA'S BAND ON RADIO

Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow of the Star Blanket band of Cree Indians from File Hills reservation, near Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, will be at the conductor's desk when John Philip Sousa's internationally known band plays its third radio concert tomorrow night.

The name of the conductor in the Cree language means "The Great Music Chief." The average follower of Sousa band concerts, which have been part of the musical education of the American people for more than fifty years, will probably exclaim at the similarity of technique between the great Indian chief and John Philip Sousa himself. In fact, if any of Sousa's acquaintances should happen in the studio they might insist that the director was not an Indian at all but Lieut. Com. Sousa himself. And, technically, they would be correct—for John Philip Sousa is likewise "Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow" and has been for a number of years.

Mme. Alda Doninelli, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will make her radio debut as a soloist with the band in the Cadillac concert.

Senator Brookhart Will Speak at Elmhurst College

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa will be the speaker on a program to be given on Memorial day at Elmhurst college. The program, of a patriotic nature, will open at 1 p. m. with selections by the Elmhurst college glee club. The college band will also furnish musical numbers.

ORCHESTRA AND SOLOISTS FROM W-G-N TONIGHT

Sprightly, brilliant orchestral music and ballads of love and tenderness will form the program to be heard tonight at 8:15 o'clock over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The music will be furnished by an orchestra under Josef Pasternack's direction, while Max Bloch, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be the soloist.

This concert, the second of the new summer series, was especially prepared to be in tune with the rare days and evenings of which the poets sing. The soloist, Max Bloch, is one of the younger and more lyric of the Metropolitan Opera tenors and his contributions to the evening will be of a romantic type.

Three dashing concert compositions in dance form, or rather of the type known as concert dance numbers, since they are not intended for dancing but to give the sprightliness and dash and brilliance of dance form to the composition, will be included in the orchestra program.

BOY AVIATORS STAGE TOURNEY IN PARK TODAY

Compete for Trips and Trophies.

Boys Due at 9:45

Event 1—Outdoor twin pusher duration.

Event 2—Outdoor R. O. G. duration.

Place—Washington park—the big meadow in the center of the park.

Time—The events start at 10 o'clock this morning. Contestants must present their models for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock.

Admission—Free. The public is invited.

How to get there—South side elevated lines to 55th street station, then walk or Cottage Grove avenue street car.

The day has arrived:

At 10 o'clock this morning the hundreds of Chicago boys who have been working for weeks in preparing their entries for the second annual model airplane meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will have the opportunity of putting their creations to the test.

The weather permitting, the sky above the big meadow in Washington park will receive throughout the day an assortment of miniature white winged planes, each a bit different from its companions and each vying for Chicago championship honors.

The entry list contains many names made familiar at last year's meet. Along with the veterans will be a host of new mechanics who have worked painstakingly with their craft and who feel their chances at the medals and trophies, to say nothing of the trip to Detroit, are as good as anybody's. And so they are. It is a thrilling new game in which new tricks are being learned every day and some absolutely hitherto unknown may have fashioned the plane that will today outfly all its fellows.

Answers Propeller Question.

Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the Airplane Model League of America, who for many weeks past has, through these columns, advised readers on model airplane construction in leading up to the local and national contests, wishes at this time to set at rest a worry that has arisen in the minds of many builders as to the best length for propellers.

Mr. Hamburg said there isn't any "best length."

"Expert model makers," said Mr. Hamburg, "have found that different lengths and different types of propellers simply enable their models to do different things. A short, slim-bladed propeller is whirled by the twisted rubber motor at high speed, and consequently draws the plane rapidly. It isn't good for duration, naturally.

"On the other hand, long propellers move more slowly, they strike more air resistance and so retard the unwinding of the motor. There is a point, of course, at which the added length becomes a disadvantage rather than an advantage. Too long a prop will whirl so slowly that it won't pull the plane.

"A number of the members of the league are working on the so-called 'butter-paddle' propellers. These props are unconventional in design; they flare sharply from the hub, and have very broad, untapered blades. Their great surface causes them to move slowly. Others, however, favor the long bladed, slim propeller. Every expert has his own favorite, and only his own experiments will tell him how to get best results from it."

Everybody Learns Something.

There will be disappointments today, but it was discovered last year that disappointment is only temporary with those who build planes. Also, there will be unexpected successes. One thing is certain: Every boy who has entered the contest and who is serious in his efforts will leave the field wiser about model making.

A week from today come the indoor events to be held at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. There will be two events at that time—indoor R. O. G. duration; indoor tractor duration. With these events THE TRIBUNE contest will be brought to a close. The forty-eight medals and trophies will be awarded, and it will be decided which two Chicago boys will represent their city at the national contest in Detroit, June 20-22. All expenses of the two trips to Detroit will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Contestants will be wise in being on hand early this morning, for, under the rules, all contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock. Many of the same judges who had charge at last year's meet again will officiate.

OUR TOWN

BY FRED PASLEY.

FRANK KASTEN, a bricklayer, and a good one, is the new mayor of Blue Island, the Red Grange of our suburbs in nonstop progress, where they still have real Fourth of July celebrations, prize home gardens, champion girl horseshoe players, neighborly neighbors, and such. As a bricklayer, Frank could do his eight hour stunt alongside any of his fellows. Now he's busy with handshaking, banquets, speeches, the keys of the city, more handshaking, etc.; he's been made a member of the Lions' club; today he has to pitch the first ball in the local nine's seasonal opener at the home grounds. Frank, our heart aches for you. So do our fingers.

E. J. A. Gold, the genial and democratic president of the Stockmen's Trust and Savings bank, 55th and Halsted streets, was a guest at the recent Cashiers' club dinner at the Shoreland hotel. Ernie, responding to repeated and insistent requests, obliged with "Sweet Adeline" and "My Hero," and as usual was the hit of the evening. So remarkable and rare are Ernie's laryngeal furnishings that vocal experts invariably refer to them as the lost chords.

THE editor joins with Harold Swift, the Rockefellers, and others in extending the glad hand to Robert Maynard Hutchins as prexy of the U. of C., and before we forget it, Bob, will you knock that no-tennis-on-Sunday blue law for a row of racquets off our liberal campus? Thanks.

You may recall it was in reference to Hannah Peacock, of steak and chicken dinner fame at Oak Hills, golf mecca of south enders, that Bill Borden uttered his immortal "Boy, how that woman can cook!" We printed same. Bill now rises to remark he's been named a committee of one to fetch us out to sample Hannah's chefs d'œuvre—French slang for eats—and do we golf? As soon as we finish, if ever, uprooting the dandelions in the front yard, you're on, Bill; yes, we don't.

OUR old friend, Carl P. Morgan, head of the big Wicks department store at 74th street and Cottage Grove avenue, had one mighty ambition as a former newspaper man—to own a beaver. You know, they cost a double sawbuck. Well, Carl got one last winter; wore it, with always a furtive eye to appreciative onlookers, and this spring allowed he'd have it cleaned and packed away for the season. When the cleaners returned it he summoned a trustworthy messenger, gave him the key to the family Packard, and instructed him to convey the treasure to his Beverly Hills home instanter. The messenger put the box with the hat on the running board of another car while he unlocked the Packard. The other car drove away; Carl hasn't any beaver; his sympathetic friends are sending him their old hats, and he hopes the driver of the other car gets dandruff.

BOARD TO HEAR OBJECTIONS TO SITE FOR SCHOOL

A committee of the Southwestern Federation of Improvement Clubs will call on President H. Wallace Caldwell of the board of education within a few days to ask that the board abandon its plan to construct a new high school for Chicago Lawn in the area bounded by 60th street, 61st place, Springfield avenue, and the alley west of Crawford avenue.

In a letter to the board recently M. A. Seymour, secretary of the federation, said, "If the board takes this ground within a few blocks of the corner of 63d street and Crawford avenue, it is going to retard this section considerably, especially if some three blocks on Crawford avenue [the strip west of the school ground] is to be left dead and practically worthless as either business or residential property.

"With all the vacant land in this district, it seems that it would be very easy to select a site that would be just as advantageous from an educational standpoint and still not work so much of a hardship on the community. The site could be shifted west for some distance to good advantage."

The site was selected by Don C. Rogers, director of the building survey of the board, because it is the exact center of the "school circle" in that district, but with no thought to the economic effect on the area, Mr. Seymour said.

ST. PHILIP NERI'S CHURCH PROUD OF BOYS' CHOIR

It Aids Discipline in School.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

St. Philip Neri's parish is proud of its boys' choir not only because of the beauty which it adds to the religious services but also because it is a splendid means of discipline for the boys. A boy's conduct in the schoolroom determines his standing in the choir, and the nun who teaches him is the judge. A boy who misbehaves in school cannot sing in the choir, no matter what his musical qualifications may be.

THE REV. W. J. KINSELLA.

St. Philip Neri's parish was among the first, if not the first, parish to have a regular boys' choir recruited from the boys of the parish. The original St. Philip Neri's surpliced chancel choir was formed around a nucleus composed of a part of the famous old Paulist choir, directed by Father Finn. Horace and Mary Anderson, who had been directors for Father Finn, are in charge of the choir, but most of the boys are pupils of St. Philip Neri school, and the majority of the men were formerly St. Philip boys.

Proper provision for the choir was made when the new St. Philip Neri church, which rises majestically at the head of Merrill avenue and 72d street, was designed. The choir is behind the altar and the choirmaster is hidden from view. The choir sings church music as directed by the Motu Proprio of Pope Pius X.

Finds Home Talent Plentiful.

"One need not look abroad for talent," said the Rev. Father William J. Kinsella, pastor, in referring to the musical organization. The confines of the parish embrace the districts which were formerly known as South Shore, Bryn Mawr and Jackson Park Highlands. Its territory lies just south of Jackson park and its eastern boundary is Lake Michigan. Its southern boundary was the old Windsor Golf club, which has long since disappeared before the march of home seekers.

Before the coming of the Rev. Father Kinsella as pastor of the newly formed parish of St. Philip Neri, Bryn Mawr—where the church was located—was known as a "churchless community." There were few residents in Bryn Mawr and the sandy stretches were largely given over to gardens and tree nurseries. Today, however, due, it is said, in no small measure to the influence of St. Philip Neri's church and school and Aquinas High school, what were several scattered communities, have been merged into one compact unit, which is equally well known as South Shore and St. Philip Neri parish.

Last Oct. 7 was a memorable day in the annals of the parish when the beautiful new church was dedicated by Cardinal Mundelein.

The style of architecture of the great temple is a modern adaptation of Tudor Gothic—what has become familiarly known as "South Shore Gothic 1928." Of the architect, Joe W. McCarthy, Father Kinsella has said: "He has succeeded, by bold lines of harmony and color through the supple Tudor Gothic, in accomplishing what so many have failed to do."

Calls It "Gothic Melange."

Mr. McCarthy, himself, said: "In designing the church, done in these days of deep struggle for 'original' styles, adaptable features from all the periods of Gothic were utilized to make a practical whole with the hope of a harmonious ensemble. Much of the work of the centuries past has been searched for the solution of the particular problem in the design of this church with the result that it can safely be called a Gothic 'melange.'

"Like most American churches, the ground plan has been designed around the pew-arrangement. This, of course, is the modern surrender to practicability. This, with the acoustical treatment, allows that all may see and hear. In viewing this church, built of granite and limestone trimmings, capable of seating some 1,500 persons, one cannot help but be confronted with the thought of the unselfish ambition of the churchman who sacrifices all personal aims to express in a mighty monument his devotion to the faith he professes. It is this ambition which forms the nucleus with which the architect is inspired and from which he develops the material expression of the churchman's idea of glorifying his God.

"The church of St. Philip Neri is therefore a temple of religion and a monument to the clergyman responsible for its erection. Whether or not it is in pure style has not greatly exercised the public. From all appearances they have accepted it as a satisfactory and agreeable solution of a comfortable and enduring parish church."

Started at Church Congress.

The close of the XXVIII International Eucharistic congress, marked the beginning of the new St. Philip Neri church. During the late summer and early fall, excavations and ground work were carried on. On Nov. 7, 1926, the cornerstone was laid by Bishop E. F. Hoban. From this date on the work progressed, the structure grew in strength and beauty.

St. Philip Neri parish was organized on the first Sunday of Advent in 1912, under the direction of the late Archbishop James Edward Quigley. The Rev. Father Kinsella, then pastor of St. Joseph's church, Liber-

SOUTH SIDERS O. K. $700,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Hearing Brings Approval of All Projects.

Every south side improvement on the spring schedule of the board of local improvements was approved at a public hearing on May 10. Ordinances for these improvements were ordered published and deferred by the city council on Wednesday and, according to the usual procedure, will be passed by the council at the next meeting.

Although a few objections were raised by property owners to some of the projects on which their approval was sought, none of the objections were deemed of sufficient importance by members of the board to warrant abandonment of the improvements.

The list of projects approved will cost nearly $700,000 and includes one resurfacing job, nine paving projects, seven water pipe systems, installation of four sewers, two street openings, and widening of one thoroughfare.

Approve $170,000 Resurfacing.

Resurfacing of the following system of streets was approved by the board, at the request of Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th]: Wallace street between 115th and 116th streets; Parnell, Normal, Eggleston, and Stewart avenues, between 115th and 116th streets, and 116th, 117th, and 118th streets, between Wallace street and Stewart avenue. This entire system will be resurfaced at a cost of $170,000, or $2.60 a square yard.

Improvement of 64th street between South Park avenue and Drexel avenue was approved by property owners after they succeeded in having passed by the board an amendment to pave with concrete instead of asphalt, as had been planned. The cost of this project has been estimated at $103,000.

Other projects approved follow:

Sixty-fifth street between Cottage Grove and South Park avenues, at a cost of $50,500.

Washtenaw avenue between 73d and 74th streets, costing $14,500.

Fairfield avenue between 74th and 73d streets, costing $14,000.

Oakley-81st Job Approved.

A system including blocks on Claremont avenue and Oakley avenue between 81st street and 81st place; on 81st street between Western avenue and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, and on 81st place between 81st street and Western avenue. This project will cost $62,000.

A system including La Crosse, Lamon, Laporte and Lavergne avenues between 63d and 65th streets, and on 64th street between Cicero and Lavergne avenues at a cost of $154,000.

Avenue J between 108th and 110th streets, costing $35,000.

Morgan street between Blue Island road and 129th place, and 129th place between Peoria street and the western city limits at a cost of $49,000.

Eighty-fifth place between Ingleside avenue and the Illinois Central right of way, at a cost of $7,000.

Installation of water supply pipes on the following streets was approved by property owners:

Eighty-seventh street between Stony Island and Kimbark avenues, costing $14,915.

Union avenue and Emerald avenue between 106th and 107th streets at a cost of $3,980.

Eighty-fifth street between Ingleside avenue and the alley east of this street, costing $732.

Loomis street between 107th place and 109th street, at a cost of $2,850.

Ninety-seventh place between State street and Michigan avenue, at a cost of $2,271.

Ninety-seventh street between the same streets, costing $2,271.

Eighty-third place between Kedzie and Spaulding avenues, at a cost of $1,983.

Sewer Systems O. K.'d.

The four south side sewer projects approved are:

Greenwood avenue between 89th and 87th streets, at a cost of $7,000.

Eighty-sixth street between the same boundaries, costing $630.

Commercial avenue between the alley west of the Calumet Western railroad to 130th street and east in 130th street to Exchange avenue, at a cost of $6,000.

Approval of property owners who will be assessed for the opening and widening of Pershing road between Lowe and Damen avenues was given at the hearing. Hugh E. Young, chief of the technical division of the Chicago plan commission, told the board that his organization approved the project and favored its early completion.

Despite the fact that property owners on Mayfield avenue between Archer avenue and 55th street declared that there was no demand for the opening of this street to through traffic, the board passed the resolution to start condemnation proceedings.

The widening of 56th place between Keeler and Crawford avenue was approved without opposition.

ANSWERS

Quotation—What's the constitution between friends?

Answer—This was said by Tim Campbell to Grover Cleveland in 1883. Timothy J. Campbell, a Democrat, represented a lower east side New York district in the state senate. When Cleveland became governor of New York state in 1883 Campbell made a request for the appointment of several ward heelers to offices. When Cleveland pointed out to him that to make the appointments would be to violate the state constitution, Tim replied: "What's the constitution between friends?"—Charles Simon, 1900 Estes avenue, Chicago.

Quotation—Much may be made of a Scotchman if he be caught young.

Answer—This was said by Dr. Samuel Johnson [1709-1784], English lexicographer. I found the quotation in James Boswell's "Life of Johnson." In the chapter concerned with the year 1772 Boswell writes: "He [Dr. Johnson] would not allow Scotland to derive any credit from Lord Mansfield; for he was educated in England. 'Much,' said he, 'may be made of a Scotchman, if he be caught young.'" William Murray, first earl of Mansfield [1705-1793], was an English judge, the son of David Murray, a Scottish politician.—E. Shannon Adams, 3712 South Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, Ill.

Answer—This saying is credited to a drummer boy in Napoleon's army at the battle of Marengo, Italy, on June 14, 1800. Napoleon reached the field to find his advance corps beaten by the Austrians and in full retreat. Just as the day appeared lost for the French, young Gen. Desaix arrived on the field with his cavalry and halted near the place where Napoleon stood. There was in the corps a drummer boy whom Desaix had picked up on the streets of Paris. As the line halted, so the story goes, Napoleon shouted to the drummer boy, "Beat a retreat!" The boy did not stir. Again the commander shouted, "Gamin, beat a retreat!" The boy stepped forward, grasped his drumsticks, and said, "Sire, I have not learned to beat a retreat. But I can beat a charge that will make the very dead fall into line. May I beat it here?"

A moment later the corps swept down on the Austrians. Desaix was slain, but his men won the battle for Napoleon.—René Sherwin, 546 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

GREAT ASSEMBLY TO GIVE MEDALS TO BOY LEADERS

Gathering on Friday to Be Climax of Week.

The climax of Boys' week, which begins in Chicago today, will occur Friday night when community leaders in business, industrial and professional life will gather at the Auditorium theater for a massive civic assembly where high school boys already giving promise of becoming civic leaders of Chicago will be given public recognition.

The various south side community centers of the Hyde Park, Englewood, Woodlawn, Chicago Lawn, Armour, Beverly Hills, Morgan Park, Marquette Manor, Rosedale, Auburn Park, Hamilton Park, Gresham, and other communities, all will send the leaders in their associations as delegates to the assembly.

Each district will have a boy representative chosen by members of the community center in conference with school officials. The boy will be taken from the high school or junior high school in the district, and in some cases two boys have been selected from one school where one school district includes several communities.

Rosenwald to Present Medals.

Medals will be awarded the boys and pinned on their breasts by Julius Rosenwald in behalf of the civic-minded people of Chicago. Scholarships in political and social science are also to be publicly presented to the three high school senior boys who top the list of all the other representatives selected, and other honors will be accorded the prospective civic leaders of the future.

The civic assembly, the second this year, is part of the program planned by the Boys' week committee in recognition of the boy in school and citizenship, which is the subject designated for that day of Boys' week. At the assembly Miss Jane Addams will speak on "The Public School; the Safeguard to Democracy."

Distinguished citizens of the present as well as those of the future will be recognized publicly at the assembly, and among those who will receive this honor are: Col. A. A. Sprague, Julius Rosenwald, Michael Zimmer, warden of the Cook county hospital; Judges Albert B. George and Francis B. Allegretti of the Municipal court; and Burridge Butler, chairman of the Union League club foundation for boys.

Civic Pageant to Be Staged.

A civic pageant arranged and directed by Miss Johanna Doniat of Senn High school will also be presented as part of the program.

The assembly is only one of the high lights of the program prepared for Friday. A spectacle and demonstration at Soldiers' field, beginning at 12:45 o'clock, in which more than 50,000 boys and girls from the schools are expected to take part, will provide the first part of this day's activities. There will be a parade with floats representing every school, park, and many boys' clubs and other organizations of boys. There will be drills by R. O. T. C. bands, athletic events, and demonstrations by other high school boys' groups.

Firemen will be present at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to stage a real fire, showing the modern methods of fighting conflagration. Ancient apparatus from hand operated pumps to horse drawn engines, as well as the modern motor equipment, will be exhibited and put into action. Following this, a music festival in which high school bands, orchestras, and glee clubs will have a part will be held in the Studebaker theater.

EBERHART PUPILS TO GIVE FOUR-ACT PLAY AT SCHOOL

Present "Peter Pan" Friday, Saturday.

"Peter Pan," a four act play which has been especially dramatized by Miss Lucy Goodwin, instructor at the Eberhart school, 3400 West 65th place, will be presented by pupils of the school Thursday and Friday evenings in the school auditorium under the auspices of the Eberhart Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Louise K. Stone, principal of the school, has been in charge of the entire production, which will be the first of its kind ever to have been given by Eberhart pulips at the Eberhart school, although the school has been in existence for twenty years. However, not until last year were the acoustics of the auditorium improved so that a play of this sort could be heard over the entire auditorium.

Benefits Piano Fund.

The Parent-Teacher association is sponsoring the play in order to add to their piano fund for the school. The organization is planning to replace the old piano in the auditorium with a grand piano. Mrs. Clara Postal, 3246 West 65th place, is president of the association.

The production will include speaking and singing roles, dancing, acrobatics, orchestra music, and tableaux. The four acts in their order have been entitled, "Early Days," "Never, Never, Never Land," "The Pirate Ship," and "Home, Sweet Home." The dancers have been drilled by Miss Naomi Marshall, gym instructor at the school. Miss Stella Platt and Mrs. Gertrude Teske have trained the songs and orchestras, and Miss Goodwin has directed the dramatic parts of the production.

Several Hundred Take Part.

In addition there will be several hundred children costumed to represent groups of pirates, gypsies, Indians, mermaids, bears, bunnies, brownies, and clowns.

As an introduction to the play, 50 boys and girls will sing the Peter Pan song to the accompaniment of ukeleles.

Novelty solo and duet dances will be given during the play by Virginia Eckles, Marian Forrest, and Virginia Forrest, and Lucille Pelton.

VARIETY OF BARGAINS FOUND BY READERS IN NEIGHBORHOODS

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of a best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargains, Metropolitan section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

THIS BARGAIN JINGLES.

Chicago, May 14.—Last fall as I was wandering along Halsted street on a window shopping tour, in the window of a second hand shop I spied an old wooden box containing fifteen brass curtain rings. They were badly discolored, but the dealer sold them to me for 25 cents. To carry out the color scheme of my draperies I painted each one a different color and the effect was most pleasing. The rings proved to be of solid brass, worth 25 cents apiece. Every time I hear them jingle I get a real thrill—$3.75 for 25 cents!

MRS. M. JOHNSON,

THIS ONE IS FISH STORY.

Chicago, May 13.—The greatest bargain I ever "picked up" was a level-winding, anti-back lash finish reel of one of the most popular makes which I was lucky enough to purchase for $2.50. I bought it at a time when a south side sporting goods store had changed hands and the owner was desirous of selling out, below cost, all stock on hand.

A BARGAIN IN ERMINE.

Chicago, May 13.—Several years ago I was shopping in a nearby store and chanced to see a large, pillow shaped muff of ermine which I thought was unusually lovely. The clerk almost took my breath away when she told me I might have it for $5. I had three neckpieces made from it and my sisters are enjoying my remarkable bargain with me.

BUY-NEAR-HOME MONTH PLANNED IN CHICAGO LAWN

Association Demands Street Lights.

Residents of the Chicago Lawn district will be particularly encouraged during June to patronize the business houses in the neighborhood, according to plans for a campaign by the Chicago Lawn Business association.

A meeting of business men in the association was held Tuesday night at 6420 South Kedzie avenue to complete the plans. A meeting of property owners of the district was held at the same place Thursday night, sponsored by the Chicago Lawn Business association. The purpose of the latter was to ascertain the proportion of property owners interested in securing adequate street lighting for the district.

Only Two Blocks Well Lighted.

In the entire Chicago Lawn district, which extends from South California avenue to Central Park avenue and from 59th street to 67th street, only two blocks are completely lighted. The others, according to Mr. Weiss, have poles here and there, many of which have never been wired, and others with the light bulbs broken.

Officers of the Chicago Lawn Business association are: Mr. Weiss, president; George Weyland, business manager; Edward B. Clinton, vice president; John M. Kelley, treasurer; A. G. Connors, recording secretary; and G. A. Stege Jr., corresponding secretary. The board of directors includes: Edward Trost, J. W. Belt, E. B. Clinton, A. Mohr, R. J. Snyder, B. Weiser, J. H. Grenier, Samuel Weiss, and John M. Kelley.

The advisory committee is composed of: Dr. B. Aron, J. Anshel, M. Ast, F. P. Dixon, S. Estren, B. J. Glidewell, S. Kahn, J. H. Maier, Fred G. Ryan, E. H. Field, and A. Weinberg.

Plan Fourth of July Parade.

The Chicago Lawn Business association was organized nine months ago by Mr. Weiss and since that time it has grown to a membership of 150 firms, almost all of which have joined in the campaign for better business. The campaign will start late in May and the tentative date for its close has been set for July 4. A large parade with a band and floats from each of the business houses represented will be held on that day.

POPPY DAY WILL 'HONOR THE DEAD AND SERVE LIVING'

Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Flowers May 28-29.

"Honor the dead and serve the living."

This phrase embodies the purpose of the memorial poppies which will be sold May 28 and 29 by the Leroy A. McCullough unit of the American Legion auxiliary, according to Mrs. Lenore Essex, unit president.

"On Memorial day, May 30," explains Mrs. Margaret Wahls, "flowers cover the graves of men who died for America. Wherever these men lie, in the cemeteries at home or in the field of the dead overseas, flowers and flags will be placed by reverent hands on the sod beneath which they lie.

"A decade ago there were no wreaths or garlands heaped on the graves in France and Belgium. Raw mounds of earth these graves were then, marked by hurriedly made crosses of wood. The columns of men moving past them into battle had no time to place floral tributes. But nature, great and kindly, cared for those who were returned to earth's breast. Around and over the graves in the shell-churned soil appeared little blossoms of red, looking like drops of heroes' blood. They were wild poppies sprinkled by nature above the graves which man was too engaged to attend. Nature made the poppy the heroes' flower.

"The men, who fought in France brought back an indelible picture of the poppies blooming among the graves or about the unburied dead. To them the poppy seemed the natural tribute to a brave man who had fallen for his country. The poppy became the memorial flower for the American Legion and the nation.

"On May 28 and 29 the poppies of France will be brought to Chicago by the Hyde Park unit of the American Legion auxiliary. They will be offered to every one to be worn on the lapel above the heart. It is in the heart of America that our dead lie enshrined, no matter where their bodies lie. What would be more appropriate than to wear above the heart on our day of remembrance their own flower—the bright red poppy?

"And the poppies which the auxiliary will offer have been made by the comrades of the dead whom they honor—men who were disabled in the same battles in which the dead gave up their lives. Every penny which is contributed for the poppies will go to the relief of the disabled, their families, and the families of the dead.

"Thus the poppy fills a double mission, honoring the dead and serving the living. Every citizen of Chicago should have one of the little red flowers on his lapel May 28 and 29."

Square post No. 232 of the American Legion and Square unit of the Legion auxiliary have made plans for a busy day of parading and decorating graves of heroes on Memorial day. The chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for observing the day is Paul Armstrong, past commander.

Members of both organizations will meet at Midway temple at 9 o'clock in the morning to form the parade to Oakwoods cemetery. An army and navy firing squad will be on hand, and a uniformed color guard. The drum and bugle corps will parade and play several numbers. A prominent speaker will be furnished by students of Hyde Park and Englewood High schools. At the close of the service, the auxiliary of the post will decorate the graves with flowers collected and purchased by the pupils of the public schools.

ST. PHILIP NERI CHURCH PROUD OF BOYS' CHOIR

Membership Rewards Good Behavior in School.

tyville, Ill., was called upon to lay the foundations of the newly organized parish. In taking up this task Father Kinsella returned to the scenes of his early ministry. For seventeen years he had been assistant pastor at St. Patrick's church, South Chicago. He was born and reared in the old Town of Lake, and attended St. Gabriel's grammar school. He was therefore on familiar ground on the south side of the city.

Many families which had been residents in St. Patrick's parish during Father Kinsella's years of service there had moved northward and they were among the pioneer families of St. Philip Neri's parish. Soon the south side population began to shift southward and many attracted by the lake sought homes on the South Shore. Thus there came into the parish many families from the neighborhood in which Father Kinsella had spent his youthful years.

Spirit Produced by Friendship.

As a result of this, the pastor of St. Philip Neri church had an exceptional knowledge of and acquaintance with his parishioners, an acquaintance not only with the families, but often of their antecedents, and this intimate and personal relationship of priest and people has been accountable in no small way for the spirit which has characterized the parish.

The foundation of the "old church," which adjoins on the west the new structure, was laid in May, 1913, and the first mass was said on Christmas day of that year. The building was dedicated on April 26, 1914, the parish then including some sixty families. Though there were few children of school age, Father Kinsella made immediate preparation for the opening of a parochial school, two rooms of which were utilized as the rectory. The school grew so rapidly that about five years later, it was necessary to add sixteen classrooms properly to accomodate the boys and girls of the parish. This is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that a new parish, Our Lady of Peace, was organized to the south of St. Philip Neri.

The Sisters of St. Dominic of Adrian, Mich., took charge of St. Philip's grammar school, and also opened Aquinas High school for boys and girls. The progress and development of Aquinas High school has kept pace with the parish and in the last few years the high school building has assumed its present magnificent proportions.

The following priests served or are serving as assistants at St. Philip Neri's church: The Rev. E. O. Leiser, the Rev. William I. Murray, the Rev. Henry Weber, the Rev. Patrick A. Bird, the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell, and the Rev. Jerome Dehnert.

Earl Storey, president of the league, is directing the performance. Dr. Gilbert S. Cox is pastor of the church.

Trinity Lutheran Choir Gives Piece About Mother

Under the direction of Reinhart Kaufmann, the members of the choir of the Trinity Lutheran church, 100th street and Beverly avenue, presented "The Old Fashioned Mother" on Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the new community house, 102d and Church streets. Leading rôles were taken by Mrs. Albert Bruesch, Miss Norman Melcher, Miss Florence Willig, William Dueshop, and William Jabeck.

ANOTHER STORE TO BE STARTED BY GOLDBLATTS

A new store will be opened in the near future by Goldblatt brothers, now operating four department stores in the outlying districts of Chicago, it was reported at a dinner given for employés of the stores at Rainbo gardens, 4834 North Clark street, last Sunday night. Details were not disclosed by Maurice Goldblatt, member of the firm, who hinted that a fifth store was contemplated.

Present locations are: Chicago and Ashland avenues, Lincoln and Belmont avenues, 47th street and Ashland avenue, and 91st street and Commercial avenue.

Abram N. Pritzker was toastmaster at the dinner, which was attended by more than 3,000 employés of the firm. Speakers were: Municipal Judge Joseph L. McCarthy; Hayes MacFarland, advertising manager of the Herald and Examiner, and F. L. Straus of S. W. Straus & Co.

Kozminski School Group Attends Spring Luncheon

Members of the Kozminski Parent-Teachers association held their annual spring luncheon Monday in the Gold room of the Chicago Beach hotel, 1600 Hyde Park boulevard. Mrs. Louis G. Fischel, chairman of the ways and means committee of the organization, was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

HOLD SERVICES IN FOSTER PARK CHURCH TODAY

Members of the Foster Park Baptist church congregation will attend services for the first time in their own church building at 86th and Justine streets this morning. The new structure will be officially dedicated June 9.

The $45,000 brick and stone building, which is the first unit in the congregation's building program, is sufficiently completed to allow the members to hold meetings.

The Rev. Ralph Nordlund, pastor, will preach on the theme, "God's House." The congregation was organized last September under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Nordlund, and has held meetings in the Cook school auditorium, 82d and Bishop streets, since that time.

SCULPTOR TAFT TO QUIT NOTED STUDIO IN FALL

Will Move to New Structure Block Away.

BY ELEANOR GRAFF.

A little enchanted house where many dreams have come true and other dreams are still being dreamed, where romance and sentiment lurk even in the dust in the corners, is about to be razed to make room for a new, modern structure. It is the studio of Lorado Taft, sculptor, which has stood at 6016 Ellis avenue for twenty years and must now make way for a large women's dormitory of the University of Chicago.

The new site, one block directly east on Ingleside avenue, suggested to Mr. Taft for his new studio by the university, has been accepted, and the building and moving will take place this summer. But even though the same models of Mr. Taft's masterpieces are removed to the new studio, only time can rebuild the charm now existing in the old headquarters, where sliding doors here reveal workmen chipping at a large piece of marble already taking shape as a figure, and where little stairways here, there, and everywhere lead to other portions of the studio.

Finished Noted Pieces There.

The first floor of an old brick garage provided the beginning of Mr. Taft's studio and it was here that he finished the "Fountain of the Great Lakes" which stands at the south end of the Art institute, and a group of groping figures called "The Blind," which represent Maeterlinck's play of the same name.

The studio has gradually been enlarged, with rooms added here, an upper floor there, and a basement or some place else. The original garage building Mr. Taft expects to move to the new site. It already has an old brick house on it which he hopes to utilize for studio purposes also.

It was in the present studio that Mr. Taft dreamed, designed, modeled, and finally carried to completion the "Fountain of Time," at the west end of the Midway; "Black Hawk," the Indian figure on the Rock river, the seated figure of Lincoln at Urbana, and the "Solitude of the Soul," in the Art institute. He has recently completed "Alma Mater" for the University of Illinois, Mr. Taft's own alma mater.

One of the rooms in Mr. Taft's studio is filled with his collections for a prospective museum, of which he has dreamed for many years. He resents the fact that many American museums are putting all their reproductions of ancient Greek, Roman, and Italian sculpture into storerooms, and plans for a museum to be filled entirely with sculpture. He has already collected reproductions of the work of Michael Angelo, Donatello, Della Quercia, and the famous Ghiberti gates, and hopes that Chicago will become interested in his museum for the World Fair.

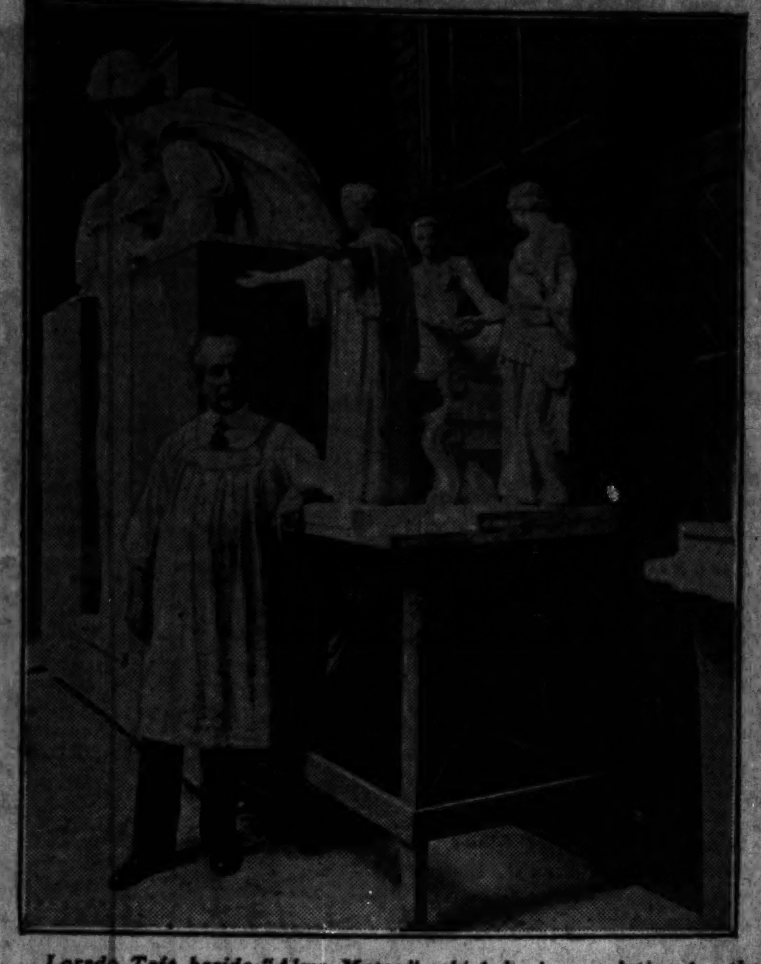
First of Type in World.

A long table in another room shows the museum in miniature. The museum as he has visualized it will have long corridors with an unobstructed vista, down which can be seen a sculptural record of civilization. Crossing corridors will thus reveal all the work of any period, and the art of ages can thus be studied by its country or period.

No other museum in the world has been planned in this manner, according to Mr. Taft, whose dream, if realized, will call for a building three blocks long and one block wide.

One of Mr. Taft's pastimes is building what he calls dollhouses. They are planned especially to interest children in the history of sculpture, and several are now reproduced in the Art institute, where he has lectured for forty years. They show the studios of famous sculptors, with their contemporary artists gathering for a consultation or argument, perhaps, and in the studios he has placed miniature replicas of the actual work of these sculptors.

COMPLETING MASTERPIECE



Lorado Taft beside "Alma Mater," which he is completing for the campus of the University of Illinois. This masterpiece probably will be the last major work done by the sculptor in the studio where he has produced nearly all of the figures that have won him fame.

BRAINERD GROUP AGAIN PROTESTS TRACK ELEVATION

Wants Depression of Rock Island.

Members of the Brainerd Improvement association have once more indicated their disapproval of the proposed elevation of the suburban tracks of the Rock Island railroad on 89th street, from Morgan street to Ashland avenue.

After a discussion of the subject at a meeting which was held last week at the Fort Dearborn school auditorium, 90th and Throop streets, the members adopted a resolution recommending the depression of these tracks. The resolution, signed by the members of the organization, will be presented to the officials of the railroad in the near future, according to S. J. Friel, president.

Mr. Friel pointed out that when the officials of the railroad announced their intention of elevating their suburban tracks through this territory the members of the organization entered a formal protest. The elevation of the tracks, he said, would decrease property values in the district and would divide the present Brainerd territory into two distinct sections.

Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] told the association that he was in favor of depression rather than elevation.

Mr. Friel announced at the meeting that the new street lights which are being installed throughout the 18th and 19th wards at the present time will cover practically the entire Brainerd district. These lights are being installed on all streets from 89th to 95th streets, and from Vincennes to Ashland avenues.

The women took luncheon at the cafeteria, after which the auditorium and commissary department were visited. Mrs. Merle S. McCarney, 5756 South Richmond avenue, was chairman in charge of arrangements and reservations.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MORGAN PARK GROUP TUESDAY

The fourth annual meeting of the Morgan Park Manor Improvement association will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the men's room of the Morgan Park M. E. church, 110th place and Longwood drive.

A park site covering one and one-half city blocks situated between 105th and 106th streets west of Maplewood avenue is owned by members of this association, who are improving the site and street developments surrounding it for the benefit of the community.

Morgan Park H. S. Boys Hear Talk on Aviation

In addition there was an exhibition of airplane models made by students of the school. Curtis Hunter, teacher of mechanical arts at Morgan Park High, was in charge of the program.

STREET LIGHTS FOR CLEARING IN NEXT MONTH

Welfare Association Seeks Rapid Transit.

Street lights in the Clearing district will be installed within the next 30 days due to efforts of the Clearing Welfare association made through Ald. Thomas Burns. This association has already secured improvements in the way of streets and sewers in the four years of its organization. The next project, according to M. A. Seymour, a member of the board of directors, will be a system of rapid transit.

At a recent business meeting of the association the following officers were elected: Charles Olsen, president; Albert Seltin, vice president; George Harris, secretary, and Harold Hill, treasurer. These officers, with the four ex-presidents of the association, form the board of directors. Former presidents are Mr. Seymour, Arthur Dullinger, Robert Crane, and Albert H. Farwell.

District 25 Years Old.

The district of Clearing itself is 25 years old, but only within the last four of five years has it been an organized and populated community. A quarter of a century ago railroad officials thought they were going into the country when they first situated a railroad transfer yard there. It was known as the clearing yard, hence the present name of the district, but as such it was a failure. The large circular track built for the purpose is still there, but is overgrown with trees and underbrush.

The hump yard with gravity switching was then installed and at this time the Clearing Land association acquired several thousand acres of land. However, for many years improvements came slowly until H. H. Porter took over the association and laid out the present industrial district, providing direct railroad service to all the factories situated there. There are now 105 factories and 15 railroad trunk lines in Clearing.

Open Residential District.

The residential district for persons connected with the factories was then laid out and a little more than four years ago the people moved out and took possession of homes and property. At first, existence was dull and unorganized, especially since the district was so far from Chicago's downtown, and since transportation was by street car only.

At that time a group of citizens organized the Clearing Welfare association, which provided for social gatherings and built up community interest and spirit. Out of the welfare association has been formed a baseball team, a Boy Scout troop, Girl Scouts, and a Clearing Women's club which is a member of the Chicago federation. Mr. Seymour was the first president of the association, which meets regularly at the Stickney town hall through the courtesy of officials of Stickney township, including Timothy Mahoney, Charles Kluck and Charles Sahs, all of whom are active workers in the welfare association.

RIDGE RESIDENTS PREFER MOVIES TO MIND CULTURE

Community Center Films Get More than Classes.

Asserting that the Ridge Community center was used more for entertainment purposes than for intellectual development, Mrs. R. M. McClure, president of the center, asked board members last week to discuss some method by which they could interest the residents of the territory in the many courses offered by the center.

In making her annual report to the board at a meeting at her home, 1747 West 107th street, Mrs. McClure gave statistics that supported her statement. She said that during the last year 39,289 persons attended the motion picture performances, which were given in the Morgan Park High school auditorium, 110th street and Hermosa avenue, the center headquarters, while only 4,160 persons were present at the series of lectures given during the winter and 1,700 were enrolled in the classes at the center.

Established Loan Fund.

Mrs. McClure pointed out that the board of education permitted the use of the building for community center purposes on the contention that the officials of the center would assist in the intellectual development of the residents of the community and not merely as a place where they could see cheap moving pictures.

At this meeting the board members voted to donate $100 of the center's surplus, which will be used to establish a one year foundation to be known as the Marie Merrill loan fund. This money will be given to Miss Merrill, who is director of community centers for the board of education, for the purpose of aiding some of the more needy community centers throughout the city.

Officers Are Elected.

The following persons were elected as officers of the organization for the next two years: Oscar F. Dahlstrom, vice president; Mrs. Oscar D. O'Brien, secretary; George Herzog, treasurer, and P. W. Upp, director.

Offices who will retain their positions for one more year are, in addition to Mrs. McClure, are: A. K. Sykes, vice president; Mrs. Stanley Gibson, Mrs. Raymond E. Knapp, Merve Mowatt, and William F. Dow, directors.

Rose, director of Ogden park, and will be held at the Ogden park field house where Mr. Rose has made arrangements to seat more than 1,000 boys.

Judge Francis Allegretti will be the principal speaker and numerous stunts will be given by groups of boys. A number of professional acts have been booked for the boys' entertainment.

The 35 piece Ogden Park Boys' band will play, there will be a tumbling act by the Ogden park boy tumblers, Willie Reed, 7062 South Lincoln street, will sing, and Eleanor Ott, 5019 Aberdeen street, with Betty Bradford, 443 West 60th street, will give a song and dance act.

PRIMARY FLOWER CLUB OF BRAINERD HOLDS LUNCHEON

The Primary Flower club of Brainerd held its spring luncheon at Marshall Field's store last week for members of the club. Mrs. St. Caira Freedman of New York was a special guest. Mrs. Freedman, a former president of the club, was the house guest of Mrs. Albert Johnson, 8601 Bishop street, now president of the organization.

The club was organized three years ago as the Flower Beginners' club, and Mrs. Freedman, then living in Brainerd, was the first president. There are 16 members, and meetings are held every Tuesday and Thursday from March through October.

THREE STATIONS SEEK BANDS FOR WORLD PROGRAMS

Ready to Spend Millions for Broadcasts.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three projects for broadcasting from the United States to the rest of the world were outlined recently to the federal radio commission by those seeking short-wave channels for this purpose. The most ambitious of these was by the interests which recently bought Station WRNY in New York.

Chester W. Cuthell, president of the station, seeking six transoceanic short wave channels told the commission that the group which he represents proposes to embark upon an international plan of world-wide good will broadcasting. He said they had already expended $150,000 and are prepared to spend $2,000,000 or more in furtherance of the gigantic plan to sell the United States to the world.

Mr. Cuthell said that "much prejudice against America is being evidenced in trade circles in South America, China, and other countries" and that "Great Britain and Germany are making great inroads on this trade."

Others Want Channels.

Authority to establish transoceanic radio stations for the rebroadcasting and interchange of programs with foreign countries by means of short waves was also requested by Dr. Leon Levy, president of the Universal Broadcasting company, operating Station WCAU, in Philadelphia, and secretary-treasurer of the Columbia system, and G. W. Alexander, executive manager of the Pacific Western Broadcasting federation of Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Levy told the commission that his station was to be used for the transoceanic transmission primarily of WCAU programs originating in Philadelphia, the transmitter to be located 18 miles from the center of the city.

He said that last year preliminary negotiations were undertaken with broadcasting stations in France and Germany. If the application for the four short wave channels is granted, the Philadelphia station would be ready to begin operation with six months.

Ready to Spend Millions.

Mr. Alexander said the Pacific Western federation plans a radio project, both broadcasting and short-wave rebroadcasting, which will involve an expenditure of $3,500,000 with the equipment alone to cost $185,000. Work already has begun on KPWF, at Los Angeles, the 50,000 watt broadcasting station, which, under the construction permit granted by the commission, must be completed by Dec. 31. Mr. Alexander said the arrangements now are being made with "119 different countries and provinces in connection with relay broadcasting and services and for continental rebroadcasting of the programs of Station KPWF." China, Japan and other countries in the Pacific would be the special objectives.

Mr. Alexander stated the federation is made up of civic, social, cultural, educational and religious organizations of California, Arizona and Nevada, and is a non-profit making benevolent organization. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, he said, is vice president of the corporation, and W. Bertram Stevens, bishop of Los Angeles diocese of the Episcopal church, is president.

Good Will Program.

Although dedicated primarily to the promoting of aviation, the new owners of Station WRNY, in New York, propose to make it the key station in one of the most pretentious projects yet undertaken of promoting good will between the United States and foreign countries. Despite the fact that the federal radio commission has had numerous international projects put before it, the presentation made by Mr. Cuthell, who is also general counsel for the Curtiss aviation interests, Walter S. Lemmon, general manager of Station WRNY, Capt. R. H. Marriott, radio engineer, and William H. White Jr., Washington associate of Mr. Cuthell, was unusual in many respects.

It unfolded to the commission, a world wide good will undertaking on the part of American business interests which a few years ago would doubtless have been considered visionary and fantastic in the extreme. Yet with the aid of short waves, the commission was assured by Capt. Marriott that the plan is today mechanically feasible, although admittedly in an experimental stage, and can be done if the radio control body will grant the use of the six short wave channels applied for by the New York group.

Briefly, the idea is through Station W2XAL, the short wave transmitter attached to Station WRNY, to broadcast programs simultaneously to Central and South America, to European countries, such as England, France, and Germany, and to countries as far away as Japan, China, and Australia. These programs would be made up of the best type of music and include our foremost public speakers.

It is just possible that they might be sponsored from time to time by large interests or advertisers just as are the chain programs we hear nightly in this country. A novel feature, however, would be a reciprocal arrangement for broadcasting programs from foreign countries to the United States. It takes no great amount of imagination to think of the interest which might be aroused in radio listeners if it were announced that tomorrow night we would hear a program originating in China.

Revised Lists of Radio Stations Has Been Delayed

The revised radio call lists which were to have been distributed by the federal radio commission on May 1, will not be compiled for some time yet, according to a commission announcement. The delay is mainly due to the lack of organization of the commission. Further announcement will be made when the list is available.

Plan Hike June 3.

The South Shore Y. P. A. is planning a hike from Niles Center to Morton Grove on June 3. President S. M. Landsman is in charge of reservations.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

It is the Foutrh of July, in 1923, about five o'clock in the afternoon. From outside your window come the pop and roar of firecrackers and the shouts of small boys—and from your loud speaker comes the announcement that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight is now going to be broadcast from Shelby, Montana.

ANNOUNCER — Hello, ladies and gentlemen. We've come out here to the end of the world, today, you and I, to see what promises to be a great scrap, even though all the odds favor the champion, Jack Dempsey. It will be a miracle if Tommy Gibbons, his St. Paul challenger, can stand the gaff for the full fifteen rounds.

Referee Dougherty has the men in the center of the ring now giving them their instructions. Now they're going back to their corners. Jack Kearns is patting Dempsey on the back, and Eddie Kane is whispering words of counsel in Tommy's ear.

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring! Thirty seconds to go now, and the fight will start. Shelby's holiday is almost complete!

There's the gong! Round one is starting! Both men are coming out of their corners speedily. They've reached the center of the ring and—Dempsey is tearing in! Wow! Dempsey drove a left hook into Tom's ribs. Gibbons is dancing away, with Jack moving after him. No, they've clinched, with Gibbons doing the grabbing. Referee Daugherty has broken them up, and Jack is up on his toes showing just as much speed as Tommy. O—O! There's a pair of lefts, plunk, plunk, into Gibbons' ribs, and Gibbons backs up—no! he's coming back and—Zowie! He plants a long, rangy right hander square on Dempsey's mouth. Now look at the champion! He's tearing in and hurling rights and lefts at the challenger's body, with Gibbons moving his arms up and down to protect himself. Ooooohh! Wow! Dempsey smacked Gibbons three times with lefts to the body. He's hitting him! Gibbons is taking it! Now they're sparring cautiously—Gibbons is watching that left hand of the champion's, and now—One! Two! Gibbons cracks Dempsey twice on the mouth with lefts. Jack is right back with a hard left to Gibbons' jaw.

Jack is getting in a lot of punishment with that left. O! Gibbons sent a hard right to Dempsey's wind and now they're clinching, with Dempsey wrestling Gibbons all over the ring. Now they're breaking, sparring. Ummhh! Gibbons sends that left again at the champion's mouth, and now a right—a hard one—to Jack's ear. Dempsey is coming back with an avalanche of gloves. He's fighting like a fiend! Gibbons is holding on again—they're in a clinch, and again Dempsey is wrestling Gibbons around the ring. Now they're apart and—Ow! Gibbons gets that left over again, this time to Dempsey's chin. Clinch again! Dempsey is working on Tommy's body during the clinches! Now they're breaking up, and sparring. Dempsey just missed a hard right hander to the heart. Now—Gong!

That's the end of round one, ladies and gentlemen. The first round, if we have to render a decision, goes to the champion by a wide margin.

Shelby is liking its first fight. The crowd was on its feet during most of the first round, yelling and screaming like any eastern fight audience. There's the whistle for the start of the second. The seconds are scampering out of the ring. (Gong!)

Round two! Jack and Tommy got to the middle of the ring in a hurry this time again. O! Gibbons missed a left to Jack's head, and he goes into a clinch. They're pushing and pulling in the clinch, and Gibbons sneaks over two rights to Jack's head. Now they've broken—they're sparring—and again Gibbons goes into a clinch to avoid Jack's infighting. Dempsey is tearing in, in the usual fashion, working on Gibbons' body.

Gibbons is backing away from those body punches! They hurt! Uppp! Tommy cracked Jack with a sharp left to the face. Ummmh! Gibbons landed again, this time to the champion's wind—Ohh! Jack comes right back and socks Gibbons with a hard right on the ear. They've rushed into a clinch again. Gibbons is holding on—and—Ohhh! Dempsey drove an awful right to Tommy's heart and the challenger's face twisted. Now a left hook! But Tommy's taking it and he's coming back for more! Zowie! Gibbons landed a left to the chin, and Jack felt it! It dropped him back on his heels.

They're fighting now, and both men missed with lefts. Ow! Ohhhh! Gibbons staggered him that time. He drove a left to the chin that had Jack wobbly, for a minute—now they've rushed into a clinch and—Ohh! Dempsey drives in two hard right handers to the heart! Gibbons is holding on again, and Dempsey is beating him about the body with lefts and rights. Jack's got all the better of the clinches—(Gong!)

Interlude. Eleven more rounds have gone by, but Gibbons is still on his feet. Dempsey, despairing, punches, pounds, and pummels in vain. Gibbons will not go down. And into the fourteenth round they go . . . and once more we hear the story of our announcer.

Dempsey still has plenty of pep as he comes up to scratch for the fourteenth round. He rushed out across the ring and drew Gibbons into a clinch, and is beating him with rights and lefts around the body. Gibbons is only too glad to hold on. Dempsey has given Tommy nearly everything he has in the way of body punishment, but the challenger is still holding on grimly. He seems determined to last out the full fifteen rounds. Daugherty can't get 'em apart. Dempsey is keeping up his fusillade of blows. There's no stopping him. Gibbons is punched out, it seems, and he is taking everything the champion gives him without a murmur. Wuuup! Gibbons stuck out a left to Jack's face, and Jack comes back with more body blows. Clinch again!

Now Jack is rushing Tommy against the ropes and pouring them into him, rights and lefts, rights and lefts to the body, to the head, anywhere he can land 'em. But Tommy stays on his feet. The Dempsey punches cannot put him down! Ow! Jack drives a hard right hander to Gibbons' wind, and the crowd hoots—they think it's low. Zowie! Tommy tries with a left to the ear and lands, and they've clinched again! Jim Daugherty can't break 'em apart. Dempsey is beating Gibbons around the kidneys. They've clinched again and—Ow! Jack lands a hard right on Gibbons' face—and another!—and another! Clinch again! It's Tommy who's pushing this time—he's backing Dempsey into a neutral corner, but Jack—Ow! Jack drives him back with that right hand—one, two, three! Three right handers to Gibobns' head. Now Tommy is hanging on again! Ummh! Gibbons lands a left on Dempsey's head, and—Ohh! So does Dempsey—a smashing left to Gibbons' face. They—[Gong!]

There's the bell. I'll open the door now and let you hear that crowd. They're cheering Gibbons, cheering him for the game stand he's making against Dempsey. Cushions are flying all about the arena, and everybody's on their feet. There's only one more round, and it looks as if Gibbons will last it out. This gang's amazed. Here's the only man that lasted this way against the champion. Gibbons is pretty badly mussed up over there in his corner—his cheeks and mouth are swollen. Dempsey is bleeding from two cuts around the eyes, but is otherwise O. K. Both men are badly winded, but Gibbons is in the worst shape. Nevertheless, he has more endurance and stamina than any fighter the champion has ever faced!

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring for the last time. The fifteenth and last round of the fight is about to start! [Gong!]

Round fifteen! Dempsey is driving Gibbons around the ring with rights and lefts. He's determined to end it with a punch! Gibbons is clinching! Now they're broken, and Dempsey is chasing Gibbons, trying with lefts to the head. He's short. Now Dempsey has worked him to the ropes, and—Oh! Dempsey drives home rights and lefts to the body, to the head!—Tommy is wobbling. He's tying up the champions arms in a clinch. Gibbons is holding on, and Dempsey can't get his arms free for a good punch. Now Daugherty pulls them apart, but Gibbons goes right back into another clinch. They're breaking—Wow! Dempsey just missed an awful right to the face—Gibbons bobbed his head and saved himself. They're clinching again—come on, break 'em apart. Ow! Dempsey is beating Tommy about the head with both hands. Gibbons is staggering around the ring with Dempsey after him. Gibbons is going to stick it out! Ohhh! Dempsey tries a right to the face and—another right to the face!—and again! Gibbons is still on his feet. He's walking into another clinch. There's only a few seconds left. Tommy has not landed a blow this round! He's just going to stick it out! Whee! Jack drives home a left to Gibbons' face. Now they're sparring—[Gong!]

Janet Fairbank, young Chicago novelist, will speak from W-G-N on the Tribune station's Women's club program next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the series of addresses by Chicago authors which THE TRIBUNE is offering its listeners.

The series is intended to awaken in Chicago's reading public the realization that the city is a literary center. Today, artists are capably continuing the tradition established by George Ade, George Barr McCutcheon, and Eugene Field, and more recently followed by Ring Lardner, Ben Hecht, and Carl Sandburg.

Arthur Meeker Jr., Mary Synon, and Marion Strobel are among those who have already been on the air over W-G-N. Mr. Meeker's recent novel "American Beauty," a treatment of Chicago society life, has achieved wide popularity, and Marion Stroebel has leaped into the top ranks of American poets with her "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Lost City." Mary Synon is the author of "The Good Red Bricks" and a prominent short story writer.

WAGNER . . . . . .

DR. STOCK

THE final radio concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra is to be completely a Wagnerian hour. The Love Scene, taken from Act II. and the Introduction to Tristan's Vision from Act III. of "Tristan and Isolde," has been arranged for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra by Dr. Frederick Stock. These famous musicians will play in addition to Dr. Stock's arrangement, The Bacchanale and Finale, from the Overture to "Tannhauser," and Brunhilde's Immolation from "The Twilight of the Gods." Before the concert you will hear a few words from Dr. Stock himself, who will conduct his famous orchestra for the season's last radio performance. 6 o'clock.

BASEBALL . . .

QUIN RYAN will be at Cubs Park this afternoon with a snappy report of a snappy ball game. The Bruins open their series with the boys from the Smoky City at 3 o'clock. Quin will be on the air to give you the lineups and batting order. You'll get a bird's-eye view of the game, hear the bats cracking out the long ones, the mob thundering with enthusiasm, all for the listening to radio's best sports reporter.

Jean GOLDKETTE

JEAN GOLDKETTE

THE master of the blue note, if that wild thing can be said to have a master, is Jean Goldkette. He and his young and expert orchestra will thrill you as they play the New Music. Grotesque dissonances, odd rhythmic patterns, the warmth of something alive, all these things that make themselves felt in the New Music are completely understood. Nat Natalie spatters a melody with toneful trumpet notes chipped out in quick succession . . . Paul Mertz turns the piano into a dancing, sparkling instrument . . . each man plays hard to make the New Music what it is. 2:25, 10:45, 11:35.

FAME, FORTUNE AWAIT INVENTOR OF MINE RADIO

Would Be Invaluable in Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A place in radio's hall of fame and probably a fortune await the man who will design wireless apparatus that can be used successfully in mine rescue work.

While the use of radio on land, at sea and in the clouds has advanced with amazing swiftness, its underground utilization has baffled engineers who have spent years in trying to devise a practical means of communicating with entombed miners.

Experts who have been conducting experiments for the bureau of mines since 1922 have reached the conclusion that radio as developed today does not solve the underground message problem.

Temporarily Abandon Efforts.

The bureau temporarily has abandoned its efforts to develop radio for this work and is concentrating on the improvement of the mine telephone and geophone as offering greater immediate usefulness.

However, if a small set capable of receiving and sending signals which penetrate the earth could be developed, the radio method would be superior to the other two, bureau officials say.

There are two obstacles to the feasibility of underground radio—penetration of the earth by the waves and designing a set which, while light, will be powerful enough to receive the feeble signals after penetration.

Although signals have been received at some depth in mines in the eastern part of the country, it was suspected they were carried into the mine through open shafts and over the wiring and piping systems. Actual penetration of strata was thus drowned out by signals received from shaft and metallic conductors.

Penetration Is Slight.

In Colorado and other western states, however, there was considerable evidence of actual penetration of the earth. The states in which this occurred have an arid climate which means a dry overburden and constant increase in radio penetration, engineers say.

But it is believed the penetration is not strong enough to permit the use of sufficiently simple and light receivers to allow even one way communication in rescue work where speed and portability are essential.

The engineers also found that the apparatus required for transmitting messages out of the mine would be so cumbersome that it would be virtually useless in rescue work.

ORCHESTRA AND SOLOISTS FROM W-G-N TONIGHT

Sprightly, brilliant orchestral music and ballads of love and tenderness will form the program to be heard tonight at 8:15 o'clock over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The music will be furnished by an orchestra under Josef Pasternack's direction, while Max Bloch, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be the soloist.

This concert, the second of the new summer series, was especially prepared to be in tune with the rare days and evenings of which the poets sing. The soloist, Max Bloch, is one of the younger and more lyric of the Metropolitan Opera tenors and his contributions to the evening will be of a romantic type.

Three dashing concert compositions in dance form, or rather of the type known as concert dance numbers, since they are not intended for dancing but to give the sprightliness and dash and brilliance of dance form to the composition, will be included in the orchestra program.

THOMAS CHURCH DRAMATIC CLUB GIVES 3 PLAYS

Three one act plays were given last week at the Thomas Memorial Congregational church, 64th street and Homan avenue, by the drama club, directed by Mrs. Martha Rickard. They were "The Rector," "The Hour Glass," and "The Vanishing Princess."

Mrs. Rickard read "The Vanishing Princess" herself. The cast of "The Rector" included Charles Brown, Miss Eulah Whiting, Mrs. Wrayburn Miller, Miss Anna Klein, Mrs. Lee Adkins, Mrs. P. Smith, and Miss Jean Nichols. Those in "The Hour Glass" were Warren Thompson, Miss Mildred Miller, Miss Catherine Hauch, Miss Jean Gardner, and Miss Alice Morrison.

Present Minstrel Frolic for Benefit of Church

A minstrel frolic will be presented at the Ridge theater, Park Ridge, next Wednesday evening for the benefit of St. Juliana church, 7142 Osceola avenue. The production is being directed by John Seger. A one-act playlet, directed by John Schaefer, is one of the features. The cast will include Mrs. John Seger, Mrs. Joseph H. Owens, Miss May Turk, Mrs. P. C. Wenzel, John Gilfoyle, John McElvoy, Joseph Pfister, and Walter Hall. The pastor of the church is the Rev. T. J. Hogan. R. J. James Jr. is handling publicity for the event.

Plans for a Hobby show at Calumet High school to be held June 5, are progressing and students are busy gathering together their favorite pets, flowers, stamps, books and shawls. Many unusual exhibits are promised by Miss Mildred Moore, who is in charge of the show. PEOPLE'S STORE OF WEST LAWN IN NEW BUILDING

A new store building at 2538 West 63d street was opened last week to house the People's Furniture company. The company was organized in 1916 by several West Lawn citizens and business men. In a few years the small store had been enlarged and a branch store opened at Brighton Park, where the company erected its own building at 4177-83 Archer avenue.

Directors of the People's Furniture company, after careful observation of business progress and development in the West Lawn district, decided last year to move the Halsted street store to this community, and purchased the lots where the new building now stands. It is a modern three story structure with a granite terra cotta front.

Morgan Park Baptists to Hold 2 Weeks' School

The first week will be given over to special meetings every evening at 7:30 o'clock at which Mr. Cooper will base his sermons on the spiritual life. The second week will be taken up with conferences each evening and home visitation.

Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow of the Star Blanket band of Cree Indians from File Hills reservation, near Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, will be at the conductor's desk when John Philip Sousa's internationally known band plays its third radio concert tomorrow night.

The name of the conductor in the Cree language means "The Great Music Chief." The average follower of Sousa band concerts, which have been part of the musical education of the American people for more than fifty years, will probably exclaim at the similarity of technique between the great Indian chief and John Philip Sousa himself. In fact, if any of Sousa's acquaintances should happen in the studio they might insist that the director was not an Indian at all but Lieut. Com. Sousa himself. And, technically, they would be correct—for John Philip Sousa is likewise "Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow" and has been for a number of years.

Mme. Aida Doninelli, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will make her radio debut as a soloist with the band in the Cadillac concert.

OY AVIATORS STAGE TOURNEY N PARK TODAY

ompete for Trips and Trophies.

Boys Due at 9:45

Event 1—Outdoor twin pusher duration.

Event 2—Outdoor R. O. G. duration.

Time—The events start at 10 o'clock this morning. Contestants must present their models for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock.

Admission—Free. The public is invited.

How to get there—South side elevated line to 55th street station, then walk east. Cottage Grove avenue street cars.

The day has arrived:

At 10 o'clock this morning the hundreds of Chicago boys who have been working for weeks in preparing their entries for the second annual model airplane meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will have the opportunity of putting their creations to the test.

The weather permitting, the sky above the big meadow in Washington park will receive throughout the day an assortment of miniature white winged planes, each a bit different from its companions and each vying for Chicago championship honors.

The entry list contains many names made familiar at last year's meet. Along with the veterans will be a [illegible] of new mechanics who have worked painstakingly with their craft and who feel their chances at the medals and trophies, to say nothing of the trip to Detroit, are as good as anybody's. And so they are. It is a thrilling new game in which new tricks are being learned every day and some absolutely hitherto unknown way have fashioned the plane that will today outfly all its fellows.

Answers Propeller Question.

Merrill Hamburg, secretary of the Airplane Model League of America, who for many weeks past has, through these columns, advised readers on model airplane construction in leading up to the local and national contests, wishes at this time to set at rest a worry that has arisen in the minds of many builders as to the best length for propellers.

Mr. Hamburg said there isn't any "best length."

"Expert model makers," said Mr. Hamburg, "have found that different lengths and different types of propellers simply enable their models to do different things. A short, slim-bladed propeller is whirled by the twisted rubber motor at high speed, and consequently draws the plane rapidly. It isn't good for duration, naturally.

"On the other hand, long propellers move more slowly, they strike more air resistance and so retard the unwinding of the motor. There is a point, of course, at which the added length becomes a disadvantage rather than an advantage. Too long a prop will whirl so slowly that it won't pull the plane.

"A number of the members of the league are working on the so-called 'butter-paddle' propellers. These props are unconventional in design; they flare sharply from the hub, and have very broad, untapered blades. Their great surface causes them to move slowly. Others, however, favor the long bladed, slim propeller. Every expert has his own favorite, and only his own experiments will tell him how to get best results from it."

Everybody Learns Something.

There will be disappointments today, but it was discovered last year that disappointment is only temporary with those who build planes. Also, there will be unexpected successes. One thing is certain: Every boy who has entered the contest and who is serious in his efforts will leave the field wiser about model making.

A week from today come the indoor events to be held at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. There will be two events at that meet—indoor R. O. G. duration; indoor fuselage duration. With these events THE TRIBUNE contest will be brought to a close. The forty-eight medals and the trophies will be awarded, and it will be decided which two Chicago boys will represent their city at the national contest in Detroit, June 20-22. All expenses of the two trips to Detroit will be paid by THE TRIBUNE.

Contestants will be wise in being on hand early this morning, for, under the rules, all contestants must have their planes ready for examination by the judges at 9:45 o'clock. Many of the same judges who had charge at last year's meet again will officiate.

MERCY HIGH SCHOOL GLEE CLUB REPEATS OPERETTA TODAY

The Mercy High School Glee club will repeat its annual spring operetta at the high school auditorium, 51st street and Prairie avenue, at 2 o'clock this afternoon and Tuesday evening by request. Above are five of the students who will sing leading roles in the operetta. Left to right: Miss Grace Waters, Miss Rita McInerney, Miss Janet Forman, Miss Josephine Cunningham and Miss Beatrice Crowley.

The title of the operetta is "A Modern Cinderella," telling the story of a young singer who wins acclaim for her voice in a song contest. Miss Lareine Mahoney (left rear) sang the role of the modern Cinderella. Other solo parts were sung by Miss Regina Walsh and Miss Vivian Rodney (front) and Miss Rose Wallace, Miss Margaret Gallagher and Miss Mary Sheehan (rear).

Other important parts in the operetta were sung by (left to right) Miss Beth McCarthy, Miss Veronica Vander Heyden, Miss Helen Downey, Miss Florence Curran and Miss Helen O'Connor. There are 100 members of the Mercy High Glee club, and those who did not have leading parts in the operetta "A Modern Cinderella" sang in the choruses. Sister Mary Eugene directed the production. OUR TOWN

BY FRED PASLEY.

FRANK KASTEN, a bricklayer, and a good one, is the new mayor of Blue Island, the Red Grange of our suburbs in non-stop progress, where they still have real Fourth of July celebrations, prize home gardens, champion girl horseshoe players, neighborly neighbors, and such. As a bricklayer, Frank could do his eight hour stunt alongside any of his fellows. Now he's busy with handshaking, banquets, speeches, the keys of the city, more handshaking, etc.; he's been made a member of the Lions' club; today he has to pitch the first ball in the local nine's seasonal opener at the home grounds. Frank, our heart aches for you. So do our fingers.

E. J. A. Gold, the genial and democratic president of the Stockmen's Trust and Savings bank, 55th and Halsted streets, was a guest at the recent Cashiers' club dinner at the Shoreland hotel. Ernie, responding to repeated and insistent requests, obliged with "Sweet Adeline" and "My Hero," and as usual was the hit of the evening. So remarkable and rare are Ernie's laryngeal furnishings that vocal experts invariably refer to them as the lost chords.

THE editor joins with Harold Swift, the Rockefellers, and others in extending the glad hand to Robert Maynard Hutchins as prexy of the U. of C., and before we forget it, Bob, will you knock that no-tennis-on-Sunday blue law for a row of racquets off our liberal campus? Thanks.

You may recall it was in reference to Hannah Peacock, of steak and chicken dinner fame at Oak Hills, golf mecca of south enders, that Bill Borden uttered his immortal "Boy, how that woman can cook!" We printed same. Bill now rises to remark he's been named a committee of one to fetch us out to sample Hannah's chefs d'œuvre—French slang for eats—and do we golf? As soon as we finish, if ever, uprooting the dandelions in the front yard, you're on, Bill; yes, we don't.

OUR old friend, Carl P. Morgan, head of the big Wicks department store at 74th street and Cottage Grove avenue, had one mighty ambition as a former newspaper man—to own a beaver. You know, they cost a double sawbuck. Well, Carl got one last winter; wore it, with always a furtive eye to appreciative onlookers, and this spring allowed he'd have it cleaned and packed away for the season. When the cleaners returned it he summoned a trustworthy messenger, gave him the key to the family Packard, and instructed him to convey the treasure to his Beverly Hills home instanter. The messenger put the box with the hat on the running board of another car while he unlocked the Packard. The other car drove away; Carl hasn't any beaver; his sympathetic friends are sending him their old hats, and he hopes the driver of the other car gets dandruff.

S. J. Borchers of 9357 Laflin street, accompanied by Mrs. Borchers, Bobby and Stanley, drove over to old St. Joe last Sunday to take in the blossom time festivities. Sam has been a regular visitor to Berrien county for more than 20 years, he being one of the founding fathers of the Graham & Morton glide in the noble old days of dancing on lake boats.

GEORGE R. DU BOIS, assistant cashier of the new I. C. Bank and Trust company, 53d street and Lake Park avenue, is the proud owner of a 1929 Hudson coach, and more popular than ever in his set. George is specializing in moving jobs for his friends.

A committee of the Southwestern Federation of Improvement Clubs will call on President H. Wallace Caldwell of the board of education within a few days to ask that the board abandon its plan to construct a new high school for Chicago Lawn in the area bounded by 60th street, 61st place, Springfield avenue, and the alley west of Crawford avenue.

In a letter to the board recently M. A. Seymour, secretary of the federation, said, "If the board takes this ground within a few blocks of the corner of 63d street and Crawford avenue, it is going to retard this section considerably, especially if some three blocks on Crawford avenue [the strip west of the school ground] is to be left dead and practically worthless as either business or residential property.

"With all the vacant land in this district, it seems that it would be very easy to select a site that would be just as advantageous from an educational standpoint and still not work so much of a hardship on the community. The site could be shifted west for some distance to good advantage."

The site was selected by Don C. Rogers, director of the building survey of the board, because it is the exact center of the "school circle" in that district, but with no thought to the economic effect on the area, Mr. Seymour said.

South End Business Men to Hold Dance Tuesday

LITTLE COMPANY OF MARY GROUP WILL GIVE PARTY

Members of the Little Company of Mary auxiliary will give a benefit card party and dance Monday evening, May 27, at the Trianon ball room, 62d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Proceeds from the sale of tickets for the affair will be used to help defray the cost of consructing the first unit of a $5,000,000 hospital, which is now being erected at 95th street and California avenue.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. James McArdle, Mrs. Charles J. Joyce, Mrs. M. J. Hough, Mrs. William Higgins, Mrs. Joseph Hobbs, Miss Nellie F. Ryan, Miss Rose Knechtges, Miss Margaret Mullarkey, Miss Ethel Hough, Miss Agnes McDady, Miss Sarah Leston, Miss J. A. ST. PHILIP NERI'S CHURCH PROUD OF BOYS' CHOIR

It Aids Discipline in School.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

St. Philip Neri's parish is proud of its boys' choir not only because of the beauty which it adds to the religious services but also because it is a splendid means of discipline for the boys. A boy's conduct in the schoolroom determines his standing in the choir, and the nun who teaches him is the judge. A boy who misbehaves in school cannot sing in the choir, no matter what his musical qualifications may be.

THE REV. W. J. KINSELLA.

St. Philip Neri's parish was among the first, if not the first, parish to have a regular boys' choir recruited from the boys of the parish. The original St. Philip Neri's surpliced chancel choir was formed around a nucleus composed of a part of the famous old Paulist choir, directed by Father Finn. Horace and Mary Anderson, who had been directors for Father Finn, are in charge of the choir, but most of the boys are pupils of St. Philip Neri school, and the majority of the men were formerly St. Philip boys.

Proper provision for the choir was made when the new St. Philip Neri church, which rises majestically at the head of Merrill avenue and 72d street, was designed. The choir is behind the altar and the choirmaster is hidden from view. The choir sings church music as directed by the Motu Proprio of Pope Pius X.

Finds Home Talent Plentiful.

"One need not look abroad for talent," said the Rev. Father William J. Kinsella, pastor, in referring to the musical organization. The confines of the parish embrace the districts which were formerly known as South Shore, Bryn Mawr and Jackson Park Highlands. Its territory lies just south of Jackson park and its eastern boundary is Lake Michigan. Its southern boundary was the old Windsor Golf club, which has long since disappeared before the march of home seekers.

Before the coming of the Rev. Father Kinsella as pastor of the newly formed parish of St. Philip Neri, Bryn Mawr—where the church was located—was known as a "churchless community." There were few residents in Bryn Mawr and the sandy stretches were largely given over to gardens and tree nurseries. Today, however, due, it is said, in no small measure to the influence of St. Philip Neri's church and school and Aquinas High school, what were several scattered communities, have been merged into one compact unit, which is equally well known as South Shore and St. Philip Neri parish.

Last Oct. 7 was a memorable day in the annals of the parish when the beautiful new church was dedicated by Cardinal Mundelein.

The style of architecture of the great temple is a modern adaptation of Tudor Gothic—what has become familiarly known as "South Shore Gothic 1928." Of the architect, Joe W. McCarthy, Father Kinsella has said: "He has succeeded, by bold lines of harmony and color through the supple Tudor Gothic, in accomplishing what so many have failed to do."

Calls It "Gothic Melange."

Mr. McCarthy, himself, said: "In designing the church, done in these days of deep struggle for 'original' styles, adaptable features from all the periods of Gothic were utilized to make a practical whole with the hope of a harmonious ensemble. Much of the work of the centuries past has been searched for the solution of the particular problem in the design of this church with the result that it can safely be called a Gothic 'melange.'

"Like most American churches, the ground plan has been designed around the pew-arrangement. This, of course, is the modern surrender to practicability. This, with the acoustical treatment, allows that all may see and hear. In viewing this church, built of granite and limestone trimmings, capable of seating some 1,500 persons, one cannot help but be confronted with the thought of the unselfish ambition of the churchman who sacrifices all personal aims to express in a mighty monument his devotion to the faith he professes. It is this ambition which forms the nucleus with which the architect is inspired and from which he develops the material expression of the churchman's idea of glorifying his God.

"The church of St. Philip Neri is therefore a temple of religion and a monument to the clergyman responsible for its erection. Whether or not it is in pure style has not greatly exercised the public. From all appearances they have accepted it as a satisfactory and agreeable solution of a comfortable and enduring parish church."

Started at Church Congress.

The close of the XXVIII International Eucharistic congress, marked the beginning of the new St. Philip Neri church. During the late summer and early fall, excavations and ground work were carried on. On Nov. 7, 1926, the cornerstone was laid by Bishop E. F. Hoban. From this date on the work progressed, the structure grew in strength and beauty.

St. Philip Neri parish was organized on the first Sunday of Advent in 1912, under the direction of the late Archbishop James Edward Quigley. The Rev. Father Kinsella, then pastor of St. Joseph's church, Liber-

SOUTH SIDERS O. K. $700,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Hearing Brings Approval of All Projects.

Every south side improvement on the spring schedule of the board of local improvements was approved at a public hearing on May 10. Ordinances for these improvements were ordered published and deferred by the city council on Wednesday and, according to the usual procedure, will be passed by the council at the next meeting.

Although a few objections were raised by property owners to some of the projects on which their approval was sought, none of the objections were deemed of sufficient importance by members of the board to warrant abandonment of the improvements.

The list of projects approved will cost nearly $700,000 and includes one resurfacing job, nine paving projects, seven water pipe systems, installation of four sewers, two street openings, and widening of one thoroughfare.

Approve $170,000 Resurfacing.

Resurfacing of the following system of streets was approved by the board, at the request of Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th]: Wallace street between 115th and 116th streets; Parnell, Normal, Eggleston, and Stewart avenues, between 115th and 116th streets, and 116th, 117th, and 118th streets, between Wallace street and Stewart avenue. This entire system will be resurfaced at a cost of $170,000, or $2.60 a square yard.

Improvement of 64th street between South Park avenue and Drexel avenue was approved by property owners after they succeeded in having passed by the board an amendment to pave with concrete instead of asphalt, as had been planned. The cost of this project has been estimated at $103,000.

Other projects approved follow:

Sixty-fifth street between Cottage Grove and South Park avenues, at a cost of $50,500.

Washtenaw avenue between 73d and 74th streets, costing $14,500.

Fairfield avenue between 74th and 73d streets, costing $14,000.

Oakley-81st Job Approved.

A system including blocks on Claremont avenue and Oakley avenue between 81st street and 81st place; on 81st street between Western avenue and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, and on 81st place between 81st street and Western avenue. This project will cost $62,000.

A system including La Crosse, Lamon, Laporte and Lavergne avenues between 63d and 65th streets, and on 64th street between Cicero and Lavergne avenues at a cost of $154,000.

Avenue J between 108th and 110th streets, costing $35,000.

Morgan street between Blue Island road and 129th place, and 129th place between Peoria street and the western city limits at a cost of $49,000.

Eighty-fifth place between Ingleside avenue and the Illinois Central right of way, at a cost of $7,000.

Installation of water supply pipes on the following streets was approved by property owners:

Eighty-seventh street between Stony Island and Kimbark avenues, costing $14,916.

Union avenue and Emerald avenue between 106th and 107th streets at a cost of $3,980.

Eighty-fifth street between Ingleside avenue and the alley east of this street, costing $732.

Loomis street between 107th place and 109th street, at a cost of $2,350.

Ninety-seventh place between State street and Michigan avenue, at a cost of $2,271.

Ninety-seventh street between the same streets, costing $2,271.

Eighty-third place between Kedzie and Spaulding avenues, at a cost of $1,933.

Sewer Systems O. K.'d.

The four south side sewer projects approved are:

Greenwood avenue between 89th and 87th streets, at a cost of $7,000.

Eighty-sixth street between the same boundaries, costing $630.

Commercial avenue between the alley west of the Calumet Western railroad to 130th street and east in 130th street to Exchange avenue, at a cost of $6,000.

Approval of property owners who will be assessed for the opening and widening of Pershing road between Lowe and Damen avenues was given at the hearing. Hugh E. Young, chief of the technical division of the Chicago plan commission, told the board that his organization approved the project and favored its early completion.

Despite the fact that property owners on Mayfield avenue between Archer avenue and 55th street declared that there was no demand for the opening of this street to through traffic, the board passed the resolution to start condemnation proceedings.

The widening of 58th place between Keeler and Crawford avenue was approved without opposition.

START DRIVE FOR MORE POLICEMEN ON SOUTH SHORE

E. J. Ryan, president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, told members of the organization who attended the meeting last week at the South Shore View hotel, 71st street and South Shore drive, that steps had been taken to obtain greater police protection for the South Shore district.

"We need more adequate police protection out here," said Mr. Ryan. "Several robberies have been reported recently, and the members of the chamber believe that it is their duty to lead the fight to obtain greater protection for the residents and business men of the territory."

Take Plea to Russell.

The police committee of the chamber, headed by Roy S. Kearns, chairman, called upon William C. Russell, commissioner of police, last week and placed before the commissioner a verbal picture of the situation in the South Shore district. Mr. Kearns pointed out that there was a need for more patrolmen during both day and night.

He asserted that a great many tricks were being used by the daylight burglars. He pointed to one case where a man announced himself as a telephone repairman and after gaining admittance into the house had an opportunity of going through it and burglarizing it, while his companion, who said he was a coffee salesman, talked to the woman of the house at the kitchen door.

Rich Homes Draw Thieves.

Mr. Ryan and Mr. Kearns both told Commissioner Russell that the many wealthy homes in the south shore district acted as a magnet to draw the thieves and the residents of the district, for this reason alone, believed that they deserved better police protection than they are now getting.

"We want to make south shore a poor place to work for burglars and other criminals," said Mr. Ryan, "and we want the aid of the police department to rid the residents of the community of the fear of all burglars, especially those who alarm the women by working in the daytime."

According to Mr. Ryan, Commissioner Russell promised to make an investigation of the needs of the district.

Gathering on Friday to Be Climax of Week.

The climax of Boys' week, which begins in Chicago today, will occur Friday night when community leaders in business, industrial and professional life will gather at the Auditorium theater for a massive civic assembly where high school boys already giving promise of becoming civic leaders of Chicago will be given public recognition.

The various south side community centers of the Hyde Park, Englewood, Woodlawn, Chicago Lawn, Armour, Beverly Hills, Morgan Park, Marquette Manor, Rosedale, Auburn Park, Hamilton Park, Gresham, and other communities, all will send the leaders in their associations as delegates to the assembly.

Each district will have a boy representative chosen by members of the community center in conference with school officials. The boy will be taken from the high school or junior high school in the district, and in some cases two boys have been selected from one school where one school district includes several communities.

Rosenwald to Present Medals.

Medals will be awarded the boys and pinned on their breasts by Julius Rosenwald in behalf of the civic-spirited people of Chicago. Scholarships in political and social science are also to be publicly presented to the three high school senior boys who top the list of all the other representatives selected, and other honors will be accorded the prospective civic leaders of the future.

The civic assembly, the second this year, is part of the program planned by the Boys' week committee in recognition of the boy in school and citizenship, which is the subject designated for that day of Boys' week. At the assembly Miss Jane Addams will speak on "The Public School; the Safeguard to Democracy."

Distinguished citizens of the present as well as those of the future will be recognized publicly at the assembly, and among those who will receive this honor are: Col. A. A. Sprague, Julius Rosenwald, Michael Zimmer, warden of the Cook county hospital; Judges Albert B. George and Francis B. Allegretti of the Municipal court; and Burridge Butler, chairman of the Union League club foundation for boys.

Civic Pageant to Be Staged.

A civic pageant arranged and directed by Miss Johanna Doniat of Senn High school will also be presented as part of the program.

The assembly is only one of the high lights of the program prepared for Friday. A spectacle and demonstration at Soldiers' field, beginning at 12:45 o'clock, in which more than 50,000 boys and girls from the schools are expected to take part, will provide the first part of this day's activities. There will be a parade with floats representing every school, park, and many boys' clubs and other organizations of boys. There will be drills by R. O. T. C. bands, athletic events, and demonstrations by other high school boys' groups.

Firemen will be present at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to stage a real fire, showing the modern methods of fighting conflagration. Ancient apparatus from hand operated pumps to horse drawn engines, as well as the modern motor equipment, will be exhibited and put into action. Following this, a music festival in which high school bands, orchestras, and glee clubs will have a part will be held in the Studebaker theater.

DEFEAT MOVE BY RAILWAY TO CLOSE A BLOCK

I.C. to Lengthen Platform for Longer Trains.

Officers of the Stony Island Business Men's association won a victory for local business and property interests recently when they succeeded in preventing the Illinois Central railroad from closing Blackstone avenue west of the line's station at 71st street and Stony Island avenue.

The railroad desired to lengthen its platform to accommodate more cars by building from the west end of the existing platform across Blackstone avenue and closing the street. The business men forced engineers for the road to modify their plans to provide for lengthening the platform up to the building line on Blackstone avenue. With this extension, eight cars may pull up to the 71st street station, while only four can be accommodated now.

D. J. Brumley, chief engineer of terminal development for the I. C., and W. G. Nusz, assistant, are preparing to go before the Illinois commerce commission to obtain approval of the improvement. No difficulty is expected in obtaining the sanction of that body.

Wolfe Is Mediator.

Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, who was mediator in the controversy between the railroad and the business men, said yesterday that all parties are content with the agreement. Ideal traffic conditions can still be maintained, he pointed out, since Blackstone avenue will remain open across the tracks. Motorists' organizations have notified the commisisoner that they approve of the plan, he said.

When the Illinois Central made public its plan for extending the 71st street platform, objections were raised by William J. Hubrich, president of the business group; Ald. William D. Meyering [8th], and H. H. Haylett of the Greater South Side chamber of commerce.

Local property owners would not consent to the closing of Blackstone avenue, Mr. Hubrich said, since it is a heavily used street, carrying a good deal of traffic across the tracks.

Oppose Closing Any Street.

Mr. Haylett said his group would object to the closing of any south side street by the railroad, because all streets now in use are needed to carry the ever increasing motor traffic. Commissioner Wolfe made no comment other than to caution the railroad to "please the local interests."

Ald. Meyering, in supporting the stand of the business men said: "The railroad must admit that intensive development is coming for that district, and such being the case, Blackstone avenue must not be closed. In fact no streets should be closed because neighboring property would be injured."

Other officers of the Stony Island group who joined Mr. Hubrich in the demand are: Vice President Gustave Kluge, Secretary Harry E. Studelmann, Treasurer Oscar E. Oberg.

POPPY DAY WILL 'HONOR THE DEAD AND SERVE LIVING'

Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Flowers May 28-29.

"Honor the dead and serve the living."

This phrase embodies the purpose of the memorial poppies which will be sold May 28 and 29 by the Leroy A. McCullough unit of the American Legion auxiliary, according to Mrs. Lenore Essex, unit president.

"On Memorial day, May 30," explains Mrs. Margaret Wahls, "flowers cover the graves of men who died for America. Wherever these men lie, in the cemeteries at home or in the field of the dead overseas, flowers and flags will be placed by reverent hands on the sod beneath which they lie.

"A decade ago there were no wreaths or garlands heaped on the graves in France and Belgium. Raw mounds of earth these graves were then, marked by hurriedly made crosses of wood. The columns of men moving past them into battle had no time to place floral tributes. But nature, great and kindly, cared for those who were returned to earth's breast. Around and over the graves in the shell-churned soil appeared little blossoms of red, looking like drops of heroes' blood. They were wild poppies sprinkled by nature above the graves which man was too engaged to attend. Nature made the poppy the heroes' flower.

"The men who fought in France brought back an indelible picture of the poppies blooming among the graves or about the unburied dead. To them the poppy seemed the natural tribute to a brave man who had fallen for his country. The poppy became the memorial flower for the American Legion and the nation.

"On May 28 and 29 the poppies of France will be brought to Chicago by the Hyde Park unit of the American Legion auxiliary. They will be offered to every one to be worn on the lapel above the heart. It is in the heart of America that our dead lie enshined, no matter where their bodies lie. What would be more appropriate than to wear above the heart on our day of remembrance their own flower—the bright red poppy?

"And the poppies which the auxiliary will offer have been made by the comrades of the dead whom they honor—men who were disabled in the same battles in which the dead gave up their lives. Every penny which is contributed for the poppies will go to the relief of the disabled, their families, and the families of the dead.

"Thus the poppy fills a double mission, honoring the dead and serving the living. Every citizen of Chicago should have one of the little red flowers on his lapel May 28 and 29."

Square post No. 232 of the American Legion and Square unit of the Legion auxiliary have made plans for a busy day of parading and decorating graves of heroes on Memorial day. The chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for observing the day is Paul Armstrong, past commander.

Members of both organizations will meet at Midway temple at 9 o'clock in the morning to form the parade to Oakwoods cemetery. An army and navy firing squad will be on hand, and a uniformed color guard. The drum and bugle corps will parade and play several numbers. A prominent speaker will be furnished by students of Hyde Park and Englewood High schools. At the close of the service, the auxiliary of the post will decorate the graves with flowers collected and purchased by the pupils of the public schools.

VARIETY OF BARGAINS FOUND BY READERS IN NEIGHBORHOODS

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of a best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargains, Metropolitan section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

THIS BARGAIN JINGLES.

Chicago, May 14.—Last fall as I was wandering along Halsted street on a window shopping tour, in the window of a second hand shop I spied an old wooden box containing fifteen brass curtain rings. They were badly discolored, but the dealer sold them to me for 25 cents. To carry out the color scheme of my draperies I painted each one a different color and the effect was most pleasing. The rings proved to be of solid brass, worth 25 cents apiece. Every time I hear them jingle I get a real thrill—$3.75 for 25 cents!

MRS. M. JOHNSON,
5622 Sangamon street.

THIS ONE IS FISH STORY.

Chicago, May 13.—The greatest bargain I ever "picked up" was a level-winding, anti-back lash finish reel of one of the most popular makes which I was lucky enough to purchase for $2.50. I bought it at a time when a south side sporting goods store had changed hands and the owner was desirous of selling out, below cost, all stock on hand.

STANLEY MacHATTON,

REFUSES $5 FOR $1 CURTAINS.

Chicago, May 12.—The best bargain I ever got at a south side store was a pair of silk curtains for $1. They were of such an unusual design that a friend offered me $5 for them.

MRS. A. FRANKS,
6557 South May street.

A BARGAIN IN ERMINE.

Chicago, May 13.—Several years ago I was shopping in a nearby store and chanced to see a large, pillow shaped muff of ermine which I thought was unusually lovely. The clerk almost took my breath away when she told me I might have it for $5. I had three neckpieces made from it and my sisters are enjoying my remarkable bargain with me.

SCULPTOR TAFT TO QUIT NOTED STUDIO IN FALL

Will Move to New Structure Block Away.

BY ELEANOR GRAFF.

A little enchanted house where many dreams have come true and other dreams are still being dreamed, where romance and sentiment lurk still in the dust in the corners, is about to be razed to make room for a new, modern structure. It is the studio of Lorado Taft, sculptor, which has stood at 6016 Ellis avenue for twenty years and must now make way for a large women's dormitory of the University of Chicago.

The new site, one block directly west on Ingleside avenue, suggested to Mr. Taft for his new studio by the university, has been accepted, and the rebuilding and moving will take place late this summer. But even though the same models of Mr. Taft's masterpieces are removed to the new studio, only time can rebuild the charm now existing in the old headquarters, where sliding doors here reveal workmen chipping at a large piece of granite already taking shape as a figure, and where little stairways here, there, and everywhere lead to other portions of the studio.

Modeled Noted Pieces There.

The first floor of an old brick garage provided the beginning of Mr. Taft's studio and it was here that he modeled the "Fountain of the Great Lakes," which stands at the south end of the Art institute, and a group of groping figures called "The Blind," which represent Masterlinck's play of the same name.

The studio has gradually been enlarged, with rooms added here, an extra floor there, and a basement or two some place else. The original garage building Mr. Taft expects to move to the new site. It already has an old brick house on it which he hopes to utilize for studio purposes also.

It was in the present studio that Mr. Taft dreamed, designed, modeled, and finally carried to completion the "Fountain of Time," at the west end of the Midway; "Black Hawk," the Indian figure on the Rock river, the standing figure of Lincoln at Urbana, and the "Solitude of the Soul," in the Art institute. He has recently completed "Alma Mater" for the University of Illinois, Mr. Taft's own alma mater.

Starts Sculpture Museum.

One of the rooms in Mr. Taft's studio is filled with his collections for a prospective museum, of which he has dreamed for many years. He resents the fact that many American museums are putting all their reproductions of ancient Greek, Roman, and Italian sculpture into storerooms, and plans for a museum to be filled entirely with sculpture. He has already collected reproductions of the work of Michael Angelo, Donatello, Della Quercia, and the famous Ghiberti gates, and hopes that Chicago will become interested in his museum for the World Fair.

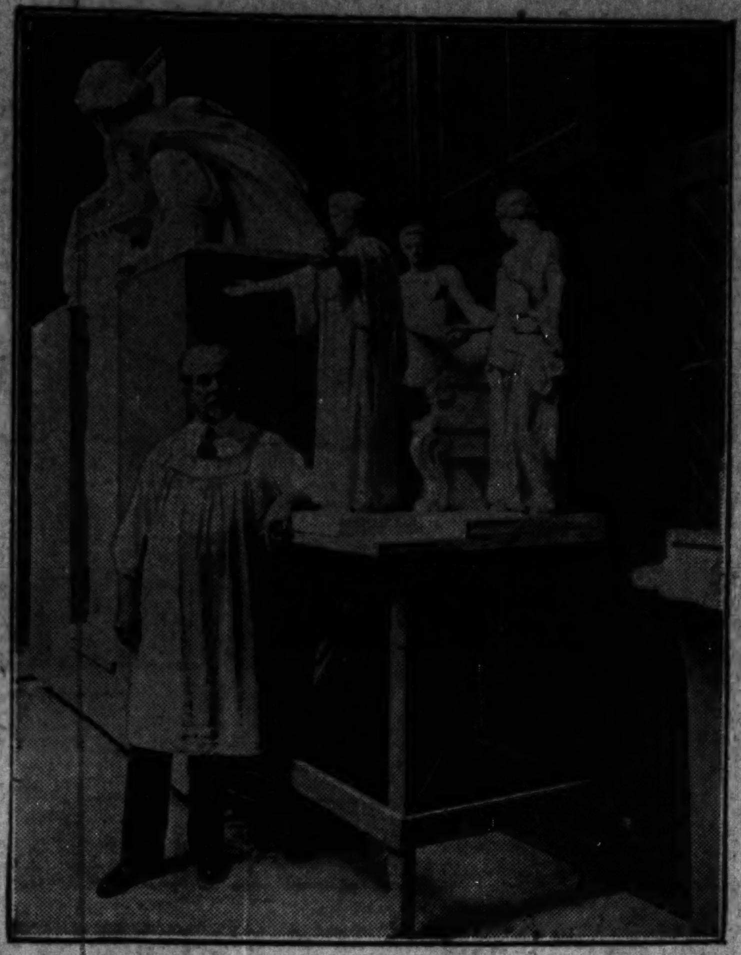
A long table in another room shows the museum in miniature. The museum as he has visualized it will have long corridors with an unobstructed vista, down which can be seen a sculptural record of civilization. Crossing corridors will thus reveal all the work of any period, and the art of ages can thus be studied by its country or period.

First of Type in World.

No other museum in the world has been planned in this manner, according to Mr. Taft, whose dream, if realized, will call for a building three blocks long and one block wide.

One of Mr. Taft's pastimes is building what he calls dollhouses. They are planned especially to interest children in the history of sculpture, and several are now reproduced in the Art institute, where he has lectured for forty years. They show the studios of famous sculptors, with their contemporary artists gathering for a consultation or argument, perhaps, and in the studios he has placed miniature replicas of the actual work of these sculptors.

COMPLETING MASTERPIECE



Lorado Taft beside "Alma Mater," which he is completing for the campus of the University of Illinois. This masterpiece probably will be the last major work done by the sculptor in the studio where he has produced nearly all of the figures that have won him fame.

BRAINERD GROUP AGAIN PROTESTS TRACK ELEVATION

Demands Rock Island Depress Line.

Members of the Brainerd Improvement association have once more indicated their disapproval of the proposed elevation of the suburban tracks of the Rock Island railroad on 89th street, from Morgan street to Ashland avenue.

After a discussion of the subject at a meeting which was held last week at the Fort Dearborn school auditorium, 90th and Throop streets, the members adopted a resolution recommending the depression of these tracks. The resolution, signed by the members of the organization, will be presented to the officials of the railroad in the near future, according to S. J. Friel, president.

Mr. Friel pointed out that when the officials of the railroad announced their intention of elevating their suburban tracks through this territory the members of the organization entered a formal protest. The elevation of the tracks, he said, would decrease property values in the district and would divide the present Brainerd territory into two distinct sections.

Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] told the association that he was in favor of depression rather than elevation.

Mr. Friel announced at the meeting that the new street lights which are being installed throughout the 18th and 19th wards at the present time will cover practically the entire Brainerd district. These lights are being installed on all streets from 89th to 95th streets, and from Vincennes to Ashland avenues.

196 BOYS TAUGHT TO SWIM IN CLASS AT ENGLEWOOD 'Y'

Give Swimmer's Buttons to 102 in School.

One hundred and ninety-six Englewood boys were taught to swim while attending the vacation week swimming classes held at the Englewood Y. M. C. A., 66th street and Union avenue, during the spring vacation. One hundred and two of these boys were awarded the official Y. M. C. A. swimmer's button, which indicates that they have passed the swimmer's test requiring them to swim 50 feet. The Englewood Y Swimming school is an annual event and one of ten vacation swimming schools conducted by the Y. M. C. A. in Chicago. Records show that at least a thousand boys have been taught to swim during the recent six days of intensive instruction.

STREET LIGHTS FOR CLEARING IN NEXT MONTH

Welfare Assn. Seeks Rapid Transit.

Street lights in the Clearing district will be installed within the next 30 days due to efforts of the Clearing Welfare association made through Ald. Thomas Burns. This association has already secured improvements in the way of streets and sewers in the four years of its organization. The next project, according to M. A. Seymour, a member of the board of directors, will be a system of rapid transit.

At a recent business meeting of the association the following officers were elected: Charles Olsen, president; Albert Seitin, vice president; George Harris, secretary, and Harold Hill, treasurer. These officers, with the four ex-presidents of the association, form the board of directors. Former presidents are Mr. Seymour, Arthur Dullinger, Robert Crane, and Albert H. Farwell.

District 25 Years Old.

The district of Clearing itself is 25 years old, but only within the last four or five years has it been an organized and populated community. A quarter of a century ago railroad officials thought they were going into the country when they first situated a railroad transfer yard there. It was known as the clearing yard, hence the present name of the district, but as such it was a failure. The large circular track built for the purpose is still there, but is overgrown with trees and underbrush.

The hump yard with gravity switching was then installed and at this time the Clearing Land association acquired several thousand acres of land. However, for many years improvements came slowly until H. H. Porter took over the association and laid out the present industrial district, providing direct railroad service to all the factories situated there. There are now 105 factories and 15 railroad trunk lines in Clearing.

Open Residential District.

The residential district for persons connected with the factories was then laid out and a little more than four years ago the people moved out and took possession of homes and property. At first, existence was dull and unorganized, especially since the district was so far from Chicago's downtown, and since transportation was by street car only.

At that time a group of citizens organized the Clearing Welfare association, which provided for social gatherings and built up community interest and spirit. Out of the welfare association has been formed a baseball team, a Boy Scout troop, Girl Scouts, and a Clearing Women's club which is a member of the Chicago federation. Mr. Seymour was the first president of the association, which meets regularly at the Stickney town hall through the courtesy of officials of Stickney township, including Timothy Mahoney, Charles Kluck and Charles Sahs, all of whom are active workers in the welfare association.

The new officers are: President, Mrs. Michael Scanlon; first vice president, Mrs. M. J. McCarthy; second vice president, Mrs. Thomas Flynn; third vice president, Mrs. William E. Sprague; treasurer, Mrs. James Lynch; financial secretary, Mrs. F. A. Kelly; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. M. O'Leary, and recording secretary, Mrs. D. D. Keating.

ATTACK BILL TO BAN RESTRICTION CLAUSE IN DEED

Peril to Values Cited by Federation.

A meeting of the South Side Federation of Improvement Associations was held recently in Brooks hall, 71st street and South Park avenue, at which time the house bill No. 602, referring to the restriction against occupying land because of race, color, or religion, was discussed.

The unanimous decision was to fight the bill to the utmost. The bill provides that no deed for the conveyance of land shall be valid if restrictions on the occupancy because of the above reasons are included.

Cite Menace to Values.

The general opinion of members of the association was that if the bars were let down for the entry into its territory of undesirable persons the effect upon property values would be disastrous. The real issue, they said, is whether persons who have struggled to own their own homes shall retain the right to protect these homes against deterioration in value.

The information recently gathered by the various neighborhood improvement associations regarding tax revaluations was also discussed.

Propose to Meet in Schools.

It was decided to ask H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, for the privilege of using schools for meetings of improvement associations.

Officers of the association are: W. R. Wendland, 8211 St. Lawrence avenue, president; Gerald H. Voss, 1325 West 78th street, vice president; J. C. Tufo, 537 East 87th place, secretary, and W. F. Taylor, 7000 Rhodes avenue, treasurer.

Bradwell Parent-Teacher Group Elects Officers

Mrs. George West, 7845 Saginaw avenue, was elected president of the Bradwell Parent-Teacher association at a recent meeting in the school auditorium, 77th street and Burnham avenue. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Mrs. J. F. Boehm; secretary, Mrs. A. A. Bacon, and treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Coen. Mrs. J. W. Morgan and Miss Mary E. Gould were named directors of the organization, while Mrs. J. H. Sawyer was appointed as program chairman.

WOLFE EXPLAINS TERMS OF BILL ON RESURFACING

Sends Letter to Improvement Associations.

What south side property owners may expect in the matter of resurfacing streets by special assessment according to the plan of Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, was outlined in a message sent to more than 100 improvement clubs of that district last Wednesday.

"To relieve the property owners from the heavy expense of an entirely new street, the following plan is presented," the commissioner said:

"If the citizens owning property fronting on a macadam street desire to have the street resurfaced and will make application to the commissioner of public works for such resurfacing, indicating that they will pay the cost, the commissioner will cause a careful estimate of the cost of the resurfacing to be made.

"This estimate will be furnished the citizens, and if they will collect the funds and deposit the same with the city, a permit will be issued for the street so designated to be resurfaced.

"The asphaltic mixture will be sold to the citizens by the city asphalt plants at the price of $10 per ton delivered on the job, which is the actual cost of production and the amount charged the vehicle tax division.

"A certified statement will be prepared covering the weight of the mixture delivered and used, and the exact expense of labor in connection with the resurfacing work. If there is a balance due the citizens it will be refunded. There will be no charge for general supervision or use of equipment, and the citizens will secure a resurfaced street for the bare cost of materials and actual cost of labor.

"The cost of the work is approximately $2.30 per square yard of pavement laid. Depending on conditions, the cost per front foot to the property owner on each side of a 30 foot street will be from $4.10 to $5."

BUY-NEAR-HOME MONTH PLANNED IN CHICAGO LAWN

Street Light Demand Being Framed.

Residents of the Chicago Lawn district will be particularly encouraged during June to patronize the business houses in the neighborhood, according to plans for a campaign by the Chicago Lawn Business association.

A meeting of business men in the association was held Tuesday night at 6420 South Kedzie avenue to complete the plans. A meeting of property owners of the district was held at the same place Thursday night, sponsored by the Chicago Lawn Business association. The purpose of the latter was to ascertain the proportion of property owners interested in securing adequate street lighting for the district.

Only Two Blocks Well Lighted.

In the entire Chicago Lawn district, which extends from South California avenue to Central Park avenue and from 59th street to 67th street, only two blocks are completely lighted. The others, according to Mr. Weiss, have poles here and there, many of which have never been wired, and others with the light bulbs broken.

Officers of the Chicago Lawn Business association are: Mr. Weiss, president; George Weyland, business manager; Edward B. Clinton, vice president; John M. Kelley, treasurer; A. G. Connors, recording secretary; and G. A. Stege Jr., corresponding secretary. The board of directors includes: Edward Trost, J. W. Belt, E. B. Clinton, A. Mohr, R. J. Snyder, B. Weiser, J. H. Plan Fourth of July Parade.

The Chicago Lawn Business association was organized nine months ago by Mr. Weiss and since that time it has grown to a membership of 150 firms, almost all of which have joined in the campaign for better business. The campaign will start late in May and the tentative date for its close has been set for July 4. A large parade with a band and floats from each of the business houses represented will be held on that day.

THREE STATIONS SEEK BANDS FOR WORLD PROGRAMS

Ready to Spend Millions for Broadcasts.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Three projects for broadcasting from the United States to the rest of the world were outlined recently to the federal radio commission by those seeking short-wave channels for this purpose. The most ambitious of these was by the interests which recently bought Station WRNY in New York.

Chester W. Cuthell, president of the station, seeking six transoceanic short wave channels told the commission that the group which he represents proposes to embark upon an international plan of world-wide good will broadcasting. He said they had already expended $150,000 and are prepared to spend $2,000,000 or more in furtherance of the gigantic plan to sell the United States to the world.

Mr. Cuthell said that "much prejudice against America is being evidenced in trade circles in South America, China, and other countries" and that "Great Britain and Germany are making great inroads on this trade."

Others Want Channels.

Authority to establish transoceanic radio stations for the rebroadcasting and interchange of programs with foreign countries by means of short waves was also requested by Dr. Leon Levy, president of the Universal Broadcasting company, operating Station WCAU, in Philadelphia, and secretary-treasurer of the Columbia system, and G. W. Alexander, executive manager of the Pacific Western Broadcasting federation of Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Levy told the commission that his station was to be used for the transoceanic transmission primarily of WCAU programs originating in Philadelphia, the transmitter to be located 18 miles from the center of the city.

He said that last year preliminary negotiations were undertaken with broadcasting stations in France and Germany. If the application for the four short wave channels is granted, the Philadelphia station would be ready to begin operation with six months.

Ready to Spend Millions.

Mr. Alexander said the Pacific Western federation plans a radio project, both broadcasting and short-wave rebroadcasting, which will involve an expenditure of $3,500,000 with the equipment alone to cost $135,000. Work already has begun on KPWF, at Los Angeles, the 50,000 watt broadcasting station, which, under the construction permit granted by the commission, must be completed by Dec. 31. Mr. Alexander said the arrangements now are being made with "119 different countries and provinces in connection with relay broadcasting and services and for continental rebroadcasting of the programs of Station KPWF." China, Japan and other countries in the Pacific would be the special objectives.

Mr. Alexander stated the federation is made up of civic, social, cultural, educational and religious organizations of California, Arizona and Nevada, and is a non-profit making benevolent organization. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, he said, is vice president of the corporation, and W. Bertram Stevens, bishop of Los Angeles diocese of the Episcopal church, is president.

Good Will Program.

Although dedicated primarily to the promoting of aviation, the new owners of Station WRNY, in New York, propose to make it the key station in one of the most pretentious projects yet undertaken of promoting good will between the United States and foreign countries. Despite the fact that the federal radio commission has had numerous international projects put before it, the presentation made by Mr. Cuthell, who is also general counsel for the Curtiss aviation interests, Walter S. Lemmon, general manager of Station WRNY, Capt. R. H. Marriott, radio engineer, and William H. White Jr., Washington associate of Mr. Cuthell, was unusual in many respects.

It unfolded to the commission, a world wide good will undertaking on the part of American business interests which a few years ago would doubtless have been considered visionary and fantastic in the extreme. Yet with the aid of short waves, the commission was assured by Capt. Marriott that the plan is today mechanically feasible, although admittedly in an experimental stage, and can be done if the radio control body will grant the use of the six short wave channels applied for by the New York group.

Briefly, the idea is through Station W2XAL, the short wave transmitter attached to Station WRNY, to broadcast programs simultaneously to Central and South America, to European countries, such as England, France, and Germany, and to countries as far away as Japan, China, and Australia. These programs would be made up of the best type of music and include our foremost public speakers.

It is just possible that they might be sponsored from time to time by large interests or advertisers just as are the chain programs we hear nightly in this country. A novel feature, however, would be a reciprocal arrangement for broadcasting programs from foreign countries to the United States. It takes no great amount of imagination to think of the interest which might be aroused in radio listeners if it were announced that tomorrow night we would hear a program originating in China.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

It is the Foutrh of July, in 1923, about five o'clock in the afternoon. From outside your window come the pop and roar of firecrackers and the shouts of small boys—and from your loud speaker comes the announcement that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight is now going to be broadcast from Shelby, Montana.

ANNOUNCER — Hello, ladies and gentlemen. We've come out here to the end of the world, today, you and I, to see what promises to be a great scrap, even though all the odds favor the champion, Jack Dempsey. It will be a miracle if Tommy Gibbons, his St. Paul challenger, can stand the gaff for the full fifteen rounds.

Referee Dougherty has the men in the center of the ring now giving them their instructions. Now they're going back to their corners. Jack Kearns is patting Dempsey on the back, and Eddie Kane is whispering words of counsel in Tommy's ear.

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring! Thirty seconds to go now, and the fight will start. Shelby's holiday is almost complete!

There's the gong! Round one is starting! Both men are coming out of their corners speedily. They've reached the center of the ring and—Dempsey is tearing in! Wow! Dempsey drove a left hook into Tom's ribs. Gibbons is dancing away, with Jack moving after him. No, they've clinched, with Gibbons doing the grabbing. Referee Daugherty has broken them up, and Jack is up on his toes showing just as much speed as Tommy. O, O! There's a pair of lefts, plunk, plunk, into Gibbons' ribs, and Gibbons backs up—no! he's coming back and—Zowie! He plants a long, rangy right hander square on Dempsey's mouth. Now look at the champion! He's tearing in and hurling rights and lefts at the challenger's body, with Gibbons moving his arms up and down to protect himself. Oooohh! Wow! Dempsey smacked Gibbons three times with lefts to the body. He's hitting him! Gibbons is taking it! Now they're sparring cautiously—Gibbons is watching that left hand of the champion's, and now—One! Two! Gibbons cracks Dempsey twice on the mouth with lefts. Jack is right back with a hard left to Gibbons' jaw.

Jack is getting in a lot of punishment with that left. O! Gibbons sent a hard right to Dempsey's wind and now they're clinching, with Dempsey wrestling Gibbons all over the ring. Now they're breaking, sparring. Ummhh! Gibbons sends that left again at the champion's mouth, and now a right—a hard one—to Jack's ear. Dempsey is coming back with an avalanche of gloves. He's fighting like a fiend! Gibbons is holding on again—they're in a clinch, and again Dempsey is wrestling Gibbons around the ring. Now they're apart and—Ow! Gibbons gets that left over again, this time to Dempsey's chin. Clinch again! Dempsey is working on Tommy's body during the clinches! Now they're breaking up, and sparring. Dempsey just missed a hard right hander to the heart. Now—Gong!

That's the end of round one, ladies and gentlemen. The first round, if we have to render a decision, goes to the champion by a wide margin.

Shelby is liking its first fight. The crowd was on its feet during most of the first round, yelling and screaming like any eastern fight audience. There's the whistle for the start of the second. The seconds are scampering out of the ring. (Gong!)

Round two! Jack and Tommy got to the middle of the ring in a hurry this time again. O! Gibbons missed a left to Jack's head, and he goes into a clinch. They're pushing and pulling in the clinch, and Gibbons sneaks over two rights to Jack's head. Now they're broken—they're sparring—and again Gibbons goes into a clinch to avoid Jack's infighting. Dempsey is tearing in, in the usual fashion, working on Gibbons' body.

Gibbons is backing away from those body punches! They hurt! Uppp! Tommy cracked Jack with a sharp left to the face. Ummmh! Gibbons landed again, this time to the champion's wind—Ohh! Jack comes right back and socks Gibbons with a hard right on the ear. They've rushed into a clinch again. Gibbons is holding on—and—Ohhh! Dempsey drove an awful right to Tommy's heart and the challenger's face twisted. Now a left hook! But Tommy's taking it and he's coming back for more! Zowie! Gibbons landed a left to the chin, and Jack felt it! It dropped him back on his heels.

They're fighting now, and both men missed with lefts. Ow! Ohhhh! Gibbons staggered him that time. He drove a left to the chin that had Jack wobbly for a minute—now they've rushed into a clinch and—Ohh! Dempsey drives in two hard right handers to the heart! Gibbons is holding on again, and Dempsey is beating him about the body with lefts and rights. Jack's got all the better of the clinches—(Gong!)

Interlude. Eleven more rounds have gone by, but Gibbons is still on his feet. Dempsey, despairing, punches, pounds, and pummels in vain. Gibbons will not go down. And into the fourteenth round they go . . . and once more we hear the story of our announcer.

Dempsey still has plenty of pep as he comes up to scratch for the fourteenth round. He rushed out across the ring and drew Gibbons into a clinch, and is beating him with rights and lefts around the body. Gibbons is only too glad to hold on. Dempsey has given Tommy nearly everything he has in the way of body punishment, but the challenger is still holding on grimly. He seems determined to last out the full fifteen rounds. Daugherty can't get 'em apart. Dempsey is keeping up his fusillade of blows. There's no stopping him. Gibbons is punched out, it seems, and he is taking everything the champion gives him without a murmur. Wuuup! Gibbons stuck out a left to Jack's face, and Jack comes back with more body blows. Clinch again!

Now Jack is rushing Tommy against the ropes and pouring them into him, rights and lefts, rights and lefts to the body, to the head, anywhere he can land 'em. But Tommy stays on his feet. The Dempsey punches cannot put him down! Ow! Jack drives a hard right hander to Gibbons' wind, and the crowd hoots—they think it's low. Zowie! Tommy tries with a left to the ear and lands, and they've clinched again! Jim Daugherty can't break 'em apart. Dempsey is beating Gibbons around the kidneys. They've clinched again and—Ow! Jack lands a hard right on Gibbons' face—and another!—and another! Clinch again! It's Tommy who's pushing this time—he's backing Dempsey into a neutral corner, but Jack—Ow! Jack drives him back with that right hand—one, two, three! Three right handers to Gibobns' head. Now Tommy is hanging on again! Ummh! Gibbons lands a left on Dempsey's head, and—Ohh! So does Dempsey—a smashing left to Gibbons' face. They—[Gong!]

There's the bell. I'll open the door now and let you hear that crowd. They're cheering Gibbons, cheering him for the game stand he's making against Dempsey. Cushions are flying all about the arena, and everybody's on their feet. There's only one more round, and it looks as if Gibbons will last it out. This gang's amazed. Here's the only man that lasted this way against the champion. Gibbons is pretty badly mussed up over there in his corner—his cheeks and mouth are swollen. Dempsey is bleeding from two cuts around the eyes, but is otherwise O. K. Both men are badly winded, but Gibbons is in the worst shape. Nevertheless, he has more endurance and stamina than any fighter the champion has ever faced!

There's the whistle! Seconds out of the ring for the last time. The fifteenth and last round of the fight is about to start! [Gong!]

Round fifteen! Dempsey is driving Gibbons around the ring with rights and lefts. He's determined to end it with a punch! Gibbons is clinching! Now they're broken, and Dempsey is chasing Gibbons, trying with lefts to the head. He's short. Now Dempsey has worked him to the ropes, and—Oh! Dempsey drives home rights and lefts to the body, to the head!—Tommy is wobbling. He's tying up the champions arms in a clinch. Gibbons is holding on, and Dempsey can't get his arms free for a good punch. Now Daugherty pulls them apart, but Gibbons goes right back into another clinch. They're breaking—Wow! Dempsey just missed an awful right to the face—Gibbons bobbed his head and saved himself. They're clinching again—come on, break 'em apart. Ow! Dempsey is beating Tommy about the head with both hands. Gibbons is staggering around the ring with Dempsey after him. Gibbons is going to stick it out! Ohhh! Dempsey tries a right to the face and—another right to the face!—and again! Gibbons is still on his feet. He's walking into another clinch. There's only a few seconds left. Tommy has not landed a blow this round! He's just going to stick it out! Whee! Jack drives home a left to Gibbons' face. Now they're sparring—[Gong!]

Revised Lists of Radio Stations Has Been Delayed

The revised radio call lists which were to have been distributed by the federal radio commission on May 1, will not be compiled for some time yet, according to a commission announcement. The delay is mainly due to the lack of organization of the commission. Further announcement will be made when the list is available.

JANET FAIRBANK SPEAKS TUESDAY IN W-G-N SERIES

Janet Fairbank, young Chicago novelist, will speak from W-G-N on the Tribune station's Women's club program next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the series of addresses by Chicago authors which THE TRIBUNE is offering its listeners.

The series is intended to awaken in Chicago's reading public the realization that the city is a literary center. Today, artists are capably continuing the tradition established by George Ade, George Barr McCutcheon, and Eugene Field, and more recently followed by Ring Lardner, Ben Hecht, and Carl Sandburg.

Arthur Meeker Jr., Mary Synon, and Marion Strobel are among those who have already been on the air over W-G-N. Mr. Meeker's recent novel "American Beauty," a treatment of Chicago society life, has achieved wide popularity, and Marion Strobel has leaped into the top ranks of American poets with her "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Lost City." Mary Synon is the author of "The Good Red Bricks" and a prominent short story writer.

Jean GOLDKETTE

THE master of the blue note, if that wild thing can be said to have a master, is Jean Goldkette. He and his young and expert orchestra will thrill you as they play the New Music. Grotesque dissonances, odd rhythmic patterns, the warmth of something alive, all these things that make themselves felt in the New Music are completely understood. Nat Natalie spatters a melody with toneful trumpet notes chipped out in quick succession . . . Paul Mertz turns the piano into a dancing, sparkling instrument . . . each man plays hard to make the New Music what it is. 2:25, 10:45, 11:35.

FAME, FORTUNE AWAIT INVENTOR OF MINE RADIO

Would Be Invaluable in Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A place in radio's hall of fame and probably a fortune await the man who will design wireless apparatus that can be used successfully in mine rescue work.

While the use of radio on land, at sea and in the clouds has advanced with amazing swiftness, its underground utilization has baffled engineers who have spent years in trying to devise a practical means of communicating with entombed miners.

Experts who have been conducting experiments for the bureau of mines since 1922 have reached the conclusion that radio as developed today does not solve the underground message problem.

Temporarily Abandon Efforts.

The bureau temporarily has abandoned its efforts to develop radio for this work and is concentrating on the improvement of the mine telephone and geophone as offering greater immediate usefulness.

However, if a small set capable of receiving and sending signals which penetrate the earth could be developed, the radio method would be superior to the other two, bureau officials say.

There are two obstacles to the feasibility of underground radio—penetration of the earth by the waves and designing a set which, while light, will be powerful enough to receive the feeble signals after penetration.

Although signals have been received at some depth in mines in the eastern part of the country, it was suspected they were carried into the mine through open shafts and over the wiring and piping systems. Actual penetration of strata was thus drowned out by signals received from shaft and metallic conductors.

Penetration is Slight.

In Colorado and other western states, however, there was considerable evidence of actual penetration of the earth. The states in which this occurred have an arid climate which means a dry overburden and constant increase in radio penetration, engineers say.

But it is believed the penetration is not strong enough to permit the use of sufficiently simple and light receivers to allow even one way communication in rescue work where speed and portability are essential.

The engineers also found that the apparatus required for transmitting messages out of the mine would be so cumbersome that it would be virtually useless in rescue work.

ORCHESTRA AND SOLOISTS FROM W-G-N TONIGHT

Sprightly, brilliant orchestral music and ballads of love and tenderness will form the program to be heard tonight at 8:15 o'clock over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The music will be furnished by an orchestra under Josef Pasternack's direction, while Max Bloch, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be the soloist.

This concert, the second of the new summer series, was especially prepared to be in tune with the rare days and evenings of which the poets sing. The soloist, Max Bloch, is one of the younger and more lyric of the Metropolitan Opera tenors and his contributions to the evening will be of a romantic type.

Three dashing concert compositions in dance form, or rather of the type known as concert dance numbers, since they are not intended for dancing but to give the sprightliness and dash and brilliance of dance form to the composition, will be included in the orchestra program.

HOLD SERVICES IN FOSTER PARK CHURCH TODAY

Members of the Foster Park Baptist church congregation will attend services for the first time in their own church building at 84th and Justine streets this morning. The new structure will be officially dedicated June 9.

The $45,000 brick and stone building, which is the first unit in the congregation's building program, is sufficiently completed to allow the members to hold meetings.

The Rev. Ralph Nordlund, pastor, will preach on the theme, "God's House." The congregation was organized last September under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Nordlund, and has held meetings in the Cook school auditorium, 82d and Bishop streets, since that time.

Mrs. A. E. Bantz Again Heads Auburn Park Club

Mrs. A. E. Bantz, 7629 Emerald avenue, was reëlected president of the Auburn Park Woman's club at a meeting of the organization last week at the home of Mrs. W. A. Ragel, 302 West 71st street. Other officers elected are: Vice president, Mrs. A. E. Webb, 7625 Emerald avenue; treasurer, Mrs. J. R. McDermet, 8214 Evans avenue, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. A. Banning, 517 West 61st street.

INDIAN CHIEF TO HEAD SOUSA'S BAND ON RADIO

Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow of the Star Blanket band of Cree Indians from File Hills reservation, near Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, will be at the conductor's desk when John Philip Sousa's internationally known band plays its third radio concert tomorrow night.

The name of the conductor in the Cree language means "The Great Music Chief." The average follower of Sousa band concerts, which have been part of the musical education of the American people for more than fifty years, will probably exclaim at the similarity of technique between the great Indian chief and John Philip Sousa himself. In fact, if any of Sousa's acquaintances should happen in the studio they might insist that the director was not an Indian at all but Lieut. Com. Sousa himself. And, technically, they would be correct—for John Philip Sousa is likewise "Chief Kee-Too-Che-Kay-Wee-Okemow" and has been for a number of years.

Mme. Aida Doninelli, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will make her radio debut as a soloist with the band in the Cadillac concert. A native of Italy but a resident of Chicago for many years, Mme. Doninelli is a newcomer to the Metropolitan ranks, having made her debut there last fall with great success.

RIDGE RESIDENTS PREFER MOVIES TO MIND CULTURE

Community Center Films Get More than Classes.

Asserting that the Ridge Community center was used more for entertainment purposes than for intellectual development, Mrs. R. M. McClure, president of the center, asked board members last week to discuss some method by which they could interest the residents of the territory in the many courses offered by the center.

In making her annual report to the board at a meeting at her home, 1747 West 107th street, Mrs. McClure gave statistics that supported her statement. She said that during the last year 30,239 persons attended the motion picture performances, which were given in the Morgan Park High school auditorium, 110th street and Hermosa avenue, the center headquarters, while only 4,260 persons were present at the series of lectures given during the winter and 1,700 were enrolled in the classes at the center.

Established Loan Fund.

Mrs. McClure pointed out that the board of education permitted the use of the building for community center purposes on the contention that the officials of the center would assist in the intellectual development of the residents of the community and not merely as a place where they could see cheap moving pictures.

At this meeting the board members voted to donate $100 of the center's surplus, which will be used to establish a one year foundation to be known as the Marie Merrill loan fund. This money will be given to Miss Merrill, who is director of community centers for the board of education, for the purpose of aiding some of the more needy community centers throughout the city.

ANSWERS

Quotation—What's the constitution between friends?

Answer—This was said by Tim Campbell to Grover Cleveland in 1883. Timothy J. Campbell, a Democrat, represented a lower east side New York district in the state senate. When Cleveland became governor of New York state in 1883 Campbell made a request for the appointment of several ward heelers to offices. When Cleveland pointed out to him that to make the appointments would be to violate the state constitution, Tim replied: "What's the constitution between friends?"—Charles Simon, 1900 ...es avenue, Chicago.

Quotation—Much may be made of a Scotchman if he be caught young.

Answer—This was said by Dr. Samuel Johnson [1709-1784], English lexicographer. I found the quotation in James Boswell's "Life of Johnson." In the chapter concerned with the year 1772 Boswell writes: "He [Dr. Johnson] would not allow Scotland to derive any credit from Lord Mansfield; for he was educated in England. 'Much,' said he, 'may be made of a Scotchman, if he be caught young.'" William Murray, first earl of Mansfield [1705-1793], was an English judge, the son of David Murray, a Scottish politician. — E. Shannon ...ms, 3712 South Wesemah avenue, ...wyn, Ill.

Answer—This saying is credited to a drummer boy in Napoleon's army at the battle of Marengo, Italy, on June ..., 1800. Napoleon reached the field to find his advance corps beaten by the Austrians and in full retreat. Just as the day appeared lost for the French, young Gen. Desaix arrived on the field with his cavalry and halted near the place where Napoleon stood. There was in the corps a drummer boy whom Desaix had picked up on the streets of Paris. As the line ...led, so the story goes, Napoleon shouted to the drummer boy, "Beat a retreat!" The boy did not stir. Again the commander shouted, "...amin, beat a retreat!" The boy stepped forward, grasped his drumsticks, and said, "Sire, I have not learned to beat a retreat. But I can beat a charge that will make the very dead fall into line. May I beat it ...?"

A moment later the corps swept down on the Austrians. Desaix was killed, but his men won the battle for Napoleon.—René Sherwin, 548 ...th Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park.

ST. PHILIP NERI CHURCH PROUD OF BOYS' CHOIR

Promotes Good Discipline in School.

tyville, Ill., was called upon to lay the foundations of the newly organized parish. In taking up this task Father Kinsella returned to the scenes of his early ministry. For seventeen years he had been assistant pastor at St. Patrick's church, South Chicago. He was born and reared in the old Town of Lake, and attended St. Gabriel's grammar school. He was therefore on familiar ground on the south side of the city.

Many families which had been residents in St. Patrick's parish during Father Kinsella's years of service there had moved northward and they were among the pioneer families of St. Philip Neri's parish. Soon the south side population began to shift southward and many attracted by the lake sought homes on the South Shore. Thus there came into the parish many families from the neighborhood in which Father Kinsella had spent his youthful years.

Spirit Produced by Friendship.

As a result of this, the pastor of St. Philip Neri church had an exceptional knowledge of and acquaintance with his parishioners, an acquaintance not only with the families, but often of their antecedents, and this intimate and personal relationship of priest and people has been accountable in no small way for the spirit which has characterized the parish.

The foundation of the "old church," which adjoins on the west the new structure, was laid in May, 1913, and the first mass was said on Christmas day of that year. The building was dedicated on April 26, 1914, the parish then including some sixty families. Though there were few children of school age, Father Kinsella made immediate preparation for the opening of a parochial school, two rooms of which were utilized as the rectory. The school grew so rapidly that about five years later, it was necessary to add sixteen classrooms properly to accomodate the boys and girls of the parish. This is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that a new parish, Our Lady of Peace, was organized to the south of St. Philip Neri.

The Sisters of St. Dominic of Adrian, Mich., took charge of St. Philip's grammar school, and also opened Aquinas High school for boys and girls. The progress and development of Aquinas High school has kept pace with the parish and in the last few years the high school building has assumed its present magnificent proportions.

The following priests served or are serving as assistants at St. Philip Neri's church: The Rev. E. O. Leiser, the Rev. William I. Murray, the Rev. Henry Weber, the Rev. Patrick A. Bird, the Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell, and the Rev. Jerome Dehnert.

DELAY HEARING BEVERLY HILLS ZONING PROTEST

The hearing of members of the Ridge Civic council before the city council committee on building and zoning, which was to have been held tomorrow for the purpose of stating their objections to the proposed changes in the zoning in Beverly Hills, has been indefinitely postponed. Ald. O'Toole, chairman of the committee gave as the reason for the postponement that seventeen other cases have already been booked to come before the committee tomorrow.

Ald. O. A. Northrup, a member of the committee and trustee of the Ridge Civic council, is attempting to obtain June 17 as the date for the hearing.

Dixon Parent-Teachers Stage Fathers' Night

A Father's night meeting was held by the Arthur Dixon Parent-Teacher association on Friday. "Chicago World's Fair of 1933," was the title of the talk given by Ivan A. Hoy, 6642 University avenue. Readings by Betty Mae Abbott and John Fett Jr., and duets by Louise Wood and Ruth Hurt, Mary Louise Gray, and Katheryn Louise Dryburgh were also on the program. A motion picture, "The March of the Century," was shown. Mrs. George Jordan, 7930 Evans avenue, is president of the organization.

Kenwood School Pupils Give Play for Fathers

"Bricks," a play portraying the history of the sixth grade class, by Miss Caroline Barr, was presented at the Father's night meeting of the Kenwood Parent-Teacher association Tuesday in the school auditorium, 50th street and Blackstone avenue. Fifty children, who compose the class, took part in the presentation, which was directed by Miss Blanche Hackett, teacher. Mrs. Poppy Martyn, chairman of the dramatics committee of the P.-T. A., was in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

A LIMITED NUMBER OF FREE ENROLLMENTS, BYERS' COURSE IN SALESMANSHIP AND SELF-BETTERMENT WILL BE GIVEN TO SELECTED MEN AND WOMEN

The tuition will be paid by several of the largest companies in Chicago.

BYERS' SCHOOL OF SALESMANSHIP,
A NATIONAL INSTITUTION.

SALES PEOPLE ARE MADE. You need not be gifted with any special superhuman ability to be a successful salesman or saleswoman. Every normal human being has more or less selling talent. This talent can be developed through practical and sensible instruction and demonstration.

BYERS' SYSTEM.

THE BYERS' SYSTEM OF TRAINING in the "Business of Selling" has hastened the success of thousands of beginners. Men and women from every walk of life have availed themselves of the BYERS' PLAN. Mr. Byers contends that salesmanship cannot be efficiently taught in its entirety through books or the written word.

THE "BUGABOOS" OF SALESMANSHIP—the things that keep men and women from becoming successful salespeople are Fear How to Find a Prospect, Where and How to Begin after they find him, lack of logical presentation and failure to "ask for the money." Of course, there are other things, like wives who are afraid for their husbands to "take a chance," lack of faith in self, etc.

THE MIRACLE MEN OF MODERN SALESMANSHIP have sprung from the mediocre circumstances of the American family, who have found and use The Positive-Plus principle in Human relations.

BYERS' SCHOOL OF SALESMANSHIP,

A NATIONAL INSTITUTION.

SALESPEOPLE ARE MADE. You need not be gifted with any special superhuman ability to be a successful salesman. Every normal human being has more or less selling talent. This talent can be developed through practical and sensible instruction and demonstration.

BYERS' SYSTEM.

THE BYERS' SYSTEM OF TRAINING in the "Business of Selling" has hastened the success of thousands of beginners. Men and women from every walk of life have availed themselves of the BYERS' PLAN. Mr. Byers proved that salesmanship cannot be effectively taught in its entirety through books or the written word.

THE "BUGABOOS" OF SALESMANSHIP —the things that keep men and women from becoming successful salespeople—are Fear, How to Find a Prospect, Where and How to Look after they find him, lack of logical presentation, and failure to "ask for the order." Of course, there are other things, the wives who are afraid for their husbands to "take a chance," lack of faith in self, etc.

THE MIRACLE MEN OF MODERN SALESMANSHIP have sprung from the mediocre circumstances of the American family, who have found and use The Positive-Plan principle in human relations.

Each student will receive the entire course, including evening lectures, Home Study Lessons, and Sales Manual. There is no charge.

A GOOD JOB AND SUCCESS

We provide three things that are needed for success in salesmanship—a good product—rightly priced—made by a strong manufacturer.

It must be a good product, for there are about four million [4,000,000] in use right now.

It must be rightly priced, for in present keen competition over five hundred thousand [500,000] have been sold since January 1st.

It is made by the General Motors Corp., whose assets on December 31st were about 12 hundred and thirty-eight million dollars [$1,23,000,000].

If you want to reach success through the door of salesmanship, select the product which has these strong qualities to help you reach your goal.

Chevrolet cars and trucks can be made a means for your success through having an interesting job partly out of doors, with a money return in direct proportion to your worth. Valuable sales training given without charge that will give the experienced salesman the Chevrolet set-up quickly. It will help the man without sales experience to "strike his stride" soon.

A few positions available for men who are in dead earnest, willing to pay the price of success by hard intelligent work, so they may get more money, live better, and acquire the peace of mind that comes with financial elbow room.

Apply for full details Monday, May 20th, between 9 and 3:30. Room 412, 536 Lake Shore-dr., corner Ohio-st. [Grand-av. and Chicago-av. cars to door. Phone Superior 2054.]

A MENTALLY BIG MAN

A manufacturer of highest credit rating and operating nationally has an opening for man of successful selling experience. Prefer one who has met and sold chief executives, although in the final analysis personality will be the determining factor.

We are opening a new line in which experience in selling intangibles would be of great value. This is not stocks, bonds, real estate, check writers, club memberships, insurance, or books—nor is it posters.

We are not so much interested in a salesman as we are in a man of potential executive ability—one who can learn our business and then qualify to direct others. For a real salesman there is an opportunity for quick promotion and a brilliant future.

Do not investigate unless you feel confident that your services are worth $7,500 per year or more.

An executive of our company will grant you a personal interview in Chicago if you are able to interest us with a resume of your qualifications. Give age, education, and complete selling experience for the past three years.

A Business of Your Own USE OUR MONEY BE YOUR OWN BOSS

We supply the merchandise, pay the rent, place you where the business is, settle with you weekly, teach and train you so that you earn the first week.

We have done all the above for men who have had big capital invested in a business of their own, who later with not one penny invested in our line made five times their former earnings. We have oftener done it for men who never had a dollar saved.

We prefer to back young men who have never had any money to invest, and never made enough money to start in business for themselves, but who believe they have the ability if given the opportunity and are willing to work to prove it.

Our organization is international in scope, employing thousands of men who have come from every sort of trade or experience viz: Clergy, office, shop, specialty selling, professional, etc. A great number naturally had no selling or management experience, but with our simple, easy plan they quickly reached a money making stride and independence.

T. E., an express agent with a large family, only made $140 a month after seven years with same company, joined us two years ago, and averaged over $100 a week his first year—last month he earned $820.

J. R. sold out his large retail store in Chicago and joined us two years ago. Making splendid success without a penny ever invested in our business.

J. H., a shop foreman, with us over five years, and with profits he made in this practical, permanent business purchased an apartment building recently.

L. J., a minister, has earned over $700 in one month; likes work because of ITS dignity.

E. H., a former grocery salesman, has averaged over $90 a week for two years.

Our home company—large manufacturer rated in the millions backs up our work with full page ads in such magazines as Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, Good Housekeeping and American. Our product fills a universal need—as staple as food—and the work permanent the year round and for many years to come. We have no competition.

Ten men between 24 and 40 years of age will be added.

If you are ambitious, willing to work eight hours a day, then call any time Monday, Room 202-203-204 Terminal Bldg., 537 S. Dearborn-st., and ask for Mr. Baldwin.

Men living within a radius of 200 miles from Chicago write for address of nearest branch.

BIG CHANGE HAS COME!

REAL ESTATE MEN AND WOMEN.

You may think by the headline we mean better selling has come. We do, but that is not the full meaning.

A radical change is here in subdividing and selling lots.

IN 1920

we put in walks, graded dirt streets, and sometimes put in shade trees; nothing more was necessary.

9 YEARS LATER—TODAY

Manufacturing a real estate product in the right way is the secret of selling TODAY. People will buy that which pleases them and what they really want if the price is right.

NOT ENOUGH.

Water and sewer mains, paved streets and light posts are merely taken for granted as something usual and necessary TODAY. These improvements with a lot, while not common, do not attract the home buyer.

AUTOMOBILES.

Thousands of people buy new automobiles because they like the improved new models—not because the old one is worn out. How many of these buyers would buy new automobiles if the models had not been changed since 1920?

OUR NEW MODEL

CUMBERLAND.

Cumberland is our new model of a real estate manufactured product of 1929. It is selling because it appeals, attracts, creates a desire to live in it. It will soon be advertised to Metropolitan Chicago in full page ads and it will be the sensation of 1929.

Our Plan of Sales Organization.

Not numbers but quality; men who are qualified to sell $13,000 to $20,000 homes and lots in proportion. Our residence lots in this unit are priced as low as $695—the highest $1,545. Down payment 12½%.

YOU ARE INVITED TO SEE OUR NEW MODEL CUMBERLAND.

Drive out the Northwest Highway today until you come to the C. & N. W. R. R. station—Cumberland. Our office is directly opposite. Ask for Mr. Hanauer or call at our sales office Monday. You will want to sell Cumberland.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

When President Hoover was Secretary of Commerce he conceived the idea that it would be possible for some institution to make second mortgage loans on the more modest type of home at a very much lower rate than was then being charged on such financing.

Mr. Hoover took the matter up with Mr. Rosenwald, knowing that Mr. Rosenwald, too, is always interested in the welfare of our citizens and particularly the home owner. Mr. Rosenwald, having been one of the moving factors which was responsible for the organization of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, turned to Mr. Walling, President of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, and suggested that if the funds were made available would not The Chicago Morris Plan Bank be the logical organization through which to work out the problem suggested by Mr. Hoover and relieve the burden of excessive costs on the modest home owner of Chicago at least.

There is no institution in this city which has a more sympathetic understanding of the intimate family problems than The Chicago Morris Plan Bank. There is no institution in this city which takes greater delight in tackling any job, no matter how hard, if it is going to help Chicago families to get ahead.

Consequently it gave Mr. Walling, President of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, great delight in undertaking to prove President Hoover's contention that second mortgage rates were too high.

So that is the way we happened to be interested in second mortgages.

For Mr. Rosenwald placed at the disposal of a group of men who are directors of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, a fund of $1,000,000, to be used in this enterprise. The original rates which we charged were from 40% to 60% lower than the rates charged by other in Chicago, but we found that the rates could be even lower, and they have ben reduced three times. Today they are 6% accruing interest and a commission of:

$35.00 per $1,000 for 1 year
$65.00 per $1,000 for 2 years
$90.00 per $1,000 for 3 years

It is obvious that any thoughtful thrifty home owner in this community who desires second mortgage financing will find our plan well conceived and scientifically constructed. He will also find that our rates are unquestionably the lowest rates in Chicago.

We will be delighted to have you place your problem before us.

AUTOMOBILES—GASOLINE.

NEVER WERE THERE SUCH BARGAINS BEFORE!

Studebaker Sales Co. of Chicago—specialists in bargains—have outdone themselves by offering one of the most remarkable used car events in history. Prices have been slashed to the bone!

Our Ironclad Pledge

The famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge is your protection. Every car carries a 5 days' free driving trial.

FORD ROADSTER—Current model, only run a few hundred miles. This is one of the snappiest Fords in Chicago; has 4 whl. brakes and rumble seat. Equipment includes Houdaille shock absorbers, 2 spare tires, mounted along sides; wire wheels, driving light, trunk, bumpers, etc. Can be obtained at a big saving.

CUNNINGHAM TOURING—This expensive car can be obtained at only a fraction of the original cost. Has shock absorbers, trunk rack, 2 spare tires, etc. It's in splendid condition and it will not remain long at our price of $250.

PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN—5 pass. series 38 that will satisfy the most discriminating buyer. Every detail is in excellent condition and there are many valuable extras. Only $245.

STUTZ SEDAN—This late model was given to us to sell by a family leaving for Europe. They instructed us to dispose of it at a reasonable figure and apply this amount on the purchase of a new Studebaker President, which they will take on their return; in order to sell this Stutz at once, we priced it at the very low figure of $1,245, and at this price it is a remarkable value. Equipped with nonshatterable glass, 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, 2 spare tires, bumpers, etc. Finish is handsome, the motor certainly is in A1 condition.

DODGE SEDAN—This is probably the best Dodge value in Chicago. It's a late model, finished a beautiful color. The mileage is very low. Equipped with bumpers, snubbers, spare tire and other extras. The motor is excellent. This car will not remain long at $385.

STUDEBAKER ROADSTER—Here is one of the most beautiful open car buys in Chicago. Was traded in by a wealthy polo player who gave it exceptional care. It's a Spec. 6 with beautiful tan finish. Has convenient sliding curtains that convert it into a closed car in 30 seconds. Has hundreds of dollars of extra equipment, including snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc.; rumble seat is very roomy; has snappy performance and the appearance is unusually attractive; special for $485.

BUICK COACH—A recent master 6. "I only used this car to drive me to the golf links and back," said the retired Elmhurst business man who formerly owned this car; has lavish equipment, 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc.; the blue finish on this Buick glistens like a new dollar and the upholstery has not a worn spot; at our price of $585 it will sell quickly.

STUDEBAKER COUPE—The famous standard 6 that never left the Chicago blvds.; check over every detail and you'll agree it's practically 100%; has expensive mohair upholstery and the finish is bright and shiny; equipped with bumpers, spare tire, etc. You will have a substantial saving at our price of $485.

HUDSON BROUGHAM—Recent model that is undoubtedly one of the best used car buys today. Was given very careful attention by the original owner and now it is in new car condition; 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The finish is bright and shiny and the expensive upholstery appears unused. Tires have little mileage. Motor has been carefully checked over and today it's in top notch condition. At $685 this is an unusual buy.

CHEVROLET SEDAN—This landau was driven so little that today it is the last word for sparkling performance and beautiful appearance. Because of business reasons the former owner told us he wanted a bigger car and that's the only reason he traded in this car. If you examine it carefully you'll be forced to admit that it's top notch in every respect. Has very full equipment. Only $385.

CHANDLER SEDAN—One of the very latest models. An advertising executive used it for a short time and he gave it wonderful care; 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. In splendid condition. It's a bargain at $445.

CHRYSLER SEDAN—Was owned by the service supt. of an out of town Chrysler dealer. This man was given a big position by us and of course he bought a new Studebaker. He kept his Chrysler in such wonderful shape that it certainly is a remarkable buy at our price of $445.

ERSKINE SEDAN—Looks and runs better than many new cars selling for over $1,000. Has very low mileage. The finish is beaut. The motor is in splendid condition; 4 whl. brakes, bumpers, spare tire, etc. A remarkable buy at $585.

ESSEX SEDAN—A late Essex that is in such new condition that the tires are not even worn smooth. By acting quickly you can get a practically new Essex at a tremendous saving. Equipped with shutter front, bumpers, spare tire, etc. At $425 this cannot be duplicated any place else.

LINCOLN TOURING—An attractive, fine performing car with very full equipment. This Lincoln is exceptionally clean throughout and it will not remain long at our price of $285.

NASH SEDAN—A famous aviator owned this car and took care of it personally; he carefully kept it in top notch condition, for today it appears like a new Nash and the tires have little mileage and the motor has a world of power and pep. The appearance will satisfy the most exacting buyer; has 4 whl. brakes and a wealth of extra equipment; $685.

PACKARD ROADSTER—Try to duplicate this Packard any place at anywhere near our price. It simply can't be done. Every feature is in dandy condition and the equipment includes snubbers, spare tire, bumpers, etc. Our special price is $285.

PAIGE SEDAN—If you are in the market for a late model 7 pass. you cannot get a better bargain than this Paige. It's the last word for beautiful appearance and spirited performance. The former owner tells us it was only used to drive his children to boarding school and back every day; now the car is in A1 condition throughout; attractive blue finish with white striping; expensive upholstery that looks new; tires have little mileage; equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Special for $695.

PEERLESS COACH—This car looks and runs better than many new cars selling for $1,500. It is a beauty. The finish, upholstery and tires appear in the original new condition. Has a sweet running motor. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. For today only $495.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN—Late big 6 that originally sold for close to $3,000. Only driven Sundays and evenings for pleasure purposes. Now it is absolutely like brand new. Equipped with snubbers, driving light, trunk, spare tire, bumpers, etc. The expensive upholstery appears unused. Tires have little mileage. The motor was carefully checked over and it is in top notch condition. This car carries a 5 day free driving trial and it will not remain long at $585.

HUPMOBILE SEDAN—This is a remarkable buy. A wealthy family wanted a 7 pass. car, so they sacrificed this car at a low figure. Every detail of this car is practically 100%. The tires have little mileage and the interior has not a worn spot. The finish is like new. Has a sweet running motor. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Today, $495.

REO COACH—This late Flying Cloud is priced hundreds of dollars under its real market price. Formerly owned by an invalid who only used it for pleasure driving on sunny days. It's equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, heater, spare tire, etc. Finished in a handsome color. The motor is just broken in. This is a sensational value at $645.

Naturally he bought a new Pierce-Arrow, so you get the advantage of obtaining this splendid car at a big saving. Has a special custom body, luxurious upholstery, and wire wheels. Equipment includes 4 wheel brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Will not remain long at our special price of $945.

STUTZ LIMOUSINE, 1928 E. D. L. that originally sold for $5,700. This is probably one of the finest "used" cars ever offered. It is a real pick up at our price of $1,950. Every feature is in wonderful condition and it has hundreds of dollars worth of extra equipment. This Stutz must really be seen to be appreciated. It was chauffeur driven and given unusual care during the short time it was owned.

LA SALLE COUPE. One of the very latest models, 4 pass. victoria. This car was in storage for eight months so now it will give new car satisfaction. It's a beauty. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, shock absorbers, 6 dandy tires, 2 of them being mounted along the sides, bumpers and other extras. Originally cost $2,700 and can be obtained now for $1,085.

NASH BROUGHAM, 4 door, 5 pass. Adv. 6 that is probably the best Nash buy in Chicago. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, trunk, spare tire, etc. This Nash has sparkling performance and is very clean throughout. Only $585.

PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN, 7 pass. Series 80 with 4 wheel brakes, shutter front, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Performance is unusually smooth and the appearance will please the most exacting buyer. Here is an expensive car offered at a very low figure. Today, $685.

BUICK SEDAN. Recent Master 6, 7 pass. that is exceptionally clean throughout. A society woman on the gold coast used it for a short time, but while she was in Europe for eight months the car was in storage. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, spare tire, etc. Today, $685.

OLDSMOBILE SEDAN, 1927, that was traded in at a very favorable price and we are willing to pass on the saving to you. The former owner oiled and greased this car every 500 miles, and result, it today is in topnotch condition. Equipped with spotlight, snubbers, heater, trunk, 5 practically new tires, etc. Will be sold at a big reduction. $445.

PACKARD CLUB SEDAN. One of the very latest Packards with four wheel brakes, snubbers, heater, bumpers, spare tire, etc. This Packard sold at a very high figure just a very short time ago. Only driven for a short time and taken care of by an expert chauffeur, so now this car will satisfy the most discriminating buyer. Cannot be duplicated any place else at our price. $1,185.

CADILLAC SEDAN. If you are in the market for a new car we certainly advise you to see this Cadillac first, because it will give you new car satisfaction at only a fraction of new car cost. It's a 1927 7 pass. and any mechanic will tell you the motor is exceptionally good. A close examination will convince you the appearance is smart and attractive—in fact, it looks just like a new Cadillac. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, heater, bumpers, trunk rack, etc. Originally priced at a very high figure, but we reduced it substantially for immediate disposal.

LINCOLN SEDAN, 7 pass. with beautiful mohair upholstery and a wealth of extra equipment including Houdaille shock absorbers, shutter front, biflex bumpers, 2 spare tires, spotlight, heater, etc. Here is an expensive car that can be obtained at an inexpensive price. The low level of hog prices attracted buyers on the week-end session and part of the recent sharp loss was regained. Extreme top moved up 10c at $11.10, although poorer quality held average costs in line with Friday, the general average being unchanged at $10.70.

The clearance was unusually good, only 1,000 pen holders remaining in the pens at 10 'oclock in the forenoon. Larger houses were the principal buyers, three packers handling 4,400, including directs. Shippers obtained only 500.

New low prices for the spring season were established in the hog market despite small receipts during last week. The general average declined 20c at $10.85, lowest since the week ending March 2, but still stands $1.20 above a year ago and 35c above the five year average of corresponding weeks.

A slight improvement in the market for fresh pork checked the break near the close. Weights as well as supplies dropped off, the week's estimate at 239 lbs, comparing with 241 lbs last week and 242 lbs two weeks ago.

Cattle receipts were smallest since middle of April and forced prices to the highest level in three weeks and 25@40c above a year ago. The general average moved up to $13.70, being 40c above a year ago and $3.05 above the five year average.

Wholesale prices of dressed beef moved up slightly and added strength to the trade. More than 1,400 steers sold at $14.50 and above. The leading western centers reported top prices at $14.35@15.00, crowding Chicago's high sales. Prime 1,023 lb yearlings reached $15.15 here and 1,194 lb steers brought $15.00. Cheaper grades of cattle are bringing record prices, indicating the good demand for anything of beef merit.

Lambs Lowest of Year.

The largest sheep receipts since early last November, coupled with the slightly lower market for dressed lamb, sent prices to the lowest level of the year during last week. The general average dropped to $14.10, which compares with $14.55 the preceding week and with $15.70 a year ago.

Supplies were above any corresponding week in several years. California had 52,200 springers at Chicago, bringing the season total to 166,180, against 153,337 a year ago. The season for Colorado wool lambs is practically at a close.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 18,000 cattle, 40,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep, against 16,816 cattle, 33,413 hogs, and 16,145 sheep a week ago, and 22,426 cattle, 50,970 hogs, and 13,385 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 45,000 cattle, 120,000 hogs, and 63,000 sheep, against 47,024 cattle, 150,197 hogs, and 48,099 sheep a year ago.

174,000 people make a good-sized market!

That's the Daily Tribune's circulation lead in metropolitan Chicago over the second highest Chicago Paper!

174,000 people make a larger group than the entire population of Duluth, Minnesota; Albany, New York; or Tacoma, Washington. In a city as large as these, there will certainly be people who want to buy used cars, to rent apartments, to obtain work, to do dozens of the things possible through Want Ads.

* * * * * * * * * *

And if you were offered an opportunity to place your Want Ad before the entire population of one of these cities in addition to the usual number you could appeal to, you would surely want to take advantage of it!

* * * * * * * * * *

When you use a Want Ad in the Tribune, instead of in one of the other Chicago newspapers, you do exactly that. For if every man, woman and child in Duluth, Tacoma or Albany bought the second Chicago paper on a given night, in addition to its regular circulation, that paper would still not reach as many people in metropolitan Chicago as the Tribune!

* * * * * * * * * *

That's why Tribune Want Ads are the most productive in Chicago! That's why the Tribune printed more Want Advertising in 1928 than all the other Chicago papers combined! Reaching 174,000 more families every day in the city and suburbs than any other Chicago daily, it finds the greatest number of buyers, tenants, employes for you! It can do your Want Ad job alone! Place your Want Ad in the Tribune by calling
